I ASKED a "high-brow" friend of mine, who is employed in the editorial department of a big newspaper, if he had any ideas on Want Ad. advertising. He said he "sure had" and was a firm believer in the pulling power of that kind of advertising. He said he'd write down what he thought on the subject. He did. Here is the note he wrote:

"The first Want Ad. of which we have record was written by Julius Caesar, who enlivened the dead walls of Rome with announcements of his Gallic victories and who skilfully appealed to his fellow-countrymen to call at his headquarters the next day and enlist for a still greater and grander conquest. Caesar's Want Ad. ultimately brought him the proffer of a crown.

"No less wise than Caesar are the employers and employes of today. They recognize the fact that the most successful way to achieve a definite purpose from an advertising viewpoint is to present your wants in a concise, direct manner. The employer looks upon the Want Ad. columns as an advertising barometer; the employe, as the keystone to the arch.

"In a Want Ad. you reach the man who wants something, and you get into direct and immediate communication with him."

If Silk is Fashionable.

Taffeta silk bids to be as fashionable as ever it has been in the past.

The Paris dressmakers have been using it for several months, secure in the belief, apparently, that we would eventually come around to their belief that it is an ideal fabric in which to develop the present styles.

The chief objection to taffeta, in the minds of most economical women, has always been that it cracks. The manufacturers insist that the new taffeta is more durable than taffeta used to be. And it remains with us all to prove them right.

However, it is well to wear a taffeta frock as much as possible. Many taffeta clothes, hung carefully away in a closet, have been taken out a few weeks later fairly striped with long worn slits that had cracked while the silk was hanging. It cannot wear out more quickly if it is in constant use than it sometimes wears out while hanging. And even the new taffeta is a lottery, until its claims to longevity have been proved.

To Clean Silk.

A good way to get grease spots from silk is to hold the spotted part over a warm fire, not hot enough to burn the silk, but hot enough to melt the grease. Another way is to put a blotter over the grease spot and then put a warm iron on the blotter.

A good method for cleaning black silk is this: Mix strong coffee and ammonia. Brush the silk thoroughly and then rub the liquid on with a soft cloth. Wind the silk around a board to dry.

French chalk will remove some spots from the silk. Rub the chalk thoroughly in the garment and let it stay there for a day or so. Then brush it out with a velvet brush.

Water spots can sometimes be removed by pressing the silk on the wrong side, with a piece of thin muslin between the iron and the silk.

If silk has lost its body and stiffness, follow the method of a renovator: Boil an old, clean kid glove in water and sponge the silk with the somewhat sticky liquid resulting.

Whenever silk is pressed a sheet of tissue paper or a piece of thin muslin should be spread over the silk to prevent glazing. The silk should be placed with its right side towards the board, ironed on the wrong side.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WAYS WITH VEGETABLES.

WHEN vegetables are scarce, as in winter, it is convenient to serve those which are available in as many novel ways as possible, for monotony is the bane of the good cook. By means of substitutions in flavorings and different methods of cooking and serving it is possible to make even the most fastidious family appreciate a limited variety of vegetables. By using vegetables oftener it is possible to buy in larger quantity and thus save in price.

Tempting Entrements.

Some delicious winter foods are the following:

Peppers With Sardines.—Select green peppers of equal size; cut out the stems, seeds and cores; make a stuffing of boned sardines mixed with finely chopped cheese, bound together with beaten egg. Stuff the peppers with this, dip in thick batter and fry in deep fat. When cooked drain on brown paper and serve very hot.

Served With Rice.

Curried Mushrooms.—Trim and peel about one dozen mushrooms. Slice and fry a small onion brown, then add two teaspoonfuls of curry powder and one teaspoonful of flour. Mix well and fry gently. Then add one pint of stock or water and milk, a teaspoonful of chutney and a little salt. Simmer, skimming it well. Then strain and put the mushrooms into the liquor and let them simmer for half an hour. Arrange a thick border of rice and pour the curry into the center. Serve hot.

Lima Beans and Tomatoes.—Take one pint of dried lima beans, soak in cold water overnight, throw them into boiling salted water and cook until tender, then drain and fry in butter until delicately browned. Cook one pint of tomatoes with half a small onion, six peppercorns, one teaspoonful of sugar and a bit of bay leaf for fifteen minutes and rub through a puree strainer. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, blend in three tablespoonfuls of flour, add the tomato gradually and season with pepper, salt and a dash of cayenne. Put the beans in a heated dish and pour the sauce over the top.

A Delicious Soup.

Puree of Green Pea. — Soak some dried green peas for twenty-four hours and then place them in a saucepan with plenty of cold water. When it has boiled up add a slice of onion, a pinch of dried mint and a small quantity of green coloring. As soon as the peas begin to get tender add a head of lettuce and let them continue to simmer until they are quite soft. Drain off the water and pass the peas and lettuce, but not the onion, through a sieve. Season with salt, pepper and a pinch of powdered sugar. If the puree is not a good color add a few drops of green coloring and warm it up in a saucepan with a lump of butter.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Gapoozic And the Fairy Queen's Birthday.

"Many happy returns," the fairies cried.

"IT was the day before the fairy queen's birthday," said daddy. "Of course the fairy queen is always young and is beautiful. She has a birthday, as all the little fairies insist upon having some day, in which they can pay her special compliments. They love to plan for a birthday party. Somehow, though, this time they had thought and thought and had not been able to think up anything.

"Well, at last, when nothing had been settled and the fairies were becoming rather discouraged, it was decided that a committee of six fairies was to be chosen and that they must decide what was to be done.

"So the six fairies who were chosen went off into the woods. Through an opening in the woods one of the fairies saw a very unusual thing and called the other fairies, saying, 'I see such a strange looking creature in that valley over there.'

"'Let's go over to him and see if he can suggest anything,' said another fairy.

"So the six fairies lifted their silver wings and alighted in the valley very near where the strange looking creature was standing. He proved to be a funny little old man with a very solemn face.

"'Who are you?' asked the fairies.

"'I'm the Gapoozic,' the old man answered.

"'We never heard of you. Where do you live—with the real people or by yourself in the woods?'

"'In the daytime I live in this valley—always by myself—where it is nice and sunny, and at night I sleep in the woods. My only friends are the crows, for they tell me funny stories and I give them presents.'

"'What do you mean, Gapoozic?'

"'Why, if any one can tell me a funny enough joke to make me laugh I shake all over, and when I shake I drop presents all around.'

"'Oh, how wonderful!' they shouted. 'Will you come to the fairy queen's birthday party tomorrow? We'll tell you all the jokes you like if you'll shake and drop beautiful presents for her.'

"'Promise!' he cried.

"The next day the fairy queen was requested to sit upon her throne while the fairies gathered around, and in the center stood the Gapoozic.

"'Many happy returns, fairy queen!' they all cried.

"Then the fairies began to tell jokes, and the Gapoozic shook and shook with laughter, and presents dropped from him.

"How delighted they all were, and the fairy queen had the most wonderful birthday she had ever had."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

A smartly designed little skirt is shown in Number 7994. It closes at the side and has a slight fullness in the back which may be arranged in gathers or dart tucks. There is an effective shaped girdle, which may be used or not as preferred. While almost any material is suitable with this design, it seems especially appropriate to the heavier fabrics, such as tweed, ratin or one of the heavy stuffs used in golf and sport suits.

A simple and practical way of finishing plackets is as follows: Run a straight strip of the material about two inches wide down one side of the placket, turn at the bottom and bring it back on the other side; stitch it in a narrow seam; press it flat, fold in half and turn the edge in; either fell it down to the skirt by hand or stitch again with the machine. This is a quick, neat finish and prevents the placket from tearing down, as so often happens.

This skirt may be made in size 24 with 2⅝ yards of 42 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 8 sizes; 22 to 36.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Charming Coiffure Novelty For Smart Evening Wear.

Much attention this season is being centered upon the coiffure and its ornamentation, and there are many charming new hairdressing novelties.

Casque combs and pins in various designs are much in vogue. Bandeaux also in almost limitless variety are shown for every occasion, the most attractive of which are the ones for dressy occasions. These are generally flexible and made of rhinestones set in aluminium and strung with invisible elastic. They may be arranged to tuck into the coiffure or spread out over the entire head, making it appear a mass of twinkling brilliants.

An unusual novelty is a combination of barrette and a feathery shaped ornament, to be used separately or combined, and when they are together the effect is the same as the feather up the back of the hat, and the upright ornament may be adjusted to the back of the head and spray itself into the coiffure.

WEE WONDER TABLE.

Attractive Way to Administer Medicine to Small Children.

Persons, especially mothers, who have known the care of wee invalids and know how difficult it is to make them take the medicines prescribed from the ordinary bottles or, in fact, to make them eat from the ordinary food receptacles will be glad to know of the "wonder" table. It is made of white enameled wood with square top and legs, but covered with the most remarkable white oilcloth cover, with animals and birds in colors pasted on its sides. Furthermore, on the top of the table is a clock whose face is constantly watching for the hour when it is time for the good things to be served, and its face is so like that of the man in the moon that they surely must be brothers. Then the very bottles are interesting, for they have faces on their corks, with dunce caps above them, and comfortable paper arms folded across their bulging sides.

And with great forethought the inventor has arranged for two sets of faces and arms so that no matter on which side the nurse sets the bottle the little medicine friend is still watching the wee invalid. Then there is a tiny doll girl nurse with blue striped gown, collar, cuffs, apron and cap, just like the big nurse who is doing the real work in the sickroom, whose business it is to stand right by the bottles and see that everything is orderly and that the medicine friends give their "quick get well" doses on time.

Then there are some funny little drinking ducks which look just like the real pond ducks, but have hollow backs to hold the liquid for the wee thirsty one. Odd little food carriers also go with the table, and it is great fun to eat chicken jelly from a little wooden tub or to eat tiny toast squares out of a little glass coal bucket. But all the little table has to offer helps amazingly to pass the time and furnishes mother and nurse food for never to be forgotten stories.

NEEDLEWORK

SMART COLLAR AND CUFFS

The collars for early spring will be narrow at the back and wide on the shoulders; a very becoming shape, giving the long shoulder line now in vogue. This effective design may be embroidered on handkerchief linen, lawn or batiste, using buttonhole-stitch for the edge; the flowers and stems, with eyelets for the flower-centers. The introduction of the cut work gives an elaborate effect, but if you do not understand doing this kind of embroidery, the design may simply be developed in buttonhole-stitch and over-and-over-stitch.

Such a collar and cuff set is appropriate for wear with an afternoon frock of taffeta, crepe de Chine, charmeuse or corduroy, as well as with a separate blouse or on a young girl's suit. The set would be very useful to the teacher or business girl who wears one of the serviceable dark frocks of serge, crepe de Chine or linen, for it will make the costume seem always fresh and no other trimming will be necessary.

Transfer pattern 14560, will be mailed on receipt of price, 15 cents.

THREE AGES OF MAN

Within fifty-five minutes John Drew depicts the three ages of man in the latest of J. M. Barrie short plays, "The Will." The curtain is lowered twice for barely a second, which makes Mr. Drew's complete changes all the more remarkable. Forty years settle upon Mr. Drew's shoulders during the performance, and in the first scene one gets a glimpse of John Drew almost exactly as he used to look at thirty years of age, but one hopes that he will never get to look the old hardened codger that he appears at the end.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"Sportdom Tips"

WHY NOT IN WINTER?

Parker Field is a rendezvous for sports of every kind in the summer time and the small youths of the city and borough flock to it daily to obtain recreation such as the American youth yearns for and requires. In the winter months, however, there is no place deader and more forlorn than the popular summer recreation center and the place is practically deserted during the freezing months. Why not turn the Randolph road playground into a mecca for children and grownups at this period of the year by flooding the spacious area over which the three tennis courts have been laid, thus forming an ideal place for skating? The area included in the artificial pond would be sufficiently large to accommodate several hundred gliders and thus relieve the stress on other public and private ponds in the city ever since the ice made its appearance. Not only would the place supply a surface on which to glide but it would also nerve to keep the juvenile recreation seeker out of danger's path, there being no temptation such as "tickly-bender" in a place of this kind.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL.

Many cherish the opinion that the Leal School basketball team will upset all previous dope and trim the fast traveling North Plainfield High School quintet in the Interscholastic match on the Saengerbund Hall court tonight and although this theory seems ridiculous to others there is a good foundation on which it can rest unmolested. Leals may be lighter, less experienced and a poor runner up from early season dope but the great defensive bulwark that Coach Wardlaw has worked up during the last few games is bound to cause the North Plainfielders some worriment. We see no real reason why the boroughites should not take the decision but at the same time we expect the private school youths to give a good account of themselves and they will beyond a doubt make things decidedly interesting during the evening of warfare.

COUNTY LEAGUE MOVEMENT.

The action on the part of the secretary of the Union County High School Athletic League in placing the Plainfield High School basketball five second in the team standing among seven contestants despite the fact that the locals have played but two contests against the remainder of the teams named, has evidently had the desired effect. Those in charge of P. H. S. athletics grabbed at the bait and have agreed to reconsider their action in turning down the invitation to enter the organization. A meeting will be held in the near future and if the terms offered by the league are anywhere near reasonable it is a safe bet that the locals will be in on the plum gathering.

SUGGESTION POPULAR.

The four cornered athletic meet idea which we advocated in these columns yesterday has met with universal approval and many have been the comments expressed on the subject since the article appeared. Active preparations have already been started to interest the Plainfield, North Plainfield and Westfield High Schools and Leal School in the indoor meet proposition and it goes without saying that the event, if carried through, will be the biggest of its kind ever staged in this city.

A communication was received by the manager of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team from the Lincoln Five, of Kearny, here this morning, suggesting a series of three contests to be played between the locals and Lincolns in the near future. A couple of games between these rivals would prove the real thing in the basketball line inasmuch as the two previous contests were decided by a margin of two and one points respectively. On the Kearny court the Plainfielders won by a margin of one field goal and last Saturday night they hung up a one point verdict at the expense of the Lincolns.

Over confidence is assigned as the cause for that hockey defeat administered to Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon. Nevertheless, we still maintain that the local school has the best aggregation in its history.

Watch the Leal School warriors on Saengerbund Hall court tonight. Don't be surprised if they cause a little worriment in the N. P. H. S. camp.

Christy Mathewson comments on the blow that Jack Martin received in a game sometime ago which put the local ball player out of business for a short time. Matty didn't say anything concerning the calibre of bone possessed by our Jack, however. Other writers admit that the beaning would have caused the death of an average white man.

In Madison, Wis., the faculty members and administration officers of the University of Wisconsin will have to pay admission to witness university baseball, football, basketball and track games as the result of a ruling made by the athletic council yesterday. Think what a hardship this ruling would be in New Jersey high schools.

$30,000 FOR BOUT.

London, Jan. 23.—A purse of $30,000 for a boxing match in June between "Jack" Johnson and "Sam" Langford, the American negro pugilists, was offered yesterday by the management of Olympia, the great arena in the West End of London. Three-fourths of the money is to go to the winner and one-fourth to the loser.

SOME FISH.

Eaton Rapids, Mich., Jan. 23.—The big pickerel in Montague Lake, south of this city, that has caused all sorts of big fish yarns to be told by Montague Lake fishermen for the past half dozen yearns, has been captured at last. Charles Austin caught it and it weighed 22¾ pounds.

COLLEGE EXPENSES.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 23.—Athletic expenses of colleges in the United States amount to more than one billion dollars a year, but the major portion of the money does not go to pay for physical exercises of the students.

MATTY COMMENTS ON JACK MARTIN'S BUMP

"Big Six" Claims That Plainfielder Was Too Anxious to Wallop Sphere.

Christy Mathewson, the New York Giant star pitcher, who is somewhat of a journalist during the winter months, recently wrote an interesting article on the control of pitchers, and mentions the blow Jack Martin, the former New Brunswick shortstop received from Walter Johnson, a couple of seasons ago. He writes:

"It was the first season since I have been in fast company since I established an absolutely clean record in this respect. The number of men I have hit every succeeding season since entering the big league has been diminishing about proportionately. My control was not very highly developed when I first broke into baseball.

"I never intentionally throw a ball at the batter's head, as some pitchers do, to drive a hitter back from the plate. It is too dangerous. Few men can get a solid smash in the head without being 'bat shy.'

"Take the case of 'Jack' Martin, the promising young shortstop the New York Americans picked up a couple of seasons ago. Martin was game clear through, American Leaguers have told me, and this quality was building up a promising future for him until he went to bat against Walter Johnson one day in his first year out.

"He was so eager to get a hit off the Washington wonder that he stood too close to the plate and caught a fast one in the ear. Martin tried hard to come back when he got out of the hospital, but he always pulled away from the plate afterwards, so they tell me, and he is now in the minors.

"Roger Bresnahan is one of the few Big League stars who took a fast ball in the face, was knocked unconscious, and evidently never thought of it again, by the way in which he has batted since. But Roger has great nerve, an unusual amount.

"Sometimes too much control works against a pitcher. Batters seldom fear being hit when I am pitching, and therefore stand up to the plate much better than against some man who has the reputation of being wild. If a man stands up to the plate, of course, he has a better chance of getting a hit."

TRIO OF PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'S BEST PERFORMERS ARE ENTERED IN CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL MEET

The Plainfield High School track team will be represented by three of its best performers in the meet to be held by Central High School in Newark, Saturday afternoon, January 31, and the red and blue will probably get into the prize list in one or more of the numerous events. Although track and field sports have not been promoted to any great degree in the local school during the past six years there are still some good performers in that institution and a trio of them, Morris Mann, Ralph Runyon and Alfred Day will strive for honors next Saturday afternoon in one of the biggest scholastic meets of the year in this State.

Mann will compete in the running broad jump and will also take part in the 100-yard dash. Manager Day will run in the two-mile event and Runyon will float the local school's silks in the pole vault. All three of the men have been practicing hard during the winter months and their friends in this city expect them to take places in the events in which they have signed to compete.

WESTFIELD HOCKEY SEVEN NOW TIED

Series With Locals Now Even and Rubber Game Comes Next.

The Plainfield High School hockey team met defeat at the hands of the Westfield High School hockey seven yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 2. The playing of the Westfield team was superior, in the first half, to that of the Plainfield team, but the local seven played a better game in the second period and the honors were about even.

Clark started the scoring for Westfield with a pretty goal from a difficult angle. He followed this with another goal from scrimmage a few feet in front of the goal after about five minutes of play. Burns now scored another goal for Westfield, making the score three to nothing. Gavett came to the rescue and scored a point for Plainfield. The first half ended with the score 3 to 1 in Westfield's favor. Each team scored a point in the second period, Cottrell shooting the goal for Plainfield and Hohenstein for Westfield.

Although Van Deventer scored no points he played a splendid game, many times bringing the puck into Westfield's territory, but the fine playing of Bourne at goal prevented his scoring. Plainfield and Westfield have each won a game and a deciding game will be played some day next week.

The lineup:

P. H. S.		W. H. S.
Blair		Bourne

RALPH RUNYON JOINS PASTIME CLUB RANKS

Local Youngster Will Compete for New York Organization This Summer.

Plainfield now sports a double representation in the Pastime A. C. of New York, the names of Jack Fritts and Ralph Runyon adorning that organization's roster at the present time. Fritts is a veteran member of the club and while training on Parker Field during the last summer noticed the work of Runyon, who is a seventeen year old Plainfield High School athlete, in the pole vault and following a conference with the youngster he had him enrolled on the Gotham club's roster.

Although the P. H. S. youth has not as yet had an opportunity to compete under the Pastime colors he will be entered in the first out of door meet of the spring and his friends are expecting great things of him in the event in which he has specialized. It was a common occurrence for Runyon to clear over eleven feet in each leap while practicing on Parker Field and besides being an excellent vaulter he is also clever in the high jump.

BRUNSWICK ELKS SQUEEZE INTO SECOND POSITION

With three victories in a row on their own alleys recorded over the Rahway team, the New Brunswick bowlers stepped into second place in the Elks' League, passing the Newarks. The visitors gave the home five a fairly good argument last night but the New Brunswicks, with three totals well over the 900-mark in each contest, breezed home.

DOUBLE BASKETBALL BILL ARRANGED FOR Y. M. C. A.

Two games of basketball have been announced for the Y. M. C. A. court tomorrow night, the Association five lining up against the Woodbridge quintet and the Plainfield High School crew appearing in the preliminary game with the Randolph Military Academy aggregation as its opponent.

Both games should be fast and interesting as both sets of rivals have met before this season, and the issue in each case was decided by a margin of a few points. Plainfield defeated the Morristown School team by a margin of one field goal at the latter place and the Y. M. C. A. outfit turned the tables on Woodbridge by a three point margin.

BRENNAN TO STICK TO FEDERAL.

Kansas City, Jan. 23.—"I'm going to stick with Tinker," said Ad Brennan, the Philadelphia National League pitcher, yesterday. Brennan added that since he signed with the Chicago Federals the Philadelphia club had offered him a salary in excess of that to be paid him by Chicago.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become over worked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

MANY INDICTED IN GRAFT PROBE

Nearly Score of Politicians Must Face Charges.

MURPHY CALLS SULZER LIAR

Ex-Governor Appears Before Grand Jury and Reiterates His Charges. Tammany Chieftain Says He Is Ready to Testify and Will Waive Immunity.

New York, Jan. 23.—Nearly a score of indictments were found against politicians in connection with the state graft probe. In Cortlandt court the grand jury handed up indictments against two prominent politicians, one a member of the state committee and the other a county chairman. In Suffolk county fifteen indictments were voted by the grand jury as a result of the investigation of the road contracts. Other developments were ex-Governor Sulzer being called a liar and perjurer by Charles F. Murphy.

Murphy declared that he never saw Sulzer alone, because he knew he would tell some such story as that he finally did tell in the graft inquiry and which he will tell again to the grand jury. Murphy also said he never discussed the Stewart contracts with Senator O'Gorman, as alleged by Sulzer.

Former Governor Sulzer began his story before the grand jury late in the afternoon.

Senator O'Gorman has arranged with District Attorney Whitman to tell his version of the affair at a future session of the John Doe inquiry, but he declined to tell reporters what his story was likely to reveal.

The two men indicted in Cortland county are William H. Kelley of Syracuse, a member of the Democratic state committee, and Fay C. Parsons, chairman of the Cortland county Democratic committee. Both are accused of collecting political contributions from civil service employees, and Parsons was also indicted on fourteen counts for collecting assessments from state employees.

One of the most interesting features of the graft situation in New York city is the fact that one of the leading men in Tammany Hall has arranged with a bonding company to give bail in his behalf in any amount in case of his indictment by the grand jury, which he, as well as the district attorney, confidently expects within a very few days.

"A Perjurer and a Liar."

Denouncing William Sulzer as a perjurer and a liar, Charles F. Murphy denied in detail the story told by the ex-governor on the stand in the John Doe inquiry. The Tammany leader added to his denial the statement that he is ready and willing to waive immunity and go on the stand to deny under oath the Sulzer story of the alleged attempt to hold up James C. Stewart, the wealthy canal contractor, for $150,000.

When District Attorney Whitman was told of Murphy's statement he said:

"I will give Mr. Murphy an opportunity of appearing on the witness stand in the John Doe proceedings if he cares to testify. It must be understood, however, that he must first sign a waiver of immunity."

"Sulzer is a perjurer and a liar," the chief declared hotly, taking the glasses from the bridge of his nose and gesticulating with them emphatically as he continued: 'I never saw him at any such meeting at Delmonico's. I never sent John Delaney for him. I never received him when I had two strangers present, as he says, and didn't introduce them. Wouldn't the very first thing that I would have done been to introduce such strangers to the governor elect of the state? He says I took him off and talked to him alone. I never talked with Sulzer alone, at least not since his nomination for governor, because I knew just what sort of a man he was and what he was going to do—perjure himself."

"Didn't Senator O'Gorman go to you, as Sulzer says, and tell you that you would have to put a stop to the Stewart holdup?"

"He did not. Senator O'Gorman never talked to me on the subject. I didn't know that his law firm was counsel to Stewart. I didn't even know that Stewart had a contract or that he had put in any bids on contracts."

WAGNER TO RETIRE.

Former Tammany Leader Tired of Holding Public Office.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Lieutenant Governor Robert F. Wagner, who for years was the Tammany leader on the floor of the senate, announced that he will retire permanently from politics at the close of his present term this year.

"I am tired of office holding," he declared. "Nothing can induce me to run again. The last year has kept me here almost continuously, and I cannot afford to neglect my business to that extent."

Mellen No Longer Director.

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 23.—Charles S. Mellen was not re-elected a director of the Massachusetts Life Insurance company at the annual meeting of the corporation.

FOUR OF WILSON'S TRUST BILLS OUT

All Measures Were Outlined In His Message.

SHERMAN LAW IS DEFINED

Trade Commission Also Provided For. Interlocking Directorate Provision Is Not to Become Effective Until Two Years After Its Adoption.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Herewith is presented the text of the four bills that embody the supplementary anti-trust legislation recommended for enactment in the address delivered to congress by President Wilson on Tuesday.

These terms of these measures were agreed to at a conference held by Democratic leaders of the senate and the house. They have been approved by the president. The bills may be briefly summarized as follows:

First.—A bill creating the interstate trade commission.

Second.—A bill to regulate directorates of corporations and to prohibit interlocking directorates.

Third.—A bill defining unlawful monopoly or restraints of trade.

Fourth.—The trade relations bill, which, among other things, forbids unfair trade practices, such as undersell-ing in one locality to stifle competition and recouping the losses thus sustained by raising prices in localities where there is no competition.

The fifth of the "five brothers" has not been drafted, but the working basis for it will be the Adamson bill for empowering the interstate commerce commission to superintend and regulate railroads.

The interstate trade commission bill was made public by Senator F. G Newlands, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, and statements respecting it were at the same time issued by Mr. Newlands and by Chairman Henry D. Clayton of the house judiciary committee. Later Mr. Clayton introduced the interstate trade commission bill in the house of representatives. It was referred to the house interstate commerce committee, of which W. C. Adamson of Georgia is chairman.

Bills Drawn by Committee.

Chairman Clayton of the latter committee made public the text of the three latter bills, which will be introduced in the house and referred to his committee for consideration. He then issued a statement that these bills had been prepared by a subcommittee of the judiciary committee for submission to and consideration by the full committee and that he expected the committee would have hearings upon them in connection with all other bills introduced and referred to the committee relating to the same subject.

The interlocking directorates bill prohibits individuals, partnership members, directors or officers or corporations in the business of making railway cars, locomotives, rails, structural steel, coal mining or selling companies, or in banks or trust companies, from acting as directors, officers or employees of railroad or other public service corporations in interstate business.

It prohibits directors, officers or employees of two or more federal reserve banks, national banks or other banks or trust companies in the federal reserve banking system, as well as private bankers and state bankers, from serving as directors in any bank or trust company operating under the federal reserve banking law.

Both the interlocking directorate prohibitions become effective two years after the bill becomes law; violations to constitute misdemeanor punishable by $100 fine during its continuance or imprisonment of one year, or both.

The Sherman law definitions bill would define contracts, combinations, restraint of trade, monopolization and trusts within the meaning of the Sherman law as embracing any combination or agreement which (1) creates restrictions in trade, business and commerce; (2) limits or reduces production or increase in price of merchandise or commodities; (3) prevents competition in making, transporting, selling or buying merchandise, produce or commodities; (4) makes unlawful any agreements or arrangements to prevent free and unrestricted competition between corporations, purchasers or consumers in sale, production or transportation of product, article or commodity.

SEEK HELP FROM ANTI-SUICIDE CLUB

Paterson Association Being Deluged With Letters.

WRITERS ASK MEMBERSHIP

World Weary Persons Send Notes to Justice of the Peace Cohen, Who Is Father of Movement—Suicide of Paterson Man Arouses Further Interest in Association.

Paterson, N. J., Jan. 23.—Justice of the Peace Abram Cohen, who announced last Sunday the formation of the Paterson Anti-Suicide association, is being deluged with letters from world weary persons. Most of the letters come from outside of Paterson, and many of the writers want to become members.

The suicide of an aged German, George Casper Hassfeld, who hung himself from a beam in an attic here, has aroused further interest in the association. The first meeting will be held next Sunday for the election of permanent officers, to act on applications and to approve of the articles of incorporation.

There are about twenty charter members, according to Judge Cohen. Many men decline to become members because they are afraid it will injure their business, the founder says.

As father of the anti-suicide movement here Judge Cohen finds himself set up as an expert on how to avert suicidal tendencies. A Miss W.—Judge Cohen refuses to give her full name—writes the following from Asbury Park:

"I am fully convinced that there is nothing attractive in life for me, but ask you to keep it strictly confidential. Although I do not think you can do anything for me, I would ask your advice what to do.

"I am tired out and disgusted with the whole trouble of life. I am disgusted at the treatment my sister and her four children receive from her husband. I have had many opportunities to marry, but I consider marriage as bad as suicide.

"While I do not think you can do anything for me, any advice you can give me I shall thankfully receive and appreciate."

Judge Cohen wrote an encouraging letter to Miss W. He told here there was no need of suicide and asked for the address of her brother-in-law. Judge Cohen will follow the case up and endeavor to remove the cause.

JUDGE'S SON SUED.

Father of Auto Victim Asks $10,000 From Daniel A. Dugan, Jr.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 23. Suit for $10,000 damages was instituted in the supreme court against Daniel A. Dugan, Jr., of Denver by Edward M. McDermott, father of Leo F. McDermott, who was run down by Dugan and sustained injuries which resulted in his death.

The suit avers that young Dugan on Christmas morning, 1911, recklessly drove his machine through Main street, Orange and struck the boy. Mr. Dugan, Jr., was convicted of manslaughter in Essex county for the accident, and an appeal in his case is now pending before the court of errors and appeals. A prison sentence of from five to ten years in state prison was imposed upon Dugan. He is a son of District Court Judge Daniel A. Dugan of Orange.

DRUM STARTS PRISON TERM.

Murderer of Newark Policeman Taken to Trenton—Five Year Sentence.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 23.—George F. Drum, former county engineer, convicted on Jan. 7 of manslaughter in connection with the killing of Policeman John T. McDonald at Central avenue and Second street on July 12 last, was taken to Trenton state prison.

On reaching there he started to serve his sentence of not less than five years or more than ten years imposed on him by Judge Harry V. Osborne for the killing. In addition, Drum will have to pay a fine of $1,000 before he can be released from prison. If this fine should not be paid Drum will have to serve out the fine at the rate of $1 a day.

BRIEF STATE ITEMS.

Fire destroyed the large pavilion at Skalla's park at Washington at an estimated loss of $13,000. Barns nearby caught fire and for a time the whole town was threatened.

The American Cotton Seed Oil company will erect a plant in Bayonne that will cost $250,000. It may be ready for occupancy on Jan. 15, 1915. The Vacuum Oil company is having a $55,000 warehouse constructed.

Herbert W. Hoover, who says he hiked from New York to San Francisco and back again, walked into a Newark saloon and said he had swallowed five bichloride of mercury tablets. He was taken to the City hospital, where his condition is said to be serious.

Although the tentative tax budget for Montclair shows an increase of $39,540 over the amount appropriated last year, an unexpected balance and other amounts available from reserve funds will operate against an increase in the tax rate. The total asked for this year is $474,916.

OPENS UP NOSTRILS, CLEARS HEAD, ENDS COLD OR CATARRH AT ONCE

Instantly Relieves Swollen, Inflamed Nose, Head, Throat—You Breathe Freely—Dull Headache Goes—Nasty Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

SHIP DOCTOR SHOT BY ENRAGED ITALIAN

Murdered While Trying to Pacify a Riot.

New York, Jan. 23.—From the North German Lloyd liner Berlin, which docked in Hoboken, two days late, from Genoa, Italy, the immigration inspectors took a murderer in irons and with him a small boy stupid with fright and grief.

The boy was twelve-year-old Francisco Cupertino, and the man was his father, Antonio, who, becoming crazed suddenly on shipboard, shot and killed Dr. Giovanni Arrigo, the steamship's royal Italian commissioner, a famous physician and surgeon, of Florence, Italy, son-in-law of Oreste Bimboni, widely known as a musical conductor a generation ago.

Father and son boarded the vessel at Genoa. They were inseparable and talked always of the fortune they would make in this country. Both were popular with their fellow passengers in the steerage, 1,027 of them in all.

At 6 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 12, as the ship was nearing Gibraltar, Cupertino is accused of getting out an old army revolver, flourishing it about and threatening the passengers. He finally leaped upon a table, the ship's officers said, and Dr. Giovanni Arrigo, who was making a study of steerage conditions, approached him and seized him by the legs to prevent his using the revolver. According to the officers, Cupertino placed the revolver at Dr. Arrigo's head and fired, killing the commissioner instantly.

Cupertino, it is declared, fired six more shots into the doctor's body and ran on deck. He then tried to leap over the rail into the sea, but Third Officer Schmitz caught him and took him below. He was put in irons, and he will be taken back to Italy on the same ship to be tried for the shooting

Cupertino is said to be suffering from trachoma, and Dr. Arrigo had warned him he would not be allowed to land in this country. Cupertino, it is declared, raved over the matter and threatened to kill the doctor.

GIRL, 12, SAVES BROTHER, 7.

Plunges Into Icy Water and Rescues Boy at Risk of Life.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Elizabeth Fisher, twelve years old, saved her brother Malcolm, seven, from death by drowning in Fishkill creek at the risk of her life, breaking through the ice under which the boy had fallen. Both were exhausted, but seemed none the worse for their experience.

The pair left home to attend school. Being late, they took the short route, crossing the creek, only partially frozen over. Malcolm fell through. Elizabeth threw aside her books and plunged into the water after him. After a struggle she managed to reach the shore with her brother, who was unconscious.

CABINET CRISIS TIDED OVER.

Ministers Churchill and Lloyd George Sailing After Conference.

London, Jan. 23.—Expectations that a cabinet crisis would result from the dispute over the admiralty's naval estimates for 1915 were dispelled when Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, and David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, emerged amicably from a two hour cabinet session. The pair were arm in arm and smiling. Lloyd George opposed Churchill's naval program, and a crash was anticipated.

For Seabright Coast Survey.

Washington, Jan. 23.—A bill authorizing a survey of the New Jersey coast near Seabright, with a view to building a retaining wall to protect that coast from such floods as occurred recently, was introduced by Senator Martine.

CHANGE-OF-TARIFF REDUCTION SALE

Another Lot of Those Women's and Misses' Coats to Sell for $5.50

The maker of these coats has contributed another splendid group—made up, as we mentioned a day or so ago, of odd lengths of coating materials which remained from a busy season. As he was anxious to clean up this lot, we had him make it up into coats—with the provision that they must be up to the Hahne standard. Here are women's and misses' coats of fancy striped and mixed cloths—also cheviots and serges—some of the coats are yoke lined, others unlined.

WOMEN'S $25 COATS AT $10.00.

Pretty sharply defined values on this lot of women's coats—every garment this season's model, but the maker was glad to take a loss rather than hold them over any longer. An unusual collection, too—made of the season's popular fabrics, in three-quarter length models, trimmed with large buttons, fashioned with kimono sleeves, and lined throughout with guaranteed satin A kit fox fur collar gives an added bit of style.

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' $45 TO $50 SUITS $19.98.

Strictly tailored Suits for Misses and Small Women—only one or two of a kind. Made in beautiful models of the better grade cloths, including velveteen, corduroy and matelasse. The coats are of the short jaunty type. Many of the suits have been copied from imported models. Skirts are the latest models, linings of soft finish peau de cygne. Values $45 and $50, now $19.98. Quantity limited! Come early!

GIRLS' $7.50 COATS AT $3.98.

Girls' Coats of two-toned mixtures, in the popular low waisted effects; made with belts; linings of checked cloth; sizes 6 to 14 years; usually $7.50; special at $3.98

WOMEN'S $30 COATS AT $15.

Another maker contributed his surplus stocks at a rare concession—stylish, up-to-the-minute models; made of zibeline, astrakhan, boucles, with soft, glossy finish; plush shawl collar and cuffs. Lined with an especially good quality of satin.

WOMEN'S DRESSES; WORTH $25 AND $30 AT $14.98.

A special lot of about 100 entirely new dresses made for the coming season, of brocaded meteors, with chiffon waists over lace with silk net ruffle; also charmeuse and crepe de chine, with ruffle of shadow lace and blouse of net; combination button trimmed; others are sample dresses of taffeta, canton crepes, crepe meteor and crepe de chine. The lot includes dresses for all occasions, afternoon, street and party wear.

MISSES' $15 COATS FOR $6.98.

Misses' Coats of Chinchilla in very distinctive and becoming models, may be had in either single or double face yoke lined; some have belted backs; collars are of velvet. Coats that usually sell for $15; special at $6.98

ELIZABETH CLERGYMEN ATTACK THE BREWERS

Various means by which the observance of the Sabbath may be more strictly guarded were discussed at the sixth annual meeting yesterday of the Lord's Day Alliance of New Jersey, in Campbell Hall, Y. M. C. A. building, Newark.

"Several Sorts of the Sabbath Sinners" was the title of an address delivered by Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Elizabeth, at the opening session.

"The saloon knows no law," asserted Mr Woodruff. He then spoke of conditions in Elizabeth. He told of the breweries there and said that they "run the city."

"Why, you can't move in Elizabeth unless General Collins says so," declared the speaker, following the assertion with an attack on the brewers and pointing out that such rule was virtually anarchy.

"Church services are cheapened by the Sunday paper," said the minister at another point in his discourse, and declared that he for one "refused to compete with the Katzenjammer Kids."

Mr. Woodruff recommended preaching of "The Lord sayeth," and deplored the tendency to discourse on sensational subjects.

TO INSTALL PASTOR.

Whitehouse, Jan. 23.—Rev. Robert G. Mallery will be installed pastor of the Reformed church at Bedminster this afternoon by the classis of Raritan. Rev. Henry T. Jones, of Whitehouse Station, president of the classis, will preside and read the form. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. William I. Chamberlin, of New York, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, and the charge to the people will be delivered by Rev. Edward R. Kruizenga, of Port Jervis, N. Y., whom Mr. Mallery succeeds. The charge to the pastor will be given by Rev. B. V. D. Wyckoff, of Readington. The church at Bedminster has been without the regular services of a pastor for more than a year. It is one of the oldest churches in Somerset county, having been organized and built in 1758. It was rebuilt in 1818 and the present church building was constructed in 1898. Rev. Mr. Mallery was formerly pastor of the Reformed church at Rhinebeck, N. Y.

FOUR ECLIPSES.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—Four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon, are to take place during the present year. The first is scheduled for one month from tomorrow. It will be an annular eclipse of the sun, invisible in North America. The only persons who will have an opportunity to view it at all will be the residents in the most southern parts of Patagonia and New Zealand, and they will see it only as a small partial eclipse. During the second week in March there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, which will be visible in practically every part of the United States and Canada. In August will come a total eclipse of the sun, which will be visible as a small partial eclipse in eastern Canada and the New England States. On September 3-4 there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, which will be visible in the far Western part of the United States and Canada.

In the White Sale

Have you seen this beading, which is also an edging? It is a new idea this season—and a very clever one, for it gives the opportunity for using wide ribbons in a conservative and effective way. It also makes the ribbon an important part of the trimming.

These Gowns are of fine nainsook, fashioned with low, round necks, which are entirely encircled with this new ribbon-run beading—their short sleeves are also finished in the same way.

Nightgowns With Hand-Loom Embroidered Yokes, $1.50

These yokes are of such fine batiste, and the embroidery is so dainty that at first glance it seems as though they were hand-embroidered. Of course, these yokes are joined with nainsook and lace and there is a narrow yoke of lace across the back.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

William Farnum has returned to vaudeville.

"One Hour of Life" is the name of Grace George's new play.

"The Poor Little Rich Girl" is meeting with success in London.

"Lady Change" is the name of a new play to be produced by Chas. Dillingham.

Philip Barthlomae proposes to make a musical comedy star of May Yokes next season.

It is said George Arliss will revive "The Darling of the Gods" during his London engagement next summer.

The latest from London is that Martha Hedman has scored a big success in "The Attack," produced by George Alexander.

Eugene Walter's play, "The Plain Woman" is to have its first production in Cleveland at the end of this month.

Florence Morrison, who has an important role in "The Sunshine Girl," was formerly a singer in a church choir in Providence.

William A. Brady announces there will be a cast of 300 performers in "New York," the big spectacular melodrama which he is to produce.

Dave Marion, probably the greatest favorite on the burlesque stage, was a member of Weber and Fields' company before he went into burlesque.

THOMAS G. HAIGHT.

Opposed by Senator Hughes of New Jersey For Judgeship.

President Wilson and his chief New Jersey lieutenant, Senator Hughes, had a serious falling out. Hughes told the president bluntly that he did not like Thomas G. Haight of Jersey City for United States district judge. The president answered that he had picked the best man. The nomination will go to the senate. Senator Martine, who also protested in behalf of a candidate of his own, will vote for Haight. Hughes is wroth and noncommittal. Senator Hughes accused the New Jersey Democratic leaders, including Mr. Martine, Secretary Tumulty, State Chairman Grosscup and former Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City of framing up a deal to defeat his candidate, J. Warren Davis.

JAPANESE EXCLUSION HEARINGS HELD UP

Secretary Bryan Said to Have Made Request.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Fear of further involving the United States with Japan caused the house immigration committee to call off indefinitely hearings on the Raker Asiatic exclusion bill. Secretary Bryan was said to have requested that the hearings be not held.

Previous to this action it was insisted in official quarters that there was no danger of any break in the friendly relations between this country and Japan. It was said that a wrong interpretation had been placed in certain quarters on the latest utterances of Baron Nobuaki Makino, Japanese foreign minister.

It is understood that the secretary of state wrote that he desired no step to be taken which might delay a new treaty between Japan and the United States designed to fix the exact status of Americans in Japan and Japanese in America.

Mr. Bryan said that Baron Makino's declaration that "another way" would be adopted to settle the controversy was not a surprise to diplomatic officers here and would cause no embarrassment. It was asserted that the state department had been apprised in advance by Ambassador Chinda of the contents of Baron Makino's speech.

The decision by the immigration committee to drop the hearings on the Asiatic bill came after an executive session of an hour and a half. A dozen witnesses, including Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, waited outside.

Chairman Burnett put the ban of secrecy on the proceedings in executive session, but it is understood he received a letter from Bryan, in which the secretary of state detailed all the treaties and laws which the Raker bill would repeal or contravene. The state department did not oppose the bill, but suggested the international entanglements it made possible.

O'SHAUGHNESSY TO RESCUE.

Smuggles Out of City Man Dictator Had Condemned to Die.

City of Mexico Jan. 23. — Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, saved the life of George Vera Estanol, once a member of President Huerta's cabinet and also a minister in the Madero administration. Estanol had been secretly sentenced to death for sedition.

Obtaining a private car before daylight, Mr. O'Shaughnessy managed to smuggle Estanol aboard it. The fugitive was placed under the special care of Louis Dantin, an agent of the embassy.

The Mexican statesman, who is very wealthy, was taken to Vera Cruz, where he expected to board a ship for New York. Weeping hysterically, he threw his arms about O'Shaughnessy's neck, declaring that he owed his life to the American representative.

FIFTH DISTRICT DISCUSSES CONGRESSIONAL ASPIRANTS

Elizabeth, Jan. 23.—There is considerable gossip in political circles in Morris and Union counties as to who will be the candidates for Congress from the Fifth Congressional District, which includes these two counties. There is talk in some quarters here that Congressman William E. Tuttle's handling of patronage has not been entirely to the satisfaction of some voters.

As a consequence other aspirants are being discussed. Thomas Pierson, of Elizabeth, a former freeholder and hotel proprietor, who spent considerable time in the government service in Washington, is being boomed by his friends. Another name advanced is that of former Judge Willard Cutler, of Morris county.

The leading name spoken of by Republicans in Union county is that of Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield, former State Senator, who is considered a strong possibility. It is said that Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, who has already served several terms in Congress, may again be a candidate, and while he is not considered as a possibility by the Kean wing of the party he is understood to be more to the liking of the Progressives, in the event of that party not having a candidate next fall.

The Republicans intend to make a hard fight to retain the sheriff, the county clerk, the register and other officers who come up for election.

ONE OPINION ON LICENSE MATTER

Speakers at Men's Club Meeting Last Night Opposed to More Wholesale Permits.

MR. CALKINS EXPLAINS

Councilman Says He and Associates Wish Advice, and They Received Plenty of It. Among Those Speaking Being H. W. Herrmann.

It was the unanimous opinion of those who attended the mass meeting at the Y. M. C. A., last night, under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs and Federation of Men's Bible Classes, that no additional liquor licenses either wholesale or retail is desired, and a resolution offered by Isaac L. Miller to the effect that no additional wholesale liquor licenses be granted by the Common Council was passed by a unanimous vote. The arguments offered during the evening were safe and sane and presented in a way that seemed to appeal to the audience.

There were about 150 men present, representing all classes. Despite the urgent invitation given frequently during the evening by Arthur M. Harris, the chairman, there was not a single person present who spoke in favor of granting any additional licenses, wholesale or retail, and the remarks of those opposed clearly indicated that the present number of licensed places is sufficient to meet the needs of the people of Plainfield.

As president of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs, Walter H. P. Veysey called the meeting to order, read the call and made the explanation that the meeting was not called to protest against the granting of liquor licenses, but solely to get an expression of opinion as to whether such action is desired by the people of Plainfield. Mr. Veysey said that the federations were not concerned as to who should get a wholesale license, it being charged that they were favoring a monopoly, and then cited the fact that there were two wholesale places in the city.

A. M. Harris was chosen as chairman of the meeting and he also emphasized strongly the purpose of the meeting, and expressed the hope that all the speakers would confine themselves to the one question before them. Those who spoke against granting any additional wholesale licenses were R. Henry Depew, H. W. Herrmann, F. E. Smith, General Secretary Herbert E. Parker, of the Y. M. C. A.; Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, representing the Plainfield Ministers' Association; Principal Lindsey Bell of the Plainfield High School; Father Bernard M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church; W. Lester Gleaney, former Councilman W. A. Garrigues, Joseph C. Allen, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; J. W. Harrison, Rev. J. W. Bailey, Isaac L. Miller and W. D. W. Williams, who protested on behalf of the Religious Society of Friends.

Councilman Leighton Calkins early in the meeting set forth briefly what he believed to be a growing sentiment in favor of additional wholesale licenses on the ground that under present conditions there is a monopoly and said the Council wanted to get the sentiment of the people. He said that the question seemed to him to be one of prohibition against high license, and his desire was to see a fixed policy established by the Common Council. He referred to the high license plan in force, permitting restriction and regulation, and the policy of previous Councils in not favoring additional licenses, as well as the Tyler "zone," which restricts the majority of the licensed places to one territory where they can be supervised properly.

Mr. Calkins said that his investigation of the past year convinced him that the holders of licenses were obeying the law. It was a question, however, whether it would not be better for Plainfield if there was one more wholesale licensed place, conducted by a respectable person, and yet on the other hand there was the danger of getting away from the limit which seems to have been established. Continuing he said that after all the thing to do is to try and solve the problem along practical lines, to try and satisfy everyone, the church people as well as all other classes. He felt as though the question would come up again next year if the plan to increase the wholesale places was voted down this year. He hoped that the arguments would be along practical lines so that a fair expression of opinion could be secured.

Later in the evening, Mr. Calkins again emphasized the fact that he was striving for a settled policy. As to the monopoly theory, he thought it best to have a few well regulated places than a greater number not so well regulated. He referred to three fixed principles that he presented to the Council last year, that if a license is lost for good reason it shall never be returned, that if granted on

Sebring's Auditorium Scene of Annual Gathering Last Night.

Musicians from surrounding towns and many local friends of St. Mary's T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps attended the second annual reception and ball of the organization last night in Sebring's Auditorium, which drew a capacity crowd. Well executed drills by the Royal Fife and Drum Corps, of Elizabeth, and by the American Corps, of Rahway, featured the event. Rev. B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, was among the guests.

Halbfoerster's orchestra furnished the music for the dance program which consisted of twenty-one numbers, including a grand march, which was led by George Howe, chairman of the arrangement committee, followed by the military officers, who are: Major, William V. Sullivan; fife sergeant, Thomas Monsell; fife corporal, Joseph Comiskey; drum sergeant, William Mahoney, and drum corporal, Jospeh Bebout. Next in line were the officers, who are: President, M. D. O'Keefe; vice-president, Joseph T. McCue, and secretary, Frank Donnelly.

The decorations were of a patriotic nature, consisting of a profuse display of American flags and red, white and blue bunting. Refreshments were served during the evening and several guests with vocal talent, entertained with popular selections. These pleasing features were arranged by the committee consisting of Mr. Howe, as chairman; Wilbur Schaefer, William V. Sullivan, Frank Donnelly, Robert Skinner and William Mahoney. Those who were included on the reception committee were Daniel J. Courain, James Kyle, Cornelius Regan, Thomas J. Griffin, John L. O'Keefe, William Skinner, W. H. Schaefer and Harry Dunn.

COUNTRY CLUB TO HOLD BANQUET AT ANNUAL MEETING

The annual dinner of the Plainfield Country Club will be held in Columbus Hall on Tuesday evening, February 3, at 7:15 p. m., followed by a short business session and then by an entertainment which will include some speeches with music and singing. Many of the songs have been specially prepared as hits on members and a great deal of amusement from this is expected. Among the speakers will be Messrs. Mellick and Barrows, former presidents of the club. Charles W. McCutchen, president of the Park Golf Club; Charles A. Reed, Hugh Fox and Miles S. Charlock, of the Ranking Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton has also been invited and it is hoped that he will be able to attend. The president of the club will act as toastmaster. The committee has arranged to take a flashlight picture of the club at nine o'clock when the short business meeting will be held. Serious matters are not expected, however, to occupy the members very long and the greater part of the evening will be devoted to speeches, songs, jokes and music.

Many members have already sent in their applications, but those who have not done so should mail their checks by Monday, January 26th, to A. M. Collens, 1320 Watchung avenue. The dinner will cost $2.00 a plate. Members in sending in their checks can reserve tables for six or eight. Other tables will be provided for members who prefer to arrange their sittings after reaching the hall. There will be general tables and members may seat themselves in groups as they wish.

The committee on arrangements consists of the following who will be glad to answer inquiries and assist members in getting their tickets: S. D. Lounsbery, chairman; A. M. Collens, treasurer; Dr. F. E. DuBois, Owen H. Fleming, Howard G. Lapsley and Henry Williams.

STILL AT ODDS WITH UNION.

Morris Abrams and Harry Dreier, who are jointly interested in the Astor Theatre, and the Building Trades Council, are still at odds, with no promise of a settlement in the near future. A meeting of the Unior organization was held last night, but no information as to what took place, would be given out today at headquarters in West Front street.

PLAN MUSICAL PROGRAM.

Members of the Dunbar Social and Educational club are planning a special musical program for next Friday night's meeting, the numbers of which will be announced later.

DUNBAR CLUB HELD NOVEL INDOOR MEET

A musical and athletic program, arranged by the members of the Dunbar Social and Educational Club attracted many to the Washington School last night and one of the most successful meetings of the season was held. The indoor sports featured the evening's entertainment and all present took an active part in the novel events for which prizes were offered in the form of ribbons for first, second and third places.

The following races and jumps were contested: Jumping relay for boys, won by Captain Robert Green's team composed of Roland McCrea, Leslie Kinslow and N. Clay; girls' "all-up" relay, won by team composed of the Misses Gertrude Cruse, Margaret Austin, and Helen Alexander; circle race, won by team composed of John R. Gates, Robert Washington and Harry Edgar.

Vocal selections were rendered by Harry VanBlake accompanied on the piano by Miss Alveta Marcellus, and N. Clay and Mrs. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Banks. Another athletic meet is being planned for Friday night, February 7.

JUDGE BEEKMAN IMPOSES SENTENCES IN SOMERSET

Several prisoners were arraigned yesterday in the Somerset County Court before Judge Beekman. James Walker, 79 years old, pleaded guilty to stealing chickens from Jacob Todd, Jr., near Flagtown. Judge Beekman gave him a severe lecture, but he had been in jail for some time so the court suspended sentence provided the aged man would leave the county and stay.

Andrew Toth and Joseph Sarady, accused of assaulting a young woman near Bernardsville, retracted their plea of not guilty and pleaded non vult. The complaining witness has left the State, so Judge Beekman placed both men under probation for two years and fined them $25.

Antonio Cupoli, 20 years old, charged with a statutory offense, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

BOYS THINK THEFT CHARGE JOKE WHEN ARRAIGNED

Laughing while being arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning for stealing a quantity of toys and cigarettes from W. H. Olmsted's store in Watchung avenue, last Monday, Joseph Miskell, 14, of 732 East Sixth street, and Frank McCarty, 16, of 649 East Sixth street, were held for the Juvenile Court. The youths ran away from home a week ago and lived for four days in a small shack near the Netherwood Baby Camp. According to Sergeant Maurice Higgins, who arrested them, they hid the loot in this shed.

NEW AUTO SALES COMPANY WILL OPEN AN OFFICE HERE

Elizabeth, Jan. 24.—Papers of incorporation for the E. and C. Auto Sales Co. were filed yesterday in the county clerk's office. The office of the concern is to be at 124 Madison avenue, Plainfield, and the object is to do a general automobile selling and hiring business. The capital stock is $25,000 and the incorporators are Fred Endress, Edwin A. Craig and Louisa Endress.

MONTHLY MUSICAL SERVICE.

The monthly musical service by the quartet choir of the Crescent Avenue church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, preceded by a fifteen-minute organ recital. The musical portion of the service will consist of selections from Mendelssohn's oratorio of "St. Paul." The choir will be as follows: Miss Lillian Vernon Watt, soprano; Miss Grace J. Carroll, contralto; Paul J. Haskell, tenor; Graham Reed, bass, and Dr. E. Mettler Davis, organist and choirmaster.

TROLLEY JUMPS TRACK.

Main line trolley car, No. 2021, westbound, jumped the tracks at the switch at West Front street and Grant avenue about 7:30 o'clock last night, holding up traffic for more than a half hour. The accident was due to a bad rail, a portion of which was broken.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN

COURT UPHOLDS JURY REFORM LAW

SUPPORTS REFERENDUM

Big Surprise in Decision as Swayze Had Declared Act Unconstitutional—Takes Much Power From Hands of Sheriffs.

Trenton, Jan. 24.—The Chancellor-Sheriff jury reform bill was held to be constitutional in an opinion handed down late yesterday by Chancellor Walker in the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The decision reverses the opinion of Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze, who declared the action unconstitutional and ordered that a Grand Jury in Hudson county be summoned under the Fielder law.

The decision of the Court of Errors came as a complete surprise. It was generally thought that the action of Justice Swayze in declaring the law invalid had at least the tentative approval of his associates on the bench.

The law was upheld yesterday by a vote of 10 to 3. Those recorded in the negative were Chief Justice Gummere, Justice Parker and Judge Vredenburgh, while those voting to sustain the law were Chancellor Walker, Justice Garrison, Justice Trenchard, Justice Bergen, Justice Minturn, Justice Kalisch, Judge Bogert, Judge Congdon, Judge White and Judge Heppenheimer.

The bill provides that the Chancellor shall appoint one commissioner in each county to act with the Sheriff in drawing grand and petit juries. The jury commissioner and the Sheriff are to be of opposite political parties.

The Court of Errors upheld the act on the ground that there was no direct prohibition in the Constitution against a Statewide referendum to make effective a legislative enactment. Therefore it was held the inclusion of such a referendum was permissible and should be upheld by the courts in the absence of a specific constitutional provision to the contrary. The court felt bound to accept the view of the Legislature rather than its own on the question of which construction of the Constitution was preferable.

SIX GOOD ACTS AND FEATURE PICTURES AT PROCTOR'S

Vaudeville at Proctor's Front street theatre the first three days of next week offers a genuine treat in the wealth of variety it affords. The Albergs, a clever singing, dancing and acrobatic team, present the travesty, "A Day on the Farm," said to be one of the cleverest acts now in vaudeville, abounding in comedy and in clever acrobatic work. The introduction of singing and dancing features add to the worth of the sketch.

For genuine sensationalism with plenty of thrills Jack and Zelda Marshall rank among the topnotchers with their sensational novelty shooting shooting act. Confidence in each other marks their work, the slightest mismove in which would mean injury or death to one.

Clever entertainers are Dunn and Deane, who offer "just a few minutes of variety," and getaway with some exceedingly clever jokes and cracking good songs. Fields and Occo, ragtime gymnasts; George Martin, comedy slack wire artist; the Faben, O'Brien Trio in the comedy playlet, "Looking for a Job," and special photoplays in black and white, complete the bill.

CONNOLLY FINES ONE $25; GIVES WILSON SIX MONTHS

Elizabeth, Jan. 24.—Elias Rosenberg, of Plainfield, a clerk employed in the freight office of th eCentral Railroad Company in that city, was fined $25 in the court of Quarter Sessions yesterday by Judge James C. Connolly, for taking various articles of clothing from the office. He admitted his guilt. William Newcorn asked for leniency for Rosenberg, saying that it was his first offense. He is not employed at the present time, so the court stipulated that the fine need not be paid until he is working.

Robert Wilson, colored, who stole chickens in Plainfield, got a six months' sentence in jail, having been previously convicted of a bicycle theft. The court threatened to send him to State prison if he stole again.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 40 degrees; 11 a. m., 48 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 48 degrees.

SCHOOL LUNCH PLAN SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Mothers' Association Hear Talk on New York System of Supplying Food.

Miss Emma Clare, supervisor of school lunches in the public schools of New York city, appeared before the members of the Mothers' Association at its regular monthly meeting held in the Public Library yesterday afternoon and outlined to the association the methods employed by the metropolitan committee in operating the lunch feature. Miss Clare described the economic side of the question and told how hundreds of children of all ages are being supplied daily with mid-day lunches at a nominal cost and the way in which those in charge bring the expenses of the project down to a minimum.

The speaker told of her personal experiences as head of the movement and the benefits derived by the pupils and tachers from such a system. She discussed the quality of food the committee is enabled to supply at an unusually low figure and at the same time make the small fee charged for the foodstuffs. Miss Clare's address was an unusually interesting one to the Plainfield mothers as the New York system has been tried out in the Bryant and Lincoln schools here and many were anxious to gain a more thorough knowledge of the system.

SAILOR VISITOR TELLS OF MEXICAN ATROCITIES

James Verberg, of the U. S. S. Michigan, who was a member of the body-guard which escorted Felix Dias from Mexico on board that battleship several weeks ago, is visiting H. T. Risberg, of Hillside. He has had many exciting adventures in Vera Cruz, Tampico, and other cities of Mexico and cites the conditions as being terrible. He says the "greasers," both on the Federal and rebel side, have little regard for human lives and asserted that the dead are piled high in the streets at the scenes of conflict, oil poured over them and the mass set on fire. He declared that many times, wounded soldiers unable to protect themselves, are thrown into the heap and burned with their dead comrades.

Verberg said Dias is at present in Havana, where he was taken by the "Michigan," which is now lying in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, undergoing repairs. Dias, the sailor says, remarked to him that he would make it his life's work to unearth Huerta from the Presidency of Mexico, and is now in Havana working toward that end.

STATE TRUST COMPANY HAS FORMS TO REPORT INCOME

Owing to the fact that the Income Tax is little understood by the majority of persons who are subject to its provisions, and as the time for making a return to the Collector of Internal Revenue (March 1st) is rapidly approaching, The State Trust Company, with a desire to be of service, has procured a quantity of Forms Number 1040, the Form upon which to make the annual return to the Collector. These Forms explain fully the method of making up the return, and may be obtained without charge by applying to The State Trust Company. This Company will be glad to advise with persons in regard to making up their return, and where necessary, will furnish an accountant to prepare their figures, for a nominal consideration.

JOHN ASQUITH MUIR WILL BE A SAILOR, SO HE SAYS

John Asquith Muir, of Grant avenue, is going to be a sailor. He has passed the examination to enable him to become "an apprentice seaman," and today had City Judge DeMeza and his father, sign the necessary papers to permit his enlistment in Uncle Sam's navy. Muir is enthusiastic about going to sea. It is possible he will be one of the thousands of seaman that will man the battleships which will start on a world's tour, Nov. 15, 1915.

MAYOR CLARK WILL SPEAK.

The civics department of the Monday Afternoon Club will meet in the Public Library Monday afternoon when Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, will deliver a short talk on the subject "Know Your City."

ANOTHER BICYCLE GONE.

P. A. Ransom, of 923 Woodland avenue, reported to the police this morning that some one stole his bicycle from the cellar of his home, some time during last night.

KNOCKED FROM TRAIN WHILE IT WAS MOVING

Two Railroad Employes Sustain Serious Injuries When Struck by Mail Cart.

Rushing from the South Plainfield station as the 6:30 o'clock express pulled out last night, William Mulberger and Thomas W. Holt, of Easton, Pa., did not notice a mail truck backed up to the train and although they managed to catch the handrail of the last car they hit the truck and were thrown to the roadbed. Both men were rendered unconscious and were carried into the depot where first aid was applied, pending the arrival of the ambulance from Muhlenberg Hospital.

Muhlenberger and Holt are employed as steam fitters by the Lehigh Valley railroad and were figuring up their time sheets. Delayed in leaving the depot, the men made a rush for the train and had just time enough to swing aboard the steps of the last car. Mulberger was hit by the car and thrown against Holt who was in turn pushed from the step and rolled backwards across the track.

Mulberger hit the rails and he sustained a deep cut in the back of the head and bruises about the body. Holt fell against the ties and was badly cut. When the ambulance arrived the men had regained consciousness but both refused to go to the hospital and were sent to their homes in Easton. Mulberger suffered from loss of blood and his condition was considered serious.

JOSEPH CASLIN MARRIED TO POLICE CHIEFS DAUGHTER

In the presence of many friends and relatives, Miss Abigial C. Kiely, daughter of Police Chief Patrick J. Kiely, was married at 6 o'clock last night to Joseph Cash, of East Sixth street, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Bogan, in the parish house of St. Mary's church. The bride wore a blue traveling suit with hat to match and was attended by Miss Gertrude Cashin, a sister of the bridegroom, who as bridesmaid also wore blue. Daniel Kiely, a brother of the bride, was best man.

NATIONAL D. A. R. OFFICERS TO SPEAK AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. William Cummings Story, president-general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. William Libbey, of Princeton, vice-president general of the organization, will be the principal speakers at the annual luncheon of Camp Middlebrook Chapter, D. A. R., to be held in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, on Wednesday, January 28.

There will be a reception to the visiting officers at 12:30 o'clock, to be followed a half-hour later by the luncheon. It is expected that covers will be laid for about seventy-five members and guests of the D. A. R. The committee in charge is planning for elaborate decorations and there will probably be an attractive program of music.

MARTIN A. KORFF PLANS TO ORGANIZE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Martin A. Korff has taken steps to organize a new Sunday school which will be opened in a few days at Francis place and Mountain avenue, the extreme northeast corner of North Plainfield. There is a settlement of about fourteen families between that point and Scotch Plains. W B. Garrabrant, owner of the property, has moved an office building there and will give it for the use of the new school. Captain William Hand, David Hand and Mr. Mobus have assisted in moving the building.

Friends of the work have donated forty hymn books, two organs and a little cash. A stove, coal, floor covering, benches or chairs, about forty, kerosene lamps and some lumber and paint are needed. Further information as to the work can be secured from Mr. Korff, 184 Watchung avenue, the borough.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE MEETINGS.

The members of Plainfield Branch of the Association opposed to Woman Suffrage have decided upon a fixed time and place for their meetings. Beginning with the February gathering, they will meet at the Public Library building on the first Tuesday in each month at 10:30 in the morning.

TUTTLE PUTS IT UP TO MARTINE

Withdraws All Recommendations Regarding Plainfield Postmastership.

HOAGLAND PROBABLE

Tuttle Had Understood He Was to Have Naming of Candidate, But Senator Took it Upon Himself—Eliminates All But Hoagland.

Senator James E. Martine will say who shall succeed Elias H. Bird as the postmaster in Plainfield. That is positively determined by a statement which Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., gave out for publication today, from his office in Washington. Senator Martine had declared that he did not intend to recommend any men for postmasters in districts where there are Democratic Congressmen, but he changed his mind in the Plainfield case, and as a result Congressman Tuttle has washed his hands of the whole matter.

To a certain extent the entire matter is clarified now, as it is generally understood that Senator Martine favors the appointment of Alvin E. Hoagland to the much-sought-for office. John A. Gaffney, a local newspaper man, was the choice of Congressman Tuttle, and in this choice he had the backing of a large number of prominent and influential citizens in all parties.

Mr. Tuttle's statement is as follows:

"The situation in regard to the postmastership of Plainfield has completely changed. Senator Martine has changed his attitude, and is entirely within his rights in assuming the responsibility of recommending the postmaster in his home town. He was, I firmly believe, entirely sincere in his original public announcement that he would have no voice in the selection for local offices in any district represented by a Democratic Congressman. He has on many occasions reiterated that purpose to me as well as others, and has insisted that I take full responsibility for recommending a postmaster for Plainfield. That was, as I understood it, the generally accepted situation. There were personal and political considerations for my urging that he could not rid himself of responsibility in his home town. It is right and proper that he should make this appointment, and it was certain that the conflicting and personal friendships of the home town would not accept any excuse for indifference or divided responsibility in the matter.

"I have at all times urged this view on Senator Martine, and not until he had repeated his insistence that the prerogative rested in the representative did I seriously consider the letters and petitions that were almost overwhelming in number.

"The letters and petitions were the result of the understanding of the situation in Plainfield. I accepted a condition and a responsibility that I would gladly have avoided, and began a process of elimination among many very excellent men who aspired to the position. In response to threats, expressed and implied, I took occasion to express my position with regard to this and all other appointments in my district. That position was one of simply keeping faith with the Postoffice Department, with the people directly interested, with the party and myself. It was the expression of a conviction that has not changed.

"Senator Martine has been forced to change his attitude as it applies to his home town. This was perhaps inevitable. While I am glad to be relieved, eliminated I will join the Senator in whatever recommendation he may make.

"All my letters in regard to various candidates will be referred to the Senator and I know his decision will be a wise one."

SISTER-IN-LAW OF A. TILNEY DIES OF TYPHOID IN INDIA

Mrs. Robert F. Tilney, sister-in-law of A. A. Tilney, of Central avenue, is dead in India from typhoid fever, according to word received yesterday by her brother, William P. Mason, of Brooklyn. Westfield.

Westfield is again without a dog catcher. It is one of the town offices that no one seems to want. The pay is $1 for every dog captured and the dog catcher is not given police protection which, in a measure, accounts for the low pay and unpopularity of the office.

E. G. McWilliams, of the American Bankers' Association, will address the next meeting of the Westfield Bankers' Club on "The Savings Bank and the Community." The meeting will be held at the town hall Tuesday night.

These new officers of Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, were installed Thursday night: Regent, Oliver Hall; vice-regent, E. T. Washburn; orator, William Vanbuskirk; secretary, George W. Peek.

Dunellen & Vicinity

The report of Overseer of the Poor Lewis Schneider, for the year 1913, which was submitted at the last meeting of the Council, contained many unusual features, and indicates that that department of the borough has been conducted with great efficiency in the face of many obstacles. Mr. Williams and John Cronin, two public charges, died while being supported by the taxpayers' money and the latter was buried with the same funds. The expenditures and expenses follow: Toward aiding A. W. Warden, $128.40; Mr. and Mrs. Williams, $185.84; John Cronin, $111.75, and Charles J. Rogers, $35.75; balance poor fund, 1912, $192.75; 1913 appropriation, $200; total funds available, $392.75; total expenditures for all sources, $500.33; overdrafts, $107.58.

Property owners dissatisfied with the conditions of the Rajotte property in this borough and along the border line of North Plainfield township and Plainfield, have engaged a lawyer, William B. Lundie. They claim that further excavation on the land will add to the alleged unsanitary condition and will greatly imperil the health of the community. A petition has been sent to the State authorities, officials of three counties, as well as to the Councils and Boards of Health in Plainfield, North Plainfield township and North Plainfield. Among those from the borough who signed the document are, according to Mr. Lundie, as follows: Frank Mohan, I. M. Hardingham, Enoch Hardingham, Paul Reusch, John H. Schnidler, Alden Wilmot, Charles W. Dilts, H. B. Eckert, Helen B. Eckert, Etta Eckert, Mrs. Frank Bowlby, E. S. Ten Eyck, Charles Braun, R. H. Armstrong, G. J. Law, M. L. Law, May E. Baerman, Henry G. Tuttle, George Voehl, John Hollings, W. Lineau, H. Behrens, Mrs. Ella M. Kennedy, W. E. Terry, C. D. Gooch, Charles H. Dunneen, Charles L. Wahl, F. W. Vail, B. J. Gardner, Gustav Lietz, John P. Fenner, W. S. Salmon, C. E. Enander and John R. Doty.

At the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor connected with the Presbyterian church these officers were elected: President, Theodore W. Day; vice president, George I. Apgar; recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Cameron; corresponding secretary, Miss Luella Stryker, and treasurer, Clarence T. Voorhees. Special music will be rendered at the service to be held tomorrow night at 6:45 o'clock, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Those who comprise the fraternity are: President, Gibson Fairman, Jr.; vice president, Roscoe VanCamp, secretary, Charles Roll; Robert N. McHunnell, Frank Fetherstone, Russell Lee and Edson Day.

CALAMITIES AFFLICT JAPAN.

Famine and Volcanic Eruptions Have Caused Widespread Disaster.

Earthquakes in rapid succession, floods of lava and clouds of volcanic ashes and tidal waves from the sea are menacing the habitable parts of southern Japan, while 10,000,000 people in the north are reported to be starving.

The greatest loss of life has been caused by the eruption of the Sakurashima volcano in the small island of Sakura, in the bay of Kagoshima. Many bodies lie beneath the lava of the volcano, and many perished in trying to escape from the scene of eruption, earthquake and tidal wave. Just how many inhabitants of Sakura were killed ashore or drowned in trying to cross to the city of Kagoshima, on the mainland nearby, will probably never be known. The loss of life at Kagoshima has been reported as slight, but the damage to buildings from earthquake and fire was great, and most of the finer edifices have been entirely destroyed.

Sakurashima at the height of its eruption was pictured in reports as a terrifying mountain of fire, belching ashes and lava for miles around, while the smoke was said to be two miles high.

The captain of a Japanese steamer recently arrived at Nagasaki from Kagoshima gave a vivid description of the scene on Sakura. The captain helped to rescue 300 persons. He said it was perilous to approach the land, as columns of water burst up from the bay, and on shore pillars of fire rose from acres of blazing sugar cane. People and cattle ran pellmell toward the beach in a wild effort to escape. The steamers in the bay lowered rowboats to pick up the hundreds who were drifting helplessly on rafts or swimming with planks and pieces of timber. Along the shore stood shrieking hundreds, unable to find means of escape.

THE FORUM.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

In regard to the proposed increase in automobile license fees in New Jersey, must say that it is another one of the many ways of draining the pockets of the motor car owner. This clever plan of Job H. Lippincott and his associates is nothing more than a down-right outrage.

I, for one, heartily agree with George Blakeslee, of the New Jersey Automobile Association, in protesting against this discriminating bill. New Jersey Automobile owners as it is are compelled to pay altogether too high a rate for license fees at present, let alone the proposed increase.

Would this increase in fees go entirely to improving the roads as stated in the bill? We will have to let Mr. Lippincott answer that question. The increase would run the registration fees up to an amount over one million dollars, an increase of about four hundred thousand dollars over the present amount of registration fees.

It is time that every motorist and car owner in this State of New Jersey file protest at Trenton against this unreasonable bill and assist our friend, Mr. Blakeslee, who is certainly right in the idea that New Jersey is being discriminated against by the proposed bill and increase in automobile license fees. The increase and tax proposed is to be one dollar per horse power, which would double the present license fees.

OUR SOUTH AMERICAN NEIGHBORS.

To the southeast of the United States and approximately 3,000 miles away there is a country which has more square miles of territory than there is in the United States as bounded by the Dominion of Canada on the north; the republic of Mexico on the south; by the Atlantic Ocean on the east and the Pacific Ocean on the west, and which country is known as the United States of Brazil.

To the south of this Republic there is another country known as "Argentina" or Silver Land, that within its boundaries comprises a territory greater than that of the German Empire, Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Denmark, Turkey and Norway combined.

From the above description it will be seen that the Argentine Republic is a very large country, it being ten times the size of the United Kingdom, nineteen times larger than England and Wales, thirty-seven times larger than Scotland and thirty-six times larger than Ireland, and being 2300 miles from north to south gives a variety of climates according to locality. The capitol, Buenos Aires, which is situated half way between the northern and southern limits of the republic is quite a cosmopolitan city.

Here are two mighty republics in which the surface of the hidden wealth has as yet been scarcely touched. The inhabitants of these countries are waking to the opportunities ahead of them. Those living in the Argentine enjoy a climate similar to that of the northern part of the United States and are as energetic as the people living in the United States.

They are also very proud of the fact that they too have had a centennial epoch and we can boast of but a few years more of independence.

Buenos Aires is a city of a million inhabitants. It has fine wharves, well paved streets and in the new portion fine boulevards. The traffic demands are so great that they have constructed and are now operating a subway similar to that in New York. In some of the streets no vehicles are allowed therein between certain hours, showing the rush to the market places and the calls of the people upon the various warehouses, shops and marts centralized in this cosmopolitan city.

At the present time it is summer there, their summer being from the middle of December to the middle of March—in fact, their seasons are the exact reverse of ours and at this writing, for a Buenos Ariean, summer clothing suitable for a hot day in New York, would be proper.

There are over 19,000 miles of railroad in the Argentine owned and worked by British companies with headquarters in London.

Two great rivers flow into the River Platte which at its mouth is 120 miles in width and one can travel by steamer on the Parana 1,120 miles. Severe storms at times sweep up the bay towards the Argentine capital.

Spanish is the language of the country, but in Buenos Aires there is a colony of over 15,000 English and American residents. Several newspapers in the English language are published there, one of them being a publication that has existed over seventy years. The Prenza has one of the most wonderful newspaper plants in the world It is the leading Spanish daily in Argentine. The magnificent building in which it is housed stands almost at the top of the Avenue del Mayo. With the latest design of a Hoe press it can print 160,000 copies of a forty-two page paper ready for delivery to the newsboys in the short space of ninety minutes.

In October a direct route from Buenos Aires to Assuncion was inaugurated. An innovation in the restaurant cars is the introduction of pianolas so that the passengers may enjoy music while eating.

When you start to go from the Atlantic to the Pacific you leave in very comfortable "Dormitorio" or sleeping cars which travel on a six foot guage. The berths are across the car and are much wider and longer than the berths of the ordinary Pullman. The ride is a very comfortable one and while the country traversed is of a flat character, yet there is much of interest to be seen along the way. Game, especially birds abound from the large ostrich to the Mallard Duck. The distance from the Atlantic to the Pacific across Argentine and Chili is about 1,000 miles and the trains for the greater portion of the way run at a high rate of speed. For six hundreds miles from Buenos Aires to Mendoza no hills of any account are in sight, but when you reach this ancient sity, named after the famous general, the snow peaks of the Andes come into view.

At Mendoza you change to the Trans Andean narrow guage line and you begin to ascend the Continental Divide. Soon you leave all signs of vegetation below and the outlook from the window is one vast, arid, sandy plain. There are long reaches of mesquite, cactus and chaparel with an abundance of very bright and volcanic looking rocks. Occasionally colored peaks like those to be seen in the Dolomites are visible. On the Chilian side near Rio Blanco the vegetation is more varied and the peach blossoms of a deep magenta shade are certainly most pleasing to the eye.

After a twelve hour ride in the narrow guage cars you change at Los Andees to the broad guage of the Chilian railways and go to Santiago or Valparaiso. Mapocho is the name of a new station in Santiago and is situated on the Alameda. Santiago is a fine city from an architectural standpoint. Very well groomed and fine looking people are to be seen in the streets and the private carriages and automobiles are of the finest quality but the hacks that transport you from the station to the hotel are the most antique looking conveyances imaginable, appearing as though they had been impressed into service from some museum or a poor house funeral. The city is surrounded with magnificent peaks and the climate is generally fine, but the hotels are most miserable. The prominent residents of the city are ashamed and apologize for the inadequate facilities afforded to travellers in the capital of their country, but they have not been able to get any manager to assume charge of a hotel which would be in harmony with the character of the people visiting their city.

A very fine Catholic Cathedral is situated in the Place de Armas with the Arch-Episcopal Palace adjoining it. When attending service at the cathedral women cannot wear hats. Mantillas are allowed, but no formal head dress is permitted.

The ride from Santiago to Valparaiso takes about four hours. The scenery is very wild and pretty, especially around Llai Llia, pronounced Yi-Yi. Hedges of yellow tea roses surround many of the "estancias" and on one occasion a very fine hedge of calla lilies in full bloom was seen surrounding a pig sty.

Lamiche and Quilpoe are bright suburban towns. The Pacific Ocean is reached at Vina del Mar, a pretty suburb with the appearance of a summer resort, six miles from Valpariaso, the western terminal of the railroad. The trip from ocean to ocean across the South American Continent is full of charm, interest and instruction.

In visiting the countries of South America one is almost instantly impressed with the splendid future prospects of our sister continent, and it ought to be the policy of the United States and its people to cultivate more friendly relationships with the republics to the south than exist at the present time, as well as to also build up a trade with them which will unquestionably prove mutually profitable.

Many of the people of South America, especially in Argentine and Chili are alert, full of pride coming through the heritage of a rich Spanish blood and if we are to make any progress with them we must sooner or later appreciate the fact that from their point of view, they consider themselves the equal of the people of the United States. It seems to me that if we take their view and act accordingly much will be accomplished to bring about a better and more cordial understanding among the republics on the American Continents.

NEW MARKET PASTOR WAS ORDAINED TODAY

Herbert L. Polan, of Union Seminary, New York, Honored by Clerygymen.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the local Seventh-Day Baptist church; Rev. T. L. Gardiner, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, and Rev. Geo. B. Shaw, formerlyof this city, took part in the services held this morning in the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church, when Herbert L. Polan, the pastor, was ordained. The ceremonies were featured by the presence of many clergymen from distant cities, including the following: Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, North Loup, Neb.; Rev. Edgar D. Van Horn, of New York; Rev. Jesse E. Hutchins, of Bridgeton, N. J.; Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, of Westerly, R. I., and Rev. James L. Skaggs, of Shiloh, N. J.

The program was unusually impressive and was witnessed by many who came from all parts of Piscataway, Greenbrook, Dunellen, Plainfield and other nearby places. The program follows: Organ prelude; doxology; invocation by Mr. Polan; hymn; scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Van Horn; prayer, Rev. J. L. Skaggs; offertory; election of the moderator of the council, followed by an account of the experience of the candidate, questions by members of the council and the report of that body; ordination address by Rev. George B. Shaw; consecrating prayer led by Rev. T. L. Gardiner; charge to the candidate by Rev. Mr. Skaggs; charge to the church by Rev. Mr. Hutchins; welcome to the candidate for the congregation and church societies by Deacon L. C. Dunn; welcome of the community by Rev. Edwin Shaw and Rev. T. E. Vassar, Jr., of the New Market First Baptist church; benediction by Rev. Mr. Polan.

MISS KARR'S PUPILS GIVE PLEASING RECITAL

The advanced pupils of Miss Grace Powell Karr, music teacher, gave a recital last night in the Babcock building, which was followed by dancing. The ensemble music was taken solely from Beethoven's Symphonies and was interpreted with much enthusiasm by the Misses Helen E. Crane, Sarah L. Schuck, Mildred M. Clark, Edna F. Smith, Marian V. Avery, Flora L. Rosenthal and Laura W. Smith.

The solo numbers were of striking contrast showing excellent technique, as well as good self control on the part of the pupils. Miss Marian V. Avery played especially well Dvorak's "Humoresque," and in the "Concert Mazurka," by Mrs. A. M. Virgil. "Alla Tarentella," by the American composer, E. A. MacDowell, was also executed with great ability and feeling by Miss Edna F. Smith.

The secret marriage of Miss Rose Green, of this city, to John Hill, of Dunellen, on September 1, 1913, in Allentown, has just been announced.

Another marriage ceremony which has been kept secret by the contracting parties is that of Miss Emma D. Hillyer, of Dunellen, to Joseph D. Griscom, of Piscataway, who were wedded October 15, 1913, in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

WILL CONSIDER PLANS TO INCREASE ATTENDANCE

The Plainfield Ministers' Association will hold a special meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Wednesday afternoon, January 28, at 3 o'clock, to hear Rev. C. F. Canady, of New Rochelle, N. Y., speak concerning plans for a campaign to increase church attendance especially on the part of men. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson introduced the subject at the association's meeting this week, and the matter of bringing Mr. Canady to Plainfield was left to him.

There has been a growing sentiment that something should be done to secure a more general attendance of men at church, and the ministers and others will co-operate in a movement to be started with that end in view.

BOROUGH REALTY CHANGES.

The David Randolph estate, comprising seventeen acres of land, a handsome dwelling and several barns and outbuildings in North Plainfield township, have been sold to Wenzel B. Lundie, a lawyer. The latter also reports the sale of the Weisbecker property, in the township, to August Hutt, of New York. This is a six acre tract.

JUDGE DEMEZA HELPS CUPID.

Miss Jennie Mary Cherrilo, of 442 West Second street, and John Papragrana, of 672 South Second street, were married this morning by City Judge DeMeza, in the latter's office in Park avenue. They were attended by Mrs. Elizabeth Proto and Fred L. Bardinelli, who signed the wedding certificate as witnesses.

KALSOMINE COAT FOR P. H. S. IN ONE PERIOD

Locals, Playing on Peculiar Court, Lost to Glen Ridge Five.

The Plainfield High School boys basketball team handicapped by the freak court of the Glen Ridge team, met defeat yesterday afternoon by the score of 33 to 7. The Glen Ridge court was not of the regulation variety and presented many obstacles which the locals had to overcome. The Plainfield boys were lost on the court, it being impossible to shoot a basket further than twenty feet away.

At the eond if the first half the Glen Ridge team led by the score of 33 to 0, and it looked as if the locals would be swamped, but they became accustomed to the court in the second half and were able to score seven points.

HANLON THE LEADER IN FEDERAL LEAGUE

New Organization Being Held Together by the Baseball Promoter.

New York, Jan. 24.—Without any idea or intention of "knocking" the new Federal League or its promoters it can truthfully be said that there is one man among the backers of the organization who has had more baseball experience than all of the others combined. That man is Edward Hanlon.

When it comes to actual baseball experience, first as a player, then as a manager and after as a club owner, Hanlon has a record of past achievements that none of the other Federal generals can measure up to. "Foxy Ned," as he was called in the old days, knows big league baseball from turn-stile to flag pole, and if the new organization can be made a winner Hanlon looks to be the man to turn the trick.

In Baltimore, where Hanlon is to place a Federal League team, he managed a National League team for several years. Later he owned the Eastern League team in the same city.

Hanlon's first move after taking over the Baltimore franchise in the Federal League was to engage Otto Knabe, the crack second sacker of the Phillies, as manager of the team. In grabbing the Philly star Hanlon showed that the prospect of a war with the National League did not bother him.

A baseball war would be no new experience for "Foxy Ned." He was with Pittsburgh when the Brotherhood was formed in 1891 and promptly jumped to the new organization. When the American League made its famous raid on the Nationals, which resulted in the capture of more than one hundred players of the older organization, Hanlon was managing the Brooklyn team. What the American Leaguers did to Hanlon's team was a-plenty. When the new League got all the Brooklynites they wanted Hanlon didn't have much better than a Class B outfit left to represent the Dodger City.

Hanlon had won his second pennant for Brooklyn when the three-year war between the American and National Leagues began. The American Leaguers went right after the champion Dodgers and succeeded in landing twenty-two of the star players. Among the number were Lave Cross, Dave Fultz, Joe McGinnity, Willie Keeler, Harry Howell, Fielder Jones, Joe Yeager, Joe Kelly, Jim Sheckard, Addie Joss, Jim McGuire, Charley Farrell, Frank Kitson and "Wild Bill" Donovan. Some baseball talent, for one team to lose.

Hanlon struggled along with the remnants of his Brooklyn team until the close of the 1905 season and then retired, from big league company. He next turned his attention to the Baltimore team of the Eastern League. For some time previously he had been in control of the Baltimores. During the next four or five years he was successful as a minor league magnate. Then he disposed of his Baltimore interests to Jack Dunn and retired from the game.

In making his re-entry into the baseball arena "Ned" has bumped into another war right off the bat. In the American-National muss he got the worst of it in the matter of losing players. In the present scrap he has reversed the situation by doing the kidnapping himself.

Hanlon is a native of Norwich, Conn., and is now in his fifty-seventh year. Like the majority of ball players he gained his first experience on the back lots in his native town. His first professional engagement was with the Providence team. Later he played with Fall River, Rochester, Albany, Cleveland and Detroit, in the order named. It was while with Detroit, in 1886, that he first became an important factor in the National pastime. In that year he played center field and acted as captain for the Detroit team, which won the championship.

Never a hitter of more than ordinary ability, Hanlon made his reputation chiefly as a fielder and base-runner. From 1889 to 1891 he played in Pittsburgh. In 1892 he took charge of the Baltimore team. The Orioles finished in the cellar in that year and the year following. But during the three years beginning with 1894 they won the pennant and in 1897 and 1898 they finished in second place.

Hanlon went to Brooklyn as manager of the Dodgers in 1899. He remained there seven years and won two pennants. What he will do this season with a new team in a new league remains to be seen.

HER CROOKED SPINE MENDED

Bone From Shin Wedged Into Vertebrae Makes Deformed Girl Erect.

A miraculous double operation performed in Cleveland, O., has made Pauline Gelb, thirteen years old, whose back was deformed from birth, an erect, healthy girl who will be able to run and play like other children.

The line was placed on an operating table at Mount Sinai hospital and "healed up all straight and smooth," as she says. First of all, a slender splinter of bone three inches long was taken from the shinbone of her right legs. Then a groove was cut into the vertebrae on the inner side of the spine just where it was bent.

Into this groove the straight splinter of bone then was firmly wedged. Immediately afterward the little patient was put into a plaster cast. In this cast, face downward, Pauline lay for nearly two weeks without stirring. Then she was propped up in bed for the first time in five weeks, and finally she sat up, her back as straight as the rest in which she is still wrapped.

were all forward. Most of them on the bridge, and were soon clinging to the bridge structure as the fore part of the ship sank by what might be called her stern until the deck was at an angle of about 45 degrees.

It took twenty two minutes for the fore half of the vessel to disappear and eleven of the men who had been on it managed to launch a lifeboat in the tempest. Five of them were rescued by the Booth line steamship Gregory. Captain Gunter and seven men were rescued by the Bavaria of the Hamburg-American line. A total of thirteen was saved of the thirty-eight men aboard the Oklahoma when the disaster occurred.

OPINION ON LICENSE MATTER

a high license basis the holder of a license is entitled to a renewal, and that there must be a limit as to the number of places licensed. He said that he stood on that platform last year and had not changed his position.

H. W. Herrman, who said that he represented the Federation of Men's Bible Classes, a total of 765 voters and 4,000 people who are vitally interested in the question before the meeting, said that he could not favor liquor licenses, but he declared that he could see the other man's point of view. He then spoke on two important points, monopoly and would it pay to increase the number of licensed places.

The speaker quoted from the report of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as a State excise commissioner, showing that in New Brunswick there were four wholesale places, that in Elizabeth there is one such place with 258 saloons, adding that it was a wonder that Dennis Collins did not call that a monopoly, while in Princeton there are two wholesale places. He declared that the "milk in the cocoanut seemed to be that somebody wants to get their brand of whiskey on sale here." Continuing he said that North Plainfield has four wholesale places and the borough is not far away. Basing his estimate on figures furnished to him by Tammany men, Mr. Herrman said that a liquor dealer in Plainfield would expect to get $15,000 a year, paying a rent of $50 a month with the present license fee. In Bordentown, the speaker said there are four wholesale places, and they have 17 people on the "jag list," and according to population Plainfield should have a very large "jag list."

Father Bernard M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, presented a strong and convincing argument against the granting of additional licenses. He said that he felt honored in being invited to address such a body of men and inasmuch as he understood that the meeting was not one of protest but to keep conditions as they are he expressed the belief that the people of Plainfield feel secure against the danger of anyone breaking into their social system.

Speaking in a humorous vein Father Bogan remarked that he was protected "against what his neighbors might say by what some people call hardness of hearing, but I am not sensitive and I call it deafness. Judging from what some people have said," continued Father Bogan, "I cannot be much worse, being a Catholic priest, a member of the Knights of Columbus, who are said to be armed and ready to shoot, kill and eat Americans, but this being Friday fish day you need not fear.

"We do not need any more drinking places, having about reached the limit, and I sincerely hope that the city will not be less secure in the future than in the past. I represent 1,400 men in a parish of about 4,000 people who would have me protest against any increase in the number of licensed places. I want to say that since coming here I have had very little use for pledge cards and I find that the workingmen of Plainfield are a sober and industrious lot of people, more so than in some places where the opportunities for drinking are greater."

In closing Father Bogan took occasion to refer to vicious attacks made by certain newspapers against Catholics, adding that these papers are printed and circulated in the night. A hearty round of applause was given the priest as he finished his remarks.

The arguments of all the other speakers were strongly against increasing the number of licensed places, the sentiment being that the present number is sufficient to meet all needs.

Councilmen Calkins, Hylan and Blatz were present at the meeting.

LIVES BY HER WITS.

Only Its Sense of Humor Saved This Hen From Decapitation.

For some time, writes "Suburbanite" in the Glasgow News, one of my hens has been indulging itself in a practice that but for the little joke involved would have ended in its decapitation.

It is one of a pen of eight egg machines, or seven, rather, for its egg producing mechanism is considerably out of order, its best average being about one in the fortnight. Yet until recently that hen was scheduled on my book as the premier layer. That happened in this way.

Every morning when I made my appearance in the garden Nora (the hen) would be found clucking beside one of the eggs with all the force of its raucous throat.

If any of its sisters laid claim to the property there would be a wild flutter, and the audacious bird would continue her boasting when she had cleared her ball of feathers.

Some time ago I discovered her in the act of taking up her stand over the production of another hen, and a careful watch thereafter disclosed her true capabilities. A sense of humor is undoubtedly one of them, and this is being regarded as a saving grace, for I have decided to allow her to continue living by her wits.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 52.

I ASKED a "high-brow" friend of mine, who is employed in the editorial department of a big newspaper, if he had any ideas on Want Ad. advertising. He said he "sure had" and was a firm believer in the pulling power of that kind of advertising. He said he'd write down what he thought on the subject. He did. Here is the note he wrote:

"The first Want Ad. of which we have record was written by Julius Caesar, who enlivened the dead walls of Rome with announcements of his Gallic victories and who skilfully appealed to his fellow-countrymen to call at his headquarters the next day and enlist for a still greater and grander conquest. Caesar's Want Ad. ultimately brought him the proffer of a crown.

"No less wise than Caesar are the employers and employes of today. They recognize the fact that the most successful way to achieve a definite purpose from an advertising viewpoint is to present your wants in a concise, direct manner. The employer looks upon the Want Ad. columns as an advertising barometer, the employe, as the keystone to the arch.

"In a Want Ad. you reach the man who wants something, and you get into direct and immediate communication with him."

Hints For the Home Dressmaker.

Many practical hints that would prove valuable to the home dressmaker can be gathered in the course of a tour of inspection of the ready-made clothes in the shops.

For one thing, net was never before so much used. This is a fact of which every economical woman should take advantage. For net wears and washes well, is inexpensive and yet gives a touch of daintiness to any garment on which it is used. Nightgown yokes and sleeves are made of tucked net of heavy mesh, and white muslin petticoats are finished with scant ruffles of net. It is used instead of insertion on all kinds of underwear and sometimes a band of net two inches wide is doubled and used instead of beading to run ribbon through.

Some of the newest shirtwaists show vests of tucked net that reach from the neck to the waist. Net collars and cuffs on shirtwaists are also much used. They wear far better than lace bought for the same price. A flat, turnback collar of net can be edged with a wide hem, stitched by hand with heavy colored cotton thread, or it can be edged with a narrow net frill.

The touch of color is seen on many of the new waists. One way to gain it is to use a colored ribbon about the neck of the waist. The ribbon can be simply in the form of a scarf or tie, with ends that hang from a loose knot or bow in front. Sometimes the ribbon is tied in a bow with long ends that hang in the back and then the ribbon is simply hooked under the collar in front. One of the new blouses shows a collar faced with colored silk which forms a scarf to tie in front.

Many of the new clothes show washable and non-washable materials combined, as they are in the washable blouse with the colored collar facing described. The combination, of course, is attractive, but clothes of this sort are hard to clean at home.

The Tunic.

Apparently the tunic has come to stay—for a time at least. It is now reproduced in many phases in paper patterns, so that every woman may be tempted to try it. As the tunic first reached us, it flared out and was held away from the figure with a reed. But imagine such a tunic living in our modern existence—in street cars and rushing stores and on narrow sidewalks. As the tunic has won out, it is folded about the figure. And one secret which the home dressmaker should know before she undertakes to make a tunic is this; that the tunic in cloth and silk dresses made by the professional dressmakers is weighted down, after the manner of the bottom edges of coats, with lead weights. If there is a ruffle about the edge of the tunic the weights are put above the ruffle. This keeps the tunic from blowing up and makes it possible to use thin material for the upper portion of the foundation skirt.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Simplicity for children does not necessarily mean that the little dresses and coats must be absolutely without trimming, but that the trimmings shall be well chosen and few. A wealth of cheap lace or a set of gorgeous buttons does not add to the appearance of a frock. A simple little dress of dark blue serge is sufficiently and prettily trimmed with a wide, stitched belt, a collar of another color and a double row of cloth covered buttons. The kilted skirt is effective, and if the dress is to be worn for an afternoon party, a softly folded sash of dark red crepe de Chine, one of the silks which is permissible for children's frocks, may be added.

Number 7904 has the drop-shoulder, a Duchess closing, which is a trimming in itself, a kilted skirt and a low, stitched belt.

For a girl of eight this pattern requires 3 yards of 36 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting material for trimming.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 4 to 12.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the breast well up under the arms

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SEASONABLE DESSERTS.

DRIED or preserved fruits make nice winter desserts. The former fruits, if well soaked before using, become tender and palatable. They have, in fact, a flavor that the fresh fruits sometimes lack.

Pastries of any kind are more suitable for winter consumption than for summer. The fats used in shortening make fuel for the body, which in winter is needed.

Fruit Desserts.

Prune Pudding.—Take a pound of prunes, put them into warm water and let them soak about eight hours. Then butter a baking dish, remove the stones from the prunes and place a layer of the fruit in the dish, then add a layer of stale bread broken into pieces, and so alternate until the dish is filled. The last layer should be bread. Beat two eggs with a quarter of a cupful of powdered sugar, stir in a pint of milk and pour over the pudding. Let it bake an hour. Beat up a meringue and pile it on top of the pudding. Return to the oven to brown. Serve with a sauce flavored with the prunes.

Dried Fruit Pudding.—Prepare and cut fine dates, figs or dried fruit to cover the bottom of a baking pan to the depth of half an inch. Put one pint of milk in a double boiler and when hot stir in half a cupful of fine cornmeal. Cook until thick and smooth. Take from the fire, beat in the yolks of four eggs and fold in the whites, which should have been beaten to a froth. Pour over the fruit and bake in a moderately quick oven half an hour. Serve hot with cream.

Nutritious Pastries.

Nut Macaroon Tarts.—Take the whites of four eggs, a quarter of a pound of walnut meats ground or chopped, a quarter of a pound of sugar and a quarter of a teaspoonful of baking powder. Whip the whites of eggs until stiff, add sugar, whip again, then add other ingredients. Beat, then fill into tart pans lined with puff paste, bake carefully until centers are set. When serving, sift sugar over them and dot with currant jelly.

Chocolate Pie.—Take a deep pan, line it with rich pie crust and bake in a quick oven. Grate one-half cupful of chocolate into a saucepan with a cupful of hot water, butter the size of an egg, one tablespoonful of vanilla, a cupful of sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in water. Mix well and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Pour into the pie crust. Make a meringue of the two egg whites beaten stiff with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Spread over the pie and brown in the oven.

The Mongoose Jumped at the Snake.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Indian Mongoose and The Woodsman.

"TELL us a story about some animal we've never heard of before," asked Jack as daddy was about to begin his bedtime story.

"Let me think," said daddy; "there are so few animals you two children haven't seen pictures of, seen in the zoo or heard me tell stories about."

"Do think of a new one, though. You surely can," said Evelyn.

"Well, have you ever heard of the Indian mongoose?"

"No," said Jack. "Tell us about him."

"Is he an animal or person?" asked Evelyn uncertainly.

"Oh, he is an animal and a very real one," said daddy. "He's a great friend to the woodsman, for he lives always in the woods, and every time he sees a poisonous snake he does his best to kill him."

"I'm going to tell you a special story. One time a young woodsman, with several other friends, came to the part of the woods where the little Indian mongoose I'm going to tell you about lived. In fact, they pitched their tent very, very near the mongoose's home. This little mongoose lived all alone, and sometimes he used to get pretty lonely. So he was awfully happy to see the woodsman's camping party, for he was very fond of human people.

"One day the woodsman and his camping party started on a walking trip through the woods. They carried sacks on their backs which held their lunch.

"The little Indian mongoose had watched all their plans without being seen. He said also to himself that he would follow, unseen by them, for he had become attached to his new neighbors. He dreaded the harm that might come to them if they went into some parts of the woods. They had not gone very far when the little mongoose, who was running ahead, heard a hissing sound and a rustle through the leaves.

"The mongoose pricked up his ears, for, of course, he knew it must be a snake, and the men were almost up to him.

"Without waiting to draw a breath he bravely jumped on the snake and killed him before the creature could shoot forth his poisonous fangs.

"The woodsman and his friends were just in time to see the mongoose kill the snake.

"'You've saved our lives!' cried the woodsman.

"Oh, how pleased the little mongoose was! During the rest of the camping party the little mongoose went on all their walks with them, and when the party broke up the woodsman, who had a lovely country home, took the Indian mongoose home with him. Such good friends as they were! And once a year the mongoose would go along, too, on the camping party."

HOLD UP A TRAIN.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 24.—A Michigan Central train, westbound, was held up by four masked men just after leaving here at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The men robbed the passengers in the day coaches and then went through the sleepers, getting the clothing of the passengers as they slept. It is not know how much the robbers secured. The men pulled the bell cord just before reaching Parma. Posses are searching for the men.

BLAZE DESTROYS HOTEL.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 24.—With the hotel register missing authorities are experiencing difficulty in securing a list of guests in the National Hotel which was seriously damaged by fire Thursday, resulting in the death of one man and the serious injury of three others. The dead man is R. W. Snook, of Cary, Indiana.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

The oft-repeated cry of "Liquor Interests" by advocates of "Woman Suffrage" seems still to be a plausible argument, especially with the members of the W. C. T. U., and to them even more than to other readers the following statements may be of interest:

We hear frequently of women who "must be suffragists, to help fight liquor dealers, because the Antis are allied with all vice and liquor interests."

Parenthetically, how strange it seems that no proof of the latter assertion can ever be produced.

We will let Hugh Fox answer it for us as follows: "The Anti-Suffrage Association has never been endorsed by the United Brewers' Association. We have not contributed any money, directly or indirectly, to their cause, nor have we been asked to do so, though we have had appeals from the other side." (The emphasis is Mr. Fox's.)

Mr. Obermann, of Milwaukee, says, referring to Susan B. Anthony: "She is mistaken and misinformed regarding her statement that we have passed resolutions opposing Woman Suffrage."

Then he says: "Incidentally, we may say that the large vote cast by the woman of Colorado against prohibition, and by the women of San Francisco and Los Angeles in favor of the continuance of the license policy indicates that women can be trusted to use good judgment on such issues."

Just here it may be opportune to say that suffragists have declared in some quarters that the above would not be legally effective as truth or authority because it is the statement of those connected with the "liquor interests."

A well-known lawyer in reply to this says: "Those connected with the 'liquor interests' are not discriminated against as jurors, therefore their word or oath is as good 'under the law' as that of any man."

The Colorado Equal Suffrage Association fought the O'Driscoll bill "prohibiting cafes from serving intoxicants to females," as "a restriction of the liberty of women citizens," stating that "Whereas, The Colorado Equal Suffrage Association stands for a single standard of morals for men and women," be it "Resolved, That it begs your honorable body to defeat by your votes the O'Driscoll bill which provides that it shall be a misdemeanor to serve liquor to women patrons."

This was addressed to "The Honorable Council of the City and County of Denver."

Insuring women the right to drink seems a strange method of abolishing the habit in men.

It is quite consistent, however, with the following declarations from suffrage leaders:

Miss Margaret Foley, one of the leaders in the Ohio campaign, addressing a labor union at Middletown, Ohio, said: "We're not going to take your beer from you." And in Cleveland many of the suffragists insisted that it was only their enemies who said of them that they would vote against the saloon.

Ida Husted Harper, in the Springfield Union for November, 1912, said: "'In not one of the woman suffrage States is there a prohibitory law. One has just been defeated in Colorado, and while there is no proof that this was due to the women, it is probable that, if a majority had added their votes to those of the men who voted for it, it would have been carried.' In the Milwaukee Free Press of October 20, 1912, May Wright Sewall wrote: "Votes for women will no more prohibit drink than they will prohibit food."

The president of the Equal Suffrage Association of Washington, a Mrs. Smith, when visiting in Denver recently, declared that the women of Washington won the vote chiefly through the influence of the breweries of the State, specifically mentioning the Ranier Brewery of Seattle. Mrs. Smith said that the failure of the prohibitious election in Denver convinced the liquor interests that they had nothing to fear from the women's vote.

Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, a suffrage leader in Los Angeles, made a public speech, in which she declared that the saloon-keepers need not fear the woman's vote, while in San Francisco another suffrage leader declared that the suffragists would drink to their victory in California wine.

Not a single suffrage State is a prohibition State; and Mrs. Minnie Reynolds, press representative for the National Suffrage Association, recently challenged anyone to find a word concerning prohibition among the pamphlets issued by the association.

Throughout the country foreign women of the poorer classes are loudly and constantly exploited as the unfortunate, miserable wives of drinking husbands. These women in New York are training their children, girls as well as boys, in the use of liquor, by giving them beer and cheap wine at noon instead of milk, since the temporary exhilarating affects make them content with less food.

The teachers discovered this fact on investigating the cause of the pupils falling asleep after returning from lunch. The same conditions existed in the schools of Passaic, Paterson and Boston. It has been impossible as yet to put a stop to this pernicious habit, though it is being closely watched by teachers and principals.

It is extremely doubtful if our East Side foreign population even realizes the iniquity of it, and that they cannot even use the lightest of their national wines in this country as they do at home, under such different conditions. Here the children leave home to walk to steam-heated school rooms.

The momentary exhilaration of the wine, followed by the walk in the cool air, soon disappears, after they are seated at their desks, and a drowsiness much akin to intoxication follows, and the head is soon buried on the youngster's arms on his or her desk. One teacher told me she could not always shake the children out of such slumber, but would have to let them sleep it out.

On one occasion she sent for a mother to take a girl of thirteen home, who could not walk steadily, and she received the nonchalant explanation, "she'll be all right after a bit; she was pretty hungry at noon, so I gave her an extra glass." She could not make the slightest impression upon this mother, nor make her see the future results of what she was doing, even when she explained long and fully the horror of girls especially being accustomed to a free use of intoxicants.

When arguing the temperance question, these mothers are largely exploited by the suffragists, as martyr wives of drinking husbands, longing for the ballot, supposedly to help each woman to keep her husband out of the corner saloon.

I contend—I think with justice—that they are neither worthy of the pity excited for them, nor would they make very strong advocates of the Temperance Cause.

The N. Y. Times in November, 1912, commenting on the results of elections, says editorially: "In view of the contention that the participation of women in elections would be morally elevating, and so strengthen the forces of righteousness that the 'demon rum' would everywhere be driven to its lair, the examination of election results in Colorado and Nebraska is instructive.

"In Nebraska, where women do not vote, the wets and drys fought a drawn battle. In Colorado, where the women do vote, the prohibitionists were defeated all along the line. In Boise, Idaho, where women have had the ballot for seventeen years, a proposal to decrease the number of saloons was overwhelmingly defeated."

Since women have been given the ballot in Washington several elections have been held on the local-option question, the liquor interests winning every one of them.

Dr. Helen Sumner regretfully admits "The discouraging feature is that Equal Suffrage has not materially strengthened the prohibition party," the women declare "they will not waste their votes on a losing issue," and again "the women are almost universally for total abstinence, yet the Prohibition party never gets their votes," and "in several localities women have frankly expressed a preference for the saloon over the drug store sale of liquor."

The question arises in every fair mind "how can any Prohibitionist be a woman suffragist on that issue when women have, so far, failed to live up to the standards set for them by those who are so sure that 'the women's votes will be against any forces of evil.'"

And we may well close this article by remarking that if liquor dealers were once inimical to woman suffrage they must have learned by now that their fright was quite groundless; they "have nothing to fear from votes for women"—A statement they themselves are now making.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A CENTERPIECE FOR SOLID OR EYELET WORK

This attractive centerpiece which is twenty inches in diameter, is very easy to embroider, in either well-padded solid work or in eyelets, or, in the two stitches combined. The design should be stamped on firm, closely woven, round-thread linen, and the edge may be worked in well-padded buttonhole-stitch in number 20, white mercerized cotton. Be careful to pad each scallop with either chain-stitch or running-stitches, so that the buttonhole-stitch can be worked firmly and evenly. Do not cut out the scallops until after the piece has been laundred, as the material will shrink a little and the threads may fray if the scallops are cut out before laundering. The sprays may be cut apart and adapted to luncheon cloths, carving clothes or even to a blouse or nightgown.

MISS BURTIS SHINES

Ultimate Decision Never in Doubt After the Opening Minutes of Play—Agressive Tactics Employed by Speedy Borough Girls.

Sensational shooting on the part of forwards and close guarding by the guards, gave the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team a decisive victory over the Plainfield High School five in the first game for the city feminine championship, played in Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon. The final score was 48 to 6.

From the very start the boroughites proved themselves master of the game and after Miss Burtis had once started shooting she made baskets from all parts of the floor, while Miss Spencer was always present when her teammate needed help. The work of the borough guards was a feature of the game, the visiting forwards having only three shots at the basket during the entire game. The first half ended 18 to 3.

The second half was played with side centers, Miss Cooper and Miss Good playing for North Plainfield and Plainfield, respectively. From the very start Miss Burtis increased the lead of her team by placing the ball in from every position imaginable. At the middle of the half Miss Moy was replaced by Miss Rothberg, who guarded Miss Burtis. Before the half was over, Miss Spencer obtained a look at the basket and after that made four shots count for two points each. Miss Phillips repeated her feat of the first half, scoring three fouls. Miss Burtis scored forty points, Miss Spencer eight and Miss Phillips six.

SNODGRASS A HOLDOUT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 24.—Fred Snodgrass yesterday returned unsigned the contract mailed him by the New York Giants. He wasn't pleased with the financial terms in the paper and also complained that it was the old style contract that had been sent him. He said he had been expecting a big increase in salary for the coming year, and the terms offered were not satisfactory. He denied recently published stories that he was flirting with the Federal League.

"Sportdom Tips"

THE MORNING AFTER.

North Plainfield High School athletes, both male and feminine, proved conclusively their superiority on the basketball court in Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon and last night, the girls' quintet trimming the Plainfield High School feminine tossers in the afternoon and the boys' winning from Leal School in the evening. Both scores were convincing and left little doubt as to the relative strength of the contesting factions. Both borough teams had it on their rivals in every department of the game and the two contests early resolved themselves into a scoring battle, the spectators being interested only in the heights to which the tally card would ultimately soar. Superior teamwork and accurate shooting brought home both scalps and the boroughites certainly deserve all the credit that is forthcoming for such performances.

THAT CHALLENGING AFFAIR.

Although Manager George Leighs, of the Hope Chapel basketball team, claimed several weeks ago that he would not issue a challenge to North Plainfield High School for a game with that aggregation he certainly appears to be taking the initiative in the matter and is forcing the issue to the limit. Leighs evidently thinks there is no time like the present and is endeavoring to make Manager Van Mater submit to his plan for a championship series. Why not come out from behind the scenes and make your challenge in the words of one who is confident of success rather than beat around the bush in an effort to head off the fast traveling Canadian basket tossers.

EVENLY MATCHED TEAMS.

A pair of more evenly matched basketball teams than the Belleville and Plainfield Y. M. C. A. fives have not made their appearance on local or surrounding courts this season. Belleville came here a short time ago and administered Plainfield's initial defeat by a margin of one point and went to Morristown last night and lost to the Y. M. C. A. team of that place by a margin of five points, two more than the same team took to defeat Plainfield a week previous. Both teams lost to the Morristown quintet by narrow margins and the contest to be played on the Belleville court between the locals and the aggregation from that place will evoke no little amount of interest among basketball followers.

Nearly 100 National League players are under contract for the coming season and the same number in the American League have been sewed up. It is estimated that the salaries in both leagues have been raised to the extent of $100,000 to get their men in line. The Federal League promoters may be thanked for this condition.

Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, has signed all but one of his players for the coming season, among those in line being Eugene Lidgate, of Fanwood. Dunn's team has been greatly strengthened for the race this season by the addition of several of Connie Mack's crew.

Plainfield High School appears to be having its troubles on rival basketball courts this season. But one home game has been played to date and all of the out-of-town struggles have been staged on "courts extraordinary."

Some things we would like to know:

What has become of those P. H. S. mat artists?

Why Hope Chapel is trailing North Plainfield High School?

When Hope Chapel will get that new gym?

Why the boroughites persist in running up such high scores?

Why P. H. S. doesn't enter the Union County League.

We concede the Interscholastic League pennant to North Plainfield High School but how about the second place claimant? The fight between Leals and P. H. S. is the interesting point now.

Have you seen those Holy Cross gridiron warriors bundled up in new sweaters? The town is dotted with red trimmed youths today.

Two games of basketball have been arranged for the Y. M. C. A. court tonight. Woodbridge will oppose the Y. M. C. A. and Plainfield High School will oppose the Randolph Military Academy five.

NEXT LEAGUE GAME.

The next game of the Boys' Interscholastic Basketball League will be played on the Y. M. C. A. court between Plainfield and Leal's.

PLAINFIELD SEVEN SHUT OUT CRANFORD

Locals Add Another Hockey Victory to Their Long String.

The Plainfield High School hockey team defeated the Cranford High School team yesterday afternoon on Holly's Pond by the score of 2 goals to 0. The game was fast and exciting throughout, the score standing at 0 to 0 at the end of the first half.

TWO ACADEMY FIVES PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Excellent Program of Basketball Promised for Local Followers at Y. M. C. A.

Two good games of basketball have been arranged by local managers to be contested on the local Y. M. C. A. court tonight, the Association team taking on the Woodbridge Academy five and the Plainfield High School team playing the aggregation from the Randolph Military Academy in the preliminary match.

Both games will be good contests to witness as evidenced by previous performances. Plainfield High defeated the Morristown School by a margin of one field goal on the latter's court some time ago, and the Y. M. C. A. team defeated Woodbridge by a trio of points here the early part of the season. Ar four teams will have their best lineups on the court and the following men will play in the Plainfield home fixture:

Y. M. C. A.—Moulton and Mosmer, forwards, Gavett, center, Gibson and Farmer, guards.

Plainfield High School—Hatfield and Peacock, forwards, Snyder, centre, Rosenson and Sminck, guards.

FUN FOR CANUCKS IN LEAGUE GAME

Leal School Furnishes Little Resistance in Interscholastic Encounter.

Playing in top-notch form and having the advantage of their home court, the North Plainfield High School basketball team decisively defeated the Leal School aggregation in the second contest for the city championship last night in Saengerbund Hall by the score of 56 to 18.

At the beginning of the game the private school boys played a defensive game and held their opponents successfully until they began to play loose and the boroughites passed and shot all around them. North Plainfield had the ball the majority of the time in the first half and after the first five minutes of play scored frequently. During the first period Fred Dickerson was hurt in a collision but gamely returned to the floor.

Many fouls were called in the second half but neither side took advantage of these. All of the "Canadians" had a hand in the scoring, Dunning leading with thirteen and Love next with an even half dozen. Krom and Stewart were the main point getters for Leals. This victory gives North Plainfield a two-game lead in the race for the city scholastic title.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

BIG RESIDENCE ON HILLSIDE AVE.

W. H. Abbott Owns Handsome House to Be Decorated to Please Purchaser.

COST $30,000 TO BUILD

House Has Best of Materials Throughout and Has Many Features not Usually Found in Speculative Structures.

A two and a half story hollow tile and stucco dwelling has been erected at the corner of Hillside and Martine avenues for William H. Abbott. The workmanship and materials used were the best that could be obtained. The building, which has a frontage of 74 feet and a depth of 33 feet, cost about $30,000.

The exterior of the house has been faced with a white stucco. At the northwest and on the first floor is a large sun parlor, over which is a glass enclosed sleeping porch. The main entrance in the centre of the front facade is covered by a small portico, supported by two square concrete columns, faced with stucco. The portico has a sheet metal ceiling, painted white. The roof of the portico has been converted into an open balcony. A pagado effect cornice has been built around the edge of the main building roof and also over the rear porch. There is a Spanish red tile roof, and drab colored cornice work, the rest of the exterior being white.

The front door opens into the large main hall which runs the entire depth of the house. To the right of the hall is a library, 17x30 feet, in the centre of the northwest wall of which is a large open fireplace. Just off the library, on the north side, is a large sun parlor, finished with an open fireplace backing up the one in the library. The sun parlor is decorated similar to the rest of the rooms on this floor, entrance being gained through two large glass paneled doors from the library. Both these fireplaces are faced with ocre colored pressed bricks, lined with dark red mortar.

To the left of the hallway is the dining room, and at the rear are the butler's pantry and kitchen. At the eastern corner of the building, opening from the dining room, is a breakfast porch. There is a gray pressed brick open fireplace in the dining room.

All the rooms on this floor, with the exception of the butler's pantry and kitchen, have been finished with quartered oak flooring. The kitchen has a white maple floor and the butler's pantry white maple flooring, and is equipped with three dressers and sink, the woodwork being of chestnut.

The library has been finished with false ceiling beams and trim of the craftsman type, enameled a dead white. The dining and breakfast rooms have been trimmed with chestnut, stained fumed oak, with false ceiling beams of the same material and finish, including the dining room plate rail. The library is separated from the main hall by a columned opening and the dining-room from the hall by double sliding doors of mahogany. The kitchen's equipment includes a combination range, closets, sink, a bell system indicator and speaking tube attachments for use between the floors. In the cellar are a laundry, boiler room, closets, coal bins, refrigerator room and servants' toilet.

Off the main hallway is a toilet and lavatory. There is a cloak closet. At the rear of the hall the main stairway leads from the first to the third floor. The hallway is finished with quartered oak flooring, trim enameled white, and mahogany finished doors. The stairs are of the return type with mahogany treads and white enameled risers. The posts and handrails are of mahogany, with banisters white enameled. At the landings quartered oak floorings have been laid.

On the second floor are five bedrooms, two bathrooms with tile floors and wainscoating marked to represent tile; two open balconies and an enclosed sleeping porch. With the exception of the bathrooms all have been finished with oak flooring, white detailed trim, mahogany doors, and each bedroom closet door faced with full length French plate glass mirror.

There are three maid's rooms, two storage rooms, a large balcony and a servant's bathroom on the third floor. All are finished with cypress trimmings and North Carolina yellow pine floors.

The building has a hot water heating system, bell system from every room to the kitchen, combination fixtures and numerous speaking tube attachments. Most of the doors are of mahogany, with glass knobs and heavy unique patterned bronze hardware.

W. H. Clum drew the plans for the building; J. Newton Apgar did the carpenter work, and Firman Gise the masonry and plastering; Charles H. Lane did the painting and interior decorating; Nicholas Cody installed the plumbing, gas piping, and heating systems, and also did the copper gutter and leader work; George W. Ord wired the house and George E. Watt laid the flooring. The Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company furnished all the lumber, the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, mason material; R. H. McCullough, the millwork and interior trim, and A. M. Griffen Co., the hardware. James R. Jeffers laid all the concrete walks around the property, as well as the main entrance floor and terrace at the front of the building.

This building has been placed on the market and will be finished and decorated to suit the taste of its purchasers.

ACTIVITIES IN THE BOROUGH

George Kirch, of Somerset street, North Plainfield, has had a large chicken house erected at the rear of his property, 24x15 feet. The structure which will be fitted up with the latest appliances for the protection, raising and keeping of poultry and will cost about $100.

Nicholas Van Winkle, of Union street, North Plainfield, is having a tool house erected at the rear of his property, 16x10 feet, at a cost of $100. John D. Kirch will erect the building.

H. S. Ulher, Jr., of 28 Park place, is having a frame one-story garage erected at the rear of his property, 12x18 feet. The walls will be of hemlock, faced with weather boards painted a light color. The roof will be of the peaked type, covered with corrigated iron, and painted dark red. This garage will cost about $200 and will be completed next week.

James A. Cassidy, of Duer street, has been granted a permit for the erection of a rear porch. The size, 18x5 feet, and it will cost about $75.

J. J. Stahl, of Grandview avenue, has had an addition built on the side of the garage at the rear of his property. The extension is six by eighteen feet and will be used as a tool room. The alterations cost about $75.

TO BUILD DUNELLEN HOUSES.

John S. Dahl, of Woodland avenue, who is interested in the promotion of the real estate and building trade in and around this city, will within a few weeks have two single family houses which will each cost galow type dwellings erected on the outskirts of Dunellen. The single family houses which yill each cost about $3,000, will be erected on the Bound Brook road opposite the Dunellen garage, while the two bungalow type buildings which will each cost not less than $1,500 will be erected on the same road beyond the car barns. Mr. Dahl expects to have these buildings erected and completed not later than May 1 so that they can be placed on the market, and sold before the summer season sets in. Mr. Dahl will do the carpenter work on the buildings, and Walter Clawson the masonry.

LITTLE BUILDING IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

Records in Such Condition That no Idea can Be Gained of Progress in 1913.

During the past three months the building business in North Plainfield has been very quiet. There have been only thirteen permits granted by the chairman of the building committee of the Borough Council. The majority of these were for minor repairs and alterations. Seven permits were issued during the month of November, three for frame dwellings, none of which cost more than $3,000; two for chicken houses, one for a tool house and one for a frame garage.

In December, six permits were granted, one of which was for the erection of a frame dwelling, one for a frame barn, and the other four for minor repairs and alterations.

There was not a request received for permits for either the erection of new buildings or for alterations for the month of January and up to the present time none have come in to be taken up at the Common Council meeting early in February.

Borough Clerk Dolliver, when asked about the possibility of getting enough facts about the building trade for the past year so that a summary could be compiled, stated that the methods used in granting building permits were inadequate for a town of its size as a request for a new structure or alteration is filed with the chairman of the building committee, upon which a poor description of the proposed work is given, with no estimated costs. The chairman of this committee inspects the plans and specifications of the proposed building and reports either favorably or unfavorably on it at the next Council meeting and is then authorized to grant a permit. In several cases that have been brought to the attention of the Daily Press representative, by the time that a request has been acted upon by the Council the work for which the permit is to be issued has been completed and if the governing body should act unfavorably on the request nothing could be done because the work has been completed.

Another bad feature of the present method used in the borough for the issuing of building permits is that during the course of construction of any structure there is no inspector to visit buildings so as to insure the required quality of work for the protection of property owners and builders of that town. The methods used are such that after the visit of the chairman of the building committee, who looks over the plans and specifications for buildings, a dishonest contractor or builder can erect structures that would be obnoxious to the residents of that section before the next Council meeting was held to order the work stopped. These methods are inadequate, as there should be an inspector of buildings so that the interests of the borough could to some extent be taken care of, and the restrictions made in certain sections of the town.

LOCAL MAN HAS INVENTED ARCHITECTS PRINTING FRAME

Besides being a registered architect, George H. Fisher, Jr., of Manson place, also possesses an inventive instinct that from time to time he puts to good use. His latest accomplishment is an article used for making blue prints. It consists of a 26½ inch by 43 inch printing frame on a steel track. The under side of the carriage is equipped with four small wheels, which fit on the thin edge of an angle steel frame. This steel frame which is about eight feet long is built half in and half outside of a window in his office, having a slight grade to each foot, with the highest point at the outermost end. The under side is fitted up with electrical appliances which when put in operation release the carriage and send it into the office.

The electrical appliances are governed by a clock, so arranged that any length of time, from a fraction of a minute to an hour, can be fixed at which the frame is released and the carriage aided by a slight pressure of a return spring, moves of its own accord into the room. The carriage is equipped with spring bumpers which prevent it from derailing when forced into the room.

Another attachment is for use in cold weather. When the required time of exposure is made with the window down, a buzzer rings until the frame has been taken into the room. This apparatus has not been patented but after given a thorough try-out, a patent will probably be applied for.

BARN ON WEST THIRD STREET.

A permit has been granted to Herman Smitch, of 922 West Third street, for the erection of a sixteen by twenty-two feet frame stable, one and a half stories high. The ground floor will have stalls and wagon room and the upper floor will be used for storage. The roof will be of the peaked type, covered with a rubberoid roofing. It is estimated that the building will cost about $360. Loper & Monroe will do the masonry work and Charles Drake the carpentering. The materials on the structure will be supplied by the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company.

JOHN S. DAHL GETS CONTRACT FOR BROOKLYN MAN'S HOUSE

John S. Dahl, of Woodland avenue, the Netherwood realty and building promoter, has been awarded the contract for the erection of a two story and attic frame dwelling for Oscar T. Smith, of Brooklyn, on Helena avenue, which will cost about $3,600. The exterior of the building below the belt will be faced with weatherboards, painted a light color, while above the belt the facing of the walls and roof will be of shingles, left natural. A large front veranda will be built across the entire structure, at the center of which will be the main entrance steps. The floor of the porch will be supported by hollow block piers which will extend to the level of the banister railings. On the top of these piers gray stone caps will support the short round columns holding the porch roof. The measurements of the building show a frontage of 24 feet and a depth of 38 feet.

In the cellar are a laundry equipped with double trays, a furnace room, a preserve closet and two coal bins. On the first floor there will be a living room, den, dining room, kitchen and at the rear of the house a dining porch and butlers' pantry. Four bedrooms, a bathroom and a large hall, will occupy the space on the second floor. The third floor will be used for storage.

All the rooms on both the first and second floors will be trimmed with a detailed trim of chestnut, finished natural, with birch doors and hardwood floors. The doors of the closets in each of the bedrooms will be fitted with full length French plate glass mirrors. The stairway from the first to the third floor which is of the open type will be built entirely of chestnut. The kitchen will be equipped with gas and coal ranges, a gas water heater, and white enameled sink. The bathroom will be fitted up with enameled tubs, and flat back square shaped side wall basin.

Mr. Dahl will do the carpenter work on the building. Fred L. Lancaster drew the plans for the structure; Walter Clawson, of Dunellen, will do the masonry and plastering work; Borman Brothers will install all the plumbing and gas piping; Charles Giebeler will install the hot-air heating system and will also do all the tinning and gutter and leader work. George W. Ord will wire the house for electric lights and will place the combination lighting fixtures; the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company will furnish all the mason material, lumber, millwork and interior decorative material.

It is expected that the building will be completed by May 1 when the owner will move to this city from Brooklyn.

MINOR ACTIVITIES IN CITY

MORE ACTIVITIES IN CITY . . . . .

Michael Mango, of 318 Richmond street, has been granted a permit by Building Inspector Doane for extensive alterations to the building occupied and owned by him. There will be an extension to the front, northwest side and rear. At the front of the building will be built a store, the northwesterly extension will contain three rooms while the rear addition will be one room. The measurements are front twenty-eight feet and depth thirty-seven feet. The rear extension will be about ten feet deep and will run the width of the house. The cost will be about $1,200.

John Kerwin will do all the masonry and plastering work and Charles Bicknell the carpentering.

John Carl, of 219 Lee place, has been granted a permit for alterations to his building at 322 Lee place. There will be a kitchen added to the rear of the present structure with measurements of fourteen by eleven feet and nine feet high. The extension will cost about $250.

A cement block foundation will be placed, upon which framework will be erected. The exterior will be faced with weather-boards and painted a light color. The roof of the alteration will be of five-ply rubberoid.

M. Thompson will do the masonry and plastering work and D. A. Avkon the carpentering. It is expected that the alterations will be completed by the latter part of next week.

Frank Sheriffo, of 1464 McCrea place, has been granted a permit to erect a cement hollow block, story and a half, structure at the rear of his property for a stable. The structure will be 16x24 feet and will cost about $400.

The side walls and gables will be of hollow cement blocks while the rafters and roof beams supporting a shingle roof will be of heavy timbers. The ground floor will be used as a wagon house and stall room while the second story will be used for the fodder storing. The flooring of both floors will be of heavy North Carolina yellow pine.

The owner will erect the building under his own supervision. The material used in the construction will be supplied by the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company.

INDICATIONS OF MUCH INCREASED ACTIVITY

Some Permits Granted—Why Contractors do Not Care for Winter Season Work.

The number of building permits issued this week confirms the predictions of the local architects, that after the fifteenth of January the building trade would have a large boom.

Although the number of permits granted do not total up to the average for last year there are numerous plans which have been drawn for proposed buildings and residences on which work will be started about March 1, or as soon as the frost gets out of the ground. The largest number of proposed new residences about which local contractors know will be erected in the East End section of the city including Netherwood.

When a local contractor was asked his opinion as to the cause of the falling off of work during the past month, he said that he could not answer that question definitely but he thought that the majority of the contractors feel that owing to the cold weather conditions under which the men have to work brings only a minimum amount of returns, and to make a contract pay the maximum must be received from those working on buildings. Because of the small amount of returns derived from the efforts of the men under their supervision several local contractors have come to the conclusion that, other than keeping a few of their steady and best skilled employes busy during the winter months, more money is lost than gained by winter work. He also said that although this was his opinion, there were others in the trade that would bid on job after job so as to have work all winter, but those contractors cut each others as well as their own throats, to land a contract. This, he said, does not pay and in the long run, either inferior work will be done or the contractors, if they put in high grade work, will lose more money than though they had not been awarded the contract.

The permits issued during the week, from noon last Friday to yesterday noon were

: Bloom Contracting Company, permit to erect a double frame structure, the front of the lower floor to be used as stores, the upper to be used as dwellings, at 501 and 503 West Fourth street. Cost $4,000. The plans and specifications call for a 44 by 65 feet, two story, flat roof, frame building, on a concrete foundation. F. L. Lancaster drew the plans and the Bloom Contracting Company will have charge of all the work.

John Carl, 219 Lee place, permit to make alterations to his property at 322 Lee place. Description elsewhere. Cost about $250.

Michael Mange, 318 and 320 Richmond street, permit to make alterations to his property at the above mentioned place. Description elsewhere. Cost about $1,200.

Herman Smitch, 922 West Third street, permit for erection of 16x22 feet frame barn. Loper & Monroe are the masons and Charles Drake the carpenter. The building will cost about $360.

ANOTHER $7,000 BUNGALOW ON NETHERWOOD AVENUE

George W. Nolte, of Grandview avenue, a local contractor, proposes to erect a frame dwelling on his property on Netherwood avenue, between East Front street and the brook, the work to be started about March 1. This building which will be of the semi-bungalow type, will cost its owner about $7,000.

In appearance the building will be the same as the one now being built for Armstrong Mulford, on Netherwood avenue, between East Front and East Second streets. The structure will be a story and a half in height and have on the first floor a living room, dining room, main entrance hallway, den, sun parlor, butlers' pantry, kitchen and large veranda across the front of the building. The second story will have three bedrooms, a bathroom and a large linen closet. The equipment used in the house will be of the very best quality.

In addition to this house, Mr. Nolte will erect two other dwellings on Netherwood avenue, between his property and the brook, the work on which will be started in the early spring.

HOUSE WAS RENTED BEFORE CONTRACTOR FINISHED WORK

A two and a half story, one-family frame dwelling is being erected at 231 Monroe avenue for Benjamin Israelsky, of 229 Monroe avenue. The building will be faced with weatherboard and shingles and will cost about $3,500. The weatherboarding on the exterior will be painted a light cream color, while the shingles above the belt line and on the roof will be left natural. There is a large front veranda supported by cement block piers to the level of the banister rail. In the centre of the first floor is a large low window, which extends into the front porch. The cellar walls are of cement hollow blocks.

On the first floor there will be a reception hall, parlor, dining-room, kitchen and butler's pantry. All the rooms on this floor will be trimmed with cypress, in detail, and will have North Carolina yellow pine floors.

Three bedrooms and a bathroom occupy the space of the second floor, while the top floor will be used for storage. The rooms on the second floor will also be trimmed with cypress, in detail, and have North Carolina yellow pine floors. The bathroom will have standard fixtures and a sanitary medicine case. The house will be heated by steam and has combination gas and electric lighting fixtures throughout. There is a laundry in the cellar.

Israelsky & Simen are doing the carpenter work; Walter Wyckoff the masonry and plastering work; Harry Taub, the plumbing, heating, piping for gas and all the tinning work; the Weed Electric Company wired the house for electric lights, and Nathan Gershenson did the painting and finishing of the interior decorations. The Plainfield Ice and Supply Company furnished the lumber used; the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, the millwork and interior trimming materials, and W. W. Wilson the cement hollow blocks.

It is expected that the building will be completed by February 15, so that the family that has already rented the place can move in by March 1.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are oblized to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals for the construction of the New Jersey State Building to be erected on the site selected on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific Interbational Exposition at San Francisco, California, from the plans and specifications prepared by the Department of Charities and Corrections, Mr. Hugh Roberts, Consulting Architect, will be received at the office of the State Treasurer, in the State House, at Trenton, New Jersey, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the 30th day of January, 1914, when they will be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be submitted sealed in opaque envelopes, addressed to the New Jersey Commission for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, care of the State Treasurer, and marked "Proposals for the New Jersey Building." Each proposal must be accompanied by cash or a certified check, drawn to the order of the State Treasurer, for ten per cent. of the amount thereof, as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract for the performance of the work, should his proposal be accepted, within a reasonable time thereafter. Each bidder must be prepared to furnish an acceptable Surety Bond for one-half the amount of the contract. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Plans and specifications may be obtained by application to the Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, State House, Trenton, New Jersey.

THE OFFICE SAFE.

The latest example of the looting of an office safe should convince everyone of the worthlessness of this sort of protection.

A safe deposit box rented in our Round Door Manganese Steel Vault offers absolute protection against every sort of hazard, and one's peace of mind resulting from the knowledge that one's valuables are safe no matter what contingency may arise, is worth many times the small rental paid.

Boxes of generous dimensions $5.00 per year, larger ones at proportionately higher rates.

HE WILL REGARD TUTTLE'S WISHES

So Says Senator James E. Martine Regarding Plainfield Postmastership.

ARE BEST OF FRIENDS

"Our Jim" Says Nothing Will Ever Come Between Him and Congressman—The Bound Brook Office Also Soon to Be Vacant.

Following the statement which was given out on Saturday by Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., regarding the Plainfield postmastership, United States Senator James E. Martine has also had something to say about the matter. Mr. Tuttle, as was told in Saturday's Daily Press, disclaimed further responsibility in the selection of a new postmaster for this city, and Senator Martine now declares that he will not recommend the appointment of any man that he knows will not suit Mr. Tuttle.

Both Congressman and Senator deny there was any friction between them. Mr. Martine said he and Mr. Tuttle were friends and would continue to be, while the Congressman said he turned over the postmastership question because he thought it was Mr. Martine's duty to make the selection for his home town.

"Although Mr. Tuttle has turned over the selection to me, with no restrictions, I want it understood that I plan to take no mean advantage nor will I appoint any man that I know would not suit Mr. Tuttle," said the Senator. "Mr. Tuttle and I have been the closest friends for many years and are friends now, and will be friends, I am confident, until the grave takes one or the other."

When the local Democrats learned on Saturday that Senator Martine had decided to take the matter into his own hands there was a lot of hustling around on their part, and they have decided to again urge upon the Senator that he have Patrick J. Reville appointed. They say that the Senator said some time ago that he favored Mr. Reville's appointment, but that he was going to let Congressman Tuttle settle the case and would not interfere with his election. Now Reville's friends are preparing to ask the Senator to make good on that alleged assertion, and have Mr. Reville named. It is generally expected that before the appointment is made the Senator will wish that he had let Mr. Tuttle name the appointee.

Selection of postmasters and the consequent worries and local ructions will be much on the minds of all of the New Jersey delegation in Congress for the next few months. An unusually large number of offices are due to become vacant before the end of April in several of the Congressional districts.

The contest in Bound Brook has more or less local interest. In that town Postmaster W. B. R. Mason is due to relinquish his $2,500 job April 21 and but one candidate, Joseph V. D. Field, is formally in the field. Mr. Walsh, who will do the recommending, has no doubt that quite a few more aspirants will make their appearance. At Whitehouse Station is a $1,100 office, which W. C. Swackhamer will vacate in April. D. L. Lare is the only candidate.

Of the several squabbles that will be up to Representatives Tuttle to settle in the near future, one of the bitterest is now waging in Wharton. Edward S. Hance will retire April 28. Former Councilman John H. Williams and County Committeeman William J. Downs are rivals for the $1,500 place.

FORMER LOCAL BOOTBLACK SUES FOR FALSE ARREST

Louis J. Skelly, who formerly conducted a shoe shining establishment in North avenue, has been arrested in New Brunswick, charged with larceny of $35 from Joseph Bill, of that place. Walter VanSyckel represented Skelly at a hearing which was held Saturday in New Brunswick, and which resulted in the prisoner being held to await the action of the Grand Jury. Edmund Hayes was attorney for the complainant.

Skelly has started a suit for false imprisonment against the accuser, and it is said that soon after his arrest he returned the money to "Joe" Bill.

CURRENT EVENTS MEETING.

Under the auspices of the Women's Current Event Circle of the First M. E. church, another meeting in the winter's series will be held in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The general subject will be "What the Women of the Day Are Doing As the Result of Our Wars of Independence." The speakers will be Mrs. William L. Libbey, of Princeton, vice president-general of the D. A. R., and Mrs. Mathias Steelman, of Elizabeth, State president of the United States Daughters of 1812.

THE KIKUYO INCIDENT THEME OF DISCOURSE

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring Shows the Need of Unity Among the Churches.

"The Kikuyo Incident," was the theme of Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring's discourse at the First Presbyterian church, last night, it being the third in a series on popular topics, in which a stronger tendency toward church unity is advocated. Dr. Herring said in part:

"Kikuyo is a little town in British East Africa that has become famous because of a religious conference held there which included priests of the English Church together with ministers of other denominations who met for the purpose of federating the Christian missionary forces of Africa.

"The tremendous growth of the Mahometan religion in East Africa led to the calling of this conference. Bishop Tucker, of the English Church, declares that these conditions make it imperative for the Christian Church, whether Episcopal, Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian, to move on to the conquest of Africa unitedly.

"A compact or agreement was made in which it was decided to recognize each other's baptism, to receive to communion members of other churches, to adopt a common scheme for instructing converts, to allow members of non-Anglican churches to preach in Anglican churches when invited, and to adopt a common form of service.

"It was for this compact that the Bishop of Zanzibar charged the Bishops of Mombasa and Uganda with heresy. 'Such a trial,' says one of the missionary secretaries of the Presbyterian Church, 'would be nothing less than a crime, for Bishop Tucker is not only a most lovable character but one of the greatest minds in the English Church today.'

"The agreement made in Africa for church unity is a suggestion for church unity in the church activities at home.

"Seth Low, a former mayor of New York, in a recent address in New York, said that 'Christian unity will be accomplished whenever Christians are ready to take the human view rather than the ecclesiastical view of their common relations and common obligations.'

"The Lord's Supper is frequently in the churches a very narrow service, a sort of wall of separation between denominations. It is too frequently regarded as a sacred institution for our own select religious coterie, and we say that it is for those of like faith with us, when we should regard it as the Lord's table. The conclusion of that service in Kikuyo ended with the Lord's Supper, the priests of the Anglican church with their bishops, united with Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and others in re-dedicating their lives to the Divine Master. There is a lesson in that which should profit the churches in the home field. It is the lesson that Mr. Low has phrased in these words, 'Communion in any church ought to be thrown open to all Christians.'"

LOCAL PEOPLE ATTEND SCHUSTER-OX WEDDING

Miss Esther Ox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Ox, of Elm street, Westfield, was married to Jacob Schuster, of New York, in the Westfield Auditorium, last night. Rabbi Davidson and Rabbi Cantor, of this city, officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by over one hundred relatives and friends who afterwards attended the reception which followed the wedding.

Harry Srelnik, of New York, was best man, and the following bridesmaids attended the bride: Miss Mildred Gestel, Miss Bessie Adelberg, Miss Lena Srelnik and Miss Anna Becker. Miss Harriet Fliesher was flower girl and J. Tilner, J. Dulno and E. Goodman acted as ushers.

A reception and dance followed the services and music was provided for the dancing by Professor Golding's orchestra, of New York. Guests were present from New York, Newark, Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Somerville, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Paterson and this city.

MARTHA WASHINGTON SUPPER.

Arrangements are being made by the women of the New Dover M. E. church, to hold a "Martha Washington Supper," Friday night, February 20, at the home of J. R. Lewis, of that place. The event will be an elaborate one and will include the rendition of an appropriate program of entertainment.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE.

The quartet choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist and choirmaster, will give a musical service, Sunday night, February 1, when parts of the oratorio, "The Holy City," will be sung. Cameron Smith, violinist, will assist.

ANNUAL MINSTRELS IN NEW AUDITORIUM

Plainfield High School Troupe Will Soon Begin Rehearsals.

Following many setbacks plans are now underway for the annual minstrel show to be presented by the Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association and the first rehearsal of the cast will be held in the Franklin School auditorium next Friday night. Thomas M. Muir, of professional minstrel fame, who coached the show last year, has been secured to act in a like capacity for the coming event and he will take charge of the play from the start.

Sewell Ulrich, who assisted in whipping the blackface artists into shape last year will devote his time to the performance again this season, and with two men such as Muir and Ulrich at the helm the show will probably set a precedent in P. H. S. minstrelsy.

The present state of affairs in the local High School caused by the building operations now being carried on has had much to do with the many setbacks and although an attempt has been made on several occasions to start the rehearsals nothing definite has been accomplished until the present time. Cortland Fleming, who has been selected as business manager, has now secured the Franklin School auditorium for Friday nights and the cast will be tried out and coached at that place.

The annual minstrel, if present arrangements are completed, will be the first entertainment presented in the new Plainfield High School Auditorium. A number of those who starred in last year's performance are still in the school and with these as a nucleus a good cast will probably be forthcoming.

MAYOR TO APPOINT ADDITIONAL FIREMEN

Fire Chief Doane Recommends Four Men for Service in the Local Department.

Otto Gunther, Harry Hann, Frank Schroepher and Harry Wierenga have passed the required examination and Fire Chief T. O. Doane has sent their names to Mayor Percy H. Stewart, through the fire and buildings committee of the Common Council, which comprises the fire board, for appointment as regular firemen and it is expected that the four named men will be appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by the Council.

The need of more men in the fire department is required by reason of the fact that the city has purchased an automobile fire engine which is due to arrive in Plainfield next week at the latest. This will require an experienced driver, and while Mr. Gunther will be appointed as a regular fireman, it is believed that because of his experience in operating automobiles, he will be assigned to the new apparatus, while the additional men will be used to operate the same.

TOOK MAN'S VALUABLES AND HOUSEKEEPER; ARRESTED

Charles Milford, colored, a married man, of Plainfield avenue, is under arrest in Rahway, charged with stealing clothing and a gold watch valued at $50 from Thomas Jones, also colored, with whom he boarded. When he is brought to this city this afternoon his wife will make a charge of desertion against him as she claims that when he absconded with the loot, he took with him Jones' housekeeper, Sarah Green, colored, with whom the police say he has been living in Rahway.

Jones was informed by a friend that Milford had stolen his property and gone to Rahway. The victim of the alleged thefts went to that city yesterday and had Milford arrested.

'THE DOCTRINE OF THE TRINITY'

"Is Fundamental and Distinctive to the Christian Religion," Says Dr. Strong.

GRIPS MEN'S HEARTS

Precious Doctrine Cannot Be Analyzed Because of Limited Capacity to Grasp Things of Eternity, Declares Preacher.

"The Doctrine of the Trinity," was the theme of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong's discourse at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning, using as a text, Mark 1:10-11, "And straitway coming out of the water, He (Jesus) saw the Heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon Him and there came a voice from Heaven saying, 'This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.'"

"The doctrine of the Trinity is fundamental and distinctive to the Christian religion and it is that which gives to the Christian religion its power to grip the hearts of men, to regenerate sinners, and to press on victorously to the ultimate conquest of the world," said Dr. Strong. "Can this precious doctrine be analyzed and explained by human intellect? No, no more than God himself can be explained and understood fully, because of our limited capacity to grasp the things of eternity and infinity.

"However, a little thought on the subject will prove that it is not logically incredible, that psychologically it is reasonable, that theologically it is self-sustaining, and our religious existence confirms it as unspeakably precious. It has been said that mathematically the Trinity is an impossibility, and that 'figures don't lie.' Life, however, plays havoc with arithmetic. It depends upon what things you are dealing with whether 1 and 1 are 2 or not. In the world of chemistry over and over we find 1 and 1 are 1, and in practical life a score of instances might be cited of the same principle.

"Psychologically, the doctrine of the Trinity is profoundly reasonable. The lower the form of life the simpler are the organic functions, and obversely, the higher the form of life, as in man, the more complex is his nature, yet that very complexity blending into the one personality. There is also the dual personality in human life, illustrated to greater or less degree in every life; more particularly as in 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.'

"Theologically, the doctrine of the Triune God is self-substantiating. The Christian delights to believe that God is love. The Mohammedan, to whom this precious doctrine is most abhorrent, knows not such a thing as a God of love. Why? Because his God is solitary and passive. Love could not exist in such a God. Love must have an object, and this fact demands a triune personality of the Deity. Before the creation of man Jehovah loved. Again, He could not have revealed Himself save through His other self, Jesus Christ. Nor could any but God (Jehovah Christ) have atoned for sins against God.

"Practically, most of us first loved Jesus Christ our Savior for His great sacrifice in our behalf on Calvary. But He was no more willing to atone for our sins than the Father was to give Him, and so we come to learn to draw near to a loving Father, because 'He so loved that He gave,' etc. But again, we should never have known about either of them but for the Holy Spirit who made them known and who draws our hearts Godward, and works in them to make us do God's will.

"And so we come to love the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit. The heart craves this doctrine, rejoices in it, glorifies in it, without which the great church universal would be nerveless and powerless to reach a lost race and bring them to redemption and to their God." Next Sunday morning Dr. Strong will preach a companion sermon to the one on "The Trinity," entitled, "The Dual Nature of Jesus Christ."

LONDON LABOR TROUBLES.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

London, Jan. 26—The second week of London's labor troubles began today with a lockout of all the building trades workmen who refused to subscribe to the "open shop" system. In addition to the fuel famine arising from the strike of coal van drivers and porters, practically all building operations were brought to a halt by the refusal of the masters to allow the union workmen to resume their duties.

WILL CONSIDER LICENSE APPLICATIONS

Believed That Common Council Will Take Action at Tonight's Meeting.

The Common Council will meet tonight in adjourned session for the purpose of considering and possibly acting on the applications for liquor licenses. That is the purpose for which the meeting was called and it is quite likely that action will be taken on the applications. The present licenses do not expire until March 1, but through an ordinance adopted last year arrangements were made to fix the date of action earlier in the year so that in case an applicant failed to get a license he would have ample time to dispose of his stock of liquors. In the case of Chris. Gloekner, who lost his license, it was claimed that he did not have time to get rid of his liquors.

While the policy of the Council so far as retail licenses are concerned has been settled, in that it has been decided not to increase the number, there are five new wholesale applications before the Council. In view of the action taken at the mass meeting in the Y. M. C. A., last Friday night, there seems to be a belief that no additional wholesale licenses will be granted, although considerable pressure has been brought to bear in that direction by those who favor another wholesale place.

JOHNSON PICKED TO HEAD COUNTY SCHOOLS

Cranford Man Will Succeed Dr. Savitz, Who Retains Westfield Place.

Dr. A. L. Johnson, of Cranford, superintendent of the public schools there for several years, has been selected as county superintendent of the Union county schools, succeeding Dr. J. J. Savitz, of Westfield. The State Board of Education will confirm the appointment at its next meeting, to be held in Trenton, February 7.

The appointment of Dr. Johnson was made by State Commissioner of Education Kendall and it is a foregone conclusion that it will be confirmed.

Under a new State law, Dr. Savitz, at present superintendent of the Westfield schools, could not hold both the county and town office. He elected to give up the county superintendency and accordingly was not a candidate for the county berth.

CRACK POSTOFFICE SAFE AT PENNINGTON, GET $400

Trenton, Jan. 26.—Yeggmen broke into the postoffice at Pennington, blew open the safe and made away with $400 in postage stamps and money early Saturday. They left no clue as to their identity, but police authorities of all neighboring municipalities have been notified to be on the lookout.

The robbery was committed at about 4 o'clock in the morning. Entrance to the postoffice was effected by breaking open a panel in a rear door. The yeggmen then proceeded to blow open the safe without interference.

SUNDAY EVENING SERMONS.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, has announced a series of "Pleasant Sunday Evening Sermons," the first of which was given last night, the topic being "Smile Awhile." The succeeding topics are as follows: February 1, "The Growth of Christian Endeavor;" February 8, "Abraham Lincoln;" February 15, "The Faith of Those Who Founded Our Nation;" February 22, "Are You Ready For God to Save You."

RESUME RATE HEARINGS.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Jan. 26.—Resuming the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the application of the eastern railroads for a five per cent. advance in freight rates today, representatives of the independent oil refiners appeared. They asserted that the advances in the rates would discriminate against them in favor of the Standard Oil Company, which has the facilities to transport oil in pipe lines.

UNION SOCIETY MEETING.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Francis K. Anderson, 114 Richmond street. The topic will be "The Dry Dock of a Thousand Wrecks," to be presented by Miss Helen Armstrong. Mrs. David Sutphen will have charge of the devotional exercises.

DR. EATON EULOGIZED NEW YORK'S MAYOR

Watchung Resident Was Speaker Before Lotus Club In Metropolis.

On Saturday evening the Lotos Club tendered a complimentary dinner to Mayor John Purroy Mitchel at which Dr. Charles A. Eaton was one of the speakers. Dr. Eaton said in part:

"The Mayor of New York holds a position second in this country only to that of the President of the United States in responsibility and power for good or ill. It is a place of unique dignity, danger and difficulty. No one but a good man can understand its temptations, none but a strong and wise man can resist them.

"Nothing in New York is what it seems to be. Back of and beneath the most innocent appearing of public questions there lies the possibility of ruin and defeat for the man who tries to solve them. The man hunt is a favorable form of sport in all political circles. Every known and unknown political beast of prey prowls the shadowy jungles of the invisible empire of self interest. They hunt in packs and they hunt alone. Their scent for blood is keen. They are always hungry and always cruel.

"But there is another side to the picture. Mayor Mitchel is much more than the Chief Magistrate of the city. He and his elected colleagues are symbols of an extraordinary political regeneration, which has been in process among us for some time and to which the late Mayor Gaynor gave a tremendous impulse. New York with its five millions of people contains almost every variety of interest and opinion. It is more polyglot than ancient Babel. Class consciousness is acute and antagonistic. Racial and religious animosities are always glowing like a smouldering fire ready to break into flame. Everything tends to separate class from class and individual from individual. Yet in the last election this vast city, in spite of these difficult conditions, actually achieved a cohesive public opinion and a common moral standard. This amounts almost to a social miracle. It marks the dawn of a new and better day and is an omen of hope for the triumph of all that is best in life.

"When God liberates a new energy or kindles an age with a new idea, He always uses a man or men as champions and guardians of His purpose. The new energy in New York is an awakened civic conscience. The new idea is the conviction that in a city the good of one is the good of all. City government is either good or bad. Its party affiliations have no value.

"To the guardianship of these new ideas, ideals and energies Mr. Mitchel has been called by the choice of the people. While he administers our material affairs he must at the same time educate us in civic intelligence and inspire us to observe our civic duty. And in this great task he deserves and must have the friendship, the counsel and the moral support of every good citizen."

C. C. Wheeler, of Watchung, also attended the dinner.

MARTINE'S APPOINTEE SAYS HE'LL TAKE INCOME TAX JOB

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—Will he or will he not? That's the question just now bothering Senator Martine about J. F. Zerega, of Plainfield, for whom the Senator obtained an option on one of the six deputy-collectorships under the income tax division of the New Jersey internal revenue collecting service.

From a letter sent by Mr. Zerega the other day, in which he deprecated the low salary of the office—$1,200 a year— and explained that he needed more than that, Senator Martine understood Zerega had declined the office. Saturday there came a letter to Representative Tuttle, of the Fifth District, and on the strength of what Mr. Zerega wrote to him Tuttle assured Senator Martine that Zerega had reconsidered and would take the place.

But so far the Senator has received no other word from the appointee except the first letter, construed as a declination. As for the rest of the half dozen appointees the Senator has heard nothing to make him believe they will turn down the positions.

"A LUMBER-JACK MEETING."

The Young People's Society of the Congregational church held a social service, last night, the subject of which was "A Lumber-Jack Meeting." Miss Ethel VanZandt read a paper on "The Sky Pilot of the Lumber-Jacks," and there were readings from Norman Duncan's stirring novel, "A Man's Christian," the life of Rev. Frank Higgins, the fearless, fighting missionary of the Minnesota woods. Donald F. Updike was the leader of the meeting.

FIREMEN SAVED DOOMED STABLE

MANY HORSES RESCUED

Loss by Fire and Water to Adam C. Blair's Livery Stables on West Sixth Street Estimated by Chief Doane to Be $5,000.

Fire which resulted in a loss estimated by Fire Chief Doane at $3,000 was discovered in the livery stable of Adam C. Blair, on West Sixth street, at 3:45 o'clock yesterday morning, by Mrs. Blair, the wife of the proprietor, who was awakened by her little daughter who had been startled by a vivid light shining in the window. Mrs. Blair saw flames shooting from her husband's livery stable on West Sixth street and she immediately notified those then in charge of the stable.

Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy, who was on duty in Watchung avenue at the time, saw the reflection in the sky and pulled box 25 which is nearly one half mile from the livery stable. When Chief Doane arrived he pulled box 35 and this brought the apparatus from the West End and all fought the blaze for nearly five hours, the recall being sounded at 8:45.

Twenty tons of hay and nearly the same quantity of straw had become ignited and the flames and smoke were shooting through the roof when the firemen arrived. The hay burned with a crimson glow and the reflection in the sky was visible for miles around. Upon their arrival the firemen immediately concentrated their efforts on rescuing the twenty-two horses in the stalls on the first floor below the point where the fire raged fiercest. The animals were all in a frantic state when Firemen Fitzpatrick, Gaub and Freeman forced their way through the smoke and heat to where they were.

Mr. Blair made his way to the stall of his prize racing horse, "Aaron B," and was bringing the $1,500 animal into the open when the trio of firemen forced their way into the building. Valiant work was accomplished by these three men in getting the animals to safety and the rescuers had several narrow escapes from serious injuries. In one instance Fitzpatrick was knocked down by one of the prancing animals and those nearby at the time stated that his escape from death was little short of miraculous. Fitzpatrick, Gaub and Freeman stuck to the task of releasing the animals until they had turned everyone of the twenty-two steeds into the street, and Chief Doane and others near at hand at the time of the rescue work were loud in their praise of the excellent work accomplished by this trio.

After pulling the alarm, Patrolman McCarthy went to the fire where he was met by Patrolman McGinley. Both did excellent work in the rescue line and Mr. Blair commended them highly to Chief of Police Kiely this morning.

Several of the animals wandered up Division street and then suddenly turned and ran back to the stable. They were still in a wild state and a number of those near the stable doors narrowly escaped being trampled on. The policemen and firemen turned them away, however, and they ran wild about the city for the rest of the night. Several of them went as far as Bound Brook and late yesterday afternoon the last two missing were located at Chimney Rock.

When the firemen arrived on the scene the entire roof of the building was a mass of flames and to the many spectators who gathered the building appeared doomed. The brick walls retained the heat and smoke and the firemen experienced considerable difficulty in getting at the heart of the flames. When the tons of hay and straw became fully ignited the second floor of the barn resembled a huge furnace and the heat soon caused the roof of the building to collapse. A number of firemen near the flames when the roof gave way had narrow escapes from serious injuries and other narrow escapes were recorded when the side walls of a portion of the stables fell out.

Chief Doane and his men suffered intensely from the cold and many of the fire fighters were soaked to the skin by the tons of water which were thrown on the blaze. When seen today Chief Doane attributed the cause of the blaze to a defective wire or a spark jumping from a motor used in the building.

Conditions such as presented themselves at this blaze ordinarily result in a complete loss to building and contents and the fact that the interior of the structure was not completely gutted reflects credit on the work of the firemen and those in command of the fire-fighting forces. The front part of the building was saved from both water and flame and the office of Mr. Blair was practically untouched. In the office were hun-

Excitement was afforded the spectators and enjoyment to the participants by a bat fight which occurred in the Parish House, Saturday. Several of the younger members were playing on the gym floor with two basketballs when a bat flew in one of the windows and commenced to encircle the room. Two of the small lads immediately went to the balcony at the southeast end of the gym; where the pool table and its accessories are and picked up two cues. Every time the bat would circle over the balcony one of these lads would make a pass and try to hit it, while the other boys on the gym floor would try to hit the bird with the basketball when it passed over them. After about twenty minutes of this sort of amusement Hoagland Robinson hit it with a pool cure, knocking it into the top of an old grandfather's clock which stands against the rear wall of the balcony. The bat was then easily despatched. Several young girls, who were witnessing the affair and were afraid that the bat would lodge in their hair, added to the excitement of the chase.

HUERTA FACES REVOLT OF ARMY

Realizes That Unpaid Troops Cannot Be Loyal.

UNABLE TO GET MUNITION

President Wilson Plans to Outline to Members on Foreign Relations His Emergency Mexican Policy—Commission Board May Replace General Huerta.

Mexico City, Jan. 26.—Signs of the approaching downfall of the Huerta regime abound here. On the same day as the publication of the decree suspending payment of interest on the national debt the government acknowledged that the federal troops in Monterey had not been paid for lack of funds, but that the bankers, hacendados and merchants of that city had "spontaneously" contributed the sum necessary and that the hacendados, bankers and merchants of San Luis Potosi, Aguascalientes and Zacatecas had with like spontaneity offered the government all their horses and other live stock for the maintenance of the forces in those regions and money for the payment of the soldiers. On the same day came the report that the federal garrison of Guaymas, numbering 600, had revolted and turned the town over to the rebels, who are now in full possession.

The truth is that the immediate menace facing Huerta is a military revolt, and he realizes that loyalty cannot be looked for from an unpaid army. With the government already in arrears with many commands, there was no prospect of its being able to meet the payroll at the end of the month. To meet so desperate a situation desperate action had to be taken; hence the decree suspending for six months payment of interest on the national debt and diverting the customs collections pledged to the payment of that interest to military purposes. The government hopes that the $9,000,000 thus left free will enable it to put down the revolt.

Emergency Policy Outlined.

Washington, Jan. 26.—President Wilson is expected to outline to the members of the senate committee on foreign relations an emergency Mexican policy.

There are reports here that the administration does not regard General Carranza or General Villa as able enough to assume the reins of government and that they will not be permitted to take hold of the presidency in the event of the downfall or resignation of Provisional President Huerta.

There has been a calm here for three weeks regarding the Mexican situation, and now that the president is to outline his emergency policy to the senate committee it is regarded as a calm that precedes the storm. The policy is expected to provide for all eventualities.

It is generally credited here that John Lind is now discussing with Jesus Flores Magon, formerly minister of the interior of Mexico, the question of a provisional president to succeed Huerta. Many officials of the state department admit that they no longer place faith in the ability of General Carranza, Constitutionalist chief, to command the situation.

At the headquarters of the Constitutionalists in this city it was said that dispatches reaching here indicated that Cuban and Mexican newspapers generally printed reports that Huerta was about to resign. These reports also stated that there was a likelihood that a board of government consisting of Federico Gaulloa, Jesus Flores Magon and Pascual Lunay Parra would be organized to take over the administration of Mexico.

The Constitutionalist advices also were to the effect that General Salvador Alvarado, Constitutionalist commander of the troops besieging Guaymas, arrived at Hermosillo with many federal deserters and arms and ammunition. The inhabitants of the city are reported to be in a desperate condition

SEVENTEEN YACHTS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Pulitzer's Mystery Is Among the Boats Lost.

Port Washington, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Many valuable hydroplanes, sloops and speedy cruising boats stripped and laid up for the winter were destroyed in a fire which burned to the ground the plant of the Stationary and Marine Motor and Supply company. The total loss, including the boats and the plant, was estimated by Arthur W. Jones, treasurer of the company, at $200,000.

Among the boats which were stored in the building was Ralph Pulitzer's Mystery, valued at $15,000, and the Bullet, an eighty foot boat, valued at $25,000, belonging to Thomas B. Taylor. Mr. Pulitzer used the Mystery to carry him between his summer home at the upper end of Manhasset bay and New York. Mr. Taylor also lost another boat, the Flyaway.

Mr. Taylor was in the office at 9 o'clock when he heard a crackling in the machine shop. He found the outer wall on fire. By the time he had telephoned an alarm the fire had spread so rapidly that he had to leave his coat behind in escaping. In a few moments the fire had enveloped the whole building.

The nearest hydrant was 2,000 feet away, so the three fire companies had to run a hand engine down to the water and pump from there. They could do little more than save some of the boats stored outside the building. Within an hour the roof and walls fell in.

The Port Washington and Manhasset Bay Yacht clubs, which are on either side of the burned building, were threatened.

Thomas Lillis, president of the motor company, is the heaviest loser. He lost a boat, the L'Amanola; all the machinery of the shop, valued at $20,000, and about thirty assembled motors and castings.

JUROR HELPS INDICT HIMSELF

Then Pleads Guilty In Court and Saves the Lawyers Trouble.

St. Marys, W. Va., Jan. 26.—James Severn on the charge of disturbing religious worship was indicted by the grand jury on which he was serving He was forced with the others to deliberate over his own indictment. Lawyers declare that such a thing never happened before.

Severn pleaded guilty to the charge at a trial before Judge Woods. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs and to undergo three months' imprisonment The imprisonment was suspended on condition of Severn's good behavior

The case at first puzzled attorneys but Severn cleared the matter by admitting his guilt.

AVIATOR KILLED.

George L. Temple, First to Fly Upside Down, Is Killed.

London, Jan. 26.—George Lee Temple, the well known English aviator and who was the first to fly "upside down" in this country, met with an accident at the Hendon aerodrome and was instantly killed.

Mr. Temple had been doing "spirals" when he was seen to descend very rapidly. His machine was found completely overturned, with the aviator still in his seat with his neck broken.

Mr. Temple was twenty-two years old and a remarkably daring aviator. This is the first fatal accident at Hendon for two years.

Suicide In State Hospital.

Middletown, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Mary Dernish, who was committed to the State hospital here several years ago from Haverstraw, committed suicide there. She knotted one of her stockings about her neck, fastened the other end to the window sill and strangled herself.

Weather Forecast.

GOETHALS IS NOT READY TO ACCEPT

Wants to Finish Work on Canal First.

TASK MAY LAST UNTIL 1916

Nothing Is Decided as Yet, He Says. Mayor Mitchel Will See President Wilson, if Necessary, to Secure New Head of Police.

OPPOSING VIEWS ON GOETHALS ACCEPTANCE.

"Colonel Goethals will be the first 'irremovable police commissioner.' There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that he will be the next commissioner. I have his own written word that he will come if certain conditions are complied with. I am willing to wait several months if necessary. I think his work in the Panama canal will be completed in a few months."—Mayor Mitchel.

"I will have to refuse the appointment if Mr. Mitchel has announced it. I adhere to my former statement that I will not accept the police commissionership or any other post until the Panama canal is completed. My earnest wish is to stay until the canal is completed."—Colonel Goethals.

"I have been working on plans for territorial government of the canal. I have worked upon the assumption that the governorship would be offered Colonel Goethals. He is an army officer. An army officer, you know, always obeys orders."—Mr. Garrison, Secretary of War.

New York, Jan. 26.—It has become apparent that Colonel George W. Goethals will not become police commissioner until the Panama canal is completed.

While Mayor Mitchel was reiterating in this city that he expected Mr. Goethals to be the next commissioner within a few months, the colonel stated in Panama that he could not be induced to leave his canal work until it was completed. That will not be, it is estimated, until 1915.

Told that Mayor Mitchel had virtually announced his appointment as police commissioner, Colonel Goethals said:

"I will have to refuse to accept if the mayor has announced my appointment. I adhere to my previous statement that I will not accept the police commissionership of New York or any other post until the Panama canal is finished. Nothing has been decided."

Between Two Fires.

Colonel Goethals finds himself between two fires. Mayor Mitchell on the one hand is pressing him to become commissioner of police, while on the other hand the authorities in Washington, especially the secretary of war, supposedly at the behest of President Wilson, are ready to influence him to remain in Panama.

Colonel Goethals is to arrive in Washington next month to discuss with members of the house appropriations for the canal for the year. President Wilson, it is stated, intends to name Colonel Goethals the governor of Panama.

Legislators at Albany seriously question whether Mr. Mitchel will be able to obtain legislation to make the police commissioner of New York irremovable. Colonel Goethals, it has been stated, will accept only in the event of this legislative enactment.

Mayor Mitchel says he will go to Washington to see President Wilson, if necessary, in an effort to influence Mr. Wilson and the cabinet to make it possible for Colonel Goethals to accept the police commissionership.

Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, who is in this city, intimated that Colonel Goethals will not be the next police commissioner.

"I have been working for some time," he said, "for the establishment of territorial government in the zone. I have worked on the assumption that Colonel Goethals would be named. He is an army officer, and army officers always obey orders."

SPEER AMONG ENEMIES.

Sensational Developments Expected at Savannah Hearing.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 26.—The committee investigating the charges of official misconduct against United States Judge Emory Speer left for Savannah, where further hearings are to be held. One week more, the committee believes, will be sufficient to take the important evidence. Attorney General T. S. Felder will probably be one of the first witnesses called.

Judge Speer's bitterest enemies are said to be in the eastern division of this circuit, and sensational developments are expected during the week.

The government's investigator, R. Colton Lewis, it is expected, will show further "family relations" in the operation of Judge Speer's court. Chairman Webb denied today that the committee had formed the opinion that the evidence produced had satisfied them that there was ground for impeachment proceedings.

Julia Flake Inherits All.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 26.—Julia Flake, the fifteen-year-old girl who plotted to have her mother killed in order to marry her stepfather, was the sole beneficiary of her mother's will, which was read. Robert Higgins, the girl's stepfather, who confessed that he killed his wife, received nothing.

CRANKS AT SEA.

Some of the Things With Which Captains Have to Contend.

"Panic, more or less suppressed, seizes many passengers on an ocean liner when anything out of the ordinary happens," said the ship's officer. "Often they are cranks who seem to be obsessed with the belief that their opinions will help navigate the ship, and who pursue the engineer or the captain with incessant advice.

"On our last trip, which was very rough, one old gentleman tried to reach the bridge where the captain was and had to be halted by force.

"'But I want to ask the captain about the crew,' he fumed. 'Is the crew trustworthy? What shall we do if we sink? What shall I tell my wife?'

"Two sailors were detailed to take him below with instructions to remain and answer his questions.

"When we reached port his first act was to call on the president of the steamship company for the purpose of giving notice that he would never travel on another ship of their line. Said he:

"'It was only by a miracle that any of your passengers reached port at all. In the midst of all that storm, with the sea threatening to swallow us all, your captain slunk away where not a soul could reach him.

"'I call that negligence!'"—New York Times.

LOST HIS OWN CASE.

An Unfortunate Contradiction That Queered Him In Court.

A Cleveland lawyer tells a story about a woman from the country who wanted a divorce. When the case got into court the judge, disregarding for the moment the technical grounds, tried to find out the real reason for the lady's desire to be separated from the man she had lived with for so many years. The man himself was in court with a lawyer, and it looked as if he was going to fight the case.

"Mrs. Dash," said the judge, "tell me what fault you have to find with your husband."

"He is a liar, a brute, a thief and a brainless fool!" answered the lady promptly.

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed his honor. "You could hardly prove all that."

"Prove it? Why, everybody knows it!"

"If you knew it, why did you marry him?"

"I didn't know it before I married him."

Then the husband spoke for the first time.

"She did, too!" he shouted.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Answered the Call.

Floors castle, home of the Duke of Roxburghe, was the scene of a curious psychical mystery over a century ago. Sir Walter Scott relates the incident. John, third Duke of Roxburghe, who died in 1804, the celebrated book collector, when arranging his library employed neither a secretary nor a librarian, but a footman called Archie, who knew every book as a shepherd does each sheep of his flock. There was a bell hung in the duke's room at Floors which was used on no occasion except to call Archie to his study. The duke died in St. James' square at a time when Archie was himself sinking under a mortal complaint. On the day of the funeral the library bell suddenly rang violently. The dying Archie sat up in bed and faltered, "Yes, my lord duke, yes, I will wait on your grace instantly." And with these words on his lips he fell back in bed and died.—St. James' Gazette.

No Joke at All.

Reginald came into the club in a highly excited state one afternoon and drew an acquaintance aside into a corner of the lounge.

"What do you think?" said he. "I went to see that broker fellow Rosenwasser and asked for a loan of $1,000 to tide me over. If you'll believe me the bounder said all he could spare was 50 cents."

"Joke! You call it a joke, do you? Look here! Here's the 50 cents."—New York Post.

Rough on Ellen.

Among the quaint scrapbooks of the late Clyde Fitch there was one devoted entirely to typographical errors.

One of these errors appeared in a criticism of Ellen Terry. The reviewer wrote, "Her love of Portia made acting easy." The sentence appeared in the paper as 'Her love of port made acting easy.'"—Florida Times-Union.

Satire.

Satire is a sort of glass wherein beholders do generally discover everybody's face but their own, which is the chief reason for that kind reception it meets with in the world.—Swift.

The world would be both better and brighter if we would dwell on the duty of happiness as well as on the happiness of duty. Sir John Lubbock.

Plainfield, N. J., January 26, 1914.

Ralph L. Morrow tendered his resignation as editor of the Plainfield Daily Press on Saturday last at which time he also severed his connection with the Plainfield Press Company. He was the chief editor for twelve years, ten of which were spent under the ownership of Albert L. Force and the balance under the present management. Mr. Morrow was an efficient, versatile wide-awake editor, thoroughly acquainted with Plainfield and always alive to its best interests. His retirement was for personal reasons, and he leaves with our best wishes for his future success. His health has not been good for some months and before resuming active editorial work he plans to take a period of rest. The relations with Mr. Morrow are severed with the regret of every member of the staff.

THE NEW COUNTY IDEA.

The Chamber of Commerce has decided to start work at once to create a new county, with Plainfield as the county seat, and have named as a committee to do the work a number of aggressive, hard working public spirited men. Without doubt the people of the communities that it is proposed to take into the county can see advantage in the formation of a new sub-division of the State. While it might be an advantage to those communities, it must be borne in mind that it will be a decided disadvantage to the other counties affected, and they have representatives in the Legislature who can, in our opinion, effectively prevent the passage of any legislation looking to the formation of a new county. It also must be borne in mind that if such a county is formed the tax burden is liable to go up, rather than come down, and when the pocketbooks of taxpayers are affected trouble commences. The erection of county buildings and creation of innumerable new officers, many of whom would draw good salaries, would pile up an enormous expense, which would have to be borne annually by the people of what would be one of the smallest subdivisions in the state.

It has been said that the Daily Press is opposed to the proposition, because we have pointed out some of the difficulties to be encountered. The Daily Press favors anything that the people of Plainfield and surrounding towns may want. Were the matter submitted to a referendum this paper would throw open its columns to both the advocates and the opponents of the plan, as is always its rule, but the matter is in entirely too doubtful a state for anyone, except possibly the promoters, to give it serious thought. When the matter becomes one of legislation, with members of the Legislature prepared to father the bill, it will be time enough to think seriously about it. If an enabling act could be put through the Legislature at all it would have a referendum attached, making the people determine the matter for themselves. If the vote were taken throughout the three counties affected, it is safe to predict that it would be beaten, but if left to the voters of the communities it is proposed to put in the new county, it is equally safe to predict that it would be carried.

THE JURY LAW DECISION.

The Court of Errors and Appeals, by the decision on the Jury Reform law, has relieved the Legislature of what gave promise of being one of the hardest tasks of the 1914 session. Everyone remembers the effort made by President Wilson, while he was Governor, and after that by Governor Fielder, to secure a new method of drawing juries, so that the corrupt conditions in Hudson, Atlantic and other counties of the State could be corrected. The fight at the last session of the Legislature to pass the Chancellor-Sheriff bill as it was called, is still fresh in the minds of the people. It provided that juries of all kinds should be drawn by the sheriff of each county and a second man of the opposite political faith acting with the sheriff, thus depriving the latter official of much of the arbitrary power formerly vested in him.

As soon as the law became effective by a referendum vote of the people of the State it was taken into the courts, and Justice Swayze, in the Supreme Court, gave a decision that it was unconstitutional. On the strength of that opinion the old method of drawing juries was resorted to, and now the final decision again places the new law in force.

The decision is one of the best things for good government that has happened in many years, and will help more to take the administration of justice out of politics, and to have honest grand juries, than anything that has ever been done in New Jersey. We, of Union county, have been fortunate in this particular, for all of the sheriffs have been honest men, who have done their full duty, but in some of the counties of the State the things that have been permitted to go on have been worse than scandalous because of sheriff-drawn grand juries which have failed in their duty.

The decision has clarified the atmosphere greatly, but the Chancellor-Sheriff law is still said to be imperfect. This the present Legislature can correct, but as the matters for correction are of minor importance, the prospects are that all will be adjusted with little or no difficulty, and the people of the State will at last have the great privilege of being freed from politician controlled juries.

NO MORE LICENSES.

If there was any doubt about the need of more wholesale liquor licenses being granted in Plainfield, last Friday night's meeting should settle it. All sorts of pleading on the part of the chairman that someone say in a word in favor of another wholesale license was in vain, and the group of representative citizens who gathered at the meeting were compelled to sit and listen to the strongest kind of argument against more being granted. Any councilman who still insists that more wholesale places are needed here after hearing what Henry W. Herrmann and Rev. B. M. Bogan had to say at that meeting, must have a very confused idea of local sentiment.

We were inclined to lean toward Councilman Calkins theory that there is great question as to whether or not another license should be granted here, but when no one was willing to appear and show why such a license is needed, there is only one way to look at the matter. Coucilman Calkins said that he would like to see the question settled once and for all. The meeting at the High School a year ago settled the retail question and the meeting on Friday at the Y. M. C. A. settled the wholesale question. That is all there is to it.

The Daily Press will commence within a very few days, the publication of a serial story, the first that has appeared in its columns in over two years. Serials, unless they are based on current plays, or are by writers of more than passing prominence, make very dry reading, but we have secured "Seven Keys to Baldpate," founded on the successful play of that name now running in New York, and we feel sure that it will interest and entertain a large number of our big family of loyal readers.

Perhaps we may be wrong, but we suspect that Senator Martine has unconsciously gotten himself into a peck of trouble on account of the local postmastership. He will have to do a whole lot of explaining to the friends of some of the men who sought the office, and it would have been much easier for him to have let Congressman Tuttle take the blame for anything unsatisfactory than for the Senator to have to try to pacify his neighbors at home.

The annual dinner of the Board of Trade, which will be held at Columbus Hall on Thursday, February 19, promises to be one the biggest events of the kind ever held in this city.

AMATEUR WRITERS FORM AN ASSOCIATION

The first annual convention of The Jersey Journalists' Association, comprising amateur writers from all parts of the State, was held at the home of Herman B. J. Weckstein, 142 Howard street, Newark, Saturday afternoon, with a large attendance of prospective members. Mr. Weckstein was chosen temporary chairman, after which a constitution and by-laws was adopted and these officers elected:

President, Harry W. Swivel, Plainfield; vice-president, Miss A. Georgia Draper, Montclair; secretary, Jacob A. Kalter, Newark; treasurer, L. Burton Crane, Jr., Elizabeth; official editor, Herman B. Weckstein, Newark; historian, Harry J. Knecht, Newark.

Following the electoin, Mr. Swivel made a brief address asking for the co-operation of the members in making the new organization a success. He was formerly engaged in newspaper work at Kingston, N. Y., and is now editor of The American Patroit published at Atlantic City, and associate editor of Modern Youth, of Richwood, Minn. Mr. Swivel holds a position as telegraph operator at the local office of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

It is the purpose of the organization to issue an official organ quarterly to be known as The Jerseyite. The next convention will be held in Newark in 1915. After the business meeting a banquet was enjoyed. Letters and messages of greetings for the success of the organization were received from H. E. Deats, The Blarney Literary Society, Leston M. Ayers, of Milltown and Ernest H. Morris, president of the United Amateur Press Association of Bridgeport, Conn.

HEAVY FINES FOR PEACE DISTURBERS IN DUNELLEN

Arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the Dunellen borough court this morning, charged with being intoxicated and fighing at a charity ball given by a Slavish society in Junior Order Hall, Saturday night, John Leter, Frank Speck and Peter Possesski, all of Dunellen, were fined amounts which aggregated $23.

Recorder Campbell told the prisoners it was the first time in many years that there has been a disturbance created at a social event held in the hall, and told them that he would deal severely with all other persons brought before him for a similar offence.

SLIDES FOR LIFE.

Tibet's Perilous Bridges and the Way They Are Crossed.

In Tibet they have not yet progressed far beyond the primitive. Especially when it comes to engineering the Tibetans are at about the stage reached by Europeans six centuries ago. At that time in Switzerland they used a long cable and swinging carrier for the transport of heavy weights, even of cannon from one mountain to another a little lower down.

Now, in Tibet they do not try to build bridges across the Mekong river, but where there are high cliffs a cable is stretched to the other side of the river, and for a trifling fee the person who wishes to cross clings to a thick bark carrier and slides down, holding up his feet at the point where the water nears the perilous bridge.

If he wants to cross back he must go farther up or down the river to a point where another cable is stretched from a high cliff to the other side, and again he performs the "slide for life."

This may not be a very comfortable way of crossing a river, but it is easier than swimming across, especially if there are rapids in the stream, and it is the favorite and cheap way of building bridges among the Tibetans.—New York World.

THOMAS ELECTED TREASURER.

At the meeting of the State Printers' League held yesterday in Camden, Harry Thomas, of this city, was elected treasurer. Winfred C. Cram, also of this city, attended the session as one of the delegates of the local union. The other officers elected follows: President, Elmer Throssel, of Newark; vice-president, John Burke, of Elizabeth; secretary, Kenneth Forbes, of Jersey City.

INFANT BAPTIZED.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Florence S. McCarthy, of Newark, formerly of this city, was baptized yesterday at the St. Rose of Lima's church, by Rev. Father Martin. The sponsors were Miss Elizabeth C. Mottley, of this city, and J. H. McCarthy, of Elizabeth. Mr. McCarthy was formerly detective sergeant of the local police force.

WILSON DISCUSSES JAPANESE AND MEXICAN QUESTIONS

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Jan. 26.—In his talk with the newspaper correspondents this morning, President Wilson said that no new suggestions had been received from Japan and no pressure had been brought to bear from that quarter. He denied any gentlemen's agreement with Japan with reference to Japanese owning land in the United States. It was said that the conference with members of the foreign committee of Congress tonight would be general and that it had no political significance. President Wilson characterized the Mexican stories in the morning newspapers as fiction and said there had been no change in the situation.

MRS. SARAH J. BRODNAX DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Sarah J. Brodnax, colored, died yesterday at her home, 314 East Fourth street. She had been ill for several years and death was due to complications. Mrs. Brodnax had been a resident of Plainfield for many years, during which time she was employed by several prominent families. Her daughter, Miss Anna Brodnax, was the valedictorian of her class in the Plainfield High School, and later she graduated with honors from Oberlin, College, Oberlin, Ohio. She is now teaching school in Delaware, where she has been very successful.

Beside the daughter, Mrs. Brodnax is survived by two sons. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at the late home at 3 o'clock. Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

FIREMEN SAVE STABLE

dreds of trophies won by Blair's horses in various track events all over the country and the confinement of the blaze to the read part of the building saved these valuable awards from destruction.

In the ante room adjoining the office were hundreds of dollars worth of furs and lap robes and these were left unharmed by smoke or water. The stable is constructed on a double plan, the fire being confined to the rear half and although water flowed into the carriage rooms it was carried off by drains.

The fire created a big stir in the center of the city while it lasted and hundreds of curious persons were attracted to the burning structure. While working at the fire the firemen and others assisting in the work were supplied with hot coffee and sandwiches by Mrs. Blair.

ORIENTAL NOTE IN FASHIONS AND FABRICS

WE HAVE had Oriental fabrics and cut of garments many months, and yet the Eastern note persists more strongly than ever, at the moment, and promises to reveal many more surprises as the spring fashions burst forth. Bold color combinations, and daring uses of filmy fabrics with velvet and even fur, we take for granted as not too strange for our individual liking, provided each of us does her own choosing. Of such are many wondrously beautiful costumes worn by fashionable women at European winter resorts, while wardrobes, spic and span, for the American Southland, disclose summery materials almost redolent with the scent of Eastern flowers and gorgeous with printed designs.

JAPANESE and Chinese garden pedestals and bird cages of stone or composition are much sought after for the ornamentation of American homes and gardens. The heavier kinds are chosen for outdoor places, while lighter weight replicas, such as the lanterns shown on this page are used for porch lights, or in halls with suitable setting. Some are mounted like the centre lantern on Japanese bronze standards. Electric bulbs glow dimly on the inside. The middle standard light with round shade is another artistic piece of Oriental furnishing.

In New York curio shops where Oriental antiques can be bought, a round pedestal base and lantern top costs upward of fifty dollars.

ON THE large figure facing the right of this page (7984) is a most artistic evening gown of Japanese chiffon, a fabric which hangs very gracefully. It has a cream ground, with the design in dull brown and leaf green tones; and made over apple-green satin messaline, the color scheme is fascinating. Jet banding and a jet ornament are effective though simple trimming. The peasant overblouse is slashed on the shoulder. This design is one which may be adapted for a variety of materials, and practical for the woman who fashions her own evening dresses. The tunic overdress, slightly draped and raised in front like an Empire gown, suggests a way of applying new transparent material to a foundation dress that may have done service before. The fuller hip fashions require a larger quantity of material, and the softer fabrics, such as chiffon cloth, voiles, or satin charmeuse, or cotton summer materials are chosen to carry out the effects as they should be.

PARIS has kept black costumes well in the foreground of late, and satin has been most popular. Whether one follows the last word or not in this particular, a black silk dress of some kind usually appeals to most women. A very smart afternoon frock, such as French women are wearing, and one that will be particularly suitable for early spring wear without a coat, is the model in the lower left hand corner of this page (blouse 8088 and skirt 7855). The latter is a plain three-piece skirt, with a shaped band introducing the modish tunic. It is one of the easiest ideas to repeat, and applicable to many kinds of materials, either silk or woolen. A flowered brocaded bengaline, fancy buttons and a sash of dull blue velvet supply rich color contrasts. The style of blouse with a deep yoke extending below the belt on either side of the vest, is one of the newest effects which may be selected for the coming season. This pattern may be had for ladies and misses.

The olden time bustle is being revived, in subtle and decidedly attractive ways, as instanced in the model No. 8061. The material is gray chiffon taffeta, which has enough body to stand out in the puff as illustrated. The bouffant effect is produced by puffing up the material, and holding it with a band or sash. In the dress shown here, the sash is attached above the belt on either side of the middle front. Chiffon taffeta, by the way, is having a strong revival, and will be a leading material for spring dresses and fancy suits.

FULL sleeves, suggesting a return of the bishop type are seen in many of the latest gowns and fancy waists; and are likely to appear in the plainer shirt waists for summer. There is an extravagant use of embroidery on filmy garments, mingled with ruffles, frills and laces. The model of the separate blouse shown below has a beautiful design outlined with chenille.

Fichus are fashionable again. Some are a part of the waist on which they appear, while others are separate style adjuncts to be had among the latest novelties in neckwear departments.

Whether or not another vogue of high stock collars will last over until summer, importers of exclusive styles are showing a variety of standing collars on lace and net accessories, and even the linen stock with a turn-over and silk tie are offered for those who will deny themselves for fashion's sake, the freedom of the uncovered throat.

14620 Chinese Motif for Embroidering

Bits of Oriental embroidery are considered very choice for trimming dresses and blouses of silk or chiffon. The motif illustrated, pattern No. 14620, is effective for the ends of a sash, for points of a vest, side fronts of a blouse, and for various places on a skirt or sleeve ends. It is 3½ by 5 inches; and comes with perforations for 17 figures. Filo silk in blue, gold, orange and green can be used appropriately, and even threads of gold tinsel introduced. The pattern is 15 cents.

Patterns for designs shown on this page can be obtained from any agency selling Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

WOOLEN garments that are carelessly washed, grow hard and shrink on account of the interlacing of the wool fibre. It has little projections like saw-teeth which catch on one another. It is therefore important to keep the material well stretched to keep the fibre from becoming matted. A washboard should not be used nor should soap be rubbed on the garment. Water, both for rinsing and washing, should be warm, and the soap should be dissolved in it before the immersing takes place.

When Washing Silk

Now that silk underwear is worn so extensively, it behooves the owner to see that it is washed properly. When washing white silk garments soap should not be rubbed on them; and pure white soap rather than yellow, should be used for the suds. Rinse very thoroughly in cold water after rubbing in lukewarm suds. Iron with only a moderately warm iron, and cover the silk with a piece of muslin so that the iron will not come in contact with the silk.

Delicious Oysters

Cover large oysters with fine cracker crumbs and wrap each in a slice of bacon, held in place with a wooden toothpick. Place the requisite number of the "pigs in blankets" in a wire basket and fry in deep fat like doughnuts. Drain on brown paper, and serve very hot.

REUNE RANDOLPH PASSES AWAY IN 77TH YEAR

Reune F. Randolph, aged 77 years, died yesterday at his home on Rahway road, following a long illness from complications, which became acute about three weeks ago. Mr. Randolph was born at the Randolph home on Park avenue, near Belleview avenue, and he lived in the house in which he died for nearly a half-century. He was a prosperous farmer and up to a year ago was actively engaged in farming pursuits. The farm is considered one of the best in this section of the State. A portion of it was recently sold to T. J. Mumford.

Mr. Randolph was a life-long member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and until illness prevented was a regular attendant at all the services. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Ida F. Randolph and Miss Etta F. Randolph, and two brothers, Lewis F. Randolph, of Rutherford, and Nathan H. Randolph, of this city. The funeral services will be held at the late home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Edwin Shaw will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS AND PLAN SECOND CHARITY BALL

At the meeting of St. Mary's Parish, held yesterday afternoon at Social Hall, new officers of the Holy Name Society were elected for the year as follows: D. J. Couraine, persident; John J. Griffen, vice-president; John J. McCann, secretary; M. B. Caffery, treasurer. President Couraine appointed Albert F. LaRock as chairman of the general committee for the second annual Charity Ball. This committee has already taken preliminary action for the ball.

The poor of St. Mary's, and some not within the limits of the parish, have been cared for through this and other parish activities. There is a decided advantage for this work in the ministrations of the Sisters of Charity, who find time from their duties as teachers in St. Mary's School to care for all who come to them in distress. The relief given before last year amounted to $1,154, aside from the Christmas hampers for fifty-two families. In the distribution of this the society was fortunate in meeting not a penny of expense as through the Sisters help, the poor received the entire amount. In addition to these disbursements for food, coal and rent, the Ladies' Sewing Circle, meeting twice a month, make articles of clothing that reach the poor through the same medium of charity, the Sisters of St. Mary's.

The report stops at the disbursing office in the convent. The recipients are the secret of charity. To continue the work the Holy Name Society will soon call upon their friends to make the second annual ball financially helpful, as they reasonably hope it will be socially successful, tango to the contrary notwithstanding.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 52.

I ASKED a "high-brow" friend of mine, who is employed in the editorial department of a big newspaper, if he had any ideas on Want Ad. advertising. He said he "sure had" and was a firm believer in the pulling power of that kind of advertising. He said he'd write down what he thought on the subject. He did. Here is the note he wrote:

"The first Want Ad. of which we have record was written by Julius Caesar, who enlivened the dead walls of Rome with announcements of his Gallic victories and who skilfully appealed to his fellow-countrymen to call at his headquarters the next day and enlist for a still greater and grander conquest. Caesar's Want Ad. ultimately brought him the proffer of a crown.

"No less wise than Caesar are the employers and employes of today. They recognize the fact that the most successful way to achieve a definite purpose from an advertising viewpoint is to present your wants in a concise, direct manner. The employer looks upon the Want Ad. columns as an advertising barometer; the employe, as the keystone to the arch.

"In a Want Ad. you reach the man who wants something, and you get into direct and immediate communication with him."

Useful Old Clothes.

The day has gone by when every scrap of old muslin or linen must be saved for bandages or lint. Even in time of war, nowadays, modern antiseptic surgical dressings are found cheaper and safer than those donated by the thrifty housewife.

But there are still many uses for old clothes, even for scraps of old linen and cotton material.

To begin with, if there is any chance that you will do any traveling, save old umbrellas, of any description, until that time. They can be carried with you and thrown away en route as soon as they are hopelessly worn. Thus you baggage will be continually lightened, so that purchases can be accommodated. Moreover, the various treatments received at laundries during the course of a journey are enough to wear out even the stoutest-hearted underwear. It is far better that old underwear rather than new be subjected to their methods.

Woolen cloths are the best for cleaning metal of any kind. Hence any old flannel clothes should be washed, and cut into neat squares and oblongs for metal cleaning.

Old knitted underwear can be cut into suitable pieces and used for cleaning cloths. Mop cloths, floor cloths, and stove-polishing cloths can all be made of heavy knitted underwear.

Gauze underwear can be cut into neat squares and used for dust cloths. It is really the best material for dust cloths that can be found.

Highly polished furniture can be best dusted with a soft silk or crepe de chine cloth. So an old silk or crepe de chine frock can be washed and cut into moderately large dust-cloths, which may be catstitched or hemmed by machine.

CORNMEAL AND RAISINS.—Take one quart of water and boil in top of a double boiler. When boiling add one and one-half cupfuls of cornmeal, stirring slowly until it thickens. Add one teaspoonful of salt and cover; boil slowly for two hours, then add one-half cupful of seeded raisins. Serve with milk.

Uses For Prunes.

Rice and Prunes.—Take half a pound of prunes, soak them overnight and cook in the same water until soft, adding a little sugar. There should be one *cupful of juice when done. Wash one-*half cupful of rice, cook in plenty of boiling water, salted to taste, and when done drain and dry. Put two prunes in the bottom of sherbet glasses, fill with rice, put a prune on the top and pour on the prune juice.

Barley and Prunes. — Wash one breakfastcupful of barley, put on with cold water, bring to the boil, and pour water off. Put into saucepan with four cupfuls of cold water and a teaspoonful of salt. Bring slowly to boil and simmer for two hours. Wash half a pound of prunes carefully, soak in sufficient cold water to cover for an hour and a half. One hour before the barley is ready add the prune water and some sugar.

Wholesome Viands.

Tapioca and Oranges.—Take a cupful and a half of water, a third of a cupful of tapioca, two oranges, a pinch of salt and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Place water and salt in double boiler. When hot stir in the tapioca and cook until clear. Scoop out the orange pulp or cut navel oranges into small pieces, removing all skin, seeds and fiber; beat in the sugar, then add oranges to tapioca and set aside in bowl until cold. Serve with cream.

Oatmeal and Baked Apples.—Take one-half cupful coarse oatmeal and add one-half teaspoonful salt and two cupfuls boiling water and put in the upper compartment of double boiler. Place on the stove and boil rapidly ten minutes. Stir occasionally. Then place the vessel over boiling water and cook from forty minutes to one hour. Serve with baked or steamed apples.

The Snow King Came to the Dance.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Jolly Snow King's First Party.

"ONCE upon a time," began daddy, "there had been a great snowstorm during the night, and everything in the woods was heavy with snow. The branches of the big pine trees looked as if they would break with the huge packs of snow on them, and all the little bushes looked like fairyland with the snow covering them. To be sure, it was fairyland, for early in the morning all the fairies gathered together in their favorite part of the woods near a running brook, which they used as their playground and which they called Brookwood. But this time the brook had half frozen. Lovely icicles hung from the stones in the brook, and over some parts of it were thin sheets of ice.

"'We'll have a dance!' cried the queen of the fairies; 'little elves, little brownies, all of you come!' she shouted.

"Soon they all came, being carried by chariots of snow, with the north wind as their steed.

"'Oh, oh,' cried they all, 'how wonderful! Did you do all this beautiful work with your magic wand, lovely queen of the fairies?'

"'No; I must admit that the old snow king has made a lovelier scene than even my magic wand can make.'

"'Where does the old snow king live?' asked one of the brownies.

"'Why, he lives up in the snow cloud,' the fairy queen answered.

"'Let's ask him to the dance,' suggested one of the brownies.

"'That's a splendid idea,' said the fairy queen.

"So she waved her magic wand and called in her lovely clear voice, 'Come to the dance, snow king; come to the dance!'

"The snow king needed no urging, for flakes of snow began to fly about in the air, and soon a jolly old person who looked like a great big snowball on first glance jumped down on the ground.

"'Here I am,' he said, 'and I thank you so much, little fairies, elves and brownies, and you, too, beautiful fairy queen, for inviting me to the party, for, though I arrange many a party, I've never been asked to one before, and I certainly am pleased.' And as he said this he made a low bow to the fairy queen. In doing so he fell over, for he was so fat and round. How they all did laugh, and he laughed, too, for, as he said, he loved a merry party.

"'I'll give you lots more parties,' said he, 'if you think they're so beautiful.'

"'And we'll ask you to come to all!' they shouted.

"'That's fine!' cried the snow king. 'We'll have one again tomorrow, and, oh, ever so many more, and I'll come to them all! Hurrah, hurrah!'"

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The top coat is one of the smartest and most practical of the new winter wraps. It may be made in one of the new velours, bouclé, chinchilla or one of the reversible coatings. As plush is such a favorite for trimming purposes, the collar and cuffs may be plush in a contrasting color or black.

In a coat of this description interlinings and stiffening is not used unless the material is unusually thin, and then a thin lamb's wool is all that is necessary, and this for warmth alone, as all garments are soft and clinging.

No. 7918 is an excellent model for a three quarter coat. For dressy wear velours de laine would be effective. If desired for business or general wear, chinchilla or a double faced coating will give satisfaction.

On a coat of this description with revers, it is an excellent idea to stitch a narrow strip of tape along the outside edge on the fronts before turning in the edges and along the folds of the revers. The object is to prevent stretching and getting out of shape.

There is a trimming band at the bottom of the coat in back which may be used or not, as preferred. The buttonholes would be effective if bound instead of being finished in the usual way.

This coat may be made in size 36 with 4 yards of 42 inch material and ⅝ of a yard of plush or silk for collar and cuffs.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes—34 to 44.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

MABEL'S CHITCHAT

COURTESY OF TRAFFIC POLICE

Wedding Presents a Tax on Purse Strings—Society of Soured Spinsters Will Institute Annual Reception and Distribution of Gifts.

Dear Elsa—I have just finished reading a delightfully characteristic letter from Charlotte S. You possibly remember my telling you that several years ago she decided to leave the rush and bustle of New York for the simple life in a charming little California town. That the exchange of residence has been a happy one the following, quoted from her letter, abundantly proves:

"Well, how is little old New York? It seems to be able to worry along without me somehow, though, of course, there must be a lack somewhere if people only stopped long enough to notice it.

"My, how wild and woolly I'll feel if I ever get back! But do you know that I, a bred in the bone Gothamite, have grown to like this place even better than the 'old town?' You see, I know so many people whose interests are one with mine, and it seems as though I was more a part of it all than I was in the old New York life. You can hardly imagine the extent of civic pride the people out here have, so much more than I ever noticed in the east."

Civic pride! I've been hunting for the last half hour in my bureau of sentiment to find some feeling of municipal elation lurking in my soul, and the only real emotion I seem to carry about with me is an unbounded admiration for the splendid public servants—the traffic policemen—who aid life and limb at the congested intersections of the city.

What would one's life be worth, say, at Forty-second street and Seventh avenue were it not for the two stalwart bluecoats who command the reckless taxi drivers bent upon mowing down inoffensive pedestrians and the general flotsam and jetsam of traffic to stand still at the mere motion of a hand?

Really, these "bobbies" put to shame poor old Canute's ineffectual order to Neptune requesting the waves to stop rolling. Yes, herein lies my civic pride—New York's squadron police—and these guardsmen are the particular envy, too, of a man I knew, one well favored by the gods, but possessed of the usual innate perverseness, whose greatest earthly ambition is to be the "big guy bluecoat" stationed at Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, who holds up Mrs. Astorbilt's motorcar and undauntedly bids Mr. Couponcutter lower his auto speed while driving to his banks to do more paper chopping. And the amusing part of it all is that this man, who has not outgrown his boyish enthusiasms, is so utterly unfit physically for the job, being possessed of much more pugnacity than brawn.

Speaking of unfitness, here am I in a state of entire financial collapse, having indulged too freely in post holiday bargains, being called upon for another wedding present. The daughter of a business friend of Dick's is foolish enough to add matrimony to her other attractions. And the gift in question is obliged to be something that will "do the family credit."

You, of course, know, my dear, how far away are the good old days when a book or homemade gift, backed by friendly thoughts, was considered all sufficing by the wealthiest bride.

Not content with the wedding present, there's the engagement gift to be provided for the girl friend who is contemplating the fatal step. The moment one hears of Mary or Dorothy's engagement one must hunt up some "lovely" gift as a contribution to the future menage. It may be a porcelain cup and saucer, a decorative rug, a picture or a vase or some hand embroidered piece of linen. But, whatever is offered, it does not absolve the donor from the necessity of giving a wedding present in due course.

An unattached girl I know predicts that soon a society of soured spinsters will institute an annual reception and distribution of gifts to compensate them for the amount of hard cash they have expended on wedding presents for their friends.

In continental countries less ceremony is observed about wedding gifts. Among the peasantry in some parts of Germany laurel leaves and bouquets are brought as offerings to the bride, a fashion which might well be followed in higher circles.

Dick says he wishes he had been a native of the William Tell country when he had to purchase my engagement ring, for in Switzerland no special engagement ring is given by the young man to his fiancee. A gold wedding ring worn on the third finger of the right hand serves in that capacity as a betrothal ring, being transferred to the third finger of the left hand when the marriage takes place.

Speaking of fingers, mine are stiff with cold. It is a freezing day, and I have scribbled this scrawl huddled over the radiator. There is some unwritten law among apartment house janitors that the steam heat goes down with the thermometer. Why this is thusly please explain to yours perishingly. MABEL.

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

SIMPLE CROSS-STITCH MOTIFS FOR TOWELS AND BAGS

These cross-stitch motifs are so easy to embroider and so decorative, that the amateur who has never attempted needlework can make charming gifts or embroider useful linens for her home with these designs. The children, too, will be delighted to embroider bags, cases, aprons and towels with these pretty little cross-stitch motifs in one color or in two or three colors, and such work will pass many a stormy afternoon. Pattern 14503, includes four transfers of each of the five designs. The pine trees might be embroidered in green rose silk or number 8 mercerized cotton on a runner of natural colored linen, a bag or a towel. The four wreaths would be pretty on baby's carriage-cover, worked with the large masses in pink or blue and the scattered crosses in delicate green. This wreath is also appropriate for decorating towels, children's dresses, aprons, hats and novelties. The little baskets might be carried out by working the basket and handle in brown, the flowers in pink or blue, and the leaves in green on guest-towels, a night-stand-cover or baby-pillow. The bunnies, embroidered in brown, make a most attractive decoration for the kiddies' aprons or for a chafing-dish cloth, while the trees in tubs may be used on bags, book-covers, runners, lingerie pillows, table-covers and other novelties. These are pretty when the tubs are worked in soft green or dull red, with the trees in a dark shade of green, and occasional cross-stitches done in red or orange to indicate apples.

Transfer pattern 14503, will be mailed to readers on receipt of price, 10 cents.

NO REHEARSAL TONIGHT—RECREATION COMMITTEE NOTE

There will be no rehearsals of the Senior Orchestra, conducted under the auspices of the Recreation Committee, at the Washington School, tonight.

On Saturday night the largest crowd that has yet attended one of the weekly dances at the Washington School were given an impromptu exhibition of folk dancing by three couples who are members of the folk dancing class which Miss Melvin, the supervisor, has formed. It was a forerunner of the exhibition of this kind of dancing which will be given late for the general public. At Saturday's gathering there were about 250 people present, and it proved to be one of the most enjoyable evenings that has been afforded those who attend these gatherings.

BIBLE CLASS FORMS PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

Sunday school class No. 16, of Trinity Reformed church Bible School, met at the home of its teacher, William Oliver, 230 East Fifth street, Saturday evening for the purpose of forming an organization to conform with the rules of the International Sunday School Association. These officers were elected: President, William Sowden; vice-president, Ernest Higgins; secretary, Samuel Harper; treasurer, Walter Fisher.

The president appointed Oscar Dilts, George Hummel and Ernest Higgins a committee to draft a constitution to be presented at the next meeting when social, athletic, outlook and some minor committees will be appointed. A class name will then be decided upon. The class being a large one there is a promising outlook in athletics and a social way.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

A new field for negro comedy is offered in "The Aviation Meet," an act offered by the Al. G. Field Minstrels. To fly or not to fly is the question of the hour. Automobiles and motor boats will soon be flying through the air. There will be rules for aerial navigation; there will be routes and charts to guide those who fly but there will be no stations or depots; there will be no getting off or on the airships while in flight. With Bert Swor as an aviator there will be demonstrations that will be of value to the Wright Brothers or others who sail the air. Man birds are rare and Mr. Swor's flight will be more than appreciated by those who prefer to gaze upon things on this mudane sphere as they appear when one stands with both feet on the earth. "The Aviation Meet" affords opportunities for fun from flight to flight. The mechanism and stage settings for the production are most attractive. The Biplane, the aeroplane, the hydroplane, in fact every style of flying machine, has its counterpart in "The Aviation Meet." It is a typical Al. G. Field laugh getter. The great show will be seen here Wednesday afternoon and evening.

OAK TREE SOCIAL.

An "Old Fashioned Social," will be held tomorrow night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frazee Suydam, of Oak Tree, under the auspices of the New Dover Ladies' Aid Society. A silver offering will be taken.

PRESENT YOUR BILLS.

All bills against the city must be presented to City Clerk James T. MacMurray by tomorrow night to insure payment at the next meeting of the Common Council.

'PRO' QUINTET FOR PLAINFIELD

Basketball Followers Will Get Plenty of the Sport Next Season.

PROFESSIONAL STARS

Several Former Basket Tossers Preparing for a Return to the Game and the Fastest Teams of the State Will Be Brought to Plainfield.

Plans are now underway, which, when completed will give Plainfield its first professional basketball team and those interested in the idea propose to make the proposition a reality the first part of next season. Several former stars of the court have banded together for the purpose of organization and the aggregation, from present prospects, will probably be one of the fastest in this section of the State.

Among those mentioned for positions in the lineup are Eugene Lidgate, Jack Martin, Allen Snyder, Adam Schott and other stars more or less well known to local followers of the pastime. Lidgate is at present putting in a season of officiating and is just aching for an opportunity to get back in the game once more. He was formerly a member of the Plainfield High School team and at one time was the best centre in this city or borough. Last year Lidgate played with the Scotch Plains Parish House team but dropped out of competition this season because of an injury received during the baseball season. Allen Snyder, formerly a member of the Plainfield High School and Hope Chapel baseball teams, has been out of the game but one year and his return to the pastime would be welcomed by local followers who well remember his ability as a guard and shooter. Jack Martin has played more or less basketball with the Hope Chapel teams and has acted as coach of the city champions during the past season. Schott is also a Hope Chapel performer and is a wonder at centre, according to those interested in the new movement.

Martin and Lidgate both hold contracts with baseball clubs which will prevent them from entering the sport this season, but it is proposed to make plans now so that the proposition can be ushered in the forepart of next year. No court has as yet been selected on which to play the games but the committee in charge has several in view and a choice will be announced later. Although Plainfield has no professional teams against which the new quintet will be able to play it is proposed to go outside of the State if necessary to secure opposition and also to bring the choice opponents to Plainfield for exhibition games.

RALLY TOO LATE FOR NETHERWOOD VCTORY

Visiting Team Scored Poorly in First Half But Equalled Hope Record Later.

Loose work in the initial period of play lost a game for the Netherwood basketball team on the Hope Chapel court Saturday night, the Hope seconds running up a big enough lead in the first half to win out by a score of 26 to 22. During the first half the Chapelites scored twenty points against their rival's six and this advantage proved a life-saver before the hostilities ceased.

In the final session the Netherwood players appeared to have gotten acquainted with the playing floor and during the second round of fighting they managed to score the same number of points as did their home team opponents. For the winners Bohl was the leader along the scoring line, getting sixteen points, while Gunnison and VanDeventer coveted these laurels for the losing side. A feature of the game was a Fred Merkle throw made by John Uhler, who became lost in the maze surrounding the Hope Chapel court and before he could untangle himself had netted a field goal for Hope Chapel despite the fact that he was sporting Netherwood regalia.

DEAF MUTE COLLEGE FIVE TO PLAY HERE

Y. M. C. A. Will Be the Scene of a Feature Bill Next Saturday Night.

One of the best basketball games of the year has been arranged for the Y. M. C. A. court next Saturday night when the local Association basketball players will match their prowess against the team representing the Deaf Mute College of Trenton. The Silent Workers, who have been cleaning up all of the Capitol city teams, are coming to Plainfield with a squad of ten men to play the Y. M. C. A. aggregation.

Novel entertainment will be supplied by the Trenton Institution's representatives who play an entirely different style of basketball than do other basketball teams. All of the playing is carried on by the use of signs and the teamwork and general all around playing ability of this combination has been heralded far and wide.

This will be the first time the Trentonians have appeared in this section of the State, although they have contested numerous battles this and other years in parts of Pennsylvania. During the last two months they have been lining up against Collegiate quintets with eminent success and the local's defeat over New York University was the only inducement under which the Deaf Mute College five would come to Plainfield. Early in the season efforts were made to schedule a game with this team but the collegians deferred action pending the outcome of the first New York University contest. Following the beating administered by the locals to the N. Y. U. contingent the Trentonians consented to a game in this city and will be seen here next Saturday night.

The Y. M. C. A. second team manager is arranging a preliminary game for that occasion and although no definite opponent has as yet been decided upon it is probable that the Leal School team of the Interscholastic Baseball League will furnish the opposition.

Query—Is radium being found in this country? I believe they are finding it in Colorado, but I am not sure?—E. V. N.

Answer—Radium (found nowhere in the world except in very minute quantities) has been found in Colorado and very recently at Mauch Chunk, Pa. The rare gem, kunzite, (named for the gem expert, George Frederick Kunz, and recently renamed iris) which is found near San Diego, California, is believed to contain radium because, when exposed to the Roetgen rays for five minutes and then laid upon a photographis plate, it will print itself.

HERON'S "9-3-21" SOLVES THE "COM"

Little Forward's Nine Field Goals and Trio of Fouls Beats Combination.

Some spectacular field goal shooting by Johnny Heron once more pulled a game out of the fire for the Hope Chapel aggregation Saturday night, when the Combination quintet, of Newark, was downed by a score of 35 to 15, "Shrimp" Heron leading the way with twenty-one points, viz. nine parts field goals mixed with three parts fouls. No one on the floor approached this little youngster's scoring record for the evening and without him in the lineup the final count would have sounded something like 15 to 14 in favor of the visiting crew.

Neither team took the floor with its regular quota of players and the all around work of both aggregations was far below par when compared with previous performances. Second string men fairly pushed the regulars into the background, so numerous were they at times and the matter of winning another game was placed entirely up to Mr. Heron, the shorter.

Captain Doig broke into the scoring world with a trio of field goals and two fouls, while Wardrop netted a brace and Tommy helped his triumphant kid brother out with a single two point tally. For the visitors Wurth and Bilick pulled down the scoring honors, if there were any to be claimed on the visiting side, just managing to nose out to other aspirants from New Jersey's metropolis.

"Sportdom Tips"

THOSE LONG GREEN THINGS.

The idea of a professional basketball team for Plainfield may "listen" all right when the dope reaches us twelve months in advance, but when the time for actual play comes around we are led to suspect that some of those concerned in the deal will be searching their pockets for the hard dollar to bring opponents from the outside world to Plainfield. As a sport, basketball is not a paying proposition, even in the collegiate world, and it goes without saying that those interested in the professional basketball deal will have their troubles in an endeavor to establish the sport locally. Personally, there is nothing we would like better to see than a regular schedule of professional basketball in Plainfield but the time has yet to come when amateur basketball will reap a harvest for those behind the scenes, and under these conditions "pro" players would have their troubles in trying to pay the exhorbitant guarantees asked by opponents of the best class.

ANOTHER BASKETBALL TREAT.

For the first time in the history of local basketball Plainfield followers of the sport witnessed a game between a local aggregation and a real college five early in the present season and this was followed up by another excellent contest between the same aggregations a few weeks later. Another precedent will be established next Saturday night when the Y. M. C. A. quintet will open athleic affiliations with one more rival, the team from the Deaf and Dumb Institute in Trenton having been scheduled to appear here on that date. The Silent Workers will supply entertainment of a novel variety for the local sport followers and at the same time will show Plainfielders some real basketball, according to a statement made by the manager of the capitol city crew.

LIDGATE LEADS ALL.

As a basketball referee Eugene Lidgate, the husky ball player from the wilds of Fanwood, is without a peer in this section of the State. His work on the Y. M. C. A. has been the subject for much favorable comment during the past season and although he is putting in his first season as an arbitrator he has been put to many hard tests and in all he has come out with colors flying. Lidgate is one of the few officials who can preserve order under all conditions and the latest specimen of his work was shown last Saturday night when a herd of kickers from Woodbridge were on the job from start to finish in an effort to upset all his rulings.

Soft pedal on baseball—Baseball games on the Western Conference will be peaceful and gentle if the new rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association are adopted. According to the new code the players are not allowed to open their mouths on the diamond, coaching will be a thing of the past, the cheering sections are prohibited from rattling the opposition and the catcher will not be allowed to encourage the pitcher by talk, etc.

Goes Insane—Headline.

Was he a sport writer or did he read the sport writer's dope?

And Bob Fitzsimmons is not allowed to show himself before the American public, although he is in perfect physical shape.

The Montclair Athletic Association has just raised $10,000 for the purpose of erecting a new clubhouse. This is a fair example of the sporting spirit in a nearby town.

Over 1,000 students participated last year in athletic contests at Princeton and 140 teams engaged in contests during the year, according to official statistics just announced.

FITZSIMMONS READY FOR HIS "COME-BACK" BATTLE

Bob Fitzsimmons, the grand old man of the fight game, is putting on the finishing touches for his opening fight next Thursday night against Dan Daly in Williamsport, Pa., and will leave Wednesday morning for the coal State, where he will remain until after the scrap. Johnny Meek, Bob's manager, has moved his personal effects to Dunellen and is now supervising the champion's training stunts in his gym in this city.

All concerned in the Fitzsimmons' training camp are optimistic of the veteran's ability to come-back and one of the greatest exhibitions of his career is promised during the first fight. Daly is a fighter tipping the scales at 200 pounds, while Bob weighs in the neighborhood of 170 at the present time.

The Dunellenite will train here tomorrow for the last time previous to the Pennsylvania fight and it is probable that he will have some heavyweight here to provide entertainment for him during the last hour of training. Accompanying Bob on his trip to Williamsport will be his son, Bob, two seconds, Manager Johnny Meek and a local newspaper man.

PRACTICE NIGHT CHANGED.

Captain Myrton Glover, of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team, has announced that the weekly practice of the aggregation this week will be held Wednesday night instead of Tuesday night as has heretofore been the custom.

COLUMBUS LEAGUE BOWLING RECORDS

Some Good Pinning Done by Individuals and Teams in Initial Series.

Some excellent pin records have been chalked up by the thirty bowlers taking part in the Columbus Club's Bowling League race during the first round of rolling which has just been completed and four teams remain deadlocked for first place in the organization's team standing. George Howe, a member of the Watchung Council quintet in the Knights of Columbus League, holds first place in the individual standings of the Columbus League with a mark of 213.2 and also a high individual record of 220.

Frank McInerney is the high score holder having hung up a grand total of 238 in one contest. McInerney is also running second for individual average honors. The Yorktown team is the logical holder of first place having an average of 863 and a high score mark of 909. Yorktown holds both the high average record and the high individual game mark to date.

REGULARS TAKE ROUGH CONTEST

Y. M. C. A. Team, Once More Intact, Victor in Speedy Tilt on Ass'n Court.

LITTLE GOAL SHOOTING

Woodbridge Academy Players Put up a Stiff Fight and Succeed in Forcing the Locals to the Limit in Games Marked by Good Teamwork

Spasmodic flashes of speed intermingled with periods of rough housing featured the weekly basketball program on the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night, when the Association team, with its regular lineup once more intact, trimmed the Woodbridge Academy five in a speedy and closely contested tilt by a score of 30 to 25. Many fouls were imposed by Referee Lidgate on the contesting teams and seventeen points were scored from the fifteen foot mark during the issue, Moulton making an even twelve and Ward scoring five. Both foul shooters missed an equal number, however, and had all of the Woodbridge team's chances from the foul line been made good the visitors would have probably been ahead at the finish.

During both periods the field goal shooting was exceedingly light, four goals being made in each period by the locals, while Woodbridge accounted for four in the first and six in the second. The local forwards were covered at all times and the two shots that were made by the Plainfield forwards came in the last few seconds of play after the score had been brought up to 25 to 24 by Woodbridge. Moulton with his foul shooting and Gavett with frequent field goals kept the locals in the running until the final minutes when the finishing touches were put on the contest.

The visitors resorted frequently to rough house tactics and Lidgate found it necessary to disqualify one player in the second period. Despite the irregularity of the play the Plainfielders worked their signals with clockwork like precision and the contest Saturday night in many respects was superior to any played by the Y. M. C. A. quintet. Several times the ball was tipped off by Gavett in center and failed to touch a Woodbridge player's hand until after it had traveled in the direction of the local's goal.

Moulton and Gavett tied for high scoring honors for the Plainfield team, the former bagging twelve foul shots and the latter getting an even dozen points on six field goals. For the visitors, H. Simonsen and Ryder did the best field goal shooting, each getting a quartet of two point tallies.

P. H. S. WON EASILY FROM MORRISTOWN

Visiting Quintet No Match for Local Five in One-sided Game in Y. M .C. A.

Coming here with an entirely rejuvenated lineup, the Randolph Military Academy's basketball team was sent down to defeat in the preliminary contest on the Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night by the Plainfield High School basket tossers who rang up a count of 49 to 21 at the visitor's expense. Several weeks ago the Plainfield schoolboys met and defeated the Randolph Academy five on the Morristown court by a score of 26 to 24 and in anticipation of a hard game Captain Hetfield had his full quota of regulars on hand to do battle last night.

Shortly after the game got under way, however, it could easily be seen that P. H. S. held the upper hand as a few minutes after the second half had been ushered in Hetfield sent the second squad of players in to finish the job already started. Although outweighed the second string men held the visitors well in check and even when playing against the scrubs the Randolph Academy team was completely outclassed.

The work of Benjamin Rosenson, the little P. H. S. guard, featured the playing in the first half and his six field goals in this canto went a long way toward sewing up the game. Hetfield and Sminck also got into the scoring in this half, both getting a pair of excellent shots from the field of play. In the final session Hetfield's shooting came to the rescue and before the second team was sent on the floor Sminck had added another and the rest of the team boosted its record during the opening minutes. For the Morristown schoolboys Behringer led the scoring with five field goals, four of which came in the second half.

THIRD DEFEAT ADMINISTERED TO MT. PLEASANT FIVE

In a game of basketball marked by roughness the Scotch Plains Parish House five, playing on their home court, defeated the Mt. Pleasant five Saturday night for the third time this season. The playing was hard and fast from the start and over a dozen fouls were called.

F. Saunders was the main pointgatherer for the 'Plains with eight points to his credit. Mellick led the visitors with two field goals. Marston, as usual, came through with a number of fouls, making five out of six trys.

The North Plainfield High School Freshmen girls' basketball team upheld the school's winning record Saturday in Saengerbund Hall, when the Stillman Grammar School girls went down to defeat by the score of 13 to 8.

Miss Peacock started the ball rolling but could only score two during the half, while the boroughites tallied two field goals and two fouls. The period ended 6 to 4.

Miss Lillian Spencer, forward on the High School first team, proved to be too much for the visitors and scored three goals from the field and five points from the foul line. The visitors played fine ball at times and had their opponents bewildered but their size was a great disadvantage. Once during this half the score was tied but a goal and two fouls by Miss Spencer gave the home team a winning lead.

GIVES $25,000 FOR RESEARCH IN CANCER

Many Rush For Radium Mines In Colorado.

New York, Jan. 26.—Lambert Suydam, who has been interested in furthering scientific investigations of various kinds for many years, has given $25,000 to the New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital for research work in cancer. The gift was announced by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, dean of the college, at a meeting of the board of trustees.

With the exception of the Crocker bequest this is the largest single amount given by any individual for research work of this kind. The college will begin at once to establish the necessary material and instruments for the carrying on of the investigations. Not long ago $10,000 was given to the college by the alumni to build a laboratory. The result is one of the most completely equipped bacteriological stations in the city. Vaccines and vaccine therapy have been under investigation there, and remarkable results have been accomplished in preventitive medicine.

Denver, Jan. 26.—A rush for the radium lands of Colorado and southern Utah in an effort to beat the government in its plans for withdrawal of the ore laden sections has begun in earnest. It started last week, but so quietly did the parties who are filing claims act that the object of their hurried visits to the Grand valley did not become known until today.

Grand Junction is the center of the rush. Every day last week from one to six different parties left the city to stake out a claim. It was learned that if Secretary Lane's plan to withdraw these lands from entry is adopted, as it seems almost certain to be, there will be little vacant land to withdraw.

Since prominent Coloradoans visited Washington a short time ago it has been considered certain that the lands would be withdrawn, the protests of the Coloradoans having been considered lightly. The word was passed that the lands would be withdrawn and the rush began.

SUICIDE FOR LACK OF A KISS.

Sweetheart Says "Not Here," and Young Man Shoots Himself.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 26.—Because his sweetheart refused him a kiss Neil Palmer, a prominent young man, shot himself to death at Thunderbolt, an amusement resort near Savannah.

In company with his fiancee, Miss Essie Andrews, and two other young men and girls Palmer had motored out to Thunderbolt. The members of the party were in joyous mood, and Palmer asked Miss Andrews to kiss him.

"You must be crazy," she laughingly replied.

"You won't kiss me?" asked Palmer.

"I can't here," said the girl. Without another word Palmer drew a pistol and shot himself through the heart, falling dead at the girl's feet.

Miss Andrews is prostrated as the result of the shock and grief.

NO DRINKS SOLD IN PATERSON SUNDAY

Ministerial Association Complaints Start Action.

ARRESTS FOR INTOXICATION

Is Considered Quite a Record For That Vicinity—When One Saloon Keeper Closed His Place Two Men Tried to Wreck Store—Police Say Paterson Is Losing Reputation.

Paterson, N. J., Jan. 26.—Complaints by the Paterson Ministerial association to Mayor Fordyce that drinking and disorder on Sunday was smiled at by the authorities resulted in the putting down of the lid yesterday. The police say that every saloon in the city except two were closed. These two were raided and the proprietors arrested. They are Charles Schwartz of 108 River street and Larry Nacko of 38 First avenue.

When Daniel O'Connell shut his saloon at 78 New Grand street at midnight Saturday Solomon Tidesky of 144 West Twenty-fifth street and Daniel Ferrero of 4 West Thirty-fourth street were insulted. They threw bottles through the mirrors and the windows, overturned the piano and altogether did more than $1,000 damage They were arrested after a struggle.

These two and Thomas Coates of 158 Main street were the only men arrested for intoxication in Passaic county yesterday, which is considered considerable of a record for this vicinity. Coates fought three policemen for several no decision rounds before he gave in.

The police say that Paterson is losing its reputation as an extremely liberal city and that as a result the quarter where vice has flourished is being depopulated.

FEAR FOR DESERTED MAN.

Knutter Has Brooded Since His Wife Left With Another.

Metuchen, N. J., Jan. 26.—Persons living in the borough of Middlesex have appealed to Prosecutor George Silzer of Middlesex and Judge Peter F. Daly of the Middlesex county court to inquire into the mental condition of Daniel Knutter, who is said to have been acting strangely since his wife ran away to Scotland nearly two years ago with James Dunbar of Bound Brook, taking with her the money obtained from the sale of the Knutter home.

After this happened Knutter gave up a good place with the Lovgar steel works at Dunnellen, N. J., and went to live with his mother at Seabury's Mills, near Greenbrook. Judge Daly and Prosecutor Silzer have referred the case to the Greenbrook authorities, who have denied responsibility for Knutter. His mental condition has been growing worse, and his neighbors fear he will do harm to himself.

PLACE OFFICIALS ON TRIAL.

Atlantic City Park Commissioner and Others Charged With Election Fraud.

Mays Landing, N. J., Jan. 26.—Former Mayor Harry Bacharach, but now park commissioner, of Atlantic City was placed on trial here today before County Judge C. L. Cole, with others, upon the charge of election frauds in the 1910 contest at the resort.

Bacharach, with several others, including Commodore Louis Kuehnle, was indicted by the famous elisor grand jury. The case has been hanging fire for over two years, and ex Attorney General Robert McCarter, counsel for Bacharach, demanded trial of the accused or squash the indictment of the prosecutor's office. Judge Cole last week denied a motion to Special Prosecutor Wolvorton to postpone the date of trial, and the case was moved today, in which much interest is centered. Commodore Kuehnle was granted a servance and will be tried alone.

STATE NOTES.

Stephen Weber, thirteen years old, of Newark was seriously injured by an automobile while crossing Ferry street near McWhorter.

Harry S. Maddock, president of the Thomas Maddock's Sons company, pottery manufacturers, of Trenton died following an illness of a few days with gastritis and pneumonia.

James Hedden, a West Livingston farmer, living near the Passaic river, was badly injured in a battle with a chicken hawk. The bird flew at Hedden, digging sharp talons into the farmer's face. Mrs. Hedden found her husband helpless and killed the bird with a lantern.

The three cod fishermen—Buck Mannert, Pitt Steelman and Pete Locke—who were thought to have been drowned in a gale off Atlantic City were saved by the tug Patience and landed safely in Boston, according to word received at Atlantic City by members of their families.

Mrs. Mary Alberts of Bayonne awoke to find a man bending over herself and three-months-old baby. As she screamed he fired a shot from a revolver. Mrs. Alberts jumped through a glass door, and the man escaped through a window. The woman was taken to the City hospital suffering from cuts.

SENATORS CONFER ON ANTI-TRUST BILLS

Trying to Settle Jurisdiction of the Committees.

Washington, Jan. 26.—At a luncheon to be held in the home of Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, an effort will be made to settle the dispute concerning jurisdiction between the members of the senate committee on interstate commerce and the judiciary committee. They have been at loggerheads over the administration's anti-trust bills. An agreement, it is predicted, will be reached.

While there is no question but that the Newlands bill for a trade commission will go to the Newlands committee, Senator Overman of North Carolina, acting chairman of the judiciary committee, is insisting that his committee shall consider the other trust bills. "All measures involving legal and constitutional problems should go to the great law committee of the senate," he declares.

The trade commission bill has been a hobby of Senator Newlands for many years. He has introduced it in the last three congresses and made speeches upon the subject in congress and out. This was one of the measures incorporated in his legislative program he wanted the Democratic caucus to adopt.

"I have contended for many years that there is need of an independent, quasijudicial and administrative tribunal of great character and dignity as far removed from partisan control as are the courts for the continuous control of the big industrial corporations engaged in interstate trade. Had such legislation been obtained in place of the Sherman act more than twenty years ago we would have advanced as far in the regulation of industrial corporations as we have in that of railroads.

"In this measure I provide for an interstate trade commission of five members, who shall receive $10,000 a year each. They shall exercise control over industrial corporations other than railroads, as the interstate commerce commission does over railroads."

Arkansas Anti-trust Ouster Suit Against Six Cotton Oil Concerns.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 26.—Suits were filed here by Attorney General William L. Moose under the senate anti-trust law against six cotton oil companies of this city, asking that they be ousted from the state and that fines of $4,215,000 be assessed against each because of alleged membership in a trust formed to control the price of cottonseed. The defendants are the Buckeye Cotton Oil company, Arkansas Cotton Oil Company, Little Rock Cotton Oil company, Southern Cotton Oil company, Dixie Cotton Oil company and Rose City Cotton Oil company.

The alleged trust has been in operation since Sept. 1, 1911, it is charged. The fine provided for by law is from $200 to $5,000 for each offense and each day such combination is in existence shall constitute a separate offense.

Attorney General Moose said that many other cotton oil companies in Arkansas have formed unlawful combinations and that he would soon institute suit against them.

The New Telephone Directory

For the New Jersey Division

Goes to Press Thursday, February 5, 1914

If you arrange for telephone service on or before that date your name will appear in the new book

MOST of your friends, your business associates, doctor, lawyer, druggist, dentist, grocer, —practically everyone with whom you have business or social relations, have telephone service. Their names appear in this most useful and most used directory.

Why not get your name in the new directory? Don't wait until an accident or emergency causes you to regret that you have no telephone. Arrange now to have one installed and enjoy its benefits every day in the year.

Advertisers who would reach the "pick of the population" find that the Telephone Directory is a profitable advertising medium.

Our nearest Commercial Office will gladly give you full information about rates, classes of service, and advertising space.

COUNCIL RECEIVES MANY PETITIONS

Residents Throughout the City Want More Street Lights.

LICENSES PROTESTED

Numerous petitions for lights in various parts of the city were received at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, and in one instance there was a request for the acceptance of streets in the East End. This came from the Mutual Land Improvement Company, through W. R. Codington secretary-treasurer. This company has been developing a tract of land in the vicinity of Dixie Lane and Helena avenue, and the petition sought to have these improved streets accepted and lighted by the city.

The Little Farms Company petitioned for two lights on Sherman avenue and William Jeffery requested the city to macadamize Monroe avenue, between West Eighth street and Sherman avenue. Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and others, asked for three lights, one on Clinton avenue, between Astor place and West Fourth street, another on West Fourth street, between Bergen street and Monroe avenue, and a third on Monroe avenue. All of these petitions were referred to the proper committees.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart referred to the Council a recommendation which came to him from W. B. Linde, for the petitioner, L. J. Richards, in which attention was called to the necessity of the city co-operating with the Union County Mosquito Commission to abolish breeding places for mosquitoes which were acknowledged to be carriers of malaria and other diseases. This was referred to the public affairs committee.

The Public Service Electric Company, through W. R. Causebrook, agent, requested permission to remove two trees at 175 East Front street, believing that it would materially aid in the new street lighting system about to be introduced. This was referred to the street lighting committee.

The Plainfield Construction Company, which has been developing a tract of land in the vicinity of Sherman avenue where a number of houses have been built and streets have been improved, petitioned for additional street lights, citing the fact that one of its tenants had complained of the darkness at night. The lights are wanted on Sherman avenue, between Plainfield and Grant avenues. This was referred to the light committee.

The Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union in a communication protested against the granting of any additional retail or wholesale liquor licenses. This was referred to the license committee. It is expected that the liquor licenses will be acted upon Monday night, February 2.

A resolution offered by Councilman Leighton Calkins, which was adopted, allowed the use of the Council chamber for the future meetings of the joint sewage commission, comprising the representatives of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen.

The Council authorized the public affairs committee to expend a sum not exceeding $17 to paint the exterior of the city dog pound, through a resolution offered by Mr. Claybrook.

Mr. Hylan reported back the petition of George P. Mellick for the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital regarding the changing of electric lights near the hospital, and the change was ordered made under the supervision of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett.

Councilman A. D. Edgar, for the police board, offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling for bids for furnishing the city with one thousand bags of oats, fifty tons of hay and twenty-five tons of straw for the city departments. They will be received and opened Monday night, March 2, at 8 o'clock.

The new electric light, authorized at a previous meeting, to be installed over the desks of the president and city clerk, having been put in position, President Clay expressed his thanks to the light committee. It is a small dome with the light concealed and makes an ornament in the Council chamber.

Leighton Calkins, chairman of the finance committee, to whom they had been referred, reported back for filing various reports of city officials, together with the bonds of Constables A. D. Ayers and G. R. Rockefeller, which were ordered recorded according to law. He also presented the preliminary report of the Universal Audit Company, which was filed.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline have removed from Warrenville to the corner of Madison avenue and Fifth street.

MAYOR STEWART'S APPOINTEES CONFIRMED

With the Exeption of Dr. T. S. Davis, Who Leaves Health Board.

The appointments made by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, a week ago, were unanimously confirmed at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, in accordance with resolutions offered by Councilman Leighton Calkins, with the exception of Dr. T. S. Davis as a member of the Board of Health to succeed himself. Dr. Davis requested the Mayor to withdraw his name, not wishing to serve any longer, and this was done.

The appointments confirmed were as follows: Board of Assessors, First ward, Thomas Hughes to succeed Clarence B. LaRue; Second ward, DeWitt C. Ivins to succeed Asa F. Randolph; Third ward, John G. MacLaughlin to succeed George E. Stillman; Fourth ward, Henry Liefke to succeed Harry C. Runyon; member of the Playground Commission, George P. Mellick to succeed himself; member of the Board of Health, Stephen H. Voorhees to succeed himself; sewer commission, Armstrong Mulford, Frank J. Hubbard, Daniel J. Coruain.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz offered a resolution, which was adopted, rescinding the appointment of Howard C. Tracy, Daniel J. Courain and John G. McLoughlin as a commission to assess cost and danages for sewer extensions, for the reason that the commission has never served and another one has been appointed.

OPEN-AIR STUDY AID TO CHILDREN

For That Reason City Will Be Asked to Support Outdoor School.

That open air studying aids children to rapid thinking is the opinion set forth in the report of Miss Bernice F. Beatman, teacher at the Open-Air School maintained by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Some parents are wondering whether their children who attend the public schools are receiving the advantages afforded by the open-air school.

Miss Beatman, who submitted her pupils to the Courtis speed tests in arithmetic, has compared the results with average results which should be secured from a class of normal indoor pupils. The open-air pupils exceeded the indoor pupils by a large margin. The comparative figures follow:

Indoor pupils—Examples done in one minute: Addition, 42; subtraction, 31; multiplication, 30; division, 30. Open-air: Addition, 48.6; subtraction, 46.6; multiplication, 38.5; division, 47.

All of the pupils at the open-air school have been physically subnormal, and some were behind grade in the public schools. The result of the Courtis test in the open-air school is regarded as a vindication of the theory of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, and is to be used as an argument by C. T. Elliott, James P. Murray, Dr. Clara DeH. Krans, Dr. F. E. DuBois and Dr. Edward S. Krans in urging the Board of Education to take over and maintain the open-air school.

Miss Beatman's report concludes "The open-air school not only enables the children who remain the year in the school to pass the grade in the public school, but it sends them all back to the public schools with stronger bodies and with a mind better fitted to take up the work of the next grade. If only the taxpayers would make it possible for us to accomodate more pupils our waiting list would be greatly reduced and we should be able to keep each child longer and thus do a greater and more permanent good."

CLAM CHOWDER SUPPER.

Under the auspices of the Sewing Society of the First Presbyterian church, a clam chowder supper will be served in the chapel of the church tomorrow evening from 5 to 7 o'clock the proceeds of which will be used by the society for its church work. It is expected that patrons will attend the prayer meeting which will follow at 8 o'clock.

A QUICK SETTLEMENT.

The loss on Adam C. Blair's stable which was badly damaged by fire Sunday morning, was very satisfactorily settled this morning through Messrs. J. C. Pope & Co., who carried the entire line on the building. This timely adjustment has enabled Mr. Blair to give out contracts to have the damage repaired at once.

Miss Mary Stites, of Linden avenue, after undergoing a successful operation at Muhlenberg hospital, has returned to her home.

PLAN BOROUGH SCHOOL CHANGES

Education Board Authorizes Architect to Prepare Sketch To Improve Building.

CRITICISM IS RESENTED

Former Mayor N. B. Smalley Says Frelinghuysen and Maguire Should Not Have Been Given Chance to Cause Threatened Tie-up of Cash.

The initial move by the North Plainfield Board of Education to make extensive changes in the old Somerset School building was taken last night, when Architect Charles Smith, of Grove street, was authorized to submit plans showing the proposed improvements. At a special meeting to be held Monday night, February 9, these drawings will be discussed thoroughly and either approved or refused by the members of the Board.

The proposed alterations will be in compliance with the demands of the State Board of Education, which insists that changes be made in order to conform with the school laws. These will include the erection of fireproof stairways, probably on the exterior of the building; fire-escapes and the changing of a number of windows so that better lighting facilities can be secured. A set of plans for the improvements was made over a year ago and were approved by the State officials, but probably will undoubtedly be discarded, as if carried out they would cut into from four to six rooms, necessitating the erection of a new school building.

The proposed improvements will cost about $15,000. It was stated last night that estimates that have been made have ranged from $10,000 to $18,000. Several members of the Board expressed doubt at last night's meeting as to whether the school voters would recommend the appropriation of this amount, in view of the fact that $18,000 was recently spent for the installation of a new heating and ventilating system and now $3,000 is being expended for a new system of toilets under construction. Despite these extensive and expensive improvements, Dr. J. H. Cooley, president of the Board, said last night that the State Board was as insistent as ever that the other improvements be made, and has threatened to condemn the structure, which would mean the closing of the school, and would withhold the State appropriations.

Former Senator Frelinghuysen, according to a statement last night made by Dr. Cooley, recently expressed himself as favoring this action in an article printed in Trenton newspapers, as the result of an address delivered to the school pupils by the Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. The latter, invited to speak by Principal Early, of the High School, denounced the Somerset School as a firetrap, endangering the lives of hundreds of children. Reading the article, Mr. Frelinghuysen is said to have signified his intention to take steps to withhould the State money, unless the school was made to comply with the State laws in every respect.

J. A. Van Mater inquired how it was that Rev. Mr. Maguire was invited to speak and Mr. Early attempted to explain, but Newton B. Smalley interposed, saying, "If Maguire and Frelinghuysen said we have a firetrap, I think it would be a good thing to call them before this Board. The damage has been done, and as Mr. Earley is here at his own discretion and has not been called upon by this Board for a statement, he should not be allowed to take part in the meetings." Later a resolution was adopted to the effect that the engagement of all proposed speakers in the school should be endorsed by the Board before being allowed to appear before the pupils.

Dr. Cooley urged that the needed improvements be made before the State Board took advantage of their powers to enforce the changes or impose hardships on the borough. "The Somerset School," he said, "does not conform with the State laws, and the question is shall we make the improvements or not? If we did the school would be far safer and better in every particular. Knowing these things, as we do, we should either get or put the problem up to the people to solve. We have insufficient light in many rooms, which is a serious matter. Straining of a child's eyes may bring upon it a life injury." Mr. Smalley stated that in his opinion the requirements of the State Board go beyond the danger zone. Mr. Van Mater scouted the idea of putting the matter before the voters for settlement, saying that at the elections the people who should come out to vote never show up. "We are between two fires," he said. "The citizens and taxpayers on one hand say we spend too much money and the State Board on the other are constantly demanding expensive improvements."

COMMISSION UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

"Fitz" Denied Injunction and Will Carry Matter to Higher Courts.

New York, Jan. 27.—Justice Seabury, of the Supreme Court, today, denied the application of Bob Fitzsimmons, former champion of the world, for an injunction restraining the New York State Athletic Commission from enforcing a certain alleged order addressed to the Atlantic Garden A. C. prohibiting it from allowing Fitzsimmons to engage in a boxing contest under the auspices of that club.

Justice Seabury, in his decision, said the members of the commission have presumably been selected because their special knowledge as to the matter pertaining to such contests and I know no reason why the judgment of the court upon this subject should be deemed superior to that of the commission.

When acquainted with the much delayed decision, Bob Fitzsimmons was dumb-founded, having looked forward to a favorable reply from the judge since the hearing in court two weeks ago. The ex-champion was greatly wrought up over the action and stated that he would carry the matter to still higher courts in the hopes of securing an injunction that will enable him to box in the Empire State. He further declared that the decision would have no effect on his plans to box in Williamsport, Pa., Thursday night, and the fight with Tom Daly will be carried out as planned. Judge Seabury's decision came as a great shock to the fighter and he was greatly aroused when acquainted with the news.

FIRST REHEARSAL TONIGHT FOR ELKS' MINSTREL SHOW

The first rehearsal of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks' 1914 minstrel show will be held in the club house in Watchung avenue, tonight. Judge William N. Runyon has consented to act as principal coach and with the assistance of Harry Weber will drill the troupe for the annual show, the date for which has not as yet been fixed. The recent large increase in the lodge membership has given the Elks an abundance of new talent and this year's show promises to be the greatest ever.

The committee which has been appointed to arrange all the details for the performance is composed of John H. Cose, chairman; Dr. C. L. Crist, Elmer D. Cutting, Harry N. Weber, Joseph F. O'Keeffe, Walter J. Marder, Clarence E. Teel and William N. Runyon.

KETTENRING PAYS $50 FINE; BOY'S SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Elizabeth, Jan. 27—Walter Kettenring, of North Plainfield, arraigned before Judge Connolly this morning, in the Common Pleas Court, was fined $50 for a serious offense, preferred by the husband of Mrs. James Knight, of Park avenue, Plainfield. Robert Newton Crane, attorney for the defendant, asserted while summing up that his client was a victim of a "frame-up," on the part of Mr. Knight, whom he said desired to secure evidence against his wife on which to start divorce proceedings. Kettenring paid the fine.

Joseph Miskell, 14 years old, and Frank McCarty, 16 years old, both of East Sixth street, Plainfield, who stole several dollars worth of cigarettes and toys last week from the store of W. H. Olmsted, a stationery dealer, of Plainfield, were given suspended sentences when arraigned in the Juvenile Court this morning. Judge Connolly said he was sorry to see such young boys committed to jail or a home for incorrigibles, and decided to give them another chance. McCarty said, "I promise Judge, I'll make good."

ORDERED TO LEAVE TOWN.

Arrested and charged by Patrolman Kelly with being intoxicated as he was attempting to make his way into the hallway of the Marsh building late last night, Irving Mundy, of Newark, was ordered to leave town this morning, when arraigned before City Judge DeMeza. On this condition his sentence was suspended.

CITY ENTITLED TO FREE LIGHTS

So Argues Corporation Counsel Reed Before Utility Commissioners.

GILMOUR IS OPPOSED

Question As to Whether City Shall Pay For Lighting Public Buildings Will Be Left to Utility Board to Determine.

Trenton, Jan. 27—Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, representing Plainfield, appeared today before the Public Utilities Commission, for argument as why the Public Service Corporation should not continue to give Plainfield free lighting in its city offices, fire and police stations, as in the past.

Mr. Reed contended that this free lighting clause was an agreement with the Public Service Corporation, a part of the franchise under which the old company was given permission to erect poles and string wires through the city. He considered it in the light of a rental for the rights the company enjoys in the city and that it was compelled to furnish the free light.

An important point raised by Mr. Reed was that if the company's contention as upheld, hat the agreement is not a part of the franchise, it will, in his opinion knock out the street paving rights under the law and result in a loss of many thousands of dollars to municipalities in the State, claiming that the law could not be enforced. The law provides that trolley companies shall pave a certain distance either side of tracks laid through a thoroughfare.

L. D. H. Gilmour, appearing for the company, contended that the company's franchise was granted through an ordinance, and was complete in itself, and that the agreement referred to was made several months later and was in no sense a part of the franchise.

The Public Utilities Board questioned the jurisdiction of the matter, stating that the case was a different one from that of a regular consumer. Both Mr. Reed and Mr. Gilmour noted the remarks of the commission. The latter was still presenting arguments this afternoon, and it is not believed that the commission will give a decision today.

The Common Council recently made a new contract with the Public Service Corporation for street lighting, in which a change in the style and candle power of the lamps was made. It was understood at the time that the contention regarding the free lighting clause should go before the Public Utnlities Commission, the city and company to abide by the decision.

GRACE CHURCH MEN'S CLUB SMOKER IN PARISH HOUSE

Forty members of the Men's Club of Grace church enjoyed a smoker and a musical entertainment last night in the auditorium of the parish house. During the evening F. W. Iredell, one of the vestrymen, who is also chairman of the musical committee of the club, read an original sketch. This was much appreciated and he was liberally applauded by his fellow members.

Samuel B. Howe of the Plainfield High School, gave a number of humorous selections besides repeating witty and highly amusing anecdotes. His stories were well received as was shown by the hearty applause that greeted him at his conclusion.

The male quartet of Grace church, composed of Messrs. Martin, Tallamy, Sprowl and Patterson sang a number of selections, the audience joining with lusty vigor in the stirring choruses. Selections rendered by the quartet during the evening were "The Old Oaken Bucket," "Love's Old Sweet Song," Juanita," "Rocked in the Crade of the Deep," "The Bulldog," "Nancy Lee," "Sailing, Sailing," Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" and "Old Black Joe." Organist S. Frederick Smith of Grace church was the accompanist on the piano. Refreshments were served.

There is some talk of a minstrel show being given by the Men's Club sometime after Lent.

CHORAL SOCIETY REHEARSAL.

The last meeting, with the exception of one, before the concert of the Kornlimo Choral Society, will be held in the First Presbyterian chapel this evening at eight o'clock. The last rehearsal, next Wednesday evening, will be held at the Hartridge Auditorium. Final arrangements will be made this evening for the concert.

"THE TABERNACLE."

Miss Mabel Wilson will speak on "The Tabernacle," at the weekly meeting of the Plainfield Graded Union of Sunday-school Teachers at the Y. M. C. A., Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The public is invited.

RASORES PLAN FOR LABOR EXHIBIT

Will Open Tonight and Continue During Week at Public Library.

With a view of awakening public interest among the people of Plainfield on the subject of child labor and the need of legislation in this State aimed at the better protection of the life and limbs of children wage-earners, a child labor exhibit will be opened this evening in the lecture room of the new Public Library building.

Arrangements for the exhibit, which will be most interesting, portraying as it will, by illustrated charts and other pictures the working conditions under which children of tender years labor in this State, have been made by the Rasores Club of Plainfield. The exhibit will be shown under the auspices of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance during the afternoons and evenings of this week during which time the exhibit will continue. Club women of Plainfield, through co-operation, can, it is said, do much to foment a State-wide agitation with the end in view of some legislative enactment that will afford better protection to the young than exists at the present time. Pamphlets, describing fully the deplorable conditions of employment which boys and girls forced to aid in the support of poor families, are obliged to work, will be distributed to those persons who attend the child labor exhibit. Some score of charts, especially prepared by the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will be shown the public.

MAYOR CLARK AGAIN URGES CONSOLIDATION

Tells Members of Monday Afternoon Club That He Hopes They Will Work For It.

Urging the wisdom of the annexation and consolidation of the Borough of North Plainfield and Plainfield, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., asked the members of the Monday Afternoon Club, at their meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Public Library, to give their aid and co-operation to the project. He urged all citizens to stand firmly together in the endeavor to amalgamate the two municipalities which he declared would make for the general good and for a "Greater Plainfield." His remarks, which though brief were much to the point, were applauded by the two-score women present.

Mayor Clark pointed out the fact that North Plainfield residents contributed generously to Plainfield public undertakings and charities of various kinds, deposited their money in Plainfield banks, patronized Plainfield business houses, aided largely in taxation, but derived little, if any benefit therefrom, Plainfield receiving all the credit.

Annexation and consolidation of the two municipalities would materially benefit North Plainfield, Mayor Clark admitted, lowering the present tax rate 32 points and increasing Plainfield's tax rate 7 points but nevertheless he supported and advocated the merger on the grounds of betterment in every way to both communities. Efforts made to annex the borough and consolidate it with Plainfield, Mayor Clark said, were defeated only because of the failure of those most interested to conduct a campaign of education before the referendum was offered to the people. The sentiment generally now, he said, was that annexation and consolidation would be a most excellent idea.

The project was first advanced in 1903. Plainfield's population by the 1910 census is 20,500. The population of the Borough of North Plainfield is 6,117. Through consolidation North Plainfield would save from $4,000 to $5,000 in taxes. As showing the financial effect of such a merger Mayor Clark stated that Plainfield this year needs to raise $523,772 and North Plainfield must raise $100,000. The assessed valuation of property in Plainfield he gave as $27,821,000. North Plainfield's assessed valuation of property totals $4,344,000, a total for the two places of $32,156,025. Together the two municipalities must raise this year $624,241. The tax rate in Plainfield now is $1.87 and in the Borough of North Plainfield $2.26. Under consolidation the tax rate Mayor Clark declared would be $1.94.

TAKE STEPS TO SECURE CITY HALL

Common Council Authorizes Investigation As to Wisdom of Such Action.

EXPECT EARLY REPORT

Plan of Public Affairs Committee is to Erect a Building For All the City Departments, Thereby Saving Large Rental.

The necessity of Plainfield owning a city hall in which all departments can be comfortably housed, being apparent to Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, chairman, as well as other members of the public affairs committee, he offered a resolution at last night's meeting of the Common Council, which was adopted, authorizing the committee to investigate the advisability of erecting a city hall and to report as soon as convenient.

Mr. Claybrook in speaking of the matter after the meeting, said that a half-million dollar corporation, such as Plainfield, should own a city hall, where all departments could be provided with suitable quarters, and at a saving to the city. He said that he understood that $2,700 a year is now being paid in rents, which could be applied toward a city hall, which would be a credit to Plainfield.

"At present," said Mr. Claybrook, "the Board of Health offices are in one part of the city, and while the other city offices are practically in one building on North avenue, they are not well arranged to get the best results. If the city decides to build it can plan the structure to meet the individual needs of each department."

So far as known the public affairs committee has no definite plans for a site, but it proposes to begin its investigation at once with the idea of ascertaining what land is available and the probable cost of the same. The $2,700 now paid yearly in rents represents about 5 per cent on $50,000 and there are a number of the councilmen as well as others who are interested, who believe that that sum of money might better be applied to paying off interest on bonds. Mr. Claybrook says that his committee proposes to begin its investigation at once so that an early report can be made.

CAPTAIN AMUNDSEN'S PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

The abiding interest of the American public in polar exploration was made evident by the enthusiasm with which Captain Amundsen was received as a lecturer in this country. For those who could not hear the wonderful story from Captain Amundsen's own lips there remains an excellent substitute—the account of the expedition from start to finish by Rev. W. A. Hunsberger, and he will give that famous lecture at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

Captain Amundsen's original stereopticon pictures will be used to illustrate the lecture. The story of the discovery of the South Pole is a tale of unparalleled endeavor and is told in the most simple, graphic matter of fact way that any story of any explorer was ever told. It is full of human interest from start to finish. A nominal admission fee will be charged adults not members of the Sunday-school to help defray the expenses. This entertainment will take the place of the one usually held at Christmas time.

SCHEDULE OF EXAMINATIONS IN BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

The regular midyear examinations of the North Plainfield High and Grammar Schools will begain tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. The examinations of the first period will be given at that time and the second period tests will start at 10 o'clock. On Thursday the exams of the third and fourth periods will be given and those of the fifth and sixth will take place on Friday.

Because of the new law that has just been made by the State Board, every student will report at school each day for the opening exercises and for one period of recitation. The regular school session will be held for one hour, from 8:20 to 9:20, so that the pupils may be marked "present" and the school may draw its regular appropriation from the State.

Dunellen & Vicinity

The mid-year examinations of the local public schools were commenced today.

The oil pipe line that passes through this section of the country, between Lincoln and the Greenbrook tanks burst some time Sunday morning causing considerable excitement in that section. Some of the representatives of the oil company were in town yesterday trying to enlist the help of six men for the purpose of repairing the break. Peter Benson and Arthur Barto were the only two from this borough who accepted the job.

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church met in the chapel rooms last night and transacted the customary business of the body.

Thomas Beck, of Jackson avenue, the conductor of the Plainfield drill engine of the C. R. R., who broke several bones in his foot several weeks ago, is again able to be out and around without the use of either cane or crutches.

The members of the Baraca Class, of the Presbyterian church, are making good use of the bowling alleys connected with that edifice. Every night during the week members of the class congregate and bowling contests are held to see who can outroll the others. As a result of these evenings spent together a team of fairly good bowlers has been picked out which will represent the class in several bowling matches with out-of-town teams in the near future.

N. F. Guyre, of Washington avenue and Front street, met with a serious accident early Saturday morning by slipping on an icy pavement which threw him to the ground. As a result of the fall he received a severe gash in the side of his head which necessitated the assistance of a doctor. Mr. Guyre was assisted to his home by a passerby and a doctor was called in. Several stitches were necessary. Owing to the shock as well as the wound, Mr. Guyre has been unable to leave his home.

Edward Pennock, the North avenue druggist, who about three weeks ago met with an accident while opening a bottle of hydrofluric acid, the neck of which broke when he tried to remove the cork, spilling the acid which burned very rapidly and deeply, over the first three fingers of his left hand, is slowly recovering from the effects of the burn and is again able to use that hand to some extent in the performing of his business duties.

A large party of the local skating enthusiasts of the younger set were sadly disappointed last night when they went over to the New Market pond expecting to spend the evening by enjoying the skating which for the past couple of weeks, with the exception of a very few days, has been excellent. Owing to the thaw, caused by the rising temperature yesterday afternoon, the surface of the ice was rather soft and therefore spoiled the pleasure of those who anticipated the exercise.

'Plains & Fanwood.

H. C. Myers, of Front street, is having a two and a half story frame dwelling erected on his property, on Park avenue, just northwest of North avenue.

A dancing class comprised of the younger set of folks in town will hold a dance in Meyers' Hall tonight.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 35

MANY chewing gums advertise things that are in them. MO-JO is the only one that advertises the important things that are not in it.

MO-JO is the only chewing gum that cries out from the very house tops.

—I am white.
—I am clean.
—There is not a speck of impurity in me.

MO-JO chewing gum is made by a special process that thoroughly purifies the crude gum and eliminates every atom of dirt.

It is the only chewing gum that is white through and through.

Insist on clean gum and you will get MO-JO.

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS TO HONOR PATRIOTS

Washington and Lincoln Will Be Eulogized On February 23 By Local Men.

At a recent meeting of the Knights of Columbus in Atlantic City, where many cities of the State were represented, it was decided to make a uniform and wide-spread movement to celebrate all legal holidays in a befitting manner. In conformity with this action, preparations are now being made to celebrate Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays.

In this city a joint observance of the birth of these great men and makers of history in this country will be held Monday night, February 23, in the Columbus Club Auditorium. The Knights of Columbus of Somerville, Westfield and this city will unite in making the event a success and a notable one.

Meeting last night in the Columbus Club house in West Front street, delegates from the councils in these places were present and discussed the event. What form the affair will take will be decided upon later. Whether it be a banquet, reception, or other form of festivity, however, prominent speakers from various parts of the State will be secured to deliver addresses on the lives of Washington and Lincoln, and local orators will be asked to speak on "Patriotism."

BOARD CONSIDERS ROUTINE MATTERS

Improvements Planned For the Public Schools of North Plainfield.

The advisibility of building a basement under the present structure used for manual training, was discussed at a meeting of the Borough Board of Education, last night, it being suggested in the report of Supervising Principal A. B. Vossler. This will be taken up in the near future. The board authorized Charles Smith, an architect, to secure estimates for the work of connecting the new system of lavatories and shower rooms with the main boiler.

Mr. Vossler in his report called the board's attention to the fact that during a recent cold spell there seemed to be some trouble in securing an even heat throughout the school rooms. Hiram A. Woodruff was authorized to engage an electrical expert to be present at a test of the motors installed as a part of the ventilating system.

Thomas MacDonald, janitor of the High School, was formally appointed "attendance officer" and rules covering that office were adopted. Mr. Vossler was authorized to secure donations of $5 and $10 for the prize-speaking contest among the pupils. Upon his request, an appropriation of $50 was made to cover his expenses in attending the annual convention of the National Educational Association to be held next month in Richmond, Va.

An inventory of the school paraphernalia was submitted and rules for medical inspection were adopted. It was stated that $165 was needed for the rebinding of text books and purchase of new ones and this was authorized.

Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson, representing the Borough Parent-Teacher Association, attended the board meeting to watch the proceedings and become familiar with the business as conducted by the members. There was nothing of special interest to Mrs. Hutchinson taken up. The board gave her a cordial welcome and expressed its pleasure over the interest shown by the women in school affairs.

Bills aggregating $4,260.04 were ordered paid account of the general fund; $220.80, account of manual training; $807.50 toilet account, and $89.71 for coal. The renewal of notes in amount $1,000 and $500 was authorized and the balances as reported by Clerk Frank Rowley are: General, $23,146.75; manual training, $2,149.70; repair, $1,039.50; toilet, $4,253.18 and heating and ventilating account, $559.59.

ENJOY AN ILLUSTRATED TALK ON MODERN CHINA

Rev. John M. Usher, pastor of St. Bartholomew's church in New York city, interested a large audience of people in the rooms of the Holy Cross parish house, last night, delivering a lecture on "Modern China," under the auspices of the Holy Cross Sunday-school. The speaker illustrated his talk with numerous stereopticon views and described the various phases of life in the Orient as it exists at the present time.

Outlining the industries of the country as they are being carried on by the better class of people, Mr. Usher compared the various trades and commercial enterprises with those of America and showed the rapid progress that has been made along numerous lines of civic work.

FLAYS FRISCO ROAD MANAGERS

Poor Financing Wrecked the System, Says Report.

INSIDERS GOT THE PROFITS

Bankers Are All Criticised—Net Cost of Financing Securities Since 1901 Amounted to $30,500,000—Twelve Per Cent of Funded Debt In Discounts.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Charging that the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad system was thrown into a receivership through financial and not operating difficulties, the interstate commerce commission rendered its report to the senate on the management of the Frisco lines in response to a resolution of inquiry passed by that body on June 10, 1913.

The sale of securities to the investing public through the bankers, says the report, "at a time when every appearance indicated the insolvency of the issuing company, invites and warrants condemnation of all those who assisted or participated in such sale."

Speyer & Co. should have been aware of the poverty of the Frisco and of its difficulties in obtaining funds, the report adds, as the banking firm advanced to the company on April 24 $725,000 on its demand note and $50,000 on its demand note dated April 29 and applied the proceeds of the sale of $1,000,000 of these bonds on May 2 to the liquidation of these notes.

The report goes on to say:

"While the Frisco was compelled to borrow funds from every available source, it continued the policy of advancing money to companies in Texas.

"The difficulties of the Frisco were of a financial and not of an operating character."

First.—Disproportionate capitalization.

Second.—Acquisition of new lines.

Third.—Financing by the Frisco of the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico railroad and other south Texas lines.

Fourth.—Assumption of the heavy fixed charges in the acquisition of the stock of the Chicago and East Illinois railroad.

Insiders' Profits.

The commission shows that in twelve years discounts on bonds and notes and premiums paid on the retirement of underlying issues cost the Frisco system "the enormous amount of $32,152,692." The commission makes the startling statement that of the net amount of the Frisco's funded debt now outstanding more than 12.05 per cent represents discounts and commissions which went to bankers.

"Within the widest possible range of reasonable charges to the public," says the report, "no transportation company constructed and living upon borrowed capital can long survive a situation in which it sells security at 62½ cents on a dollar and pays interest on the par value thereof.

"At 4 per cent the $30,665,749 of net discounts and commissions carried by the Frisco represents an annual expenditure of $1,226,630 for interest upon money which it never received.

"The accounts show that the securities were sold at prices higher than those above quoted, but commissions varying from 1 to 1½ per cent, paid to bankers, aggregated more than $3,000,000."

The commission's report shows that the insiders, including B. F. Yoakum, profited handsomely from sales of railroad properties made to the Frisco company. The commission gives the details of several of these transactions and shows clearly that some of the properties were handed to the Frisco at a considerable increase over the cost of construction. The interstate commerce commission is unable to give all of the details of these syndicate transactions through which insiders profited

CALLS EMORY SPEER A MISFIT

Witness Lauds Him as Prosecutor, but Damns Him as Judge.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 27.—A. A. Lawrence, prominent Savannah attorney, was the first witness called at the hearing of charges against Federal Judge Emory Speer.

Lawrence was particularly bitter in his denunciation of Judge Speer and exhibited an eagerness to tell everything he knew of the conduct of the court. He stated that he had little respect for the judge or his supervision of the court, but a wholesome respect for his ability as a prosecuting attorney.

"Judge Speer is a misfit," he said. "He should never have been a judge, but should have remained at the bar."

OPPOSE FREEDOM FOR BONI.

German Catholics Petition Vatican Not to Annul Marriage.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Prominent German Catholics are strong in their opposition to the possible annulment of the Gould-Castellane marriage by the Vatican. This action is considered a violation of the sacred tenets of the church, both by laymen and clergy.

It is said that numerous protests have been sent to the Vatican. The final decision in the case has not been rendered, but it is expected in a very short time.

JOHN MITCHELL.

Governor Glynn May Place Him on Compensation Board.

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, will probably be one of Governor Glynn's first selections for a place on the workmen's compensation insurance commission. The presence of Mr. Mitchell at the executive chamber in company with Senator John F. Healey of Westchester was significant in that the opposition to Mitchell's confirmation as state labor commissioner when ex-Governor Sulzer sent his name to the senate was credited to Westchester county. Governor Glynn would not admit that he was about to appoint Mr. Mitchell to the commission. "I have talked to Mr. Mitchell," he said, "but further than that I have nothing to say."

GEN. HUERTA'S FALL IS AWAITED BY U. S.

Growing Signs of Revolt In Federal Army.

Mexico City, Jan. 27.—It is reported here that Rear Admiral Fletcher is under orders to land 3,000 marines and bluejackets at Vera Cruz and rush them to the capital by special train as soon as Huerta gives up, what everybody now knows to be his practically hopeless fight. This is taken to mean that Washington counts on the growing signs of revolt in the federal army to materialize into some definite development in the near future. The naval force will be charged with the duty of not only protecting all foreigners in the capital, it is said, but of preventing any Huerta sympathizer from seizing the reins of government. A fair election to decide the question of the dictator's successor is to be guaranteed.

It is generally believed here that the Mexican gunboat Zaragoza, which is anchored at Vera Cruz, is being held for the express purpose of transporting Huerta to Havana or some other haven when he is forced out. The officers and crew of the waiting boat are being paid in American money.

With the government already in arrears with many commands there was no prospect of its being able to meet the payroll of the army at the end of the month. To meet so desperate a situation desperate action had to be taken, hence the decree suspending for six months payment of interest on the national debt and diverting the customs collections, pledged to the payment of that interest, to military purposes. The government hopes that the $9,000,000 thus left free will enable it to put down the revolt.

75 DIE IN THEATER FIRE.

Women and Children Trampled at Film Show In Java.

Amsterdam, Holland, Jan. 27.—Fifty-eight children, sixteen women and one man were killed in a moving picture theater fire in Surabaya, Java, according to cable dispatches received from there.

The fire was caused by an exploding film, and the women and children were trampled in the rush to escape from the burning building.

NEW CUTS IN OCEAN WAR.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals for the construction of the New Jersey State Building to be erected on the site selected on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, California, from the plans and specifications prepared by the Department of Charities and Corrections, Mr. Hugh Roberts, Consulting Architect, will be received at the office of the State Treasurer, in the State House, at Trenton, New Jersey, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the 30th day of January, 1914 when they will be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be submitted sealed in opaque envelopes, addressed to the New Jersey Commission for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, care of the State Treasurer, and marked "Proposals for the New Jersey Building." Each proposal must be accompanied by cash or a certified check, drawn to the order of the State Treasurer, for ten per cent. of the amount thereof, as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract for the performance of the work, should his proposal be accepted, within a reasonable time thereafter. Each bidder must be prepared to furnish an acceptable Surety Bond for one-half the amount of the contract. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. Plans and specifications may be obtained by application to the Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, State House, Trenton, New Jersey.

A POOR REASON.

When it was proposed that the olive branch be extended to the Progressives of Essex county by the Republican organization at a recent meeting held in Newark, Senator Austen Colgate said "the old elephant is getting blamed angry." If the only argument that can be presented for uniting the two parties, is that someone wants office, the subject might as well be dropped at once. The Progressives are fighting for principle, and for better government, and there is not a sincere man among the leaders in that party who cares a continental for office, except in so far as it will help him to reform conditions for the whole people.

Imagine a man of Everett Colby's record and attainment being attracted to return to a party that has time and again betrayed the trust granted to it by the people, by the promise that if he will do so, he can run for office with reasonable assurance that he will be elected. The leaders and the rank and file of the Progressive party are fighting for the whole people, and they will continue to fight until everything they stand for has been accomplished. The proper thing for the Republicans to do is to go over to the Progressives, who have shown that the mere desire for office is not swaying them in the slightest particular.

Alarms were rung in from two different boxes for the fire in Blair's livery stable early on Sunday morning, and so far apart were the boxes that many people thought that two blazes were in progress. The first alarm was turned in by a policeman who saw the glow from a distance of a quarter of a mile or more, while the second was given by Chief Doane from the box nearest the fire. As a result there was much confusion to the callmen and also to the drivers in taking the apparatus to the fire, to say nothing of the general public, who went in every direction in trying to reach the scene. There is a lesson to be learned from this by every citizen. If you are not sure of the exact location of the nearest firebox to your home, find out where it is at once, and then if you have occasion to send in an alarm you will know exactly where to go. At such time seconds are precious in summoning aid, and familiarizing yourself with the fireboxes in your neighborhood may be of untold value in saving property. It can also be borne in mind that the telephone is the quickest way of all to call the firemen and all that is necessary to do when using it is to call central and tell her that you want fire headquarters in a hurry. You do not have to look up the number. This also applies when in need of the police.

Publication of the serial story, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," founded on the play of the same name now running in New York city, will begin in the Daily Press tomorrow night, as is announced elsewhere in today's paper. We consider ourselves very fortunate in being able to secure this excellent story by Earl Derr Biggars for the perusal of our readers, and if it is found to be a popular feature it will be followed by a number of equally well known stories by famous writers. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is without doubt the finest serial story that has ever been published by a Plainfield newspaper, with a tale of absorbing interest. It is a modern day story of political life, with many fascinating characters which are depicted in a human and entertaining manner, and we commend it to our readers.

Hoboken is a manufacturing city of 267,000 people, according to the 1910 census. There is food for thought about Plainfield's progress when the building conditions in the city of Germans and beer in 1913 are compared with those of the Queen City. In Hoboken $454,569 was spent for the erection of new buildings and improvements of all kinds last year, while in Plainfield, with about 25,000 inhabitants, as has been shown exclusively in the Daily Press, the total amount was over $938,000. What do the carping critics say about those figures? They tell their own tale.

Governor Fielder will complete, when he makes his appointments this year, the turning out of office of all Republicans and the control of the State government will be completely in the hands of the Democrats. On the whole the men appointed to positions of trust in the State by both Governor Wilson and Governor Fielder have been competent, and the disinterested observer will admit that the State seems to be as well run under Democratic administration as it was under the Republicans. As yet there is no cause for alarm because of the change in the principal officeholders in the State.

Mark Klaw, the theatrical man, says that the New York critics are unfair. Certainly there has been nothing unfair in their criticism of the disgusting sex plays which some theatrical managers insist upon inflicting upon the public.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE OF A. O. H. LADIES' AUXILIARY

Friends of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Division No. 5, A. O. H., crowded K. of P. Hall, in West Front street, last night, the occasion being the organization's second annual dance. A lengthy program was enjoyed by the guests and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Margaret McCarthy as chairman of the arrangement committee, was assisted in making the event a success by the Misses Mary Donnelly, Anna Dallon, Delia Lowery, Celia Halligan, Sarah Cocles, Mary Bergen and B. V. McCue.

PERSONAL.

Marc Waldron, of Califon, is the guest of Earl Vickerton, of Greenbrook. Mr. Waldron is well-known in the borough, as he resided on Coddington avenue for ten years prior to last fall.

Miss Irene Newman, of Bayside, L. I., has returned home after a week's visit with Miss M. A. Martin, of Sycamore avenue.

George B. Cose, of Schenectady, N. Y., formerly of this city, has been spending the past week with his brother, John H. Cose, of Spooner avenue, and other relatives.

James Evans, of Lenox avenue, who was recently discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, where he was a patient for eight months, was removed yesterday to Bonnie Burn for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Townley and son, Alfred, of Watchung avenue, have returned after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eaton, formerly of the borough, but now of New York.

Miss Dorothy Stangle, of East Seventh street, is detained at her home with an attack of appendicitis.

Miss Edna Mowen, of East Sixth street, is able to be about again after being detained to her home by illness.

EDWARDS STATE COMPTROLLER.

Trenton, Jan. 27—Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, was today reelected State comptroller by the legislature. His term is for three years, the salary being $6,000 a year. John D. Everett, of Essex county, former treasurer of the State Republican committee, received a complimentary vote for the office.

Preparatory services will be held at Warren chapel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

L. N. LITTAUER.

Ex-Congressman Indicted For Smuggling In Gems.

An indictment charging former Congressman Lucius N. Littauer of Gloversville, N. Y., with smuggling has been voted by a federal grand jury. Ex-Congressman Littauer, who is reported to be a millionaire, is charged with bringing a $40,000 necklace into this country during November last upon which no duty was paid. When secret service agents began an investigation Mr. Littauer is said to have turned the necklace over to the federal customs authorities. In connection with the same case a true bill was also found against William Littauer, a brother of the former congressman. The indictments, which were secretly voted last Thursday, will be handed down to the February term of the federal court.

LITTAUER INDICTED FOR SMUGGLING GEMS

Ex-Congressman Is Charged With Hiding Jewelry.

New York, Jan. 27.—A sealed indictment has been handed down by the federal grand jury against former Congressman Lucius N. Littauer and his brother, William Littauer.

Federal authorities refused to discuss the matter, but it is known that the true bill was brought under section 3082 of the revised statutes, which provides a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than two years, or both, for smuggling.

In the formal language of the indictment Lucius Littauer is charged with "concealing and facilitating the transportation of merchandise, clandestinely introduced into the country, without accounting for duties legally due thereon," and his brother is charged with conspiring to the same end.

The Littauers are members of the wealthy firm of Littauer Bros., glovers, of Gloversville, N. Y. In November Lucius Littauer returned from a trip abroad and after a brief stay in this city is said to have proceeded to Washington. In the meantime, however, it is rumored, the customs authorities heard of a $40,000 diamond necklace which Littauer brought over with him, and an inspector was sent on to the capital. Hearing of the latter's coming, Littauer is said to have anticipated his visit by coming to this city and turning the diamond necklace over to the authorities.

According to one story, William Littaur received the necklace after his brother had brought it from abroad. The inquiry conducted by Collector of the Port Dudley Field Malone is supposed to have disclosed the fact that the necklace was brought into the country without any duty being paid thereon.

THREE GAMBLERS GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Charged with gambling in a barn in East Sixth street, three hackmen were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning, and received suspended sentences. They were Edward Heath and William Hall of East Sixth street, and Rufus Brown, colored, of West Fourth street. The latter is employed by Howard Groves, who caused his arrest, claiming that the prisoner gambled with money that did not belong to him. Brown promised to reimburse his employer.

NETHERWOOD CHURCHMEN WANT EAST SIDE SCHOOL

Discussion as to the need of a new public school in the East End aroused much interest last night among the members of the Dutch Arms of the Netherwood Reformed church at their meeting held at the home of E. W. Hughes, on Columbia avenue.

The conscensus of opinion among those present seemed to be that the school facilities were very inadequate in that particular section of the city and that ways and means should be found, and that speedily, to provide additional school accomodation for the many children of the people living in that locality.

COLORED COUPLE BANISHED.

Charles Milford, colored, of Plainfield avenue, was ordered to leave town, and Fannie Green, also colored, of the same address was given 90 days in all when appearing before City Judge DeMeza this morning charge with larceny of clothing and a watch valued at $50 from Thomas Jones, colored. The couple were arrested in Rahway. Milford ran away, the police say, with the Green woman, leaving his wife in this city.

INSTALLATION TONIGHT.

The installation of its new officers by grand officers from other parts of the State and a smoker, will feature tonight's meeting of Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum. Several candidates will also be initiated. Regent E. P. Shearer has sent notice to all members to be present, as the new books and passes will be distributed. Refreshments will also be served.

POLICE BOARD ORDERS THREE MOTORCYCLES

To aid in the capture of automobile speeders and to enable the police to cover a greater area in less time, the police board of the Common Council, last night, decided to purchase three motorcycles. Five bicycles will also be added to the equipment of the force.

This is an improvement in police facilities resulting from Chief Kiely's recommendations to the Common Council in his yearly report for 1913. "With experienced men on high powered machines," the chief said," "I believe autoists of this city and those of other places passing through our streets, will realize that they have little chance to escape if noticed speeding."

It is understood that there are twenty-seven applicants for positions on the police force. They are being considered by the board and from among the number a selection of possibly four or five will be chosen.

STRANGERS ATTEMPT TO PASS FORGED CHECKS

An attempt made last night to swindle the Queen City Hotel out of $10 was frustrated owing to the fact being known to the hotel management that Henri Pedeflous, whose name the check bore, had not yet returned from abroad. Mr. Pedeflous was expected to reach Plainfield yesterday but his steamer was delayed.

The request to the management of the hotel that the check be cashed was made by a young man, tall, slender and well dressed, who insisted that the check had been given him by Mr. Pedeflous in the afternoon. Telephoning to the well-known roadhouse the hotel management learned that the young man had visited there and had asked for and had been given two blank checks bearing the imprint of Mr. Pedeflous. The stranger disappeared before he could be apprehended. A similar effort was made at the F. L. C. Martin Auto Company's place on Park avenue.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH MEMBERS FORM MISSION STUDY CLASS

The missionary committee of the Grace M. E. church met last night at the home of Mrs. E. P. Stevens, of 65 Grandview avenue, and organized a class to study "Missions in America." Virgil Heath was selected as teacher and the classes will meet the second and fourth Monday of each month at the homes of different members. Every phase of home missionary work will be discussed at these sessions.

The Junior Epworth League of the Grace M. E. church will hold services Thursday night in the church, when an interesting program of addresses and music will be rendered. It is hoped that Mr. James R. Joy, superintendent of the First M. E. church Sunday-school, and Miss Grace Rohrbach, a national officer of the Women's Home Missionary Society, who spoke last Sunday at services in the church, will be able to speak at one of these Thursday night meetings which are held weekly for the benefit of the Junior League.

RADIUM FOR ALL IS LANE'S PLAN

Want United States to Control the Supply.

LAND TO BE WITHDRAWN.

Scientific Study of Ore Extraction Methods Will Be Made by the Government—He Says Element Is Now Only a Millionaire's Cancer Remedy.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, disclosed to the house committee on mines and mining, which has under consideration the Lane-Foster radium bill, the plans of the government for the development of a supply of radium from public and private lands. The secretary came out flatly before the house committee for the withdrawal of all remaining radium ore lands from public entry, declaring that the fight for the segregation was so "strongly" tinged with human interest that it was really a "battle for our mothers and fathers, sisters and brothers, to protect them against the ravages of cancer."

He backed up this declaration with the statement that radium ought "not to be merely a millionaire's remedy, but a cure within the reach of the poor man." Further he announced that his policy contemplated "as a public duty" a big fight to prevent the monopolization of radium.

"There can be no question that it is our duty to secure as much as possible of the curative agent," said Secretary Lane, "because we know that it is a cure for superficial cancer.

"I was alarmed in my investigation when I discovered that 75 per cent of the radium is made in this country and that we have only two grams here. I found, too, that we are sending this radium across the water and are forced to buy it back. The second danger was that there would be a monopoly of the lands and radium.

"It seemed to me that it was manifestly my duty to inaugurate a movement to prevent this. This resolution only means withdrawal from exploitation by private interests, so that these lands may not be held out against the interests of our people. Added to this idea is the idea of development of these lands.

Explains Plan.

"Our plan would be to open 360 acres to each prospector, protect him if he got anything, and then take 25 per cent if he found anything. The remaining 75 per cent would go on the market."

Secretary Lane declared that the government has under consideration a partnership with Dr. Howard Kelly of Baltimore and Dr. Douglas, which contemplate government control of a a factory at Denver giving Dr. Kelly seven grams of radium, the first manufactured, the doctor to furnish the ore.

"Congress will pass the proposed bill by an overwhelming majority," the secretary predicted after he had left the committee room. "I find that most congressmen favor this plan. It is now only a matter of working out details and methods. The people of this country want this law, and congress needs no further appeal."

Secretary Lane read dozens of letters from Colorado physicians in support of his plan.

"I want to show what the real spirit in Colorado is," he explained, "and I want to use these letters as material against the attitude I expect Representative Taylor of Colorado will take when he gets back home.

"The whole idea of the proposed legislation is not to bottle up these lands or to put a check on private enterprise. This element is like the fountain of eternal youth and it ought not to be a subject of speculation. It ought to be within the reach of all."

FOUR KILLED ON MAURETANIA

Explosion on Liner In Drydock—Seven Seriously Injured.

Liverpool, Jan. 27.—Four men were killed and seven were seriously injured by an explosion on the Cunard liner Mauretania at the Cunard dock here.

The annual overhauling of the liner was proceeding, and fitters were repairing the starboard turbine. They were using cylinders of compressed gas, one of which exploded in a group of twenty or thirty men. Those of the men who escaped death or injury fled for a moment to escape suffocation from the fumes, but returned immediately to rescue their comrades. The woodwork of the vessel caught fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished.

BIG RADISHES FOR BRYAN.

Alabama Sends Two Giants That Eclipse California's.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 27.—Two Japanese radishes weighing twenty-eight and twenty-five pounds, respectively, were shipped to Secretary Bryan at Washington from Grand Bay, this county.

They are only five months old and are larger than the California ones sent him.

Think White Slavers Hold Girl.

Boston, Jan. 27.—That Miss Eleanor Arlin, a Brooklyn girl, who has been missing since Jan. 13, is the victim of white slavers, is the belief of Mrs. Calvin C. Gould of Detroit, an aunt, who arrived in Boston to direct the search for the missing girl.

JOSEPH J. JOHNSON.

New York Ex-Fire Commissioner Rallying After the Operation.

Joseph J. Johnson, fire commissioner under Mayor Gaynor, who was operated on for appendicitis by Dr. John F. Erdmann of 60 West Fifty-second street, was resting comfortably, and hopes for his ultimate recovery are entertained by the physicians. Over the telephone Dr. Erdmann said: "The condition of Mr. Johnson was such that we are confident that he will recover from the effects of his operation. He was operated on for a gangrenous appendix aggravated by diffuse peritonitis. The danger lies in the latter complication, but I consider his chances for recovery excellent."

WARSHIP WITH 1,000 UNDER QUARANTINE

Yellow Flag on Arkansas Because of Diphtheria.

New York, Jan. 27.—The new battleship Arkansas, which ties her sister ship, the Wyoming, for the honor of being the largest vessel in the United States navy, is now quarantined in the Brooklyn navy yard, and the 1,000 officers and men on board have no chance of leaving her for at least ten days or two weeks. Captain Roy Smith is one of those held on board under the quarantine.

The trouble looks like the start of a big epidemic of diphtheria. One seaman, William Dunston, is in the Naval hospital of the yard on Flushing avenue, and fourteen more men were ill of severe sore throats and fever. Dunston was known definitely to have diphtheria, and while the other fourteen men show symptoms under the microscope they do not yet show they have the illness under the clinical test—that is, the diphtheretic germs have lodged in their throats, but so far the germs have not got into their blood.

The physicians can lessen the chances of these men becoming ill, but they cannot insure absolute recovery. It all depends on how far the germs penetrated before the illness was discovered.

There was no immediate danger that the whole navy yard would be quarantined, but if the epidemic shows any signs of spreading beyond the Arkansas the medical authorities of the yard will pursue this course. Dr. Mahler, in charge of the Naval hospital, said that he believes that the sailors got the disease in the yard. All the men who are now ill have been on the ship for the two weeks the Arkansas has been in the yard.

PACIFIC FLOODS' HAVOC.

Fears For Thousands of Tourists In the Winter Resorts.

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—Genuine alarm for the safety of thousands of tourists at Santa Barbara, Paso Robles and other winter resorts in California was felt here when twenty hours' effort to communicate with the flood stricken district proved unavailing.

The flood of waters sweeping down from the Sierras to the seaboard steadily increased in volume today. One city after another between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles was suddenly cut off. The damage may amount to $1,000,000.

Thousands of acres of land in the Santa Clara valley are flooded and ranchers are fleeing from their homes. The Fresno division of the Southern Pacific is completely tied up. Portions of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valley are inundated.

LONDON FACES FUEL FAMINE.

Strike of Coal Drivers and Porters Begins Its Second Week.

London, Jan. 27.—The second week of London's labor troubles began with a lockout of all the building trades workmen who refused to subscribe to the open shop system.

In addition to the fuel famine arising from the strike of coal van drivers and porters practically all building operations were brought to a halt by the refusal of the masters to allow the union workmen to resume their duties.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

THE DAYS OF '61.

The atmosphere of the rural districts in the South is much different from that of the days before the war. The plantations are there but the lives of those who made them famous have changed. The ante bellum negro is very different from those of today. The Days of '61 is a Southern Idyl, depicting life on the plantation before the war, a happy conceit of Al. G. Field, the minstrel. The moss covered church, the negro wedding, the happy-go-lucky Uncle Remus, the old mammy, the old master, the negro worshippers, the sermon and better than all, the dancers, the pastimes of slavery days, the old folks at home, and the good old songs we all love so dearly. If there be one who lived in the days of '61 and they witness this stage picture and it does not revive the happy recollections of other and better days surely sentiment does not dwell in their souls. The Days of '61, produced with every attention to details to the most minute particular, is a most beautiful stage picture. The tropical surroundings stamp naturalness upon it. In the dancing diversisements incidental to the Days of '61, Johnny Dove, the dancing actor and a score of nimble footed dancers will exemplify the dances of that period. There will be many new dances. The stately minuet, from which came the cake walk and ragtime, will be supplemented with the revival of one of the almost forgotten dances of that period, the dance of the Spooks or as it was more commonly called, the Dance of Death. The show will appear at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Lawrence French, '11, at present a freshman in Rutgers College, visited the High School last Friday.

Miss Nancy Woodworth, of Hornell, N. Y., and a teacher in the first grade was taken to Sayre, Pa., Saturday, where she will be operated on for appendicitis.

Sherman Chandler, '16, is making a motto board in the manual training department. It is about ten feet long and two feet wide and contains the words "Victory After Labor," which was chosen as the High School motto by a vote of the students.

Newton Spencer, '13, visited the school yesterday morning.

Miss Nellie Merrill, teacher in geometry, who went to her home in Syracuse, N. Y., last Wednesday, returned to her duties today.

Miss Dickinson, of Leland avenue, has been secured to substitute for Miss Spiedel while she is at her home in Rome, N. Y.

William Taylor, '11, who is now engaged in business in Baltimore, Md., has been visiting his parents for a few days.

WOULD CHANGE OFFICIAL TITLE OF TOWN OF RAHWAY

Trenton, Jan. 27.—Assemblyman Dobbins, of Union county, anounced today that he will soon introduce a bill in the House changing the legal title of Rahway from "The Mayor and Common Council of Rahway" to "The City of Rahway." In handling this measure, Mr. Dobbins is working with a commission appointed by the mayor of Rahway and five members of the Common Council to prepare a new charter for the city.

Assembly bills 40 and 41, by Mr. Dobbins, relating to the Firemen's Relief Association will be given a public hearing on February 9.

TENDERED SURPRISE LINEN SHOWER TO COMING BRIDE

A linen shower was tendered to Miss Anna Bye at the home of Miss Katherine Birmingham on West Sixth street, last night, twenty of her former classmates attending the affair which was a complete surprise to Miss Bye.

The evening was spent in playing games, and dancing and a number of vocal and instrumeneal numbers were rendered by those present. Prizes were awarded to Miss Lillian Bye and Mrs. Thomas Kennedy. Miss Bye will become the bride of Russell Hann of North Plainfield, the latter part of next month.

ROBERT W. BARNES DIES IN THE SOUTH

Well Known Plainfielder Was Engaged In Business Here Many Years.

Arrangements for the funeral of the late Robert W. Barnes, of Mountain avenue, the borough, for many years prominent in business circles in Plainfield, and who died suddenly at his winter home, at Mandarin, Fla., yesterday, have not as yet been made. The body will be brought to North Plainfield for interment. Long a member of the First Baptist church, Mr. Barnes served as a deacon since 1907. He was also a director of the Plainfield Rescue Mission. He was fifty years old. He is survived by his wife, who was with him when he died, a brother, Norman K. Barnes, and a sister, Mrs. John Butler, both residents of this city.

Mr. Barnes retired from the grocery business two years ago. He was a man of kindly nature, was generous and conscientous. With his brother, Norman K. Barnes, he opened his first grocery in Plainfield in the Schepflin building, on West Front street. When the co-partnership was dissolved the late Mr. Barnes bought the Jerome Pack store on Park avenue, which business he sold to H. L. Viebrock, about two years ago. Born at Grant City, Staten Island, Mr. Barnes moved to this city when a young man.

LOCAL MEN'S LEAGUE OPPOSED TO SUFFRAGE

Two Hundred Names Already Enrolled, Including Many Well Known Citizens.

Active work in the formation of a Men's League in Opposition to Woman Suffrage has been started in Plainfield by Mrs. Sherman B. Joost president of the local women's organization opposed to suffrage. Mrs. Joost has been notified by Mrs. E. Yard Breese, of Trenton, president of the State League, that a State men's league is being formed, with Colonel William Libbey, a professor at Princeton and a member of Governor Fielder's military staff, as the chairman, and she immediately started in getting recruits for a local branch. Among those who had already signed their names, about 200 being on the list, are Thomas M. Day, Henry D. Hibbard, F. M. Morrison, Asa F. Randolph, John Constable Moore, William Palmer Smith, William Palmer Smith, jr., Charles W. McCutchen, Dr. Frederick J. Hughes, George E. Hall, Henry L. Hall, N. Pendleton Rogers, James E. Dimball, E. E. Ire monger, Former Mayor James F. Buckle, Sherman B. Joost, J. Albert Lane, W. W. Cortell, S. S. Schuyler, Rev. Warner E. L. Ward, William Newcorn, E. J. Patterson, Rabbi Morris Schoenbrun, A. G. Hagedorn, Arthur C. MacClay, W. L. Lockwood, Joseph O. Osgood, Council President George S. Clay, Jacob VanDeventer and H. M. Fullerton.

Mrs. Joost will probably be one of the speakers at the hearing to be held tomorrow by a legislative committee at Trenton for and against suffrage. Some of the others on the anti-suffrage side who will go from Plainfield will be Miss Lawrence, Mrs. John Constable Moore, Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard and Miss Laura Osgood. Among the speakers other than Mrs. Joost will be Mrs. John R. Emery, wife of Vice-Chancellor Emery, of Morristown, Mrs. Orville D. Oliphant, of Trenton, and Rabbi Solomon Foster, of Newark.

BIBLE SCHOOL OFFICERS ENTERTAINED BY SUPT.

Officers and teachers of the Bible class of the First Baptist church were entertained last evening by their superintendent, Arthur M. Harris, and his wife, at their residence on Central avenue. Some thirty-five guests partook of the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Harris. Refreshments were served and during the evening the guests enjoyed a musical and literary entertainment.

Announcement was made during the evening that the annual meeting of the Bible school would be held at the church on Monday, March 30, at which time officers will be elected.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 52.

I ASKED a "high-brow" friend of mine, who is employed in the editorial department of a big newspaper, if he had any ideas on Want Ad. advertising. He said he "sure had" and was a firm believer in the pulling power of that kind of advertising. He said he'd write down what he thought on the subject. He did. Here is the note he wrote:

"The first Want Ad. of which we have record was written by Julius Caesar, who enlivened the dead walls of Rome with announcements of his Gallic victories and who skilfully appealed to his fellow-countrymen to call at his headquarters the next day and enlist for a still greater and grander conquest. Caesar's Want Ad. ultimately brought him the proffer of a crown.

"No less wise than Caesar are the employers and employes of today. They recognize the fact that the most successful way to achieve a definite purpose from an advertising viewpoint is to present your wants in a concise, direct manner. The employer looks upon the Want Ad. columns as an advertising barometer; the employe, as the keystone to the arch.

"In a Want Ad. you reach the man who wants something, and you get into direct and immediate communication with him."

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

Cheese Economy.

Cheese is one of the most economical foods that can be used in the daily menu. It has high nutritive value, it is appetizing, it is inexpensive, and it keeps easily. Moreover, it is readily digested when it is finely divided, and cooked in gentle heat. Much cooking makes it indigestible.

Cheese should be served with vegetables and cereals, not with meat, because its food properties are similar to those of meat.

Cheese can be cooked into the main dish for luncheon. At dinner, if salad is served as a separate course, and not with the roast, cheese can be served with it. Or it can be served with toasted water biscuit or crisp unsweetened crackers after the desert. In summer a good plan is to end the meal once in a while with a dainty fruit salad, accompanied with wafers and cheese.

The best way to keep any soft cheese is to wrap it securely in waxed paper. A damp cloth can be used, but the paper is better. Cheese must be kept apart from other foods, as it absorbs and gives odors readily.

In Cooking.

As an appetizing adjunct to many cooked dishes, cheese is most useful. Cold boiled potatoes, for instance, can be cut in dice, spread in a buttered baking dish, covered with grated cheese, salt and pepper, browned in the oven, and served as a dish that will tempt even the jaded appetite. A little grated cheese can be sprinkled over cold cauliflower which has first been moistened with a little white sauce. This, browned in the oven, makes a dish a famous hotel chef might be proud of—and at the same time utilizes a rather discouraging left over—for cauliflower that has turned brown and begun to dry, as it does shortly after it is cooked, is discouraging.

Many delicious luncheon dishes can be made by combining macaroni and spaghetti with cheese. A little grated cheese added to various cream vegetable soups gives them a flavor to be wondered at. And the plainest omelet can be made savory if a little grated, dry cheese is sprinkled between its folds.

A good way to utilize the shell of a pineapple or Edam cheese is to fill it with boiled macaroni, flavored with a little melted butter and pepper and salt, and put it into the oven until the cheese has heated. When the macaroni is dished, the melted inside of the cheese shell goes with it.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SAVORY DISHES FOR LUNCHEON.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Fruit.
Veal Croquettes.
Rolls.
Lemon Custard.
Coffee.

EXCELLENT cold weather dishes for the luncheon bill of fare are suggested here. Some of them may be made with cold meat. They thus serve the purpose of cutting down the butcher's bill.

Highly Seasoned Hash.

Beef Hash.—Take two pounds of raw beef and chop very fine. Add a teaspoonful of pepper, half a teaspoonful of sage and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Roll two crackers fine, add to the mixture and bind with two beaten eggs. Shape into roll and bake, basting often with melted butter and water. Slice cold. Serve with horseradish mayonnaise.

Veal Croquettes.—Put one pound of veal trimmings, with a quarter pound of fat bacon, through mincing machine. Soak three rolls in milk, add two eggs, salt and pepper. Mix together, form in ovals and fry in butter. Serve with green peas and small carrots.

Use For Cold Fowl.

Ragout of Turkey.—Break the fragments of cold turkey into pieces and chop up what stuffing is left. Put into a quart of cold water and cook until there is a cupful of the liquid. Strain and when it is cold skim off the fat and season with kitchen bouquet, onion juice, paprika and salt. Cut the turkey meat into neat cubes, set the liquid on the fire, drop the turkey cubes into it and add half a cupful of fresh mushrooms. Bring to a boil quickly, thicken with browned flour and serve.

Ham Patties.—Take two cupfuls of cold cooked ham minced fine. Stir into four cupfuls of breadcrumbs moistened in milk. Add a lump of butter and any seasonings liked. Pour the batter into gem pans, filling about two-thirds full. Break an egg over each, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and bake until brown.

"Hello, Mr. Goblin," said Peter.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Peter's Coasting Party With The Goblins.

"THERE was once," said daddy, "a little boy named Peter who had always had an awful horror of goblins. His mother and daddy would tell him that goblins were very much like brownies and that they always played among themselves. They told him that the goblins were jolly and good natured and would never dream of frightening any little boy or girl. But still, for some strange reason, Peter was very much afraid of even the name of goblin. His daddy told him a story every night at bedtime, but after the lights were out he would begin to think of the goblins and would imagine every creak in the room must mean something.

"One night after Peter's daddy had told him a story and the lights were out Peter lay for a few moments wide awake. But he'd been playing hard all day, so it was not long before he fell sound asleep. In his sleep a funny looking goblin came to him and tapped him on the shoulder. It was the first time Peter had seen a goblin; but, strangely enough, he was not scared.

"'Hello, Peter!' said the goblin. 'I'm glad to see you're not afraid of me. I knew you wouldn't be after you'd really seen me. Often people imagine we're dreadful creatures, and, you see, we're not at all. We like to have plenty of fun, and we would never hurt any one for anything in the world. That doesn't sound very awful, does it?'

"'No,' said Peter; 'I think you're just as nice as you can be. I can't imagine how I ever could have been frightened.'

"'Well, Peter, as long as you're not frightened at me any more, how would you like to go on a coasting party we goblins are giving tonight?'

"So Peter got up and put on his warmest coasting clothes and pulled a wooly red cap way down over his ears, and off he started with the goblin. When they got outside they walked to a nearby hill, where there were quantities of goblins with their sleds. They were tossing the light falling snow into each other's face and laughing and having such a good time.

"'I've brought Peter along,' said Peter's goblin, 'and he says he's not afraid of us any more.'

"'Hurrah for Peter!' cried all the goblins.

"Peter did have the best time coasting, and he thought the goblins were perfectly wonderful. They were all delighted that he was no longer afraid of them and that he enjoyed the snowstorm just as much as they did.

"But, oh, even the snowstorm party with the goblins had to end, for Peter heard his mother saying, 'Time to get up, Peter, and you can take your sled to school with you, for it has been snowing all night.'

"And then Peter realized it was all a dream, but he never again was afraid of goblins."

The top coat now has many uses and will continue popular during the spring and summer for motoring, beach wear, etc.

Charmingly suited to these coats are the heavier weaves of the new Rodier cottons, golfine and duvetyn. Golfine is a heavy ribbed material that closely resembles corduroy and the cotton duvetyns are exquisitely velvety in appearance.

No. 7618 may be made up in any of these materials without a lining; if the duvetyn is used the collar and cuffs may be of the golfine or one of the cotton velvets.

These materials range in width from 37 to 45 inches and in price from 49 cents up.

This model is equally suited to the wool fabrics and there are many days before us still for a coat of this description.

In size 36 this model may be made with 3½ yards of 42 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 34 to 42

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

NOVEL PROGRAM FOR MEN GIVEN BY WOMEN'S CLUB

Members of the Women's Club of Hope Chapel conducted a men's night in the chapel rooms last night and an informal program of games and music was enjoyed. During the evening bowling teams, one composed of married men and the other of single men, rolled a match game, the latter coming out victorious by a margin of twenty-five pins.

A basketball game between picked teams of women provided excitement in the gymnasium and the men guests occupied seats in the gallery as rooters. Those in charge of the affair were the Misses Elizabeth Becker, Elizabeth Slorah, Mary Mortimer, Jessie Duncan and Lona Becker.

CRAP SHOOTER FINED $5 IN RECORDER HAND'S COURT

Albert Pennell, colored, an eighteen-year-old youth who lives in Dunellen, and who escaped to Easton, Pa., last August when the police of North Plainfield raided a crap game which was in progress along the brook on Myrtle avenue, was arraigned this morning before Recorder Frederick Hand. He was fined $5 which he paid. He gave his occupation as a teamster.

William Stewart, 42 years old, who lives on Watchung avenue, was arraigned before Recorder Hand of North Plainfield, this morning, charged with having been drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty to the charge. It was his first offense and sentence was suspended. Stewart was arrested last Saturday and has since been at liberty on bail.

How to Make a Valentine Told In Tuneful Rime.

Get a white card and a pot of glue,
From a candy box take the paper lace,
Hunt tissue paper of pink or blue
And paste all carefully into place.

Cut out some doves from an old scrap book
And other pictures of flowers or trees.
(You'll find all these if you care to look,
And any of them is sure to please.)

Keep all these pretty things neat and clean,
Trim all the edges around about,
Rub off the finger marks in between
And see that the flowers are peeping out.

Print some words at the mouth of the dove—
Such as "I'll be yours if you'll be mine!"
Do all of this with a great deal of love
And then you will make a valentine.

Lincoln and the Boy.

One morning two senators entered President Lincoln's private office. With them slipped in a lad who had been waiting a long time for admission to the presence of this great man.

The president briefly greeted the two senators; then, turning to the boy, said kindly, "And who is this little boy?"

The child answered: "My mother is poor, sir, and I'm looking for work. I thought you might let me be a page in the house."

"Very good, son," answered the president, "but you'll have to see the doorkeeper of the house at the capitol."

"But, sir," said the lad, "I am a good boy and have a letter from my mother and from my Sunday school superintendent and my teacher."

The president took the lad's papers, ran his eye over them and then wrote upon the back of one of them:

If Captain Goodnow can give a place to this good little boy I shall be gratified.
A. LINCOLN.

Do you think the boy got the job?

Lincoln's Kind Heart.

One cold winter day Lincoln met a poor man who had been hired to chop up an old hut into firewood. The poor fellow was barefoot, thinly clothed and shivering from the cold, and he was so weak that he could hardly raise the ax.

Lincoln stopped the man in his work and said, "How much are you getting for this job?"

"A dollar," said the woodchopper, "and with it I must buy myself a pair of shoes."

"You go inside and warm yourself for a few minutes," said Lincoln as he took the ax from the woodchopper.

Then he swung the ax mightily and soon had the old hut split up into kindlings. He had done it so quickly that the man could hardly believe his eyes. The poor woodchopper received his money and bought his shoes.

St. Valentine's Day.

One authority says that the custom of sending paper valentines is quite modern, dating back a little over 100 years. For centuries before that a valentine was not a dainty bit of colored or embossed paper. A valentine was a person. We see a relic of this meaning in the words still so often found on these dainty missives, such as "Be my valentine."

From the early Roman down to quite modern times it was the custom of the maidens of a village or social circle on the 14th or 15th of February to write their names on bits of paper and drop them into a box; then the youths, blindfolded, would each draw a name from the box, and the one whose name a young man drew was bound to be his valentine for one year. It was a kind of mock engagement, which, it may be supposed, quite often ended in a real one, for the young man was bound by custom to be somewhat attentive to his valentine during the year.

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A DAINTY, EMBROIDERED NIGHTGOWN

This is the very simplest kind of a nightgown that anyone could make, for it is cut in one-piece, yet, what could be prettier? It is an appropriate and practical model for making a gown of batiste, nainsook, longcloth, cross-barred muslin or crêpe de Chine, and the dainty, simple embroidery design 14655, is appropriate for trimming a gown of any of these materials.

Hand embroidery has come to be recognized as the most economical and serviceable finish for all kinds of underwear, for it wears even longer than the cloth, costs practically nothing when done at home, and yet is a mark of the carefully made, exclusive garment. The girl who can embroider even if not very well, need not envy her wealthier friend who has French hand-made underwear. She can easily duplicate it if she cares to spend a little time in doing the embroidery. Pattern 14655, includes the neck outline sprays, sleeves and the beading for wide ribbon, which may be placed to give the empire effect. The design should be worked in solid embroidery combined with eyelets, buttonholing and punched work. If you do not know how to do the punched work, all over lace or net may be appliqued into this space.

Nightgown pattern 7267, can be supplied to readers in sizes 32, 36, 40 and 44, at 15 cents. Transfer patterns for the embroidery design 14655, can be supplied at 15 cents.

LOCAL GRADUATES STARS IN COLLEGE

Many Plainfielders Playing Leading Roles In Major Sports.

TWO LOCAL CAPTAINS

Many Plainfield athletes, some of whom were inconspicuous on field or track during their high school and preparatory school days in this city are now starring in the collegiate world in the major sports fostered by American institutions of learning and at the present time the Queen City has two captains performing in intercollegiate sportdom. In Columbia University Plainfield gets credit for turning out one of the greatest of modern shot putters, Russell Lawrence Beatty, who is captain of the blue and white track team.

Beatty was educated in the John Leal private school in this city and got his early experience and coaching in the Y. M. C. A. gym under the watchful eye of Physical Director George L. Listman. Listman discovered in the raw material the makings of a world beater and Beatty (or Lawrence as he was at that time known) an awkward youth yet in his 'teens, was coached and drilled by Listman day after day until he could throw the iron pill an astonishing long distance. He first attracted public notice in these parts when he stood in one corner of the Association gym and heaving the pill diagonally across the floor smashed the steam radiator at the extreme corner of the court, flooding the gym with water.

Listman entered Beatty in several schoolboy meets and in all he came out with colors flying, sometimes representing Leal School and on other occasions donning Y. M. C. A. silks. He spent some time in Cornell University but later went to Columbia where he made the track team in his freshman year. In Columbia Beatty has also been active in crew work and was chosen as a member of the 1912 Olympic team but could not make the trip owing to objections of a parental nature. This year he has been kept out of training by a torn ligament but is now getting back into trim and will probably be heard from on the intercollegiate tracks during the spring months.

Russell Miller is the other Plainfield captain and he will lead the University of Pennsylvania gymnastic team in intercollegiate competition this year. He is also president of the Intercollegiate Gymnastic Association and is admitted to be the best college performer on the rings, one of the most difficult pieces of gymnastic apparatus. Miller, like Beatty, obtained his early training in the Y. M. C. A. and is a natural ring star. In his boyhod days he had a pair of iron circles in his backyard and kept his neighbors' nerves to a high tension at all times by his daring deeds. He won the Yale cup in 1910, the year he graduated from the Plainfield High School where he was prominent in track, baseball and basketball.

Clyde Doane, another Plainfield High School graduate, has been making good in Williams College basketball this season and is a regular on the quintet at the present time. Jack Riffert, a graduate of P. H. S., played right field for the Swarthmore College baseball team last season and is a candidate for this year's team. Monroe Good, P. H. S. '13, made the second squad of the Colgate College football eleven in his freshman year and he stands a good chance of donning regular's togs next year.

Charles H. Line, P. H. S. '08, has performed as a gymnast for the Springfield Training School during the last two years and last season managed the team. He is taking a post graduate course this year and will take an active part in promoting the welfare of this branch of sport. Herbert Stine, N. P. H. S. '12, is also at the Y. M. C. A. College and will try-out for a position as backstop on the baseball team this season.

James Nash, a graduate of Leal School and former Plainfield High School athlete, is now a guard on the Temple University basketball team and will also be in line for positions on the track, baseball and football teams of that college which he entered last fall. An injury he sustained in a baseball game here Decoration Day kept him out of football this season but he will be active from now on.

Ludlow VanDeventer, P. H. S. '11, made the Princeton University tennis team last season and is a candidate for the team again this year. Harold Schenck played right field for the Rutgers College baseball team last season and the year before.

"Sportdom Tips"

MANAGER DECEIVING.

Accuracy in publishing accounts of athletic contests in these columns is striven for at all times but without co-operation of those interested in the contests in question it is practically impossible to publish details that will be faultless. Following the Hope Chapel-Combination Five contest Saturday night we secured some inside information to the effect that Jack Martin appeared in a come-back roll on the Hope basketball five and having a personal interest in Jack we called Manager Leighs on the 'phone and queried him concerning Martin's playing. Leighs positively denied that Martin donned a uniform Saturday night and expressed much indignation when we told him frankly that some doubt still existed following our interview as to just who took part in the encounter. Manager Leigs is always one of the first to register a "kick" when an inaccuracy makes its appearance and why he should take this means of placing false information before the public is beyond us. Since the article appeared Jack Martin has admitted that he was the "Hunter" who played the guard position and his "comeback," taken as a whole was auspicious in every way. We have no fault to find with Martin and take all blame from his shoulders. Had Jack been approached in the first place the correct information would have been forthcoming and an agreement satisfactory to all parties concerned could have been reached. As to the charge of "professionals" which now confronts the Hope Chapel crew, we will let the sporting public deal with separately.

SWIMMING NEXT IN LINE.

Now that the Plainfield High School Athletic Association has taken hockey into its routine of athletic activity we are looking forward to the formation of an equatic team when the new swimming pool is completed. The new tank in the addition to the local school will be one of the largest in this vicinity when finished and it will be equipped with all modern facilities for racing and diving. A number of human fishes of no mean ability known to be enrolled in the local school and good teams in this line of sport will probably be turned out. Several notable racers were developed here in the Y. M. C. A. by Tom Whitaker several years ago and these for the most part are now in High School. With this nucleus a good team will be molded next season.

Individualism played a prominent part in local basketball competition Saturday night if the scores turned in by the various managers may be be taken as a criterion. Moulton and Gavett earned a Y. M. C. A. victory, Johnny Heren played the winner's role for Hope Chapel, Bahl led the Hope Seconds to victory, Ricketts and Dallas starred for Scotch Plains. Rosenson pulled down the Plainfield High School laurels and Fred Saunders was prominent in the 'Plains second team's win.

Columbus Club bowling league records, both for teams and individuals, are open for inspection at this office at all times and those concerned in the organization are invited to give them the once over at any time. The compiling of bowling records for a local organization is an innovation in this city and is another exclusive feature added to these sporting pages.

The legal battles that always go with the formation of a new league were ushered in today when Ward Miller, "King" Cole and William Killifer were made defendants in the fight between "organized" and "outlaw" baseball.

Elmer Bracher, the Rutgers College football star who played basketball against the local Y. M. C. A. team several weeks ago in a Rahway Y. M. C. A. uniform, has decided to stick to the New Jersey college despite rumors to the contrary. He played a star game at halfback on the college team last season and is also some basketball performer.

Something unusual in basketball competition was staged on the Roselle Park High School court Saturday night when the New Brunswick High School quintet defeated the Roselle boys after two overtime periods of play by a score of 38 to 35. At the end of the game the score stood 30 to 30 and it was then decided to play an extra period of five minutes. At the end of this special time the score stood 35 to 35 and another three-minute period was declared in which New Brunswick scored three points and won the game.

LOCAL SEVEN WON COUNTY ICE HONOR

VanDeventer's Lone Score In First Period Pulled Down a Championship.

The Plainfield High School hockey team won the championship of Union county yesterday afternoon by defeating Westfield High School by the score of 1 to 0. The game was fast and very close, many shots that looked like sure goals being warded off by the goal keepers.

Van Deventer made the lone tally of the game in the first few minutes of play. Van Deventer and Hohenstein put up the best games for their teams, both playing fast and aggressive games. This game closes the High School schedule.

The lineup:

P. H. S.		W. H. S.
Blair	Goal.	Bourne
Wheelan, Moore	Point.	Peirie
Fitch	Cover Point.	Hawkins
Van Deventer	Rover.	Clark

BRUNSWICK GIRLS QUIT.

Announcement has been made of the disbandment of the New Brunswick High School girls' basketball team which has heretofore been a close rival of the borough feminine quintet and as a result the games scheduled by N. P. H. S. will have to be called off.

INTERCLASS LEAGUE.

The junior and freshman teams of the Plainfield High School Interclass League are scheduled to take part in a league game on the P. H. S. court tomorrow afternoon.

N. P. H. S. SCRIBE CLAIMS FEMININE SCORING MARK

In the game against the Plainfield High School girls last Friday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, Miss Marjorie Burtis, forward of the borough school team, hung up a record that is likely to stay "hung" for some time unless she should happen to smash it herself. Forty points in a regular game is a high water mark.

Two years ago, Miss Helen Hummel, who was also a wonder with the basketball, rolled up eighty points, but as this feat was performed in a practice game and against a practically unheard of team, the act was not as marvelous as the one that happened last week. Miss Burtis has two more years in school.

SCHOOLBOY ATHLETES WILL STRIVE TO RAISE FUND

The North Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association will launch a subscription campaign for the purpose of raising money with which to fix the baseball field that has been in such poor condition for the past three years. The campaign was instigated by Ralph Smalley, captain of this year's baseball team, and is in charge of the executive committee of the association.

Five years ago a canvass, similar to this one, was made and was very successful.

The annual play that was to be given in February, has been postponed until April, so that all the time may be devoted to this campaign.

BOUIN TO RACE KOHELMAINEN.

New York, Jan. 27.—Quite the tidbit that has been served up to followers of athletic sports here this winter is billed for Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, when Jean Bouin, the noted French runner, and Hannes Kohelmainen, the unconquerable Finlander, will engage in a two mile race in an effort to settle the question of their relative supremacy. The two have long been rivals for the premier honors as distance runners. Kohelmainen defeated Bouin in the Olympic games at Stockholm, but the Frenchman hopes for a different result in the contest tomorrow night.

FOR BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP.

Seattle, Jan. 27.—Bennie Allen of Kansas City, will defend his title of national pocket billiard champion against James Maturo, of Denver, in a match that will have its opening in this city tomorrow night. Play will continue for three nights. The contests will be the first championship affair of its kind ever staged in this part of the country and is attracting wide attention among the followers of the green cloth sport.

GIANTS' $10-A-PLATE DINNER.

The National and American League committees which will have charge of the home-coming celebration for the Giants-White Sox world touring party on March 6, have decided to give the ball players a dinner on March 7 which they will never forget. It will be a subscription repast and will cost $10 a plate.

YORKTOWN CAME NEAR GETTING ALL THREE

Bunker Hill Leaguers No Match For Consistent Rival Quintet.

A gutter heave by H. Shannon in the second game of the series bowled between the Yorktown and Bunker Hill teams in connection with the Columbus Club bowling league was the only abstacle that separated the Yorktown crew from a clean sweep last night. Shannon's unfortunate roll came when only three pins were needed to sew up the game and the Bunker Hill aggregation managed to squeeze in its only victory of the evening.

Feiring, bowling for the Bunker Hill team, set a low score record for the league when he knocked over ninety-eight pins in the second and ninety-two in the third contest. Consistent pinning by the five members of the Yorktown team was responsible for the victory in the initial setto and two low scores set up by Bunker Hill men practically handed the third match to the Yorktown crew after C. Shannon had toppled over 231 for the high score mark of the evening.

The scores:

WIVES TO THE FORE.

Pittsburg, Jan. 27.—Dr. Harry Gessler, manager of the Pittsburg Federals, arrived home yesterday after a still hunt over the West in search of players. He was not very optimistic, remarking that he had found out who wore the pants in several ball players' families and asserted that if it had not been for the wives of some of the players he would have had their names to contracts before this.

AMERICANS WIN.

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 27.—American athletes yesterday scored three wins and one tie in the track events at the championship meeting of the Australian Amateur Association. George Parker won the 220-yard dash in 22½s. He also won the quarter-mile in 51 2-5s. James Powers won the mile race in 4m. 25 4-5s.

Will Begin in the PLAINFIELD DAILY PRESS Tomorrow. Wednesday January 28.

GET THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The Community Spirit is said to have originated in Rochester.

Rochester, Syracuse, Memphis and Saskatoon have all acquired the Community Spirit. They are all successful cities.

There is a bond of friendship between their merchants, the mechanics, the craftsmen and the rest of the population. One Rochester enthusiast who is a home town booster said, "New York is a cosmopolitan joke town, 250 miles from Rochester."

The business in these cities is carried on through local channels. Each city is a market where its citizens CAN and DO supply their wants.

Now Brother Plainfielder, it is up to YOU to help make Plainfield grow, to make it a BIGGER and BETTER Plainfield!

Patronize local merchants—all of your wants can be supplied. Local dealing is downright economy—this is being proven daily.

WITH THE BOXERS

Gilbert Gallant's clever work in defeating "One Round" Hogan has given quite a boost to the reputation of the Chelsea boy.

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, has written from England that Langford is fast getting the fat off and will soon be in the best of condition.

Gunner Rawles, whoever he may be, has the distinction of being the only boxer Bombardier Wells can whip. Bombardier put our Rawles in 10 rounds the other night.

Promoter Dick Burge, of London, has presented Pittsburgh Blake with one of the belts that Jem Mace won in England the last touring the "musician" as the retiring middleweight champion.

Frank McFarland, manager of the M. Furbush Athletics, held in New York for peace until March 7, on which date the six or eight baseball players are scheduled to arrive in that city.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pitcher Cy Falkenberg of the Naps got on the bases no fewer than 27 times last season, but didn't score a run.

Rumor has it that Davenport, Ia., is trying to toss the Three-I League and take Wichita's place in the Western League.

Jack Dunn, the Baltimore pilot, is the first manager in organized baseball to get all his regulars in for the coming season.

The Meriden franchise in the Eastern Association has been transferred to New Britain, which place was formerly a member of the league.

Jack Barney, Red Sox outfielder at one time, is thinking of returning to baseball. The "Bullet" used to pack a speedy pair of legs, but his throwing arm was a Republican.

According to a Pittsburg scribe Honus Wagner has been drawing a salary of $10,000 a year for the last seven years. A Smoke Town scribe and a typewriter are a wonderful combination.

Two pitchers by the name of Hagerman will start in the big show this spring. "Casey" Hagerman, of Denver, will be with the Cardinals and "Red" Hagerman, the Portland, Ore., twirler, has been signed by the Naps.

Brockton, Fall River, New Bedford, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket may form a new league. When Woonsocket is mentioned it is always correct to say that Larry Lajoie was born there.

The Ohio and Pennsylvania League has been reorganized on a six-club basis with McKeesport, Altoona, Johnstown and Connellsville, Pa., and Canton and East Liverpool, O., composing the circuit.

President Britton, of the St. Louis Cardinals, has offered his players a 10 per cent bonus all around if the team finishes fifth or sixth, 15 per cent for fourth place and 20 per cent if the team finishes one, two, three. Mr. Britton should offer a little something for seventh place and give the Cards a chance.

CONNIE MACK NOW A GOLFER.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—Connie Mack has become a devotee of golf. Walking trips, which formerly were his only means of exercise, have been abandoned and every fair day now finds him on the links. Dr. Carr, his physician, is a golf enthusiast, and to him golfers owe the conversion of Mack. Connie is still too much of a novice to spend any time on local links where he is well known. Down in New Jersey him and Dr. Carr may be found practising and preparing for the lean manager's debut on the Philadelphia links.

ASSEMBLY AND FIELDER AT ODDS

California Plan of Procedure Causes Disagreement.

EUGENIC MARRIAGES NOW

Bill Would Require Physician's Certificate Before License Is Issued—Wescott Attorney General—Edwards Is Elected State Comptroller to Succeed Himself.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—Members of the Democratic assembly declared war on Governor Fielder and his administration. The trouble is over the so called California plan of procedure, and every effort is to be made to embarrass the governor, who is against the scheme.

As soon as the house convened a recess was ordered, and the Democratic members went into conference and voted on the proposed change. The vote was 20 to 14 against it, McDermott and Griffin of Hudson being supported in their fight for it by the Smith-Nugent members of the Essex delegation.

When the vote had been recorded a move was launched to make the conference a caucus, but McDermott and Griffin bolted. Then they sought out Assemblyman Richards of Atlantic, the Republican leader, in an effort to obtain the minority's support. Scovel and Katos, Camden Republicans, are hard and fast against the change, and it will result in a battle between them and Richards for ascendancy of their party in the lower house.

The senate confirmed the appointment of ex-Judge John W. Wescott of Camden as attorney general.

Because of Governor Fielder's opinion that the errors court upholding of the chancellor sheriff jury reform law invalidates grand juries now in session, Senator McGinnis introduced a measure making them legal. The bill is retroactive and will sanction any action these juries take or may have taken.

The senate and assembly sat in joint session at noon today and elected State Comptroller Edward I. Edwards to succeed himself. The assembly decided to sit as a committee of the whole tomorrow morning to give a hearing on the woman suffrage resolution.

DAZED WOMAN SENT HOME.

Found Wandering In Rutherford—Resides In Pennsylvania.

Rutherford, N. J., Jan. 27.—The mysterious woman who was found wandering dazed and apparently under the influence of some drug in the railroad station here was sent to her home in a town in Pennsylvania. The authorities refused to tell the woman's name or to say just where she lived.

After repeatedly refusing to tell anything about herself or give the police any information that would enable them to find her friends or relatives, the woman told Mayor Gunz who she was and where her relatives could be found. Accordingly they were at once communicated with and they asked that she be given money to purchase a ticket home.

GARGERE HELD AS AUTO THIEF

Waives Examination—Thought Trying to Dodge Extradition.

Lakewood, N. J., Jan. 27.—John Gargere, arrested here last Wednesday on complaint of Harry M. Shedd of the New Jersey motor vehicle department, who accused him of knowingly purchasing a stolen automobile on April 16, 1913, waived examination before Justice Searing and was held in $3,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. He found a bondsman later and was released.

Gargere is wanted by the New York police, who allege that he was connected with the operations of a band of automobile thieves which they are trying to round up. He is under $3,000 bail awaiting extradition proceedings.

HUDSON BRIDGE PLAN UP.

Bill to Let New Jersey Counties Act Has Been Drawn.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—Ex-Senator J. A. C. Johnson of Bergen county, counsel to the New Jersey Interstate bridge and tunnel commission, said that it would cost $42,000,000 to build a bridge across the Hudson at Fifty-seventh street, New York city, while the cost of two tubes under the river from Jersey City to lower Manhattan would be only $11,000,000.

Mr. Johnson has drafted a bill that enlarges the powers of the counties interested and enables them to join in the enterprise. The bill also provides for bridging the Delaware river at Camden and permits the South Jersey counties to join in the plan.

ICE TANGO AT CARNIVAL.

Will Be Feature at Shrewsbury's Masquerade Tomorrow Night.

Red Bank, N. J., Jan. 27.—Tangoing on skates is the newest sport enjoyed by the young people on the north Shrewsbury. Tomorrow night's masquerade carnival on the ice promises to be a big dancing and skating event.

Music will be furnished by a band stationed on a steamboat and there will be dancing on the steamboat deck as well as on the smooth ice of the river.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4 o'clock. Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer and stationer.

With the Al G. Field's Minstrels, at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday Afternoon and Evening.

SEVENTH CANCELLATION.

Manager Lillian Spencer, of the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team, was again put in a tight place yesterday when the manager of the Springfield High School team telephoned that her team would be unable to appear here this afternoon as scheduled. This is the seventh time this season that Miss Spencer has received cancelations.

FINISHING TOUCHES.

Morris Mann, Alfred Day and Ralph Runyon, three members of the Plainfield High School track team, are putting on the finishing touches to their training for the South Side High School meet in Newark Saturday afternoon. The local athletes will go to Newark by auto and are optimistic of their chances of capturing a number of the prizes offered.

HARTZELL MAY JUMP.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 27.—Despite Frank Farrell's statement that he had accepted terms with Roy Hartzell, the Yankees' veteran utility player, President James A. Gilmore yesterday said he was in communication with the athlete with a view of securing him for the third leaguers.

SNODGRASS TO STICK.

Fred Snodgrass, the Giants' outfielder, will not jump to the Federal League. Neither has he returned unsigned a contract sent to him by President H. N. Hempstead two weeks ago.

NAP PITCHERS MAY JUMP.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The latest report from the camp of the Federal League is that Pitchers Blanding, Falkenberg and Kahler of the Cleveland team are dickering with the Feds.

N. P. H. S. AT MORRISTOWN.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team will go to Morristown tomorrow afternoon to play the school five of that place.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much, and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness, and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

BANK CONDITIONS HERE ARE GOOD

DEPOSITS EXCEED 1913

Interviews Show That General Feeling Among Financiers Here Is Much Better, and Savings Deposits Show Marked Increase.

Plainfield bankers are optimistic these days. Signs, in their opinion, all seem to point to the restoration of business confidence. Prosperity is believed to be on the way and is held by loyal financiers to be to a certain extent reflected by the large increase of late in deposits in savings accounts in the various banking institutions.

Bank deposits are usually considered by the financial powers of Plainfield, as in other and larger centers of population, as the monetary barometer of existing conditions in the business world.

Generally speaking Plainfield bankers, interviewed today by a representative of the Daily Press, see no reason to doubt that this will be a prosperous year.

The deposits which have been made in banking institutions here in Plainfield since January 1, in every case, show a decided increase over the deposits for the same period in 1913. In consequence local bankers are said to be felicitating each other on the good condition of affairs, seeing in the influx of deposits a prediction of coming good times. Views expressed by such officials are decidedly interesting.

In the opinion of DeWitt Hubbell, secretary and treasurer of The Plainfield Trust Company, there is good cause for optimism as regards financial conditions. Plainfield, with the rest of this section of the country may look for prosperous times, he believes.

"Money rates are easy in the large centers," declared Secretary-Treasurer Hubbell this morning. "That is Prosperity's chief sign.

"Commercial paper is now very cheap and this, as a usual thing, is also a sign of good times and prosperity. President Wilson's message has been well received and Plainfield bankers like their brethern in other and larger cities have expressed themselves as being much pleased with its tone.

"The general feeling and sentiment among financiers here seems materially better and the same condition appears to exist pretty generally throughout the country.

"Our savings deposits accounts show a marked increase over the deposits made during the same period last year, although the growth of our savings deposits has steadily and consistently increased year after year."

The Plainfield Trust Company at the close of business on January 13 of this year, had total resources of $4,822,560.96. Its paid in capital stock is $100,000, its surplus funds amounts to $200,000, and it has undivided profits to the amount of $74,980.21. The surplus and undivided profits are nearly three times the amount of its capital.

Vice-President E. F. Feickert of The State Trust Company, stated today when interviewed by a reporter of the Daily Press, that he is of the firm opinion that good times are on the way and that, as a result of the passage of the new currency bill, a better feeling has been created throughout the country. "The immediate effect of this," said he, "has been to bring out a large amount of money for investment, which, sooner or later, must bring about better business conditions. The new money bill while not all that could be asked for is nevertheless, a long step in the right direction and should be the means of preventing money panics in the future. Under the old banking system, when general conditions indicated that caution should be exercised, banks, in order to protect themselves, were forced to curtail their loans. This tended to bring about the very conditions that they feared. The new system, however, will enable them to continue to make loans to everyone who is entitled to them, no matter what the conditions of business, because of the ability, under this system, to re-discount their commercial paper and, in this way, readily obtain additional funds.

"The present easy money condition prevailing in New York and other financial centres, will probably not be felt at once in Plainfield, but is bound to be reflected in conditions here, eventually.

"It is my opinion that unless the new tariff or the contemplated government trust legislation brings about some unforeseen condition, the country will soon experience a revival in business that will establish a new high mark for the country's activities."

The State Trust Company, in its statement of condition, on December

THE PATRIOTISM OF WOMEN DISCUSSED

Prominent Women Tell What Is Being Done to Foster Revolutionary Spirit.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, members of the Women's Current Event Circle of the First M. E. church, yesterday afternoon, listened to a discussion of the general subject, "What Women of the Day are Doing as the Result of Our Wars of Independence." While the attendance at the meeting was not large the audience made up in interest for the lack of numbers. The speakers were Mrs. William L. Libbey, of Princeton, vice-president-general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Mathias Steelman, of Elizabeth, State president, U. S. Daughters of 1812.

Each spoke interestingly of the patriotic ardor displayed by the women of Revolutionary times and of how strongly patriotism was imbued in the minds and hearts of those women of America today who belonged to such well known patriotic societies as the speakers represented.

In particular both women pointed out the urgent need of every patriotic woman doing everything possible to preserve relics of the Revolution and to foster in the minds of children and men and women generally the love of the American flag and reverence for their country.

JURY IN HUNT TRIAL DISAGREE

After Nearly Six Hours' Deliberation Fail to Reach a Verdict; Are Discharged.

Disagreement of the jury which tried Samuel Merrill Hunt chauffeur for Mrs. William Simpson, a wealthy woman, of Overbrook, Pa., and who is well known in Plainfield, for the killing of fourteen-year-old Alfred Bowne, of Irvington, on Georges Road, on August 23 last, makes it seem unlikely that another trial will be had.

Such is the opinion of New Brunswick lawyers who followed the trial of the youthful chauffeur closely. Hunt formerly lived in Dunellen where some of his relatives still reside.

After deliberating for five and one-half hours yesterday the jurors returned to court and notified Judge Peter F. Daly in the Middlesex County Court, that they were certain they would be unable to agree. The court then discharged them. The case was given to the jury at 11:10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Hunt was charged with driving his automobile recklessly and negligently, and, with being on the wrong side of the road at the time the car struck and killed the boy. An uncle of the youth swore that the car was zigzagging from side to side when the accident occurred. Testimony was offered by the prosecution to show that Hunt was intoxicated at the time. This was denied by the defense.

Hunt explained that he had been abroad and had become used to running on the left instead of on the right side of the road, which is the English custom. The car he said was running at the rate of twenty-two miles an hour when the boy was struck and killed. Hunt swore that although he had driven 85,000 miles in the last ten years this was the first accident he had ever had. He was indicted for manslaughter.

SOCIETY ATTEND CHARMING RECEPTION

Mrs. J. M. Whiton, Mrs. Leighton Calkins and Mrs. J. A. Hutchinson Entertain.

One of the delightful social functions of the mid-winter season was a reception and tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. John M. Whiton, Mrs. Leighton Calkins and Mrs. James A. Hutchinson, at the home of Mrs. Whiton, on Central avenue. There were about 450 guests from the city and borough and out-of-town and the social features were greatly enjoyed by everyone.

The decorations were very attractive. In the parlor there was a pleasing arrangement of yellow daffodils and narcissus, while in the dining room pink roses were used with pleasing effect.

Mrs. Whiton, Mrs. Calkins and Mrs. Hutchinson received and those who poured in the dining room were Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. Frank O. Herring, Mrs. Thomas F. Hylan and Mrs. Charles A. Rice. The young women assisting were Miss Barbara Fleming, Miss Helen Joy, Miss Janet Van Vliet, Miss Frances Newell and Miss Martine Weeks. Others who assisted in the reception room were Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Miss Harriett Goddard, Mrs. John F. Carlson and Miss Elizabeth Goddard.

DROWNING VICTIM IN STIRLING POND

Boy of Nine Years Trapped Under the Ice and Was Dead When Taken From Water.

While sliding on the ice in the Stirling pond yesterday afternoon, George Schott, aged nine years, of Union Village, was drowned when he fell through a thin coating and was trapped under the hard surface. Young Schott, accompanied by a number of boys his own age, was playing along the edges of the pond and Schott, who was more venturesome than the rest, stepped on the thin ice and went under.

His head bobbed above the surface of the icy waters for a few seconds, and his companions made vain attempts to rescue him, but his body soon went under and was held fast below the surface of the ice. The terrified screams of the youngsters attracted a number of men who were engaged in cutting ice nearby and with the aid of saws and picks they cut through the ice near the dam. The body had evidently floated down the pond underneath the surface of the ice and it was taken out ten minutes after the accident had occurred near the dam.

The rescue work was done in a remarkably short length of time and the body was still warm when taken from the water. "First aid" treatment was administered to the unfortunate youth on the banks of the stream and he was then taken to the office of Dr. Bebout immediately across the street. The physician was not at home and the party went to the office of Dr. McGrath a half mile away and this physician was also summoned elsewhere. The persons who took the youth to the doctor's office worked over him for some time before the physician arrived and pronounced him dead.

JAMES FREDERICK EVANS SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

James Frederick Evans, a well-known resident of this city for many years, died this morning, following a long illness from complications. He was born in this city, being a son of Mrs. Margaret Evans and the late John F. Evans, and had been a resident here all his life. For many years he was employed as a machinist at the plant of the Walter Scott Printing Press Works, and was popular among his fellow-employes because of his genial disposition.

Mr. Evans is survived by his mother and two brothers, John R. Evans and Benjamin W. Evans, the latter being supervising janitor of the Plainfield Public Schools. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

FUNERAL OF R. W. BARNES.

The funeral service of Robert W. Barnes, of North Plainfield, who died at Mandarin, Florida, on Monday, will be held at the First Baptist church, of which he was a member and deacon for many years, on Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, will officiate, and the burial will be in Somerville.

Preparatory services will be held at Warren chapel tonight at 8 o'clock and the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday morning.

MIDDLEBROOK CAMP LUNCHEON

Daughters American Revolution Hosts At Delightful Affair.

AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

Many Prominent Speakers and Guests Attend the Function and Enjoy Elaborate Menu — The Toasts.

Distinguished and honored guests, chief among them being Mrs. William Cumming Story, of New York city, the president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, were participants with some eighty-five of the members of Camp Middlebrook Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of Bound Brook, at their annual luncheon, held this afternoon, in Vincent Chapel of the First M. E. church, on West First street.

The luncheon was a most recherche affair the gowns of the women present being beautiful, costly and of every color. The menu was elaborate. It was one of the most exclusive functions that Plainfield society women have attended thus far this season.

Prominent among the guests of Camp Middlebrook Chapter, to which many well-known Plainfield women belong, were Mrs. William L. Libbey, of Princeton, the vice-president-general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Mathias Steelman, of Elizabeth, the State president of the U. S. Daughters of 1812; Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, the New Jersey State regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. J. Heron Crosman, the National president of the Patriotic Women of America.

Five visiting State regents of the D. A. R. were also especially invited guests at the luncheon today. These were Mrs. George Turrell, of Orange Mountain Chapter; Miss Van Vranken, of Boudinot Chapter, of Elizabeth; Miss Hellerman, of Bergen Chapter, of Jersey City; Miss Otis, of Frelinghuysen Chapter, of Somerville, and Mrs. Charles R. Banks, of Continental Chapter, of Plainfield.

The chairman of the luncheon committee and to whom much of the credit for the success of the delightful function belongs, was Mrs. J. P. Gibson, of Putnam avenue, this city.

Middlebrook Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is one of the largest as well as one of the oldest chapters of that well known patriotic society in this State. Today's luncheon was the chapter's annual society affair.

Toasts were responded to by Miss Anna C. Todd, Chapter regent, who gave "A Welcome" to the chief guest of honor, Mrs. William Cumming Story, president- general of the D. A. R., by Mrs. William L. Libbey, the vice-president general of the D. A. R., who spoke of "Our Organization," by Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, New Jersey State Regent of the D. A. R., who spoke on "Our State," and by Mrs. Mathias Steelman, the State president of the U. S. Daughters of 1812, who responded to the toast "1812 Daughters."

Other speakers were Mrs. J. Heron Crosman, president of the National Society, who responded to "Patriotic Women," and Mrs. George Stryker, a charter member, who spoke entertainingly of "Our Chapter."

The menus were printed in blue, on white and bore upon their cover a fac simile of the pin of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

PLAINFIELD ELKS WITHDRAW APPEAL BEFORE TAX BOARD

Elizabeth, Jan. 28—The Plainfield Lodge of Elks presented an appeal some time ago before the County Tax Board, asking that its property be exempted from taxation. The contention of the local Elks was that as the organization was a charitable and benevolent association there was no reason why their property should not be exempt from taxation.

In view of the fact that the Camden Lodge of Elks has taken the matter up with the State Tax Board the Plainfield Elks decided to abide by the result in that case. Their appeal has consequently been withdrawn.

BURIAL OF INFANT.

The six months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fritts, of Trenton, who at one time lived in this city, died Saturday, and was buried yesterday in the Plainfield avenue cemetery. Mrs. Fritts was formerly Miss Ada Decker, of West End avenue.

DISCUSS GARBAGE DISPOSAL QUESTION

Councilmanic Public Affairs Committee and Health Board Hold a Conference.

Preliminary steps looking toward a solution of the question of a municipal collection and disposal of ashes and garbage were taken last night, when at the request of the Councilmanic fire committee on public affairs, of which Richard A. Claybrook is chairman, there was a conference with the Board of Health. All of the members of both bodies were present, including Dr. T. S. Davis, who has just retired from the health board.

Aside from the fact that it was decided to appoint a committee of two, one from the health board and one from the Council, to investigate the question and report back, little else was done. Mr. Claybrook informally outlined some of his ideas regarding the collection and disposal of ashes and garbage, also explaining systems in other cities with which he is acquainted. That the question is and will be a difficult one to solve was admitted by all those present at the conference, but it was also agreed that some system should be introduced in Plainfield, and with this expressed determination it would appear that there will be tangible results possibly within the coming year.

PLAN FOR ACTION ON LIQUOR LICENSES

Applications Will Be Presented to Common Council Monday Night.

The Councilmanic license committee at its meeting, last night, decided to report back the liquor license applications to the Common Council at the monthly meeting Monday night, when final action will be taken by that body. At that time it will be known whether any additional wholesale licenses are to be granted or not. As previously stated, the Common Council has voted not to increase the number of retail places, so that that phase of the question is settled for this year.

There appears to be a prevailing opinion that as a result of the mass meeting held at the Y. M. C. A., when a large number of citizens went on record as opposing additional wholesale licenses, the Common Council will not go contrary to the sentiments expressed at that time, although it is known that pressure is being brought in various ways to secure at least one more wholesale license.

Councilman Leighton Calkins has clearly stated the situation, and his idea that the Council have a definite fixed policy is quite likely to prevail. He stated at the mass meeting that if additional wholesale licenses were granted there would be no danger of getting away from an established precedent which might cause an agitation of the question another year and there is no doubt that the action of the Council Monday night will settle the number of licensed places to be permitted for some time to come.

DENNIS SHEEHAN PASSES AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Dennis Sheehan, a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church and, who has lived in this city forty-eight years, died early this morning at his home at 1316 Park avenue. Although he had been ill for some time his death was a shock to his many friends.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Sheehan came to this country in 1866, locating in this city, where for the succeeding twenty years he worked for James Emmons, who at that time conducted an extensive contracting business. Besides being an active member of the Holy Name Society, he was affiliated with the South Plainfield lodge, Independent Order of Foresters. A widow and four sons, John, Owen, Dennis and William Sheehan and four daughters, Misses Elizabeth, Katherine, Helen and Margaret Sheehan, survive. He also leaves thre grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in St. Mary's church where a mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

INSTALL SWITCHBOARD.

The installation of a telephone switchboard, with connections in the various rooms, has been completed in the Roth building, recently constructed in East Front street. John J. Carty superintended the work.

Tuscarora Canoe Club May Present "Kale College" In This City.

Alfred B. Wilson, head of the local branch of the New York Telephone Company, and William H. Schooley, members of the Tuscarora Canoe Club, of Newark, attended the annual banquet of the "paddle wielders," last night, in Achtel-Stetters, Newark. As their guests, James J. McNamee and John Caulfield, also of this city, went to Newark to enjoy the function. Among those seated around the banquet board were Kiefer and Strubble, who will be remembered by the Holy Cross football players, as members of the Franklin-ford, A. A., eleven, which fought several gridiron battles in this city during the last rugby season.

The water sportsmen have also gained quite a reputation throughout the State as amateur thespians. On December 19, in Newark, they gave for the first time a playlet in three acts, entitled, "Kale College," which was written by Fred Becker and William McNeary, members of the club. The performance will be repeated the latter part of next month in Asbury Park for the benefit of a hospital and in Montclair, for another charity organization. Negotiations for the appearance of the cast in this city are also underway, and it is probable that at an event to be given by the Holy Cross team, the Newarkers will give the play preceding a program of dancing.

AMUNDSEN'S WORK IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

Described By Lecturer in the Crescent Avenue Church Last Night.

A graphic account of the experiences encountered by explorers who set out in quest of Arctic points was delivered by Rev. W. A. Hunsberger in the Crescent Avenue church last night, the affair being held under the auspices of the Sunday-school, taking the place of the holiday entertainment. Using Captain Amundsen's original stereopticon views Dr. Hunsberger told the story of the discovery of the South Pole in a simple, matter-of-fact manner and his talk kept the audience interested from start to finish.

Difficulties met by Arctic and Anarctic land-seekers were described by the speaker and he told of geographical peculiarities of that part of the globe where the elevations vary from a seemingly endless plain to 15,000 feet above the sea level and the temperature from 23 degrees above to 75 degrees below zero. Colored views of strange birds and animals known only by the Eskimo and Arctic explorer were shown in stereopticon slides taken by the explorer on his latest trip to the South Pole.

Dr. Hunsberger told of the seasons and the conditions prevalent in the remote portions of the world and industries carried on by the natives. He told of the sufferings of Captain Amundsen and his crew of Norwegians and the precautions they took in passing through the ice fields. During the course of the trip the Eskimo dogs were used to haul heavy sleds laden with pharaphanalia through the snow and ice and then, after becoming fagged out by long trips, were shot for food. The speaker outlined the usefulness of the Eskimo dog and compared the canine of the North with that of the temperature zone. He described the mode of life of the natives of the Arctic Circle and their habits, commerce and amusement sources.

SHOES TAKEN WHILE SKATING.

Roland G. Bush, of 147 East Sixth street, reported to the police this morning that someone had stolen a pair of shoes yesterday from the pavilion on the shores of Tier's Pond. Bush went skating, and discarding his street shoes for the feet apparel attached to the steel runners, placed the shoes on a shelf in the pavilion. Later he found that his shoes had been stolen, and he was forced to walk to his home on skates.

PILGRIMAGE OF FRIENDS.

There will be a pilgrimage to the Plainfield meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, on Sunday, of the joint fellowship committee of both branches of Friends in New York. There will be a meeting at 11 o'clock in the morning and a conference at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The topic for discussion will be "What Lack I Yet?" All interested are cordially invited.

SESAME MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning with Mrs. Frederick M. Genung, of 822 Hillside avenue.

U. S. MARSHAL AFTER VIOLATORS

Serves Summons On Sixty Corporations Failing to Comply With the Law.

LIABLE TO HEAVY LINE

Governmental Requirement of Annual Statement of Financial Condition Has Been Ignored In Many Cases.

Government action has been taken against sixty corporations doing business in Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Westfield, Raritan, Cranford, Dunellen and in other towns in this locality because of the failure of such corporations to file the report of their business with the Washington authorities.

Such a report is required every year by the U. S. Government. Serious penalties attach to corporations neglecting this duty which the statute impose. Derelict corporations, whose officers, in many cases, it is said, purely through negligence, have failed in this important duty from the standpoint of the governmental authorities, can be financially mulcted in as great a sum as $10,000. That is the maximum fine that a United States Judge can impose for an infraction of the law which requires that every corporation shall file each and every year a full and complete report showing the amount of business that it has transacted and its financial condition.

That the idea of the governmental authorities at Washington to regulate and supervise all corporations coming under their province is not chimerical, nor the statute requiring such a statement of business conditions, a dead letter on the law books, is evident from the fact that action has already been begun against sixty derelict corporations in this vicinity.

Voluminous summons and complaints, prepared by the attorneys in the Department of Justice, at Washington, are being served today by United States Marshal Allen Bollschweiler, of Perth Amboy, on those corporations doing business hereabouts who because of their laxness in disregarding or at least disobeying the laws have fallen under the ban of Uncle Sam's law sharps who have determined to call them strictly to account.

The numerous local corporations complained of must file their answer to the government's allegation of disobedience of the laws in the United States District Court in Newark. The prosecution of the local actions will be in charge of Attorney General J. Warren Davis, of Trenton, acting for the Department of Justice, it is said.

Before the day is over, if U. S. Marshal Bollschweiler completes his service of all of the summons and complaints with which he and his assistants are armed, there will probably be a rush made to lawyers by officers of those corporations upon whom service has been made in order to determine their chances of escaping the imposition of a large fine when the case comes before a judge of the United States Court.

U. S. Marshal Bollschweiler is a former sheriff of Middlesex county. He is a new appointee of President Wilson, taking the oath of office only three weeks ago. This is about the first official business of consequence that the new official has been required to undertake for the government.

JUNIOR C. E. SUPTS. DISCUSS METHODS OF WORK

The Junior Christian Endeavor superintendents of Plainfield held a conference yesterday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. parlors. The "why and how" of junior work was thoroughly discussed and methods of work in the individual societies were interchanged. The superintendents derived many helpful thoughts for their particular societies.

Mrs. Clarence B. LaRue, superintendent of the junior work of the local Christian Endeavor Union, presided, and Mrs. E. F. Stebbins was elected secretary. Arrangements were made for another conference Tuesday, February 24, when a junior rally will be planned.

TO DISCUSS LIVE TOPICS.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Plainfield High School has planned for an interesting meeting tomorrow night. Miss Addie Parker Jackson will speak on "Physical Training in the High School;" C. R. Bostwick will talk on "The High School Course of Practical Art," while J. C. Evans will discuss a topic pertinent to the commercial department. The public is invited, but especially parents, who will have an opportunity for conference with the teachers.

Feud of German Crown Prince And Kaiser Causes Anxiety

Breach Has Been Widened by Young Man's Recent Indiscretions.

Officials Are Worried Over Frederick's Political Activities.

MORE and more anxious are German government officials over the political activities of their crown prince, more and more serious is becoming the question, What manner of man is this who may any day stand at the head of the German empire, the man on whom the peace of all Europe depends? What is the matter with Frederick William? they ask. Is he really a hot headed militarist or is he merely tactless and youthfully meddlesome in spite of his thirty-one years?

With increasing force, the realization is borne in on Germany that her crown prince is not the negative quantity she has long considered him. With growing frequency he is displaying positive qualities entirely at variance with all previous estimates of his character, which during his youth was good naturedly summed up in the words, "At least there's no harm in him."

The crown prince has had several differences with the kaiser. In November, 1911, it may be recalled, much comment was caused by the crown prince's action in enthusiastically applauding in the reichstag speakers who attacked the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, on the occasion of a debate on the Moroccan settlement with France. The prince ostentatiously showed his approval of reference to the "German sword" and every word uttered against France and Great Britain. A day or so later the kaiser voiced his displeasure with the crown prince through an inspired telegram published in the Cologne Gazette. This was regarded as a public and semiofficial rebuke and fully confirmed the reports that the kaiser had reprimanded his son for having openly shown his approval of the attacks on the government's Moroccan policy.

In October of last year the crown prince again rebelled against the kaiser's government. He intervened in characteristic fashion in the controversy regarding the thrones of the duchy of Brunswick and the kingdom of Hanover by writing a vigorous letter to the imperial chancellor, declaring that his brother-in-law, Prince Ernest Augustus, son of the Duke of Cumberland, should not be permitted to enter Brunswick as reigning duke until he "clearly and categorically" renounced his and his offspring's claims to the throne of Hanover.

His last imprudence was in sending a telegram congratulating German officers of Zabern on their aggressive treatment of the inhabitants of that garrison town of Alsace and especially commending the stand taken by Colonel von Reuter. Shortly after this episode the crown prince was recalled from Danzig and from the colonelcy of the first life guard hussars and ordered to Berlin. Here undoubtedly his royal father's watchful eye will be kept upon him and his movements.

The differences between the kaiser and his heir have agitated all Germany, and speculations are rife as to what sort of a ruler the crown prince will make. The German empire has many difficult problems before it, and any man to deal with them adequately and maintain the position of the country in world politics must be equipped with personal forcefulness, tact and training. The German emperor, whoever he may be, must always have to deal with the delicate internal situation in the empire, not the least disturbing feature of which is the growing power of the Socialists; he must also handle the complicated political situation resulting from Germany's carefully planned expansion in the near east and in Africa and her trade development in the far east, and he must be prepared to uphold his country's hardly won position as one of the greatest of the world powers.

Much of the prominence of Germany in the past twenty-five years and her steady commercial advancement have been due to the brilliant personality of William II. He has had prime ministers and ministers of foreign affairs of skill and capacity, but back of their every project and more especially of their every accomplishment have been the keen mind and the masterful hand of the kaiser himself. He has not always been diplomatic; he has been guilty of occasional "blazing indiscretions;" he has more than once deeply irritated France and England. But the fact remains that for twenty-five years he has maintained a delicately balanced peace, and in the sum total of his accomplishments in this time his occasional failures of tact have little significance.

These great imperial duties are of such importance that the whole world asks the question, What equipment will the man bring whom fate may any day summon to assume them?

In practical training the crown prince is virtually unprepared for the great responsibilities that are in store for him. It is for this reason that many Germans are tolerant of his indiscretions, attributing them to the inexperience of a high spirited young man chafing under the strong personal domination of his father. Frederick William is a well drilled and enthusiastic soldier, with a practical knowledge of the service, but beyond this he does not go. There was a great deal of talk at one time of his undertaking actual work in the various ministries as a means of training in governmental duties. But the young man felt no enthusiasm for this kind of instruction, and his absence from social and sporting activities was very irksome to his wife. Soon nothing more was heard of his keeping office hours.

But it is not the prince's inexperience in governmental affairs that has made Germany grave. Such inexperience is not unusual in heirs apparent and is not a menace to the future if it is combined with a well ordered mind and a willingness to learn from constituted authority. The utterances and activities of Frederick William during the past two years have not been of a character to give this assurance; hence comes the newly awakened and widespread interest in this young man, in whose untried hands enormous influence and authority will some day be placed.

Germany hopes that the kaiser will find some means of persuading his son to more diplomatic conduct, but Germany knows that diplomacy is not achieved over night, nor are antipathetic temperaments reconciled in one hour or two; hence all Germany is awaiting with interest the next development in the family situation.

JAMES G. SHAW.

Quizzed by Whitman as to Who Got the Graft Money.

District Attorney Whitman got nearer to the identification of James E. Gaffney as the man to whom $41,250 was paid for an aqueduct contract. He came so near it that he subpoenaed James G. Shaw of the Clinton Point Stone company to appear again before the grand jury. Mr. Shaw was questioned for an hour. At his previous examination he declared that it was not James E. Gaffney that he paid the money to. Yesterday he would not affirm that it was not Gaffney, nor would he admit that it was Gaffney. He did admit that he saw much of Gaffney during the month of March, 1909, the date of the payment. He has been called again in the hope that he will swing still further from his assertion that it was not Gaffney and will affirm that it was.

BRADY ESTATE MAY REACH $90,000,000

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The estate of Anthony N. Brady may yet be appraised at $90,000,000. In other words, if the contentions of Charles M. Friend, transfer tax appraiser of Albany county, and his special counsel, Eugene Lamb Richards, Jr., of New York city, prove successful the estate will be taxed on about $85,000,000, there being deductions for certain life estates and for liabilities in the shape of notes which Mr. Brady indorsed for friends.

While the representatives of the state put the taxable amount at approximately $85,000,000—and insist that they are conservative in using these figures—the heirs say that their appraisal of the estate makes the total about $70,000,000.

From information that can be gathered here in reliable sources there is a difference of opinion between the representatives of the heirs and the representatives of the state over the taxable value of the estate. This difference is in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

The heirs already have paid the tax on about $70,000,000, as Nicholas F. Brady last week handed the state comptroller a check for $2,584,000, the inheritance tariff on that amount, but that does not mean that the heirs would not have to pay more in the event the estate proved to be more than $70,000,000. The heirs got a 5 per cent reduction by paying the tax within six months after the death of Mr. Brady.

The difference between the two sides over the appraisal of the estate is purely friendly and the value of the estate probably will not be fixed for four or five months yet, as the task is proving exceedingly difficult. The sides are co-operating in making the final appraisal. The heirs are affording Mr. Friend and Mr. Richards every convenience and every courtesy in getting at facts and figures.

INCOME TAX MAY BE CHANGED

Bill Proposed to Repeal "Collection at Source" Rule.

Washington, Jan. 28.—A movement was begun in congress looking to the repeal of that provision of the income tax law requiring the collection of tax at the source. It was inaugurated by Representative Jacob A. Cantor of New York, a Democrat, who has received many communications from New York city and elsewhere complaining that the collection of the tax at the source is impracticable and likely to lead to great confusion.

Mr. Cantor presented a bill proposing the repeal of the provision in question. The measure was referred to the committee on ways and means, and Mr. Cantor believes that hearings on it will be held for the benefit of all interested. Mr. Cantor is convinced that when the committee is apprised of the difficulties that attend the collection of income tax at the source it will favorably report the bill.

To Prevent Fogs.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 28.—Expert investigators of the University of Pittsburgh, encouraged by rivermen, will try the French plan of preventing heavy fogs by the use of oil on the rivers.

PROCTOR'S CLEVER SHOW.

The Proctor vaudeville show for the first part of this week abounds with cleverness. Fields and Coco, the "Ragtime Gymnasts," is the best hand balancing act that has ever played in this city. The feats of strength and lifting powers are marvelous. Dunn and Dean in a singing and dancing imitation act are supreme in their style of entertainment. Mr. Dean gives clever imitations of animals, noises, instruments, crying babies, in one instance he imitates an Edison talking machine which is realistic. Miss Dunn gives a Spanish dance and wears beautiful costumes. The Albergs in the comedy singing and acrobatic skit "A Day on the Farm," reaped a harvest of applause last night with their comedy act. Jack and Zelda Marshall & Co. appear in the comedy sharpshooting act "Pucker Up," with a cast of four people and beautiful special scenery. The Marshalls are remarkable crack shots with the rifle, the two comedians are funny. The Faden O'Brien trio in the scenic singing comedy skit "Looking for a Job," is an excellent singing act. Their singing of the "Rock of Ages," the big church organ in the distance, the choir and the "Rock of Ages" is most impressive. Zel. Hust, the deaf humorist and cartoonist is very good and has an interesting "Nut" act.

PROCTOR'S NEW SHOW.

Every one appreciates a good male quartette, and those who take advantage of hearing the Valley Forge Comedy Four at Proctor's this week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will not be disappointed. The boys are in fine singing trim, they have a most wonderful tenor, their comedy is refined, yet screamingly funny. They are sure to knock you off your seats. "On the Boulevard" is a new wrinkle in a sensational comedy juggling act, surpassing all competitors, and Proctor's have got some pretty good ones. Betts and Betts in a little comedy skit, "A Little Talk On Autos," have many new ideas to advance on the care and running the popular pastime. And the owners of motors understand that their discourse is unlimited. Of course they knock the poor motorist and there is a scream in every knock. The Musical Huehns in a new comedy musical act that has received some remarkable comments as to their ability as instrumentalists. Their repertoire consists of the popular and the classical. The Two Gigger-Ups, "The Men With the Funny Walk," have a classy singing and dancing act. Carl and his trained dogs close this excellent vaudeville bill. The dogs are marvels of intelligence and the kiddies will have another tickle coming to them. Photo plays are changed daily.

Plainfield, N. J., January 28, 1914.

A DISTINGUISHED PRELATE.

Bishop David H. Greer, the distinguished head of the Episcopalian diocese of New York, is being honored this week by the people of that church, in commemoration of his having reached the tenth year of his episcopate. In order to properly celebrate the occasion the congregation of St. Bartholomew's church, of which he was the rector for many years, is conducting a notable program of church services and social functions.

Bishop Greer has long been one of the leaders in the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. Born in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1844, he was graduated from Washington College in 1862. Immediately after his graduation he took up the study of law, but soon threw it aside and became a student in the theological seminary at Gambier, O. He was ordained in 1868, and his first charge was at Clarksburg, W. Va. After a brief stay there he went to Trinity church, Covington, Ky., remaining there until 1871, when he went abroad. In 1875 he returned to accept the rectorship of Grace church, in Providence. He served there thirteen years before going to New York as rector of St. Bartholomew's. In 1897 Dr. Greer was elected bishop coadjutor of Rhode Island, but declined the office. In 1901 he was also elected bishop of the diocese of Western Massachusetts, but again declined to accept. Two years later he accepted election as bishop coadjutor of the diocese of New York and when Bishop Potter died in 1908 he succeeded to the bishopric.

As rector of St. Bartholomew's, Dr. Greer received an annual salary of $15,000, and when he accepted the office of bishop coadjutor it was at a considerable pecuniary sacrifice. While rector of St. Bartholomew's, Dr. Greer's crowning work was the erection of the largest parish building in the United States. Besides the various schools, clubs and guilds quartered in the building there is a large employment bureau. Mission work is carried on among the Swedes, Italians, Germans and Chinese.

Bishop Greer is emphatically a broad churchman. In the pulpit he is a plain speaker and his sermons usually furnish food for discussion by his hearers. He has always been remarkably successful in his appeals to his congregation. Some years ago he asked for an Easter offering of $80,000, and when the collection had been counted it was found that the response was even greater than the request.

Such a great record in a great church is one that may well be celebrated in the fitting manner that Bishop Greer's friends have chosen. He may be said to be one of the greatest men of the church, and his thousands of friends will wish for him long life and health, that he may continue with the great and good work which he is directing in the metropolis.

Tinkering with the election laws, which most people think are the best the State has ever had, has begun at Trenton. Assemblymen Leonard and Griffin, both of this county, seem to think that numerous changes are needed and have introduced bills to bring them about. Leonard thinks that more challengers are needed to represent the parties and the candidates in the polling places; that the county clerk should be relieved of the work that he now does in connection with the election of Presidential electors and others, and the work put on the county election boards; and that the time which election officers must reside in a district before being eligible to act should be reduced to six months, from one year, as is required at present. Griffin's bills provide that the registry and election books shall be kept by and delivered to the County Board of Elections, instead of the city clerk, and that the clerk of the County Board shall report the result of the election to the Board on the Monday after election. Some of these proposed changes are good and others detrimental, but all are of minor importance. The election laws should be left as they are until they have been thoroughly tried out. Then if they are found to be lacking, let a commission be appointed to draft necessary changes and improvements and the Legislature can soon correct the defects.

If you see anyone wearing a carnation tomorrow, remember that he or she is paying a tribute to one of the greatest men this nation ever knew. It will be the anniversary of the birth of the martyred President, William McKinley, and the flower was the favorite of that wonderful leader.

If all the people of the city and borough were as enthusiastic about consolidation as Mayor Robert Clark is, there would be but one Plainfield before the present Legislature adjourns.

Why hurry with the city hall project, when we may have to build a county court house for Washington county?

The graft investigation in New York has shoved Huerta off the front page. Every cloud has a silver lining.

THE FORUM.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The Plainfield Branch of the Union County "S. P. C. A.," on the afternoon of Monday, January 26, at their regular monthly meeting held in the "Y. M. C. A." parlor, heard with deep interest from the special agent, Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, an account of the recent fire in Adam C. Blair's stable at 114 West Sixth street, and of the efficient and prolonged efforts of the fire department to evtinguish the flames. We ascribe all honor to its brave chief and to his gallant corps, whose services we cannot esteem too highly.

In response to a motion unanimously carried, we would also as an organization publicly express our gratitude and admiration for the humane and heroic assistance rendered by Policemen Arthur A. McGinley and Cornelius McCarthy, who, at the risk of their lives, entered the burning building, and led the horses that were housed there to liberty and safety.

Plainfield may justly take pride in these intrepid defenders of the persons and property of its citizens in both departments of the civic government.

(Mrs.) ELEANOR DUNN,
Secretary.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

In justice to the Christian Endeavorers of the Plainfield local union, would you kindly print this letter, correcting an erroneous report which appeared in yesterday's issue of your paper.

The Endeavorers did not petition the Mayor and Common Council to grant no more or "additional" licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, but they did petition that no licenses whatsoever, either wholesale or retail, be granted. In other words, the Endeavorers are not concerned about the question as to whether or not a select group of liquor dealers have a monopoly of the business. They stand for the destruction of the whole business, in other words, prohibition.

Yours truly,
CLARENCE B. LARUE,
Chairman Temperance Committee C. E. Union.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Plainfield People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Plainfield people are in this chorus. Here's a Plainfield case.

Mrs. Cecelia Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am only too pleased to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope that all kidney sufferers who read my statement will profit by my experience. I have had a world of good from this remedy, backache, headache, dizzy spells and trouble with the kidney secretions being removed by it. I do not know what I would have done without Doan's Kidney Pills and I am certain that there is no kidney medicine that can be compared with them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.—Adv.

SEVERAL BIDS ACCEPTED BY BOARD

Furnishings at New High School Will Include a Vacuum Cleaner.

An adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was held in the High School last night, for the consideration of bids on various matters connected with the new High School addition. The bid of Snellenburg and Company was accepted for Moulthrop chairs and the movable desk-chairs which the Board will have installed at once in one of the class rooms for the purpose of determining their desirability as a substitute for the present desk.

The bid of Kenney Brothers and Wolkins was accepted for the regular school desks and the bid of Heywood Brothers and Wakefield Company was accepted for the auditorium chairs. Jaehing and Company's offer of $1,644 was accepted for lighting fixtures and Laggren and Greene were awarded the shading contract to furnish shades at $438. The question of installing a vacuum cleaner in the High School was taken up and the bid of $1,353 made by the Spencer Turbine Company was accepted.

Notice was received from Mayor Stewart that Albert A. Tilney had been appointed a member of the Board of Education to take the place of James Buckle whose term expires February 1. The West End Civic Association was given permission to use the Washington Schol auditorium Tuesday evening, February 17, for an entertainment.

WILLIAM ROBINSON ON TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Elizabeth, Jan. 28—For the second time, the jury which tried him about two months ago having disagreed, William Robinson, a negro, of Westfield, who killed Ulysses Thomas, another negro, by hitting him in the head with a brick, was placed on trial for manslaughter today.

The trial is being held before Judge James C. Connolly and a jury in the Court of Quarter Sessions. Thomas was assaulted by Robinson, who was armed with a brick, while the two were returning from a ball game in Elizabeth. The assault occurred between Westfield and this city.

J. F. W. BAMBERGER IS HONORED BY LODGEMEN

District Deputy Grand Regent Ward, assisted by Grand Guide C. C. Davis, last night, installed the newly elected officers of Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum, as follows: Past regent, E. P. Shearer; regent, George B. Coffee, Jr.; orator, James A. Greene; secretary, W. F. Oliver; collector, J. F. W. Bamberger; treasurer, L. B. Skillman; chaplain, George A. Lyonmark; warden, A. C. Krog; sentry, R. O. Runyon; trustee for three years, T. A. Runyon. W. S. Hinlen, who was elected vice regent, was not present at the ceremonies because of illness.

Following the installation, several addresses were made and a general social time was enjoyed. The members also embraced the opportunity of honoring Mr. Bamberger, who has served as collector for fourteen consecutive years, by presenting him with a handsome gold-banded fountain pen. Grand Guide Davis made the presentation speech, and reviewed the good work done by the officer during his period of affiliation with the lodge.

JUDGE LEON SAUNDERS TO DISCUSS 'IMMIGRATION'

A meeting of the Plainfield Lodge, No. 627, I. O. B. A., will be held in the Exempt Firemen's Hall tomorrow night, when Grand Master Judge Leon Saunders will be present to initiate several new members. Following the initiation Judge Saunders will give a talk on "Immigration."

During the meeting an informal discussion will be held dealing with the terms set forth in the Burnett bill which is now before Congress and which, if passed, will have a direct effect on immigration.

CLAIM BODY OF MAN WHOSE SKULL WAS BROKEN IN FALL

New Brunswick, Jan. 28—Relatives of Harry Hansen, fatally injured Sunday in a fall downstairs, yesterday claimed his body at the morgue of Coroner William F. Harding. Hansen was employed on the farm of William McCracken, of Middlebush, formerly of Plainfield. Sunday he lost his balance while on the stairway at the McCracken home and fell headlong to the bottom, where members of the McCracken family found him lying unconscious.

Hansen was brought here to St. Peter's hospital, where it was found his skull was fractured. He failed to regain consciousness and died soon after his arrival at the hospital. Hansen was thirty-six years old and had been engaged through a Swedish employment agency in New York.

Westfield.

The planing mill of Tuttle Bros., a firm of which Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Jr., is a member, shut down Monday for a few days while stock is being taken. The mill will be running again on full time next week.

Frank Brush, of Scotch Plains, was held under $300 bonds in the recorder's court, charged with carrying a revolver.

The Mountainside Council has ordered preliminary surveys on the work of a new road over the mountain to cut off several miles in communication between this part of the county and the towns along the Lackawanna. The engineers started on the work Monday.

GEORGE A. STRONG RUN DOWN BY AUTO TRUCK

George A. Strong, a New York lawyer, whose home is at 1030 Central avenue, this city, is suffering from the effects of an automobile accident which he suffered in New York on Monday. Mr. Strong was walking across a downtown street, it is said, when a swiftly moving automobile truck struck him a glancing blow, knocking him down and injuring him severely.

Fortunately for him an examination by his physician, upon his return to his home in Plainfield, showed that he had received no internal injuries. He since has been under the care of a physician and a trained nurse however, suffering acutely from lacerations, abrasions and the attendant nervous shock.

MAN, NECK BROKEN 25 YEARS AGO, IS BURIED AT MT. HOLLY

Mt. Holly, Jan. 28—William H. Shemeley, of Beverly, was buried Monday, in St. Andrew's cemetery, this place. He had been a sufferer for twenty-five years from paralysis, caused by a broken neck.

Shemeley, when a boy, fell from a tree while playing. He landed on his head and neck. For more than twenty years after he was able only to look from the bedroom window.

William Shemeley, his father, was a school teacher. While the lad lay in bed year after year he received an excellent education.

The sufferer for years, by his remarkable vitality, baffled the physicians who were attending him.

31 last, showed total resources of $754,139.15. Its surplus and profits were $50,163.40, and its capital, $100,000.

Speaking of business and financial conditions here in Plainfield, and generally, an official of the City National Bank, who declined to be personally quoted, said:

"The tone as regards business and financial conditions is better. There has been an increase in the monies deposited in our savings deposit accounts over the deposits during a similar period last year."

The City National Bank has a capital of $150,000 and has earned a surplus and profits of $300,000. Its financial statement, at the close of business on January 31, of this year, showed total resources of $3,471,523.84, and deposits of $2,857,326.02.

That business seems to be good in Plainfield, and that there is cause for a general feeling of prosperity and optimism, is the opinion expressed today to a Daily Press representative by one of the officials of The Plainfield Savings Bank. He stated that bank was making the usual amount of mortgage loans, said that conditions, to his mind, were good financially and that there had been a noticeably large increase in the amounts received by the Plainfield Savings Bank thus far this year over the amounts credited to depositors a year ago.

"There is plenty of money in Plainfield," said D. M. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, today, "and a good many working people have money here, too. Of course there are some men out of work, but the lack of employment is only temporary.

"Our savings deposit accounts have been steadily increasing. We have had a very material increase in our savings accounts thus far this year, much greater than during a like period last year."

At the close of business on January 18 last, the First National Bank's statement showed total resources of $3,210,500.51. The institution has a surplus fund of $100,000 and undivided profits, less expenses, of $80,704.06. Its capital stock is $200,000.

HUERTA RECEIVES JAPANESE ARMS

Were Discarded After Conflict With Russia.

OFFICIALS ARE PUZZLED.

United States Learns of Big Shipments of Munitions to Mexico — Action Is Directly Against the Policy Inaugurated by President Wilson.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Officials here are deeply concerned over the latest phase of the Mexican situation. It relates to Japanese activity in Mexico.

This subject was discussed at the conference last night between the president and the senate foreign relations committee. It was, in fact, the feature of the conference which gravely impressed the members of the senate committee and which caused them to decline to discuss in any way what had been disclosed to them at the White House.

The information which has come to this government is to the effect that Huerta has been obtaining his supply of arms recently from Japanese sources. The rifles which he had been getting are, it is said, those which were used in the Japanese war with Russia.

It is understood that the information which officials of this government have obtained indicates that the supply of arms came from the Japanese government itself, but many in Washington hesitate to credit this report and are hopeful that the information is inaccurate. Officials, however, who have had access to the information intimate that the evidence is strong.

It was reported some time ago that rifles used by the Japanese army were being sold. These rifles were of an old type used by the Japanese in the war with Russia. The Japanese government, it was said, had several thousand of these rifles on hand and was disposing of them because they were being replaced with a more modern type of firearm. At that time, however, it was said that the Japanese government was selling these rifles to private corporations or individuals in Japan.

It was suggested that some of the rifles might find their way into Mexico. In fact, there were reports that the Mexican rebels were trying to obtain some of them.

Officials Are Puzzled.

Whether or not the report is true that some of these arms were obtained by Huerta direct from the Japanese government, the fact that they have found their way into the hands of the dictator's soldiers is in itself significant. The attitude of this government and its earnest desire to shut off all supplies of firearms and ammunition from Huerta have been well known to all the governments. The impression here is that the Japanese government could easily have prevented the transfer of these arms from Japanese to Mexican hands if it had really desired to do so.

There is no disposition to question the right of Japanese private interests to sell rifles to the Huerta forces, nor of the Japanese government itself to do this, if it is inclined that way. The significance of the situation as viewed by members of the senate is that Japan is disposed to follow such a course.

"POLICEWOMEN" BILL IN.

Eisner Measure Calls For Appointment of Twenty or More Here.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Assemblyman Mark Eisner of New York introduced a bill all tied up in red ribbon providing for the appointment of twenty or more "patrolwomen" to the New York city police force. The women are to be regular members of the uniformed force, subject to the same rules, receive the same salary as the men and participate in the pension funds.

Under the bill the women are to be assigned to public parks, dance halls, moving picture shows and places of amusement at the discretion of the police commissioner, or may be assigned to regular street patrol duty.

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Mark Goldberg of New York abolishes the present park board of New York city and provides for a single commissioner at $7,500 a year to have charge of the bureau of parks.

SAYS SPEER WRECKED ROAD.

Colonel Lawton Accuses Federal Jurist at Investigation.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 28.—Colonel A. R. Lawton, vice president of the Central of Georgia railroad and head of its legal department, told the congressional investigating committee that Federal Judge Emory Speer wrecked the old Central of Georgia railroad property by signing a "midnight order" throwing its affairs into court when the road was absolutely solvent.

Colonel Lawton said that the affairs of the road were in a flourishing condition in 1890 when its officials were greatly surprised one afternoon with an order to appear in Judge Speer's court to show cause why the receiver should not be named. The order had been signed at Macon on the previous night without giving the company or its representatives a chance to make any statement.

COUPLE CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Egan, Married Seventeen Years, Entertain Friends.

Observing the seventeenth anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Egan celebrated the event last night at their home in West Third street, where many friends came to congratulate them and join in the festivities. The winners of "five hundred" were Mrs. Thomas Hendry, for the women, and Ferdinand Dencklau for the men. Mrs. J. Rielly, Mrs. A. Farina, Thomas Hendry and William Gray also received souvenirs. Other games were played and a delightful luncheon was served. The table decorations comprised a color scheme of purple and gold and palms and ferns were distributed profusely about the rooms.

Among the guests were former Councilman and Mrs. W. W. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. A. Farina, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Dencklau, Mrs. James Reilly, Miss Flora Millar, Miss Ella McVey, Miss Annetta Decker, Miss Edith Robinson, William Gray, George Cook, George Hanlon and Carl and Walter Dencklau.

REUNE F. RANDOLPH'S FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of Reune F. Randolph, of Mt. Pleasant, was held at the late home, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church, of which Mr. Randolph was a life-long member, officiated, reading Scriptures, offering prayer and making an address of eulogy.

There was a large number of beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Louis F. Randolph, Nathan H. Randolph, Asa F. Randolph, Frank Kellogg, Alexander Thorn and Dr. Frank S. Wells.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

It is pretty universally conceded amongst civilized peoples that woman represents the moral side of community interests better than man, and her position in regard to the liquor traffic is too well-known to need to be defined.

On that ground, it is baseless to accuse the anti-suffragists of allying themselves with the liquor interests, for it is against the nature of women to do so—referring always, of course, to the majority of women (only five per cent of women belonging to the criminal classes).

On the same ground, it is absurd to accuse the suffragists of alliance with those interests. And that it is generally recognized that there has not been, and never can be, such alliance, the following evidence, coming from the liquor dealers themselves, mainly in their publications for the trade only, is proof, if proof were needed.

At one of a series of lectures given in New York this fall, Miss Alice Chittenden, president of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, represented the cause of her party. It was a rule of these lectures that forty-five minutes were to be given the speaker, after which the audience might have fifteen minutes in which to ask questions.

At the close of Miss Chittenden's speech, one of the audience rose, and, stating that it was often charged that the anti-suffragists were allied with the liquor interests, asked Miss Chittenden if she would make clear their position in the matter. Miss Chittenden said she would be very glad to do so, and proceeded to read the letter of Mr. Hugh Fox, published long ago in the Plainfield papers, and with which we are all familiar, in refutation of the charge.

Miss R. A. Lawrence, in Saturday's Daily Press, quote the most trenchant portion as follows: "The Anti-Suffrage Association has never been endorsed by the United Brewer's Association. We have not contributed any money, "directly or indirectly, to their cause, nor have we been asked to do so, though we have had appeals from the other side." (The emphasis is Mr. Fox's).

When Miss Chittenden had finished a lady in the audience, Miss Clara Schlingheyde, of San Francisco, rose and said that a Mr. Ned Greenway, of San Francisco, a well-known society man and also agent for a champagne firm, openly boasted that he had given one thousand dollars to defeat the cause of woman suffrage in California. As he was known to be a man of very small means, a natural inference was drawn.

Following Miss Schlingheyde, Miss Zara Du Pont, of Cleveland, Ohio, arose and said that a liquor dealer of Ohio boasted to her in the presence of two witnesses—a lawyer and a doctor—that the liquor interests of Ohio had defeated the woman suffrae amendment in that State. Another person in the audience cited another proof of the same kind, after which Miss Chittenden remarked, "Why, we thought we defeated the amendment in Ohio." The person referred to (Miss Elizabeth Hauser, of Ohio), replied, "We know who defeated the amendment in Ohio, Miss Chittenden, and we don't blame you for it."

In justice to Mr. Fox, we assume that these and the following evidences that the liquor interests are contributing to the cause opposed to woman suffrage do not come under the head of official acts of the United Brewers' Association, which he represents, and he probably is uninformed of them.

"Progress and the Reflector," official organ of the Wisconsin State Retail Dealers' Protective Association, published at Watertown, Wis., describes itself on its editorial page as "An Educational Journel covering every phase of the Retail and Wholesale Liquor and Brewing Industries." The number issued in August, 1912, when the first suffrage campaign in Michigan was at its height, bears on its cover an anti-suffrage cartoon, and the leading article headed, "Give the Ballot to Women and Industry Goes to Smash." Illustrated with another anti-suffrage cartoon is a strong appeal to the liquor dealers to vote against the suffrage amendment. The sub-head reads:

"Suffragette movement in Wisconsin threatens various industries ... not wanted by majority of women but forced into it. Means prohibition and loss of vast sums to manufacturer, dealer and workingman."

"Have you stopped to think ... it means to you for the women of Wisconsin to secure the ballot? Have you thought over the problem from a commercial standpoint?" * * *

There follow some two columns of the regulation anti-suffrage agreements and then:

"There is one word that is a perfect definition for woman suffrage—PROHIBITION. It is prohibition—not woman suffrage."

There is much more to the same effect and the article closes:

"You must vote.

"There are 400,000 voters entitled to express themselves on this topic on November 5. But 10,000 votes will carry the woman suffrage issue to success unless 10,001 or more votes are cast against it. See that your vote is counted against it. It may save the day."

On another page of the same issue is a display paragraph reading:

"HERE IS WHERE THEY STAND.

"The National Prohibition Convention, sitting at Atlantic City, July 11, adopted a platform with 'suffrage for women upon the same terms as men' as one of its principal planks.

"They know what they want and how to get it.

"They will vote to a man for this proposed constitutional amendment, giving the ballot to women, on November 5. It promises greater strength for Prohibition.

"WHERE DO YOU STAND?"

A very objectionable anti-suffrage cartoon follows on the opposite page—and on page eleven, in heavy type is read:

"A campaign against woman suffrage and other dangers of the brewing and affiliated industries that threaten the trade, is to be waged by PROGRESS from now on until the fall election. PROGRESS will go to every saloonkeeper, brewer and to many barber shops and hotels while this campaign is on.

"Advertise in PROGRESS and get the benefit of this vigorous campaign for the good of the cause."

Page 12 is taken up with an editorial on "Babies," making the familiar charge—in language bordering upon the obscene— that suffragists do not want babies.

More anti-suffrage matter, and then "played up" in large double type, double-leaded with a border and decorations, notice of a separate ballot, and directions for voting it, and more urgent calls to defeat the suffrage amendment.

The July, 1913, issue of "Progress," reprints in full the anti-suffrage essay of Julia D. Henry which won first prize in an anti-suffrage competition and was published first in "The Woman's Protest."

The "National Forum," of Butte, Montana, while the suffrage bill was pending before the Montana Legislature, worked steadily against the amendment and when the measure passed, it added exhortations to the saloon men to not only vote "no" on the referendum, but to work against it in the meantime. Amongst several articles addressed to the saloon men, urging them to defeat the suffrage amendment, is one which quotes: "Joseph Reinach, a well-known French deputy and the leading prohibitionist of that country, said recently:

"Real universal suffrage, including women, will one day be the result of our campaign against the National peril, alcoholism. It was to wipe out this scourge that the Scandinavian countries gave the vote to women.

"The best policy is to admit that women will vote the saloons out of business if given the chance, and then put up a fight against the suffrage amendment."

The May number reprints Mrs. Dodge's well-known "sex-appeal" article and other anti-suffrage matter. On page 6 is an article entitled: "What Are You Doing, Mr. Dealer?" Amongst other things, it says:

"The woman suffragist advocates have said that your business will have to kiss itself goodbye if the vote is given to the women of Montana. This, we believe, is true."

On page 11, a paragraph headed, "How the Women Vote."

"Those who believe that woman suffrage will not hurt the saloons and breweries should study the recent local option elections in Colorado. Out of fourteen towns voting upon the wet and dry question eight of them voted dry. The following voted wet: Littleton, Las Animas, Meeker, Alimosa, Brighton and Holly. These voted dry: Pagosa Springs, Lyons, Lamar, Loveland, Fort Lupton, Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Gunnison."

And much more to the same effect.

While the measure was pending in the Montana Legislature, a manufacturing firm of Detroit, Mich., which puts out an article used in, but not by any means confined to, the liquor business, received what was obviously a circular letter from the "Montana Protective Association," which had in it:

"The State Legislature is now in session, and the first bill introduced into our Constitution was one proposing the altering of our Constitution so as to permit the women of Montana to exercise the franchise. If women are given the right to vote, there are several countries which, in our opinion, can be voted dry at once. This will naturally affect your trade here.

"The local wholesalers and retailers are working unanimously to maintain for Montana the proud position of being the wettest State in the Union. This takes money. Hence we again draw your attention to our communication of December 18, and respectfully ask you to kindly render us financial aid as indicated in said letter."

The head of the Detroit firm so addressed, being a believer in woman suffrage, sent the letter to Collier's Weekly. It was published March 15, 1913, in an editorial entitled, "To Keep Montana Wet."

A second circular letter from the same source was received by the same man and the substance of it also published in Collier's of April 12, 1913. This was after the passage of the suffrage bill. It was in part, as follows:

"Our State Legislature has just closed its session, and our association has been very successful in defeating many measures which would have harassed the trade in Montana. It has been a difficult task for Montana, like all other States, is feeling the effect of the great reform wave which is sweeping the country. The battle we have been fighting during the last sixty days has depleted our treasury, and we are not through yet. Besides this, the great question of woman suffrage will be submitted to the electors at an early date. We are now preparing a State-wide campaign against woman suffrage in this State," etc., etc.

During the closing days of the Michigan campaign of 1913, the text of one of the campaign leaflets of the Michigan Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, bearing the name and address of the association and the names of its officers, appeared as a paid advertisement in a number of the newspapers of Macomb county. It read, in part:

"An Appeal to Men!

"You should vote against woman suffrage for ten thousand reasons.

"We mention but six.

"As women, we do not want the strife, bitterness, falsifications, and publicity which accompany political campaigns.

"Keep mother, wife and sister in the protected home. Do not force us into partisan politics.

* * * *

"Put a cross before the word 'No' on April 7, and win our gratitude.

"Vote No, April 7."

The women's signatures follow, as stated. A few days later the Detroit Journal, which had all along stood for suffrage, published an article revealing the fact that it was the Macomb County Liquor Dealers' Association that had placed and paid for this advertisement. One of the Macomb county editors who received the copy chanced to be a suffragist. He sent the letter accompanying the advertisement to the Detroit Journal. Here is the letter:

"Macomb County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association.

"Office of the Secretary, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

"March 31, 1913.

"To the publisher:

"I enclose herewith copy for an advt. which I wish you would insert in this week's issue of your paper, making ten inches in depth, double column, on your local or front page, if possible.

"I will thank you to see that this is done, and mail statement of charges, and also marked copy to me, and we will remit for the same.

"Thanking you in advance for your attention to this matter, I am,

"Yours truly,

"JOSEPH MATTHEWS,

"Secretary."

The original was turned over by the editor of the Detroit Journel to Mrs. Clara B. Arthur, president of the Michigan Woman Suffrage Association, and is now in her possession.

We could multiply proofs of this sort, more of which are stated in a pamphlet of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, entitled "Woman Suffrage and the Liquor Interests, Some Exhibits," from which pamphlet parts of this material has been copied, but perhaps enough has been cited to show that the claim of the suffragists that the liquor interests are against woman suffrage is not a groundless one.

The fact that prohibition does not immediately follow in the wake of the woman's vote is due partly to the fact that many women realize that prohibition does not always prohibit and that local option or restrictive legislation in many instances, will give better results.

We do not suppose, even in the case of the Liquor Dealers' Associations paying for the anti suffrage advertisement, that there is of necessity collusion between them. The advertisement was in form of a public leaflet, and anyone might have used it. But that one of the strongest enemies of woman suffrage today is the liquor industry, we have too many proofs to admit denial.

TRAVELERS PLAN FOR INITIATION AND BANQUET

Plainfield Council, No. 42, United Commercial Travelers, will hold a class initiation in its rooms on Saturday night, at a special meeting. The entertainment committee has arranged for a banquet for the members to be held at the Ritz on West Front street. The council has been steadily increasing its membership until it is one of the strongest in the State. The council is constantly seeking the acquaintance of commercial men who are interested in the betterment of their craft locally and in adjacent towns.

Past councilor, Fred Kirch; senior councilor, P. H. Bennett; junior councilor, A. S. Olmstead; secretary-treasurer, John M. Lewin; conductor, E. W. Poinier; page, Frank R. Story; sentinel, A. F. Osmun; chaplain, Joseph D. Moon; executive committee, J. C. Allen, Fred Kling, Charles A. Sturtevant, Joseph D. Moon, John M. Lewin; representatives to grand council, James C. Field, H. J. Percy, Charles A. Sturtevant, A. I. Laing, John M. Lewin, Arthur Organ and Fred Kirch.

WILL VISIT CHINATOWN IN A LOCAL AUTO BUS

An innovation will be started by Manager Campbell, of the Plainfield Transit Company next Saturday night when he will conduct the first of a series of trips to nearby places of interest. Chinatown has been selected for the initial ride and it is planned to leave here at 8 o'clock Saturday night with a crowd of at least thirty merry makers who will take the fifty mile auto trip to the heralded amusement center.

Manager Campbell is mapping out a list of places to which trips will be made and the large green bus used by the company will be devoted to this enterprise and if more room is needed the company will put on an extra car. There has been a demand for a sight-seeing trip of this kind for sometime past and Manager Campbell's move has already met with popular approval.

ANTI-TRUST BILLS TO HAVE ACID TEST

Many Prominent Men Will Present Their Views.

Washington, Jan. 28. — Men distinguished in industry, agriculture and labor are expected to discuss the administration anti-trust program at hearings before the house committee that have judisdiction over this proposed legislation. The hearings on the subject, which will run for a month or more, will begin this week. On Thursday the judiciary committee, of which Representative Clayton of Alabama is chairman, will begin hearing witnesses on the trade relations bill, the measure aimed at interlocking directorates, and the bill that attempts more clearly to define the terms "monopoly" and "monopolization." On Friday the interstate and foreign commerce committee, of which Representative Adamson of Georgia is chairman, will initiate public hearings on the bill proposing the creation of an "interstate trade commission" and another bill providing government supervision over the issuance of railway stocks and bonds.

Present indications are that the administration anti-trust program will be submitted to the house for consideration early in March. At least that is the hope of Messrs. Adamson and Clayton, the leaders who will handle the bills in the house. Whether the bills will be subjected to the test of a Democratic caucus remains to be determined. Such action was taken in the case of the tariff bill, and the banking bill also was passed upon by the caucus before it was presented to the house.

Difficulties in the way of expeditious action on the trust bills may force the leaders to refer the anti-trust bills to a caucus before the house is called on to act on them.

TO END MENTAL TESTS.

War Department Makes It Easier to Enter West Point.

Washington, Jan. 28.—An order which will make it possible for candidates to enter the United States Military academy at West Point without taking mental examinations was issued at the war department.

It provides that a candidate may be exempted from the mental examinations if he is a regularly enrolled student in good standing in any institution accredited by the military academy, if the entrance requirements for such institutions include proficiency in algebra, geometry, English, as outlined by the college examination board, or if he can present a certificate of graduation and proficiency from institutions accepted as standard by the college examination board, or if he can present a certificate showing he has passed examinations as prescribed by the college examination board.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 53.

"SOMEBODY, once upon a time, wrote this: "Advertising is a tonic remedy that makes the advertiser stronger for every dose taken, but to stop taking it means a relapse that may prove fatal."

The Classified columns afford a daily chance for the merchant who really can't afford large display space to tell his business story interestingly, inexpensively, restfully.

Hundreds of people read the Classified—the Want Ads.—each day. The tonic of Classified advertising, persistently and consistently used, is most effective in stimulating the desire to buy.

Ever since man wanted that which he had not, or desired to trade that which he had for something he wanted, there has been advertising.

Persistent advertising is the only kind that wins out. "Placing all your dependence on one advertisement is like expecting one suspender button to do all the work."

People will desire your goods, Mr. Merchant, if you use the right kind of advertising tonic, and if you PERSIST.

For the Home Shampoo.

The most difficult thing about the home shampoo is that usually the person who does it is handicapped in many ways—by a lack of knowledge of the work she is trying to do, by a lack of contrivances with which to do it and by the fact that she is generally working upside down at her own head.

It is much easier to shampoo somebody else's head than your own. It is also easy to gain information about shampooing that will make the work much easier, and it is possible to buy or make some contrivances to simplify the work.

To begin with, there must be plenty of water—hot for the washing and either warm or cool for the rinsing. It is a very good plan, if there is a shower bath over the bathtub, to use this for the rinsing. The one who is receiving the shampoo can kneel on a low chair, the back of which is turned toward the tub, and support her arms on the chair back.

If there is no shower bath, one of the detachable rubber showers that can be bought for a moderate price is useful. It consists of a length of rubber tubing, one end of which slips over the faucet, and the other end of which is a rubber or metal spray. This can be used for both washing and the rinsing.

A short-sleeved waist should be worn by the person doing the shampooing. The one receiving it should wear adequate protection for the clothes. A big duck apron, or one of ticking, is convenient. A length of wide material, doubled to go over the shoulders, with a circular hole cut for the neck, and drawn up with a tape under the chin, is a good sort to make.

There should, of course, be plenty of towels. One should be folded over the edge of the basin for the head or neck to rest on, and two others, small and soft, should be tucked in the neck, over the big apron. Another should be at hand to use if the eyes smart from the soap and water.

A good trick of the professionals is to put a little cotton batting in each ear, to keep the water from gathering there.

What to Use.

There are advocates for almost every shampoo mixture imaginable. Castile soap, shaved, and dissolved in boiling water, to each quart of which an ounce of borax has been added, is a cleansing mixture for most hair. A few drops, three or four, of ammonia can be added to each basinful of water in which this soap is used. The soap can be rubbed directly on the hair and scalp.

This is a good shampoo mixture: Dissolve a drachm of camphor in two ounces of alcohol. Mix half an ounce of glycerine, an ounce of borax, half an ounce of bicarbonate of soda and a quart of rose water and add to the camphor and alcohol.

Some Cookery Suggestions

NOURISHING MACARONI.

DINNER MENU.
Clear Soup.
Veal Stew With Dumplings.
Mashed Potatoes.
Macaroni and Asparagus Salad.
Apple Batter Pudding.
Coffee.

SOME cooks claim that underdone macaroni, like underdone rice, is more nourishing than when it is overcooked.

Use For Cold Macaroni.

Macaroni and Asparagus Salad.—Take cold boiled macaroni in same lengths as canned asparagus tips. Chill both thoroughly and when ready to serve arrange in alternate layers on a bed of lettuce. Cover with mayonnaise and serve. If you prefer you can cut the macaroni in short lengths and mix the mayonnaise.

Creamed Macaroni.—Put macaroni in a little water and bring it to a good boil. Drain, add milk, a large piece of butter and boil until tender. Stir in a little cream and season.

Macaroni With Eggs.—Boil three ounces of macaroni till tender; then put it in a saucepan with half a pint of white sauce, some grated cheese, pepper and salt. When hot lay on a dish, arrange four nicely poached eggs on it, sprinkle with a little chopped parsley and serve.

Baked With Forcemeat.

Macaroni Timbales.—Cook long pieces of macaroni in salted water, taking care that the pieces are not broken in the process. When tender lay straight on a napkin to cool. Butter a mold, wind the macaroni around it, holding it in place at intervals with forcemeat, and fill the center with chopped boiled macaroni and cheese mixed with bechamel sauce. The layer of forcemeat should be thick enough to give the timbale firmness. The whole should be covered with greased paper and placed in a pan of hot water in a slow oven to cook.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Rabbits' Iceboating Jollification.

The Boats Skimmed Over the Ice.

"I MUST tell you," said daddy, "about the rabbits' iceboating party. A big pond, which was very near the field where a great many rabbits lived—in fact, so many rabbits lived in the field that it was called Rabbit village—had frozen over.

"The rabbits wasted no time in sending out invitations for an iceboating party. They had plenty of boards to use as boats, and they made sails out of branches of evergreen trees. The rabbits are devoted to sports and can always think of ways to have the best times imaginable. The rabbits thought they'd have their party in the afternoon, for then the wind blew the strongest and in the evening it was apt to die down.

"There were so many rabbits living in Rabbit village that the ones who first thought of the party considered a long time before they decided whether or not they'd invite any outsiders to the party. After a meeting of some of the leading rabbits in the village who had been chosen to decide this important matter it was agreed upon that the possum family would be invited. Now, the possums lived very near the rabbits, so near that they had been able to watch the rabbits make iceboats, and they wondered who would be invited to the party, for they were certain the rabbits were going to give a party. So they were pleased when they received their invitation, and when they got to the party and found that they were the only outside guests invited they were still happier.

"The wind was very high. And, oh, how the boats did skim across the ice! Such squeals of joy as you never heard in all your lives came forth from the rabbits and possums. But, alas, a dreadful accident happened. In sailing over a bit of thin ice the sail of the boat containing Jimmie Possum and Harry Rabbit fell over, and the boat went through the ice. Such a cry as Jimmie Possum and Harry Rabbit did let off! All the other possums and rabbits hurried to the rescue. Neither Jimmie Possum nor Harry Rabbit were good swimmers, and the water was so cold they would have drowned at once had not old Grandpa Rabbit, with great presence of mind, thrown out a pole, which Jimmie Possum and Harry Rabbit got hold of, and so were pulled out of the ice.

"'Exercise, exercise; that's the best thing after falling in the ice!' cried Grandpa Rabbit. And he produced a bag of skates, which he had brought along in case the wind had gone down or that iceboating had grown tiresome to them.

"So they all skated with as much vim as they had shown in the iceboating, and Jimmie Possum and Harry Rabbit, who both quickly recovered, enjoyed being the heroes of the day."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

In preparing the summer wardrobe it is wise to provide one or two separate skirts of a material that requires no laundering and will not soil easily. The new cotton duvetyn is excellent, and we have a new checked material that is quite ideal. It is a cotton chevlot and comes in several effective colorings, among them a Scotch plaid, which is charmingly colored.

No. 6698 is an excellent design for such a skirt, as it is simple and tailored looking. Aside from the buttons, which may be used or not, as preferred, the only other trimming is the lapped seam which extends down the back and side front.

This skirt may be made for size 24 with 3¾ yards of 36 inch material.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

STRAIGHT BACKS.

One Way to Achieve the Modish Effect.

SMART VELVET COAT.

The backs of costumes this season, from a modish standpoint, must be, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. And unless the figure is straight, slender and youthful looking the advantage of good tailoring is lost. When the back is inclined to curve in at the waist line padding is used to give the correct silhouette.

In the smart little coat of green velvet seen in the illustration a long tasseled streamer of velvet matching the coat is attached at the neck and hangs to below the waist line. This heavily weighted ornament gives the desirable straight line at the back and increases the smartness of the wrap.

CHAPTER I.

"Weep no more, my lady."

A YOUNG woman was crying bitterly in the waiting room of the railway station at Upper Asquewan Falls, N. Y.

A beautiful young woman? That is exactly what Billy Magee wanted to know as, closing the waiting room door behind him, he stood staring just inside. Were the features against which that frail bit of cambric was agonizingly pressed of a pleasing contour? The girl's neatly tailored corduroy suit and her flippant but charming millinery augured well. Should he step gallantly forward and inquire in sympathetic tones as to the cause of her woe? Should he carry chivalry even to the lengths of Upper Asquewan Falls?

No; Mr. Magee decided he would not. The train that had just roared away into the dusk had not brought him from the region of skyscrapers and derby hats for deeds of knight errantry up state. Anyhow the girl's tears were none of his business. A railway station was a natural place for grief—a field of many partings, upon whose floor fell often in torrents the tears of those left behind. A friend, mayhap a lover, had been whisked off into the night by the relentless 5:34 local. Why not a lover? Surely about such a dainty, trim figure as this courtiers hovered as moths about a flame. Upon a tender intimate sorrow it was not the place of an unknown Magee to intrude. He put his hand gently upon the latch of the door.

And yet dim and heartless and cold was the interior of that waiting room. No place surely for a gentleman to leave a lady sorrowful, particularly when the lady was so alluring. Oh, beyond question she was most alluring. Mr. Magee stepped softly to the ticket window and made low voiced inquiry of the man inside.

"What's she crying about?" he asked.

"Thanks," said the ticket agent. "I get asked the same old questions so often one like yours sort of breaks the monotony. Sorry I can't help you. She's a woman, and the Lord only knows why women cry. And sometimes I reckon even he must be a little puzzled. Now, my wife"—

"I think I'll ask her," confided Mr. Magee in a hoarse whisper.

"Oh, I wouldn't," advised the man behind the bars. "It's best to let 'em alone. They stop quicker if they ain't noticed."

"But she's in trouble," argued Billy Magee.

"And so'll you be most likely," responded the cynic, "if you interfere. No, siree! Take my advice. Shoot old Asquewan's rapids in a barrel if you want to, but keep away from crying women."

Mr. Magee, approaching, thought himself again in the college yard at dusk, with the great elms sighing overhead and the fresh young voices of the glee club ringing out from the steps of a century old building. What were the words they sang so many times?

Weep no more, my lady.
Oh, weep no more today!

He regretted that he could not make use of them. But troubadours, he knew, went out of fashion long before railway stations came in. So his remark to the young woman was not at all melodious:

"Can I do anything?"

A portion of the handkerchief was removed and an eye which, Mr. Magee noted, was of an admirable blue, peeped out at him. To the gaze of even a solitary eye Mr. Magee's aspect was decidedly pleasing. Mr. Magee thought he read approval in the lone eye of blue. When the lady spoke, however, he hastily revised his opinion.

"Yes," she said, "you can do something. You can go away—far, far away."

Mr. Magee stiffened. Thus chivalry fared in Upper Asquewan Falls in the year 1911.

"I beg your pardon," he remarked. "You seemed to be in trouble, and I thought I might possibly be of some assistance."

The girl removed the entire handkerchief. The other eye proved to be the same admirable blue—a blue halfway between the shade of her corduroy suit and that of the jacky's costume in the "See the World—Join the Navy" poster that served as background to her woe.

"I don't mean to be rude," she explained more gently, "but—I'm crying, you see, and a girl simply can't look attractive when she cries."

"If I had only been regularly introduced to you and all that," responded Mr. Magee. "I could make a very flattering reply." And a true one, he added to himself, for even in the faint flickering light of the station he found ample reason for rejoicing that the bit of cambric was no longer agonizingly pressed. As yet he had scarcely looked away from her eyes, but he was dimly aware that up above wisps of golden hair peeped impudently from beneath a saucy black hat.

"My grief," said the girl, "is utterly silly and womanish. I think it would be best to leave me alone with it. Thank you for your interest. And—would you mind asking the gentleman who is pressing his face so feverishly against the bars to kindly close his window?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Magee. He turned away. As he did so he collided with a rather excessive lady. She gave the impression of solidity and bulk. Her mouth was hard and knowing. Mr. Magee felt that she wanted to vote and that she would say as much from time to time. The lady had a glittering eye. She put it to its time honored use and fixed Mr. Magee with it.

"I was crying, mamma," the girl explained.

"I was crying, mamma," the girl explained, "and this gentleman inquired if he could be of any service."

Mamma! Mr. Magee wanted to add his tears to those of the girl. This frail and lovely damsel in distress owning as her maternal parent a heavy unnecessary—person!

"Well, they ain't no use gettin' all worked up for nothing," advised the unpleasant parent. Mr. Magee was surprised that in her tone there was no hostility to him—thus belying her looks. "Mebbe the gentleman can direct us to a good hotel," she added, with a rather stagy smile.

"I'm a stranger here, too," Mr. Magee replied. "I'll interview the man over there in the cage."

The gentleman referred to was not cheerful in his replies. There was, he said, Baldpate inn.

"Oh, yes, Baldpate inn," repeated Billy Magee with interest.

"Yes, that's a pretty swell place," said the ticket agent. "But it ain't open now. It's a summer resort. There ain't no place open now, but the Commercial House. And I wouldn't recommend no human being there—especially no lady who was sad before she ever saw it."

Mr. Magee explained to the incongruous family pair waiting on the bench.

"There's only one hotel," he said, "and I'm told it's not exactly the place for any one whose outlook on life is not rosy at the moment. I'm sorry."

"It will do very well," answered the girl, "whatever it is." She smiled at Billy Magee. "My outlook on life in Upper Asquewan Falls," she said, "grows rosier every minute. We must find a cab."

She began to gather up her traveling bags, and Mr. Magee hastened to assist. The three went out on the station platform, upon which lay a thin carpet of snowflakes. There the older woman, in a harsh rasping voice, found fault with Upper Asquewan Falls—its geography, its public spirit, its brand of weather. A dejected cab at the end of the platform stood mourning its lonely lot. In it Mr. Magee placed the large lady and the bags. Then, while the driver climbed to his seat he spoke into the invisible ear of the girl.

"You haven't told me why you cried," he reminded her.

"Upper Asquewan Falls," she said, "isn't it reason enough?"

Billy Magee looked; saw a row of gloomy buildings that seemed to list as the wind blew, a blurred sign, "Liquor and Cigars," a street that staggered away into the dark like a man who had lingered too long at the emporium back of the sign.

"Are you doomed to stay here long?" he asked.

"Come on, Mary," cried a deep voice from the cab. "Get in and shut the door. I'm freezing."

"It all depends," said the girl. "Thank you for being so kind and—good night."

The door closed with a muffled bang, the cab creaked wearily away and Mr. Magee turned back to the dim waiting room.

"Well, what was she crying for?" inquired the ticket agent when Mr. Magee stood again at his cell window.

"She didn't think much of your town," responded Magee. "She intimated that it made her heavy of heart."

"H'm! It ain't much of a place," admitted the man, "though it ain't the general rule with visitors to burst into tears at sight of it. Yes, Upper Asquewan is slow, and no mistake. It gets on my nerves sometimes. Nothing to do but work, work, work, and then lay down and wait for tomorrow. I used to think maybe some day they'd transfer me down to Hooperstown—there's moving pictures and such goings on down there. But the railroad never notices you—unless you go wrong. Yes, sir; sometimes I want to clear out of this town myself."

"A natural wanderlust," sympathized Mr. Magee. "You said something just now about Baldpate inn"—

"Yes; it's a little more lively in summer, when that's open," answered the agent. "We get a lot of complaints about trunks not coming from pretty swell people too. It sort of cheers things." His eye roamed with interest over Mr. Magee's New York attire. "But Baldpate inn is shut up tight now. This is nothing but an annex to a graveyard in winter. You wasn't thinking of stopping off here, was you?"

"Well, I want to see a man named Elijah Quimby," Mr. Magee replied. "Do you know him?"

"Of course," said the yearner for pastures new. "He's caretaker of the inn. His house is about a mile out on the old Miller road that leads up Baldpate. Come outside and I'll tell you how to get there."

The two men went out into the whirling snow, and the agent waved a hand indefinitely up at the night.

"If it was clear," he said, "you could see Baldpate mountain over yonder looking down on the falls, sort of keeping an eye on us to make sure we don't get reckless. And halfway up you'd see Baldpate inn, black and peaceful and wintery. Just follow this street to the third corner and turn to your left. Elijah lives in a little house back among the trees a mile out. There's a gate you'll sure hear creaking on a night like this."

Billy Magee thanked him and, gathering up his two bags, walked up Main street. A dreary, forbidding building at the first corner bore the sign "Commercial House."

Weep no more, my lady
Oh, weep no more today!

hummed Mr. Magee cynically under his breath and glanced up at the solitary upstairs window that gleamed yellow in the night.

At a corner on which stood a little shop that advertised "Groceries and Provisions" he paused.

"Let me see," he pondered. "The lights will be turned off, of course. Candles and a little something for the inner man in case it's the closed season for cooks."

He went inside, where a weary old woman served him.

"What sort of candles?" she inquired, with the air of one who had an infinite variety in stock. Mr. Magee remembered that Christmas was near.

"For a Christmas tree," he explained. He asked for two hundred.

"I've only got forty," the woman said. "What's this tree for—the Orphans' home?"

With the added burden of a package containing his purchases in the tiny store Mr. Magee emerged and continued his journey through the stinging snow.

"Don Quixote, my boy," he muttered, "I know how you felt when you moved on the windmills."

It was not the whir of windmills, but the creak of a gate in the storm that brought Mr. Magee at last to a stop. He walked gladly up the path to Elijah Quimby's door.

In answer to Billy Magee's gay knock, a man of about sixty years appeared. Evidently he had just finished supper. At the moment he was engaged in lighting his pipe. He admitted Mr. Magee into the intimacy of the kitchen, and took a number of calm judicious puffs on the pipe before speaking to his visitor.

"My name's Magee," blithely explained that gentleman, dragging in his bags. "And you're Elijah Quimby, of course. How are you? Glad to see you."

The older man did not reply, but regarded Mr. Magee wonderingly through white puffs of smoke. His face was kindly, gentle, ineffectual.

"Yes," he admitted at last. "Yes, I'm Quimby."

Mr. Magee threw back his coat, and sprayed with snow Mrs. Quimby's immaculate floor.

"I'm Magee," he elucidated again, "William Hallowell Magee, the man Hal Bentley wrote to you about. You got his letter, didn't you?"

Mr. Quimby removed his pipe and forgot to close the aperture as he stared in amazement.

"Good Lord," he cried; "you don't mean—you've really come? Why, we—we thought it was all a joke!"

"Hal Bentley has his humorous moments," agreed Mr. Magee, "but it isn't his habit to fling his jests into Upper Asquewan Falls."

"And—and you're really going to"—Mr. Quimby could get no further.

"Yes," said Mr. Magee brightly, slipping into a rocking chair. "Yes; I'm going to spend the next few months at Baldpate inn."

"It's closed," expostulated Mr. Quimby. "The inn is closed, young fellow."

"I know it's closed," smiled Magee. "That's the very reason I'm going to honor it with my presence. I'm sorry to take you out on a night like this, but I'll have to ask you to lead me up to Baldpate. I believe those were Hal Bentley's instructions—in the letter."

Mr. Quimby towered above Mr. Magee, a shirt sleeved statue of honest American manhood. He scowled.

"Excuse a plain question, young man," he said, "but what are you hiding from?"

"I'm not hiding," said Magee. "Didn't Bentley explain? Well, I'll try to, though I'm not sure you'll understand. Sit down, Mr. Quimby. You are not, I take it, the sort of man to follow closely the frivolous literature of the day."

"What's that?" inquired Mr. Quimby.

"You don't read," continued Mr. Magee, "the sort of novels that are sold by the pound in the department stores. Now, if you had a daughter—a fluffy daughter inseparable from a hammock in the summer—she could help me explain. You see—I write those novels. Wild thrilling tales for the tired business man's tired wife—shots in the night, chases after fortunes, Cupid busy with his arrows all over the place! It's good fun, and I like to do it. There's money in it."

"Is there?" asked Mr. Quimby, with a show of interest.

"Considerable," replied Mr. Magee. "But now and then I get a longing to do something that will make the critics sit up—the real thing, you know. The other day I picked up a newspaper and found my latest brain child advertised as 'the best fall novel Magee ever wrote.' It got on my nerves. I felt like a literary dressmaker, and I could see my public laying down my fall novel and sighing for my early spring styles in fiction. I remembered that once upon a time a critic advised me to go away for ten years to some quiet spot and think. I decided to do it. Baldpate inn is the quiet spot."

"You don't mean," gasped Mr. Quimby, "that you're going to stay there ten years?"

"Bless you, no!" said Mr. Magee. "Critics exaggerate. Two months will do. They say I am a cheap melodramatic ranter. They say I don't go deep. They say my thinking process is a scream. I'm afraid they're right. Now, I'm going to go up to Baldpate inn and think. I'm going to get away from melodrama. I'm going to do a novel so fine and literary that Henry Cabot Lodge will come to me with tears in his eyes and ask me to join his bunch of self made immortals. I'm going to do all this up there at the inn, sitting on the mountain and looking down on this little old world as Jove looked down from Olympus."

"I don't know who you mean," objected Mr. Quimby.

"He was a god—the god of the fruit stand men," explained Magee. "Picture me, if you can, depressed by the overwhelming success of my latest brain child. Picture me meeting Hal Bentley in a Forty-fourth street club and asking him for the location of the lonesomest spot on earth. Hal thought a minute. 'I've got it,' he said, 'the lonesomest spot that's happened to date is a summer resort in midwinter. It makes Crusoe's island look like Coney on a warm Sunday afternoon in comparison.' The talk flowed on along with other things. Hal told me his father owned Baldpate inn and that you were an old friend of his, who would be happy for the entire winter over the chance to serve him. He happened to have a key to the place—the key to the big front door, I guess, from the weight of it—and he gave it to me. He also wrote you to look after me. So here I am."

EXCITING CONTEST WON BY BIG SPURT

Plainfield High School Defeated Westfield for the Second Time This Season.

The Plainfield High School basketball team defeated the Westfield High School team, after a close and exciting struggle, yesterday afternoon in the Plainfield High School "gym," by the score of 47 to 36. Westfield scored three goals before a local player had his hands on the ball. But the local boys soon got together and made the game more interesting.

Rosenson started the scoring for Plainfield and this was followed by a foul goal by Captain Hetfield and another goal by Rosenson. The first half continued with the score swaying back and forth until it ended with the two teams tied at eighteen points each.

Westfield started the second half in much the same manner as the first, getting two goals before Plainfield got going. Up to the last three minutes of play the teams had not been separated by more than four points, during the entire second period. With the score standing at 36 to 36, goals by Hetfield, Rosenson and Snyder sewed up the game for Plainfield High School and the whistle blew ending the game with the score at 47 to 36.

WITH THE BOXERS

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight is taking them on in New York as fast as he can sign for the bouts.

Some more soft money in sight for Johnny Kilbane. He is going to Philadelphia February 2 to box Eddie Moy again.

Eddie Murphy is to get a chance to box Freddie Welch, if a St. Louis promoter can bring the pair together.

The boxing game will open in Youngstown, O., February 2, with George Chip and Leo Houck furnishing the star bout of the evening.

Promotor Coffroth of San Francisco, has signed Gunboat Smith and Jess Willard for a battle July 4. Smith defeated Willard in a 20-round bout at Fresno last May.

Dan Hayes, the Chicago amateur middleweight champion, who won the title at the Central A. A. U. amateur tournament in Cleveland the other night, is going to become a professional.

Boxing fans are panning Champion Willie Ritchie for not meeting Tommy Murphy. After two postponements of their proposed bout the pair have now been rematched to fight in San Francisco next April.

The National Sporting Club of London announces that it will not match Jack Johnson to box, because the champion wants too much money for his services. The famous "Chocolate Eclair" told the club that he must have $30,000 for his end, no matter whom he boxes.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—May a janitor of one of the local public schools move from the city and still retain his position?—G. D. P.

Answer—There is no ruling to the contrary.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What does the cause of the "under dog" mean?—L. S.

Answer—The dog that gets the worst of a fight is commonly referred to as the under dog and the man who has a poor chance of getting along in life and gets few opportunities to better himself is also referred to as an under dog.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the difference between preferred and common stock in a company? If $100 is paid for each kind of stock why does the common stock sell for so much less than the preferred stock?—N. B.

Answer—Preferred stock is guaranteed a certain annual dividend, say 5 or 6 per cent. This must be paid before the holders of the common stock can share in the profits of the corporation. Therefore, as a rule, preferred stock is worth par, or a little more, while common stock, as a rule, is bought and sold at a lower price, often very much lower. But sometimes common stock is worth more than the preferred for the reason that after the holders of the preferred have received their 5, 6 or 7 per cent, there are enough earnings left to give the holders of the common stock a larger dividend, say 8 or 10 per cent.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a Unitarian church in this city?—F. P.

Answer—There is one on Park avenue near Eighth street.

Sporting Editor:

Query—If stamps instead of coins are sent in letters will the postoffice authorities buy the stamps off me?—C. C.

Answer—No.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will I have to get a license to sell a homemade corncure through the mail?—K. K. L.

Answer—There are rules and regulations for mailing such things and you will also have to adhere to the pure food and drugs laws.

SCHEDULING GAMES.

Donald Updike, manager of the 1914 Plainfield High School football team, has scheduled two games to be played with the Westfield High School eleven, one on Columbus Day and the other on Election Day. A date has also been agreed upon for the Rahway High School contest.

BRUNSWICK NEXT.

Plainfield High Schol will engage in a basketball game with the New Brunswick High School quintet on the latter's court next Wednesday afternoon.

THE DAILY PRESS IN LINCOLN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by E. Purvis newsdealer.

"Sportdom Tips"

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

Plainfield High School athletes annually present a minstrel show for the purpose of raising funds to carry on athletics in the school and preparations are now under way for the 1914 entertainment rehearsals for which will start this week. The local schoolboy athletes have thus solved their financial problem. In North Plainfield High School, like on this side of the brook, sports are not self-supporting and there is a constant need of additional funds. During the past week Captain Smalley, of the baseball team, during his leisure hours wandered off in the direction of Hyde Oval and returned with reports concerning the neglected condition of the boro team's playing field. Plans were at once made to put the rendezvous in proper condition for the 1914 diamond season and the money problem once more arose as a barrier. Smalley has devised a plan to replenish the treasury and if the student body of the school co-operates with him in the work we see no reason why N. P. H. S. should not raise that $100 and have just as good a playing field as there is in these parts.

HOCKEY TITLE ANCHORED.

Seven club wielders sporting the red and blue of the Plainfield High School have brought to the local school something it has never had before, namely a hockey title. By scoring triumphs over Westfield and Cranford the Plainfielders have annexed the Union county championship honors and the short season of work has been completed. Although this is an acknowledged "off year" in sports for P. H. S. the hockey team has come to the fore at the precise moment when an athletic prop is needed and it goes without saying that the local representatives will command respect in interscholastic hockey circles for some time to come.

A COMING CHAMPION.

Performing in the Y. M. C. A. boys' department college league athletic events there is one little youngster who appears to be a minature addition of the rest, but who manages to cop one first place after another in the weekly competition. Clay is a 100-pound youth and does not come to the shoulders of a majority of his rival contestants. Yesterday he set up a mark of 8 ft. 7 ins. in the standing broad jump and this is "going some." He is a wonder in running, jumping and swimming and bears promise of becoming one of the best all around athletes in this or nearby cities.

Plainfield High School seems to be a nemesis for the Westfield High School athletes this season. Two victories on the basketball court and two out of three on the ice sounds pretty good.

Some line on the basketball material the city and boro High Schools will have for next year will be obtainable tomorrow afternoon in Saengerbund Hall when the second teams of the respective institutions oppose each other in a game. Both have some unusually clever second string men and the encounter ought to prove interesting.

Word received from the manager of the Deaf Mute College team which appears here Saturday night states that the Mutes will go from here to Orange where they will meet the Seton Hall College five on Monday.

Another bat in the Scotch Plains Parish House. This was one of the four legged kind however, and it was scared to death of Batterson's basketball players.

DOINGS OF NOTE AMONG BOXERS

CHICAGOAN MAY BE "CHAMP"

But Winner From Glover of Boston Must Learn to Hit Hard—A Portuguese Is Now Anxious to Compete For the Lightweight Championship Title of the United States.

There is a great deal of talk among the boxing sharps about Red Ames, the welterweight, who has been defeating the best men in his class of late.

Ames is a free hitting lad who is certain to get to the top round of the ladder if he continues his good work. And he is an effective defensive fighter, too, covering up in clever fashion when necessary.

Ames is booked to fight Kid Albert of New Jersey for the welterweight title in March.

Jack Britton of Chicago had some slight advantage over Mike Glover, the sturdy lightweight of Boston, who styles himself champion of his class, after ten rounds of boxing at the National Sporting Club of America in New York city. The bout was more or less of a disappointment to those who went there expecting to hear the last word in clever boxing.

There was a deal of wild swinging not generally seen in a match between high grade men, and it was not an infrequent sight to see both men whirl completely about after missing well meant but poorly aimed blows. In many cases the openings offered by the misses were not seized.

Britton, tipping the scales at 134¼ pounds, gave Glover three pounds the better of weight, but found that he was well able to handle the case in hand. He worked his left hand home frequently and drew the blood in the opening round. He kept the good work up throughout. Glover, while perhaps the harder hitter of the pair, lacked the skill necessary to place his punches and altogether failed to live up to expectations.

Britton, when he learns to hit hard, will be a likely candidate for the championship.

In San Francisco the boxing enthusiasts are naming Joe Azevedo, the young Portuguese, as a possible lightweight champion of the world. There are few who are willing to say that Azevedo is able to whip Willie Ritchie at the present, but they declare that if he continues to improve as much in the next year as he has in the past he will demand recognition from the leaders.

Those who have seen him in action declare that he is a fairly clever boxer, with the natural ability to shoot his punches short and straight and put a world of power into them. He has a fast left jab and knows well the best use of it. He is aggressive at all times and has shown the ability to box the final rounds of his matches at a surprising rate of speed. Perhaps his strongest asset is his ability to use his head under any and all conditions.

At the present time Azevedo is not hurling any wild challenges at Willie Ritchie. He is content to wait awhile for his chance at the championship, but in the meanwhile is eager to meet any of the first class men in the division. He is especially desirous of meeting Leach Cross, or, if the eastern boy does not fancy the match, will gladly face Tommy Murphy.

McFarland Versus Gibbons.

Packey McFarland of Chicago has been matched to box Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul welterweight, in New York in February. The men will weigh in at 145 pounds at 4 o'clock.

BASEBALL NOTES

Willard Meikle, the giant twirler from Seattle, has signed with the Boston Braves. Meikle is 23 years old and stands 6 feet 3 inches.

Baseball fans of Marinette, Wis., are raising a fund with which to buy the Fond du Lac franchise in the Wisconsin-Illinois League.

Tommy McDermott, an old-time ball player of Bridgeport, Conn., has been selected to manage the Poughkeepsie team for its coming season.

The new Federal league park in Indianapolis will have a seating capacity of 23,000. The plans will be enclosed by a 12-foot steel fence.

Manager Jennings of the Detroit Tigers believes he has signed a real ball player in Marty Kavanagh. Marty starred last season with the York team in the Tri-State League.

Although the Red Sox are a bit slow in getting under cover this year, Manager Carrigan is confident he will have all his men in line before the first of March.

A reunion of men who played baseball forty years ago was held recently in Arlington, a suburb of Boston. Fourteen old-time ball teams were represented at the gathering.

Raleigh Atchison, star twirler of the International League, who balked at signing a contract with Brooklyn last fall, has fallen in line. He has signed with the Superbas for one year.

A young pitcher whom the Federal League has been trying to sign has written to an American League club as follows: "I had some of those April fool Fed magnates talking to me about signing up, but I refused to take any chances with leagues with nervous paydays and who sign their checks with vanishing inks."

INTERNATIONAL TOPICS.

English Polo Team to Train In Spain For United States Contests.

According to present plans, Lord St. Legers, who will captain the invading British polo team this year, does not intend to leave anything to chance. A number of the best English players and ponies will go to Madrid, Spain early in the spring for a severe course of training and practice before coming to the States.

According to announcement made immediately after the polo matches of 1913, the American "Big Four," consisting of Captain H. P. Whitney, Larry Waterbury, Monte Waterbury and Devereux Milburn, decided to cease cup defending as a team, but it is thought that when the battle cry sounds again a majority of the four will be found in the saddle.

If it should prove otherwise, however, their ponies are at the disposal of the American team, which undoubtedly would be selected from among the following players: L. E. Stoddard, Malcolm Stevenson, R. La Montagne, R. L. Agassiz, T. Hitchcock, F. S. Von Stade, J. E. Cowdin, Foxhall Keene. Opposed to the American combination will be a four chosen in all probability from the following English experts: Captain Hardress Lloyd, Captain Grenfell, Captain Ritson, Captain Lockett, Captain Barrett, Captain Palmer, Captain Cheape, Captain Noel Edwards, W. S. Buckmaster.

Unless there is a most unexpected upset in the Davis cup preliminaries, the tennis menace of 1914 will come from Australasia. The semiofficial statement that Norman Brookes, Anthony Wilding, Stanley Doust and A. B. Jones, will probably form the team, gives a line on what may be expected in the way of opposition for the American Davis cup defenders.

As safeguards the United States has McLaughlin, Williams, Bundy, Johnson and Strachan among the younger generation of players, while rumor has it that William Larned and Malcolm Whitman, players without a peer in their day, will endeavor to regain their previous prowess with the racket and offer their services as cup defenders. If such a comeback feat is possible a combination consisting of Larned, McLaughlin, Williams and Whitman would daunt even the famous antipodeans, Wilding and Brookes.

WOMEN GOLFERS TO MEET.

New York, Jan. 28.—Final arrangements for the annual meeting of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association in this city tomorrow have been made. The meeting will elect officers for the year and select a place for holding the annual championship tournament of the association. The tournament will probably go to the Plainfield Country Club.

The Community Spirit is said to have originated in Rochester.

Rochester, Syracuse, Memphis and Saskatoon have all acquired the Community Spirit. They are all successful cities.

There is a bond of friendship between their merchants, the mechanics, the craftsmen and the rest of the population. One Rochester enthusiast who is a home town booster said, "New York is a cosmopolitan joke town, 250 miles from 'Rochester.'"

The business in these cities is carried on through local channels. Each city is a market where its citizens CAN and DO supply their wants.

ACTION AT ONCE ON STATE BILLS

McDermott's Fight For California Plan Fails

DECIDED BY 25 TO 10 VOTE

Before Adjourning Until Next Monday Night Senate Went Into Executive Session and Confirmed State Road Commissioner Stevens' Nomination. Discussion on Jury Bill.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 28.—Assemblyman Walter L. McDermott of Jersey City gave up his fight to have the legislature proceed under the so called California plan. The house Democrats by a vote of 25 to 10 decided against the scheme, and with the unanimous consent of the Republican minority they amended the rules so that bills may be taken up for second reading at once and not wait until March 2, as previously had been arranged.

The fact that McDermott and his colleagues surrendered so easily prompted Mr. Godfrey of Atlantic to take the floor and make some remarks on the situation. He was declared out of order by Speaker Beekman.

The new attorney general, John W. Wescott, and Governor Fielder had a conference on the situation arising from the action of the court of errors and appeals in declaring the chancellor-sheriff jury reform bill constitutional. There was no announcement as to the result of the talk with the governor, although Mr. Wescott said he did not believe the situation was so serious as some people had been led to believe. It is understood that the attorney general is to prepare a formal opinion on the subject and that his decision will stand.

Mr. Bloom of Essex offered in the assembly a resolution that is regarded as an effort to bring ridicule upon woman suffrage. His measure would amend the state constitution so that women when they get the right to vote shall not be permitted to do so until one year thereafter, and then not again until the third and fourth year. Then they must skip a year, then begin the third, fourth and seventh year rotation again.

ORANGE GIRL BADLY BURNED.

Child, Watching Glow of Candle, is Set Afire—Mother Also Hurt.

Orange, N. J., Jan. 28.—Catherine Peters, six years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peters of this city, was seriously burned when her skirt caught fire. She is in the Orange Memorial hospital in a critical condition.

The youngster while alone upstairs lighted a candle and watched its glow. She failed to notice her clothing. With her dress ablaze the tot dashed downstairs and her mother met her at the foot of the stairway and, with a neighbor, Mrs. Ellen Maroney, beat out the flames. Mrs. Peters' hands were badly burned. She was attended by a physician, while her daughter was hurried to the hospital.

MAY PUT MISS BRADLEY AWAY

Parents Thinking of Placing Eloper In Trenton Reformatory.

Pemberton, N. J., Jan. 28.—Miss Delilah Bradley, who eloped to Mobile, Ala., with Joel M. Foster, the wealthy poultryman, continued so sulky and petulant that her family is reported to be seriously considering sending her to the reformatory at Trenton. She has not shown the least disposition to give up her forty-year-old married affinity and continues to berate her family for holding her a prisoner.

Her father is said to have been forced to spend money far in excess of his salary as a baggage master on the Pennsylvania railroad and to be in a position where further outlay is impossible.

ANTI-RECIPROCITY MOTOR BILL

Measure Introduced In State Has Approval of Farmers.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 28.—Assemblyman Weart of Mercer county introduced in the house a bill which will completely nullify that section of the motor vehicle law providing for reciprocity between states.

The reciprocity feature of the automobile law has always been a bone of contention, the farmers of the state being against it and the city and resort people being heartily in favor of it.

With the new currency system definitely outlined it now appears probable that George E. Roberts, director of the mint, will be named by President Wilson as a member of the federal reserve board.

VANDERBILT YACHT WRECKED ON COAST

Passengers Were Transferred Safely to Steamer.

New Orleans, Jan. 28.—Wireless messages received here from Colon say that Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt and party have been rescued from their yacht, the Warrior, which was wrecked off the Colombian coast.

The party is supposed to have been transferred to the United Fruit steamer Almirante. The rescued passengers include the Duke and Duchess of Manchester and Lord Falconer. The officers and crew of the vessel, except her captain and three sailors and engineers, remained aboard. The position of the yacht is believed to be critical, and it is feared tat she will be a total loss.

First messages telling of mishap to the Warrior came from the Fruit company steamer Frutera. They added that that vessel was hastening to the aid of the distressed craft.

The Warrior is on the rocks at Cape Aguatin, near Savanilla, one of the most perilous parts of the Colombian coast. The exact position of the Frutera is not known, but it is believed she was not more than fifty miles away when the first distress call came. Faint messages supposed to come from the Warrior were received by local wireless stations, but their meaning could not be deciphered.

Operators at the government radio station here said they heard distress calls, but would not say positively they were those of the Vanderbilt yacht.

The Warrior is believed to have been on the rocks for several hours, but only today did her position become serious. Wrecking tugs were ordered this morning from Kingston, Jamaica, and Colon. The Warrior was bound for the latter port.

BOARD OF EIGHT FOR GRAFT HUNT

Assembly Plans Sweeping Probe With Whitman.

HAD PAID $4,000 TO FOWLER

Goods Roads Contractor Says He Received Contracts Worth $76,636 After Contributing—Shaw Still Remains Reticent Before the New York Grand Jury.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Republican legislators here were of the opinion that a special committee of eight assemblymen would be named by Speaker Sweet to take charge of the highways and canal graft investigation and that John Kirkland Clark, assistant to District Attorney Whitman, would be selected as chief counsel of the committee.

The Republican senators and assemblymen will hold another conference next Monday night, when it is expected that this special committee will be named.

Governor Glynn said that he was ready to sign any appropriation bill adopted by the legislature to cover the investigation expenses.

Dudley E. Van Wirt of Hudson Falls, the home of former State Chairman Winfield A. Huppuch of the Democratic state committee, testified before State Graft Hunter James W. Osborne that he obtained four of the famous 318 good roads repair contracts in 1912, for which he was paid $76,636, and that he contributed $4,000 that year to Everett Fowler, the Democratic state committee's "bagman" up state.

Mr. Van Wirt is a member of the contracting firm of Flood & Van Wirt, and the four repair contracts were given to him without competitive bidding after he had been invited to the state highways department and told to look over the quantity sheets and put in bids. He did not know whether other private bids for the same work had been made or if he was the lowest bidder.

Contributions to Fowler.

"Our firm started work in 1910," said Van Wirt, "and our first contribution was $500 to Fowler in 1911. That year we had about $10,000 of repair work on the roads, our contribution that year being about 5 per cent. The contribution we made in 1912 was not quite 5 per cent of the amount of repair work we got that year.

"In 1913 we had $15,000 worth of repair work, which was awarded to us after competitive bidding and public advertising. That year we did not contribute a cent.

"In 1912 we made a contribution of $500 in June, $2,000 in September and $1,500 in October. The June contribution was made with a corporation check, but the other contributions were made by me, and I was afterward reimbursed by the firm."

Van Wirt insisted that his campaign contributions were not in any way connected with payments through the state highways department for work completed and that this repair work did not come to his firm through the influence of Chairman Huppuch.

Commissioner Osborne brought out that these repair contracts were given to Van Wirt by Deputy Highways Commissioner Foley of Lockport and that his was the only name on the contract representing the state highways commission.

Shaw May Remember.

New York, Jan. 28.—With the memory of James G. Shaw believed to be much refreshed since his last appearance before the grand jury a few days ago his second examination by that body was said to be important. He was questioned concerning the story that $41,250 in bills was paid to a certain politician and close friend of Charles F. Murphy immediately after contract No. 22 of the Catskill aqueduct was awarded to Patterson Bros of Pittsburgh. During his prior interrogation in the grand jury chamber on last Thursday Mr. Shaw recalled having received the money from James G. Corcoran, a Pittsburgh contractor, but failed to recollect to whom he had turned over the package of currency. Yesterday Mr. Shaw called at the district attorney's office, accompanied by counsel, and while nothing was given out as to the result of the visit the impression prevailed that Mr. Shaw had suddenly remembered many valuable facts.

Mr. Shaw, who is connected with the Clinton Point Stone company at 26 Cortlandt street, is reported to have been designated as "stakeholder" for the $41,250 and to have been agreed upon as satisfactory to James E. Gaffney, John M. Murphy, a contractor, but not a relative of the Tammany chief, and James W. Patterson, Jr.

AT ONCE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Breathe Freely! Clears Stuffed-up, Inflamed Nose and Head and Stops Catarrhal Discharge—Cures Dull Headache.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

COURT OF ERRORS REVERSES DECREE

INSUFFICIENT CRUELTY

Judge Vredenburg Holds That Blows Were Struck After Charge of Serious Offense, Which Was Not Proven.

Trenton, Jan. 29.—The Court of Errors and Appeals today reversed the decree of the Court of Chancery giving Mrs. Ida Caroline Pittis a separation from her husband, Dr. Albert Pittis, a well known physician of Plainfield, which decree provided for a "separation from bed and board," and today's decision re-establishes the marriage relations of the couple as they were before Mrs. Pittis began her action in chancery.

Mrs. Pittis brought the action against her husband, charging extreme cruelty, claiming that he struck her and told her to go home to her people. The Court of Chancery declared that the charges of cruelty were proven and allowed the separation.

It was admitted in the case that Dr. Pittis struck his wife on two occasions, one of which being an automobile while going from Plainfield to Westfield. In the opinion of Judge Vredenburg in the Court of Errors and Appeal it is pointed out that the blows occurred after Mrs. Pittis had charged her husband with a serious offense of which he was innocent. The decision of the Court of Errors is that there was not extreme cruelty sufficient to warrant a decree of separation. Therefore the marriage relations of the couple are re-established.

MISS BUTTFIELD WEDS H. A. PRATT

Ceremony Performed at the Bride's Home By President-Emeritus of Smith College.

Miss Blanche Buttfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Buttfield, was married yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents in West Eighth street, to Harlan Arthur Pratt, of East Orange. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss MargretButtfield, as maid of honor, and by Miss Frederica Mead and Miss Ellen Burke as bridesmaids.

John Brackvogel, of New York, was the best man and the ushers were Henry Pratt, of East Orange, and E. Q. Horton, of New York. The ceremony was performed by Dr. L. Clark Seely, president-emeritus of Smith College, of which Mrs. Pratt is a graduate. Mr. Pratt is a graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology. The couple will live in East Orange.

WILLIAM ROBINSON ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Elizabeth, January 29—After deliberating for seventeen hours, having remained in the court house all night, the jury which heard the evidence against William Robinson, a negro, charged with manslaughter, today acquitted him. Judge James C. Connolly, of the Court of Quarter Sessions, immediately discharged the prisoner. Robinson was tried twice for the killing of another negro, Ulysses Thomas. He was assaulted by Robinson and hit in the head with a brick after the two had an altercation over the result of a ball game held in Elizabeth. The assault occurred between Westfield and this city. The jury is said to have finally reached the conclusion that Robinson had killed him companion accidentally.

LONEY PAID $5 FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF WORKING

According to the testimony given in the District Court this morning, before Judge Walter L. Hetfield, sr., Thomas Loney, of Middlesex, the defendant, worked for Thomas H. Watkins, of Cameron avenue, the plaintiff five days and neither secured any pay, but literally paid $5 for the privilege, having loaned his employer that amount. He also loaned the defendant ten 10-pound bank notes. The judge gave a decision in Loney's favor of $267.39. Watkins said he intended to pay as soon as possible and Loney remarked, "Well, it's an awful time coming."

ACKERMAN HOST AT SIEGFRIED PLANT

Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, as president of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company, yesterday, played host to over one hundred of his friends, including stockholders in the company and contractors, when he took a train load of men to Siegfried, Pa., to inspect the works of the company. Included in the party were about thirty-five Plainfielders, and a large number of others from Union county, and the trip proved to be a delightful one from both a social and an instructive point of view. Not a thing was spared that would add to the comfort of the party, and all were loud in their praise of host when they returned early last evening.

The Plainfielders joined the others on a special train of three Pullman cars at 9:30 in the morning, and the run was made to Siegfried without a stop, reaching there before noon. The train was run to a point near a big rock crusher which the company has just erected, and which was used yesterday for the first time. Several carloads of stone were put into this crusher, which has great capacity, and is now breaking about 1,000 tons a day, and the guests watched it work, and then looked into the quarries, one of which has a sheer depth of 254 feet.

After dinner had been served at a hotel all returned to the office of the works, where all were fitted out with caps and dusters, and then were taken through the big mills, being shown everything from the crushing of stone, through the various processes, until it was put into bags and barrels by machinery. The plant ships 35 carloads of cement a day under normal conditions and has shipped seventy. It employs 700 men, all but about twenty of whom are laborers. One feature which was especially interesting was the filling of the bags. These are tied before being filled, by boys working machines which tie 24 bags at a time, one boy doing the 24 in a minute and three-quarters. They are then filled through a pipe which is inserted in a small hole in the bottom of the bag, and a canvas flap automatically stops the hole when the bag is filled. The barrel factory was another interesting place, the barrels being assembled in about forty-five seconds.

On the train returning, supper was served, and each of the guests received an attractive leather covered memorandum book, upon which his name was stamped. Those who went from Plainfield, beside Senator Ackerman, were Marion S. Ackerman, R. G. Bush, Leslie M. Daniel, D. W. Demler, Orton G. Dale, Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Leslie R. Fort, Charles H. Frost, Frank J. Hubbard, Herbert Holder, J. J. Kyle, Charles E. Loizeaux, Roger Murray, H. C. Munger, A. L. C. Marsh, Townsend Rushmore, Edgar F. Sheppard, Frank H. Smith, Captain William C. Smith, Arthur E. Smith, Charles S. Sminck, B. F. Tallamy, H. C. Van Emburgh, L. S. Waldo, C. D. Wheeler, H. A. Wills, William J. Whelan, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, Frederick W. Yates and E. D. Young. There were about twenty from other parts of Union county, including County Collector Leavitt, Surrogate George T. Parrott, John N. Cady and a number of the Freeholders.

CHURCH ORGANIZATION BENEFITS BY LUNCHEON

Members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church who prepared and served the elaborate luncheon given by Camp Middlebrook Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Bound Brook, to Mrs. William Cumming Story, of New York, president-general of the National Society, and other distinguished guests, yesterday afternoon, were highly praised for their efficiency. The service and menu were of the best and went far to make the occasion an unusually enjoyable one. Through acting as caterers at the luncheon the Ladies' Aid Society has added a not inconsiderable sum to its treasury.

Mrs. L. M. French, chairman of the committee of arrangements for the luncheon, was assisted by Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. L. D. Albin and Mrs. A. B. Meredith. The luncheon was served by Mrs. Judd Stewart, Mrs. Francis Crawford, Mrs. Arthur Humble, Mrs. W. H. W. Burnett, Mrs. Arthur Goodenough, Mrs. N. Y. Hull, Mrs. Frank Rowley and Mrs. J. H. Marvin.

The tables were decorated with a profusion of flowers, the color scheme throughout being red, and American flags and the colors of the Daughters of the American Revolution prominently displayed lent added beauty to the scene.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social on Monday evening.

'GO TO CHURCH' CAMPAIGN PLANS

Plainfield Ministers' Assn. to Work For Larger Attendance at Services.

TO CANVASS THE CITY

Rev. Dr. C. F. Canady, of New Rochelle, N. Y., Presents Details of Project—Committee Named to Take Charge.

Plainfield ministers are to wage a "Go to Church" campaign. People in every section of the city are to be urged to attend church. There are many non-churchgoers in this city, it is said, and it is with the object in view of reaching such that the coming campaign has been planned. Plans are making among the ministers of Plainfield to reach practically every inhabitant here.

To each and every citizen an invitation will be extended to commence attending church. The idea is not to hold any special or revival services as is so often done with a view of increasing church attendance, but instead to endeavor to promulgate the idea that it is a good thing for people generally to "Go to Church," and keep the practice up indefinitely. No attempt, it is said, will be made by the ministers of Plainfield to proselyte for any particular church or churches. Non-churchgoers will be welcomed at whatever church they may choose to attend in response to the broadcast invitation to be present and join in the services.

Determination to start a "Go to Church" campaign in this city was reached by the Plainfield Ministers' Association at its meeting, held for the purpose of cavassing the proposition thoroughly, at the Y. M. C. A. building on West Front street, Wednesday afternoon. The conference, which was well attended, was addressed by the Rev. C. F. Canady, D. D., rector of Trinity Episcopal church, in New Rochelle, N. Y. He told the Plainfield clergymen of the good results a "Go to Church" campaign in New Rochelle had achieved and urged that the plan be tried here. There was practically a unanimity of opinion among the local clergy that the idea was a good one and it was decided to try it, and forthwith.

While the plans of the committee have not yet been fully matured it is very likely that the campaign will be started at the commencement of the Lenten season. It will close on Easter Sunday. Plainfield churches will, it is said, each bear a proportionate part of the cost of the advertising campaign. It has been suggested that a letter be sent to every telephone subscriber in this city inviting them to attend church somewhere. Besides this the ministers expect, it is said, to purchase considerable advertising space in the local newspapers and cards will be displayed in trolley cars and posters shown in all parts of the city. Other original ideas are to be expected from the ministerial commttee of arrangements when the "Go to Church" campaign opens.

With a population of 26,617, including the borough, it was estimated by some local clergymen whose opinion was asked by a Daily Press representative today that not more than one-fourth of the total population attends church regularly. It is for the purpose of awakening the religious consciences of the non-attendants that the campaign spoken of is to be waged, and vigorously.

Arrangements for the "Go to Church" campaign are in the hands of a committee, of which Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, is chairman. The other members are Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church; Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church; Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND TWO BLOCKS FROM HOME

Chief Marshall George Weiss, of North Plainfield, has found Mrs. Isabella Smith, the widow living on Rock road, whose five children reported her disappearance yesterday. The woman is nursing Mrs. Charles Parsch, a neighbor, whose home is only two and one half blocks away from the Smith residence. Chief Weiss has notified Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. John Connett, of No. 23 Warren street, of the supposed missing woman's whereabouts.

RESIGNATION OF RECORDER REFUSED

Charles Sheelen, of Fanwood, Who Holds Enviable Record, Still In Office.

Refusing to accept his resignation as recorder and tax collector, the borough authorities of Fanwood, it is said, have promised Charles Sheelen suitable office accommodations, provided he will remain in office and continue to serve in the dual capacity. Mr. Sheelen, who has been tax collector of Fanwood Borough for the last fifteen years, resigned on January 1. He is now holding over and insists that he will let his resignation as recorder remain on file, pending promised improvements in the way of better office room.

The office of recorder, Mr. Sheelen holds, is no sinecure in spite of the fact that a salary goes with the place. Recent changes made in the laws of this State send many cases before the recorder that formerly were heard before justices of the peace. In his fifteen years' service as tax collector, Mr. Sheelen occupies the unique position of having collected every dollar of assessments levied in Fanwood borough, a record of 100 per cent. It is doubtful if this record is equalled elsewhere in the State.

Because of the failure of the borough authorities, Recorder Sheelen was some time ago obliged to make improvements to his court room and his resignation is said to have been partly because of his belief that his good nature was being taken advantage of by his fellow-townsmen who, because of their official position should have seen that better court room facilities were provided.

GRAND JURORS ENJOY A BANQUET

Elizabeth, January 29—Members of the Grand Jury for the January term of court, enjoyed a dinner last night at the Elks clubhouse in this city. Guests at the dinner were Judge James J. Bergen of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judge James C. Connolly, of the Court of Quarter Sessions; Prosecutor of the Pleas Alfred A. Stein and his asistant, Martin P. O'Connor; Deputy Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland and Robert L. Eaton, clerk of the Grand Jury.

The foreman of the Grand Jury is Charles A. Baechtold. The Plainfield members of the body were Abiel D. Edgar, Charles H. Frost and Berthold J. Schreiner. The other members are Isaac S. Cain, John G. Hall, Charles E. Bishop, Thomas Simons, David T. Magie, Frank Mulligan Henry E. Schmeider, Frederick Hornbruck, Willard B. Halsey, Harry C. Meeker, James White, Arthur R. Wendell, Charles S. Hamper, Edward F. Low, John T. Dunn, Frank B. Hetzman, Frank R. Fricke, Edward C. Luther and Charles T. Gunn. Presentation of a handsome leather traveling bag was made during the evening to Foreman Baechtold and a pair of motorcycle gloves was given to Clerk Eaton.

LEGISLATORS HEAR WOMEN

LOCAL PEOPLE THERE

Ardent Group Listened to Pro and Con Argument of Mrs. Breckenridge, Rabbi Wise, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Joost.

(By Miss Vermilye)

A large, very cheerful and friendly party left the Plainfield station yesterday morning on the 8:45 train to Trenton. Most of them were suffragists, and those were first to arrive. The Plainfield league was well represented: Mrs. Isaac Schwed, Mrs. Lamar VanSyckel, Mrs. Frederick Conlin, Miss Elsie Martin, Mrs. J. Kirtland Meyers, Mrs. Frank de L. Hyde, Miss Helen Hyde, Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Miss Josephine Vermilye, Mrs. Grace deF. Greene and Mrs. Charles L. Hyde being among the number; also Champlain L. Riley, president of the Men's League for Equal Suffrage, representing that truly chivalrous body of modern times, and also a few women "not anti-suffragists" but "unconverted." Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey League for Equal Suffrage, went to Trenton by an earlier train. Waiting with the suffragists at the station were twelve members of the Westfield Equal Franchise League: Mrs. F. D. Sturgis, president; Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Julius VanRiper, Mrs. C. Pierce, Mrs. Frederick White, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Mrs. Hasslock, Miss Ethel Irving, Mrs. E. Proudfit, Mrs. Collins and another courageous and chivalrous man, Mr. Collins. The suffragists wore their yellow or purple, green and white badges, according to their organization, contrasting with the colors of those opposed to woman suffrage (headed by Mrs. Sherman Joost), who wore rosettes of red, white and black, and some of them a large red rose, as insignia. Mrs. Hyatt and Miss Florence Tweedy were of this party.

The hearing before the legislature was to be held at 10:30. By that time the Assembly chamber of the State House at Trenton was crowded —women of all classes and occupations with perhaps a preponderance of the "privileged" from all over the State, filled the galleries, the lobby, and also the floor of the chamber, where many of the assemblymen's seats were filled by them. The antis were more equally represented at this hearing than at the last. It was they who had asked for the hearing. The suffragists were content to rest on the pledges of a majority of the Senators and Assemblymen, who recognized a responsibility of fairness toward the women who had worked so long and successfully at the last session only to lose the referendum by the admitted carelessness of State officials.

The House was called to order by Speaker Beekman, after which Assemblyman Holcombe was chosen chairman of the committee of the whole. The Senate judiciary committee was invited to sit at the hearing, but at first only Senator Egan was present.

Each side was to speak for one hour, with a half hour in rebuttal, the suffragists coming first.

Mrs. Everett Colby, of West Orange, presented the suffrage speakers with her usual charming grace. There were but two, Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, of Kentucky, eloquent granddaughter of Henry Clay, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York.

Mrs. Breckenridge, a slender woman with the accent of the South, proved herself no unworthy descendant of her illustrious ancestor.

She said in part that a juster government had always been the result of the widening of the franchise, because human nature is somewhat selfish and verifies Abraham Lincoln's words: "No man is good enough to govern another man without that others consent." Mrs. Breckenridge referred to the early days of Kentucky—the first State to be admitted after the Revolutionary war, the first to write manhood suffrage with its constitution, ten years before the Seneca Falls convention, when the women wrote their "Declaration of Rights." She said it was no longer a question as to whether suffrage would come but of when it would come and urged New Jersey to be in the van in honoring its women and not wait till suffrage was forced upon it by a Federal amendment.

She said that although owing largely to an Equal Rights Association, of Kentucky, men and women who advocate equal suffrage, much improvement had been made upon the old English Common Law that formerly prevailed there and that although they had a library committee, a forestry committee and a tuberculosis committee, etc., that Kentucky still stood very low in regard to progressive legislation amongst the States, and if the State money was to

LOCAL YOUNG MAN ALLEGED SWINDLER

Clever Plan For Embezzlement Unearthed By the Police of Elizabeth.

Charged with defrauding, and embezzling various sums of money from four storekeepers in Elizabeth, Edward Clayton, of 124 Elmwood place, this city, was arrested by Detective Hess, of the Elizabeth police force, yesterday afternoon. The Plainfielder was apprehended in the office of a life insurance company at 275 Morris avenue, where he has been employed for the past three weeks.

According to Detective Hess, Clayton went among the smaller storekeepers in Elizabeth, and represented himself as an agent of the Fidelity Mercantile Company, an alleged concern with offices in Broad street, that place, and asked them if they had any bad bills they wanted him to collect for them on a percentage basis. His plan worked successfully and according to the police, he collected sums of various sizes from different customers. In many cases, it is said, that he returned to the storekeepers and informed them that he had collected the debts, but instead of returning the amount collected and deducting his commission, the police say that he told his clients that a rule of the company required each customer to be enrolled six months, at which time it would give an accounting and make a settlement.

In some instances Clayton then got the storekeepers to pay him the amount of commission, although nothing was paid them of the sums collected. By this method Clayton is alleged to have collected and embezzled $15.50 from Peter Tag, Jr.; $18 from Mrs. Marie Wisiak; $12 from Mrs. Anna Heiser, and $3.40 from Mrs. Mary Maggs. According to the complaints Clayton's operations ranged from 1912 up to the present month. He has been held to await trial in the Elizabeth police headquarters.

MRS. JOOST'S REMARKS AT TRENTON AGAINST SUFFRAGE

In her argument against women suffrage at the hearing in Trenton yesterday, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, president of the Plainfield Branch of the Anti-Suffrage Association, called attention to the fact that in Elizabeth there is already an organization of 1,380 women who do not want the vote, in Plainfield 1,200, and in Union county, at least 3,000. She said that she felt confident that a majority of the women do not want the vote.

Mrs. Joost also said that the opposition to votes for women was not confined to that sex, but that the most prominent men in industrial, social and political life have joined the recently formed Men's Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and she told the Legislators that in her opinion the majority of their constituents of the male sex are opposed to suffrage.

FIELDS' MINSTREL TROUPE GUESTS OF LOCAL ELKS

The Al. G. Fields minstrel troupe paid its annual visit to Plainfield yesterday and was greeted by two capacity audiences at the Plainfield theatre. At last night's performance standing room was at a premium an hour before the curtain arose. Mr. Field has maintained many of his old time favorite comedians and the show was one continuous laugh from start to finish.

At the close of the evening performance, a majority of the troupe repaired to the Elks' clubhouse on Watchung avenue, where they were given a reception that lasted several hours. A program of vocal and instrumental music furnished by the minstrel men and by local talent entertained 400 visitors. A supper was served at midnight.

SHOOTS HIMSELF ON WIFE'S GRAVE

Walter Buchanan, In State of Melancholy, Puts Bullet In Brain.

FOUND BY SEARCHERS

Came to Plainfield This Morning With the Deliberate Intention of Taking His Own Life—Removed to Hospital—Will Die.

Coming here from his home in Mount Vernon, N. Y., with the deliberate intention of committing suicide, Walter Buchanan, thirty-six years old, was found lying on the grave of his wife in Hillside cemetery shortly after noon today with a bullet wound in his temple and was removed to Muhlenberg hospital where it is said he will die. Buchanan came here from New York this morning and went directly to the bicycle store of his brother-in-law, Clarence Thorne, on Park avenue, with whom he was conversing when the telephone rang.

Thorne answered the call which was from a friend of Buchanan in New York city who urged Thorne to locate his brother-in-law at once as the latter had stated that he was going to Plainfield to kill himself. Thorne was aroused to action but while he had been conversing over the wire Buchanan made his getaway and could not be located in the immediate vicinity of the shop. Thorne secured an automobile and accompanied by friends searched the town for more than half an hour in an effort to locate the man and finally went to Hillside cemetery where Buchanan had previously stated that he was going to visit his wife's grave.

He was found by Thorne stretched across the grave of his wife bleeding profusely from the head and taken in the automobile to Muhlenberg hospital. While he left nothing that would indicate the reason for his attempt at self-destruction Buchanan is known to have grieved considerably over the death of his wife which occurred one years ago today and melancholia is thought to have caused the deed.

Alienation Suit Against Mrs. Katharine Coman, of Fanwood, Has Sudden End.

The suit of Mrs. Abby K. Schneider, of 102 Central avenue, against Mrs. Katherine Coman, a widow, of Fanwood, for $10,000, charging the defendant with the alienation of her husband's affections, will not go to the courts. A settlement was effected yesterday acording to Abe J. David, of Elizabeth, attorney for Mrs. Coman. The amount named in the settlement is said to be $750. Swackhamer & Bird, represented Mrs. Schneider.

John A. Schneider, the plaintiff's husband, is many years her junior. He worked as a chauffeur for Mrs. Coman, who is the widow of John H. Coman, who left a considerable fortune at his death. Although the defendant claimed that Mr. Schneider was simply her employer, it is said that they were seen in each others presence a great deal and were very friendly.

NAME POSTMASTERS IN THREE SOMERSET COUNTY TOWNS

Among the seven New Jersey postmasters named yesterday by President Wilson were new men from Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan. In Bound Brook Joseph V. D. Fields was named to succeed W. B. R. Mason, whose term expires on April 21. The salary is $2,500. Mr. Field went to Washington yesterday to urge that his name be sent in, and Senator Martine advised him that he might as well have saved his carfare as his name was down for the place and was then in the list sent to the Senate.

In Somerville William Maxwell succeeds John G. Gaston, whose term expires on March 8, the salary being $2,600. The Raritan postmastership was much sought for, there being three or four avowed candidates for the place. William Slattery succeeds G. W. Hope, whose term expired yesterday, the salary being $1,400.

WIFE SUMMONED TO COURT TO EXPLAIN IRREGULARITY

Summoned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning by Truant Officer Miss Margaret Holly to explain why his children were irregular in their school attendance, John Bishop, 48 years old, of 1017 West Third street, claimed that he was ignorant of the fact that his sons and daughters did not go to school five days a week. Miss Holly explained that at various times when she asked Mrs. Bishop why her children were not in school she was informed that they were ill but when a nurse went to the home she found no one there.

Judge DeMeza, who said that he was acquainted with the case, said that he believed the wife to be at fault and he ordered that she be summoned to court Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL WILL ENTER COUNTY LEAGUE

A special meeting of the Plainfield High School boys' athletic association was held in the school this afternoon and it was announced at that time that those in charge of the school's athletic activities had practically decided to accept the invitation to enter the Union County Athletic League. This matter has been agitated for some time past and it is believed that a compromise has been arrived at which will also induce Westfield, another outstanding faction, to enter immediately.

It was also announced that Harold Lounsberry had been selected as manager of the school tennis team for the coming season. Coach Ralph Patch declared the proposed baseball trip to West Point off because of unsatisfactory inducements offered by the Army second team for the trip.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY GIVES CHOWDER SUPPER

Under the auspices of the ladies composing the Sewing Circle of the First Presbyterian church a chowder supper was given last evening in the church parlors. Supper was served to 100 guests. The proceeds will be used by the ladies in their home missionary work. During the evening a brief address was delivered by the Rev. John Hubbell, of Lincoln Memorial University, in Tennessee. The Rev. Mr. Hubbell works among the poor and uneducated mountain whites of Tennessee. He is now visiting in Plainfield, the guest of I. B. Hill, on Westervelt avenue. Mr. Hill's daughter, Bertha, now a teacher of Domestic Science here in Plainfield, formerly taught in the school of which the Rev. Mr. Hubbell is in charge.

Arrangements for the chowder supper of last evening were in charge of Mrs. Elmer Poinere, as chairman of the committee. The tables were very handsomely decorated with pink and white carnations, napery was spotless, silver and glass of the most brilliant lustre, and the viands served were such as would have tempted the appetites of epicures.

MUCH INTEREST IN SALE OF I. R. LANE COLLECTION

New York, Jan. 29.—Much interest was taken here in the sale at the Anderson Galleries of autograph letters, manuscripts and documents, including the collection of the late I. Remsen Lane, of Orange. Good prices were realized.

The highest price for any item in the Lane material was $780, paid for General Nathaniel Greene's orderly book of the campaign in South Carolina. This Revolutionary document is much prized.

Another Lane item of importance was the letter written by General Grant to General Sherman authorizing the beginning of the march to the sea. This brought $445.

Included in the Lane collection were letters and documents, ranging in date from about 1678 to 1752, relating to land held in New Jersey by Samuel Barker, of Barleborough, Derbyshire, England, and managed for him by Thomas Wetherel and Isaac Decow, of Burlington. This material brought $35.

Some other Lane items, with prices realized, were a letter written by James DeLancey to the Council of New York on the siege of Fort William Henry by Montcalm, $142.50; Washington Irving's manuscript note book on Spanish literature, $120; a Washington Irving letter relating to the writing of his life of Washington, $68, and an Indian deed of 1695 relating to the sale of land on the east side of the Hudson, $38.

Among items outside the Lane collection disposed of at the sale was the U. S. Grant letter of May 3, 1861, in which he expressed his determination to enlist. This brought the high price of the day, $910. A George Washington letter relating to the genealogy of the Washington family, sold for $535, and a Martha Washington letter, $345.

GEO. LUHR A "GRANDPA."

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Meisner, of 812 South avenue, are parents of a boy born to them on Monday night. Mrs. Meisner was Miss Jennie Luhr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Luhr, of West Front street.

AIDS HUERTA TO PLEASE JINGOES

Japan Adopted the Policy to Save Itself.

GRAVE SITUATION EXISTS

United States Expecting a Denial of Report—Tokyo May Claim Shipments Were Made by Private Contractors. Alarm is Felt at Capital.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Efforts were made here in official quarters to minimize the significance of the Japanese activity in connection with the Mexican situation, but the fact of the matter is that this subject was seriously discussed at the conference between the president and the foreign relations committee the other night, and it has given the members of the senate committee more concern than any other feature of the foreign relations situation.

No one pretends to say that there is any immediate danger of trouble with Japan, but it is the growing sentiment in Japan against this country in the face of efforts on the part of the Japanese government to suppress it that is regarded as most significant.

That the injection of the Japanese issue complicates the situation with regard to Mexico to a vast degree is admitted by every one in Washington. It has had a most remarkable sobering effect upon members of congress in Washington who, appreciating the constant danger of undue strain upon our relations with Japan, realize the untold difficulties which may result from a conflict of the American and Japanese political and diplomatic interests in Mexico.

That one so conservative with regard to foreign relations as President Wilson should have considered Japanese activities so significant as to call the attention of senators to the facts is regarded as a sufficient reason for viewing the situation with extreme gravity.

There is no belief here that Japan has the slightest intention of forcing the issue upon the United States to the extent of bringing an open breach between the two countries. Rather, it is believed, moved by the exigencies of domestic politics, and also with the idea that to have another grievance against the United States will do Japan no harm, the Tokyo government is not hesitating to act without that delicacy and deference which President Wilson demands and expects of all other powers interested in the Mexican situation.

Expect Japan to Explain.

There is good reason to believe that the Japanese government will, as the result of the disclosures to the senators, hasten to put itself on record in Washington as disavowing the slightest intention to embarrass the United States in Mexico. It is not to be expected that the Japanese course will in any way be altered, but rather that explanation will be made of the motives for what Japan has done in Mexico in an effort to show that there is nothing behind them except a perfectly proper interest of the Japanese government in the welfare and safety of the lives and property of its 3,000 subjects resident in Mexico.

It has already been indicated that Japan will, if she considers it wise to make any explanation at all, disavow any deliberate intention to give official support to the Huerta government in the matter of arms. It will be stated on behalf of the Tokyo government that the arms sold to Huerta were not so sold by the Japanese government, but by private contractors. The arms shipped to Mexico are composed of rifles discarded by the Japanese government in favor of a more modern type and rifles captured by the thousand from the Russian forces, for which Japan has no use. These, it is definitely known, have been sold to Japanese contractors and have been resold all over the world.

This business, it will be declared, is wholly private and no concern of the imperial government. In view of the precedents in the case, it is said by international lawyers here that the president can make no answer to such representations if made by Japan.

As a matter of fact, it is understood that Huerta obtained but one order of rifles and cartridges from Japan and that the contractors are not anxious to sell him any more of them, because of the fact that he has not yet fully paid for the consignment he received last October.

FLAMES KILL TEN IN TUNNEL

Bluefield, W. Va., Jan. 29.—Ten men met death in a fire in the new tunnel of the Carolina, Platefield and Ohio railroad near Dante, Va. They had placed and lighted a blast. As they started toward the mouth of the tunnel they were met by a wall of flame.

Hemmed in on each side the men apparently waited for the blast to explode. One man died probably of intense heat, as his body was found between the burned section and the spot where the blast had been placed.

His companions evidently dashed through the flames, for their charred bodies were found after the fire was extinguished.

S. H. ALLEN, LIBRARY JANITOR, PASSES AWAY

Samuel H. Allen, for many years janitor of the Plainfield Public Library, and well-known to a host of citizens, died last night after a year's illness. He had been confined to his bed for the past month. Mr. Allen, who was 64 years old leaves a brother, George Allen, whose home is in North Plainfield. During his long service as janitor and caretaker of the Public Library building, Mr. Allen was highly regarded because of his general trustworthiness and fidelity to the duties which his position entailed upon him. Mr. Allen was a native of Bucks county, Pa.

STARVING HORSE ABANDONED TO DIE IN LOCAL ASH DUMP

A dying horse, believed to be the property of some local ashman, was found abandoned in the dumps on Watchung avenue at an early hour this morning by a passerby and Chief of Police Kiely sent a patrolman to put the animal out of its misery. After the horse had been shot an investigation was instituted by the local authorities and the owner will probably be located sometime today.

The animal, too old for further work, was left in the dumps to die of starvation yesterday afternoon and lying on the ground too weak to rise when discovered this morning. Appearances indicate that the animal had had nothing to eat for several days and was slowly dying of starvation.

SURPRISED ON TWELFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

In honor of their twelfth wedding anniversary, a surprise party was given last night to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Kline, at their home, 922 West Front street, by the members of the Kline Bowling Club. Mr. and Mrs. Kline were the recipients of a solid silver serving tray. The reception which followed the arrival of the guests was held in the new bowling alleys which Mr. Kline has only recently completed. There was a fine musical program and bowling during the evening.

The guests present at the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. H. Brile, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Adelberg, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Fass, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Drellach, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Schwartz, Max Kahn, of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. Kline's mother of Pottstown, Pa.

RUN ON BANK FOR SAVINGS, STRONGEST IN NEW YORK

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

New York, Jan. 29, 1914—Following the circulation of false rumors regarding the condition of the Bank of Savings, one of the strongest institutions of its kind in this country, a run was begun on the concern this morning. The depositors included a large number of servants. It seems that several days ago they began to become uneasy just about what the officials of the bank were unable to learn, in fact the depositors themselves when talked to by a representative to the New York News Bureau this morning, could not give any reason for taking out their money from the bank. When the institution opened for business this morning there more than three hundred persons awaiting to withdraw funds. President Walter Trimble said that the bank was never in better condition. He said that its deposits were about $97,000,000 and that is surplus was $11,000,000. He said further that the surplus had shown a steady increase in the last six months. Officials of the bank are not uneasy and they feel certain that the run will abate when the depositors realize that they are losing their interest. The bank is located at Twenty-second street and Fourth avenue. Its building ranks among the best of its kind in this city. The number of depositors is about 153,000. The bank was chartered in 1819.

PLAN YEAR'S WORK.

The executive committee of the West End Civic Association met at the home of the president, Thomas C. Vail, last night, and discussed plans for the coming year. An entertainment will be given in Washington School, Tuesday night, February 17, when the Lotus Glee Club will probably appear. After the business Mr. Vail entertained the committee, providing refreshments.

ENDORSED BY THE PRESIDENT.

President Woodrow Wilson has written Dr. M. P. E. "KNOW YOUR CITY."

One of the local merchants, a big property holder and taxpayer, quoted an instance the other day of the unfair competition which is created by out of town stores seeking trade here. He said that he paid, at wholesale, $5.75 for an article, and about ten cents freight on it, and sold it at retail at $6.25, a profit of 40 cents. A big New York house, handling the same line of goods, advertised the same article for $6.00, and the local man lost the sale. The New York firm pays no taxes here, has no store expense in Plainfield, does not contribute toward the maintenance of local churches and charities, employs no local people to spend their money in Plainfield, cannot be depended upon to furnish something that is wanted in a hurry, and in a dozen other ways is not as valuable to the local resident as the merchant who is here all the time, helps support the local government, and is a good citizen. Would it not have been better, when the size of the sale is considered, for the purchaser to have paid that extra quarter to a local store, especially when the prices for most things at that store are as low as the prices at the New York house?

The Plainfield Business Men's Association is giving good and convincing reasons for buying at home in the display advertising which appears in the local papers. Read those advertisements, boost your home town, help its merchants, and in the long run you will save money by so doing. Let the local merchant sell goods to the fellow from the other place if he comes here to buy, but don't try to drive the merchant in his town out of business in order to do so. Plainfield stores are good stores. There is little that can be bought in any other place that will not be found in this city, and we believe that the "Know Your City" campaign will prove not only beneficial to the business men, but will open the eyes of hundreds who now do a large part of their buying out of town.

CITY MANAGERS.

There has been more or less agitation in Plainfield for commission form of government, such as has been successfully adopted in Trenton and other cities in the State. Some people favor going even further and adopting the city manager plan, with which Dayton is experimenting. There are several cities, large and small, now working under this form, and "Engineering and Contracting" contains an interesting article on the success of an engineer-manager plan in Abilene, Kansas, a town of but 5,000 inhabitants.

Plainfielders have no complaint about the efficient way in which Andrew J. Gavett conducts his department with the amount of money allowed him for the work, so that some of the argument about economy in public work which is presented regarding Abilene would not be good reason for a change here. No one will dispute the statement that "with an engineer-manager it is possible to get the very best and most active business men to serve on the commission, since their duties are reduced to a few hours a week." By hiring a manager it is pointed out that they also avoid the hindrances of politics, and substitute therefore professionalism, with a man who is free to act according to his best judgment, and is not overpowered by fear that for political reasons his authority will be curtailed.

In order to make the engineer-manager's office more efficient careful records are kept regarding all property in the city, and to pay for this much of the work now done at the owners' expense by private contractors, could be done under the direction of the manager, giving the city the record and also the income now going to individuals or firms. For instance it is suggested that "all sewer work, plumbing, wiring, water mains and services, meters, etc., should be inspected, and the small cost for doing this should be charged to the property owner. Then there will be the ordinary expenses of surveying lot lines, giving grades for buildings and sidewalks; this would be charged to the property owner and turned into the general fund. Also, there will be the usual engineering for sewer and water extensions, curbs and pavements. And finally, if the manager has charge of the street work, the street commissioner's salary may be added. The aggregate of these different amounts, if the town were doing its share of improvement work, would average a sufficient amount to employ a competent engineer, without extra draft on the city's funds."

It is shown how marked differences occurred between work done under the old form of government and the engineer-manager plan; how the city purchases all the material for public work and lets the labor to the lowest responsible bidder, and how in eight months' time on one form of sewer work, in that small community, over $1,000 was saved over the old method of doing public work. The conclusion is drawn that "efficiency attained by the business-like methods possible in the engineer-manager plan" proves that "it is the ideal form of public control," especially in the smaller towns and cities while in its experimental state. If Plainfield people really want a change in the form of government, it might be well to look thoroughly into the plan adopted by this progressive Kansas town.

Such hearings as that given yesterday in Trenton, when the Suffragists and Anti-Suffragists had their say regarding votes for women, do not affect a single vote and are merely a waste of time. The legislators have heard this topic discussed for two or three years, and everyone has reached a conclusion on the subject which no argument, pro or con, can change. The same is undoubtedly true of a large share of the men who will decide this question when it comes before the people for a referendum some time in 1915. They have made up their minds and would vote tomorrow, were the opportunity given them, in exactly the same way they will vote next year. The question of suffrage is not one on which men change their minds over night, as they do when considering the merits of individual candidates for office, against whom some unexpected charges may be brought and proven which make them unfit to hold office.

ARRESTED BY HEALTH OFFICER.

Health Officer Randolph Chandler made an arrest last night in his campaign to stop the practice some people have of spitting in public places. The offender was Henry Meistrich, of West Fourth street, whose offense was committed at a local playhouse. When Meistrich left the theatre, the health officer followed and placed him under arrest. When arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza this morning, sentence was suspended with a warning.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Anaen Mosher, of Watchung avenue, and Nihen Simon, of East Front street, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Bader charged with fighting, were allowed to go under suspended sentences of $20 or sixty days, when arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza this morning. The men explained that they were at odds over a family affair. J. Henry Crane made a plea for leniency.

SCENES FROM 'THE SCARBOROUGH SPOONS'

Adaptation By Miss Margaret McCutchen to Be Given at Hartridge Auditorium.

The Plainfield Pine Mountain Association will present scenes from "Kentucky Mountain Life," adapted by Miss Margaret W. McCutchen from "The Scarborough Spoons," a story by Lucy Furman, which appeared a few weeks ago in one of the current magazines.

The cast is made up from some of Plainfield's young women who have been successful in the dramatic performances given by the College Club and the Park Comedy Club.

This performance has for its object the raising of funds for the school at Pine Mountain, where the need of education and industrial training is very great and where a number of worthy women have given time and effort in self-sacrificing labor for the elevation and enlightenment of these neglected children of American parentage.

The performance will be given at the Hartridge Auditorium, Friday evening, February 13, at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets are for sale by the members of the association and can be had at the door for a nominal price.

ARE YOU AFFECTED BY INCOME TAX?

If So, the Law Requires You to Make a Statement of the Fact.

Plainfield persons whose income is $3,000 yearly, or, who if married, are possessed of a joint income equalling that sum, should write at once to the Collector of Internal Revenue, at Newark, asking that the necessary income papers be forwarded. Upon the receipt of same they must be filled out and sworn to before some notary public. The papers must then be returned to the Collector of Internal Revenue at Newark.

Even in those cases where a person living in Plainfield is engaged in business in New York such income tax information must be given as the place of residence governs according to the law. With a view of getting in some fees by acting for commuters who are out of the city daily on business it is said several lawyers here have found the work quite profitable of attending to the income tax formalities for clients.

The government takes no excuses for failure to comply with its laws. Citizens are obliged to do whatever "running" there may be necessary and it is up to all whose sole or joint income yearly totals $2,500, to see that their tax is paid and the required information furnished the government.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. James Jones, of Nyack, N. Y., will give a Bible reading at the German Reformed church, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be no evening service as the members of the Christian and Missionary Alliance will go to Bound Brook to hear Dan Crawford speak at a meeting at that place.

Rev. Dr. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Rescue Mission tonight.

CANTATA CHORUS MEETING.

The Cantata Chorus of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, which is a year old, will meet tonight to perfect its organization and to plan for rehearsing the Easter music. This chorus during the past year, under the leadership of Rev. F. J. Hubach has been successful, having given three concerts and raised $150 for church purposes. There is a membership of about fifty and everyone is working in co-operation for the success of the organization.

A CALL OF SYMPATHY.

The men of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's R. C. church will visit the family of the late Dennis Sheehan, on Park avenue, opposite Muhlenberg Hospital, this evening, meeting at Fourth street and Watchung avenue and taking the 8:15 o'clock trolley. It has been customary for this society to make such visits of sympathy on the occasion of the death of a member.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

"Physical Training In Its Relation to High School Studies," will be the subject of a talk to be given by Miss Addie Parker Jackson at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting in the High School, tonight. C. R. Bostwick and J. C. Evans will also speak. The teachers will be in their classrooms to confer with parents of children during the evening. The public is invited.

Y. W. C. A. EXHIBITION PROGRAM COMPLETE

Annual Demonstration Tomorrow Night May Eclipse All Former Ones.

A final rehearsal of the events to be presented in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tomorrow night in conection with the annual exhibition of the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium classes was held last night and the plans are now complete for an affair that gives promise of eclipsing last year's marked success. Every department of feminine gymnastic work will be demonstrated under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, the physical director, and many novelties are in store for those who attend.

This event is given every year in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium because of the better seating facilities at that place and arrangements have been made to care for a record crowd of the parents and those interested in the work of the association and its members.

Included in the program that was rehearsed last night are Swedish calisthenic drills, dumb bell drills, folk dances and indoor recreative games in which the members of each class will be participants. A total of over fifty feminine athletes ranging in age from six to nineteen years will take part in the numbers planned and the demonstration will be replete in every detail, the regular routine of physical work being shown throughout.

Following the program of calisthenics and other drills a basketball game will be played between the Y. W. C. A. team and the girls' team of the North Plainfield High School. This is an annual feature of the Association exhibit and always produces a large amount of enthusiasm.

PIERCE WILL FIGHT TO HAVE PUBLIC BILL CALENDAR

Trenton, Jan. 29.—Much interest attaches to the fight made by Senator Carlton B. Pierce to secure a public calendar of bills on third reading. The proposition was defeated Tuesday, owing to the opposition of Senators McGinnes and Read. But Senator Pierce intends to renew the fight.

"The proposition is," said the Senator, "to have the secretary of the Senate, at the close of each legislative day, post in the corridor, a calendar of bills on third reading for the next succeeding legislative day.

"It is due the public and to each Senator to know at the close of each day's work what will come up for final passage the following day.

"The newspapers will publish the calendar and everybody in the State interested in the particular bills can attend. The plan prevents manipulation of bills and goes far to put lobbyists out of business, for if people know when their bills are coming up they can attend to them in person and come once instead of many times. The plan is in the public interest and should prevail."

OFFERS REWARD FOR JEWELRY

S. Hirsh, the Watchung avenue tailor, whose safe was cracked a few days ago, and $3,000 worth of jewelry taken, is offering a reward of $200 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the thief. The police are working on the case, but up to the present time have found no definite clue. Mr. Hirsch is very anxious to get the jewelry back, as it was the property of his wife, and had been gathered after several years saving.

STRANGERS RELEASED.

Thomas Martin, who said he came from Philadelphia, and Anton Sales, of Newark, a companion, were released by City Judge William G. DeMeza this morning, when arraigned before him on a charge of loitering and acting suspiciously in the vicinity of Park avenue and Front street yesterday. They explained that they were on the way to New Brunswick in search of work.

Oysters.

Here are some oyster recipes to suggest variety to the lover of that appetizing bivalve.

Oyster cocktails are made in this way: Put the oysters in cocktail glasses and cover them with a dressing made of equal parts of lemon juice and tomato catsup flavored with a dash of Worcestershire sauce, salt to taste and some cayenne pepper. Small oysters are better than large ones for cocktails.

Grilled oysters call for large ones. Put them in a bowl with some melted butter, pepper and salt, and leave them there for half an hour. Remove them and around each oyster wrap a slice of lean bacon, rolled first in minced parsley and buttered bread crumbs. Run a skewer through as many oysters as it will hold and broil them quickly over a hot fire. Serve on thin slices of hot buttered toast.

For fried oysters have fine cracker crumbs. Drain the osyters and dry them on a soft, clean cloth. Dip them in an egg, beaten with a tablespoonful of cold water, and then in the cracker crumbs. Fry in hot, deep fat until golden brown. Drop on a sheet of brown paper for a moment, to absorb the grease, and serve hot. The drying of the oysters and the addition of a little water to the egg make the crumbs stick better.

Scalloped oysters call for oysters first scalded in their own liquor. They should be lifted from the liquor with a silver fork and arranged in the bottom of a buttered dish, then sprinkled with salt, pepper, melted butter and cracker crumbs. On these should go another layer of oysters and the dish should be filled with alternate layers of oysters and crumbs, with crumbs on top. Thicken the liquor with a little flour, rubbed in some butter, and pour the liquor over the oysters. Brown in the oven and serve hot. Another way to make scalloped oysters is to put them in a baking dish, and pour over them white sauce, well seasoned. Then should be topped with buttered crumbs and browned.

All are cordially invited.

BRYANT-LINCOLN MEETINGS.

The meeting at the Lincoln School on Monday evening, February 2, will be social with Mr. Rankin, sleight of hand performer, for entertainment. No children will be allowed to enter unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

On Wednesday afternoon, February 4, Mr. Parker will speak to the parents and teachers in the Bryant School on moving picture shows.

MOVING PICTURE CENSOR.

Mr. Kuhle, of Hudson county, has introduced a bill in the Assembly which provides for the appointment by the Governor of three persons as State censors of moving picture films. The measure provides that no theatre shall exhibit any moving picture without being licensed to do so by the board and that all films must be approved by the board. The term of office for censors is to be three years with a salary of $1,500 per year.

WIDOWS PENSION LAW.

An amendment to the Widows Pension Act has been introduced into the Assembly. It changes the act so that the pension shall be payable only in counties where the widow has a legal settlement. Also it provides that if the widow does not need the pension for all her children, the judge may order it paid to some of them. Any order may be modified in whole or in part to protect the children. Is this amendment necessary? Our legislative committees should look into this matter.

STATE CONFERENCE.

County superintendents are conferring with Commissioner Kendall in Trenton this week on the desirability of closing the small schools which have an average attendance of only twelve pupils or less. Industrial or vocational training will also be discussed and additional supervising principals for uncovered territory in the State will be considered.

SAFEGUARDING THE GIRLS.

"One of the surest safeguards, one that makes for instinctive self-protection, is training a girl to be dainty in her personal habits and refined in tastes, so that she is repelled by coarse laughter, by unseemly conduct and talk, by familiarities offered by men or boys not of her own immediate family.

"Teach them that no one need do what she knows is not 'nice,' because others do, that the fact of her knowledge of right is her law; that being fashionable cannot in any wise make right what is really fundamentally wrong." * * *

One good point to bring to the surface right at the beginning is that all of a girl's older friends, all good people, like to protect her from harm, even from seeming to do what is unwise. Hence, conventionalities have taken form, just as have table manners, or business etiquette, and are upheld by all who know the ways of the world. * * * One may show that the chaperon custom is not meant to be a restraint, but that it leaves the girl free to have a good time and yet be free from dangers both physical and moral that can and do often arise wholly unexpectedly. She can be taught that if she never allows herself to speak to strange men or women of whose standing she cannot be sure, she cannot be entrapped as too many girls are. She may know that if she keeps within bounds in regard to being out alone in the evening or with a girl companion only, she will not offer to the suspicious any reason for mistaking her character, hence will save herself some unpleasant and dangerous experiences. TABLE SILVER.

Modern Ware Reproductions of Old Colonial Designs.

Colonial silver is, owing to its simplicity, "the" correct thing in tableware at this time. Each piece has the paneled sides and the simple classic lines unbroken by any ornamentation save the single engraved initial in old English text.

Silver of this kind will make very acceptable gifts for the spring bride. The quaint old time baking dishes with the paneled lids, the compotes and tall salt cups, the "well and tree" platters with their delicate thread line borders, all are as attractive as can be.

Even the flat serving pieces have the long, straight handles with just a slight flare at the top. Those who designed them intended that they should be strong as well as beautiful.

The candlesticks are patterned after the old colonial ones of pewter which held the big, thick bayberry candles. Some of them are double, the outer covering being of pierced silver. The bases are very wide and flat and there are high colonial handles.

Some of them have the silver snuffers fastened at one side. These candlesticks are very decorative and form quaint ornaments for the dining room furnished in colonial style.

In the shops one sees duplicates of the old fashioned cake baskets which our mothers had before us and which we promptly relegated to the attic when we took a hand at managing the house.

The silver mounted muffin and bonbon carriers are again in vogue, and certainly they are pretty and convenient things for graceful serving at afternoon tea.

The carriers come in two, three or four tiers and hold cut crystal dishes for olives, almonds or salted nuts or Royal Worcester or Doulton plates for the muffins or sandwiches.

The English wares are all very popular, particularly Sheffield plate, which bears as honored a name as though it were sterling.

The real old Sheffield is silver plated on copper, and the copper, after a time, has been known to peep through, so that many people buy a modern form of Sheffield which is plated on nickel and which will not show up the occasional scratch.

The English shell shaped serving dishes with the old fashioned linings of frosted glass are very quaint. The combination of silver and glass gives an opalescent appearance that is most attractive. The butter ball dishes of cut crystal in silver settings form a very pleasing feature of a daintily set table.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SAVORY BREAKFAST VIANDS.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Oranges.
Cereal of Choice.
Fried Mush With Molasses.
Breaded Kidneys and Bacon.
Coffee or Cocoa.

THERE is probably no meal which counts more to the average person than the first repast of the day. It should be borne in mind that the appetite is usually more fickle in the morning than it would be late in the day. Indeed, the sense of taste is never so keen as at an early hour. On this account the dishes selected for breakfasts should at all times be well seasoned, daintily and attractively served, and yet simple in character. Elaborate dishes should as much as possible be avoided.

Fine Appetizers.

Breaded Kidneys and Bacon.—Take half a pound of beef kidney, a quarter pound of bacon, egg and crumbs. Cut the kidney into slices and season with salt and pepper. Egg and crumb these and fry until nicely browned, place the bacon in rolls on a skewer and toast in front of the fire. Dish daintily with a roll of bacon on each slice of kidney and serve hot.

Broiled Bacon With Bananas.—Cut the required number of rashers of streaky bacon and broil them on both sides over the fire on a gridiron or in a pan. Peel some bananas, cut each in half lengthways, season with salt and very little pepper, dip each in egg and roll in breadcrumbs and fry in bacon fat. Serve with the bacon and place half a banana on each rasher. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve hot.

If liked the bananas may be simply fried in the bacon fat without being first egged and crumbed.

Minced Foods.

Fried Tripe.—Take some boiled tripe, wash and then boil it one hour, cut into small pieces and dry. In the morning dust with salt, pepper and flour; then dip in egg (an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of grated onion and one tablespoonful of cold milk), then in breadcrumbs. Fry in deep very hot drippings until a nice brown. Serve on hot platter garnished with parsley.

Ham Timbales.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a quarter of a cupful of stale breadcrumbs and two-thirds of a cupful of milk. Add one cupful of chopped cooked ham, two beaten eggs and half a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Turn into greased molds, filling them two-thirds full. Set in a pan containing hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake about twenty minutes. Remove from molds to hot serving dish and place small sprig of parsley on top of each.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Poor Old Mr. Owl's Toothache.

"I'm ready now," said Dr. Raven.

EVELYN had been eating a great deal of candy—so much that it had given her a very bad toothache—and when daddy came home he found her curled up on the bed looking very mournful. Jack had been trying to comfort her, but he hadn't been able to help much. So when he heard daddy's step he called, "Come along, daddy, and tell a story especially for Evelyn to make her forget about her toothache."

"That is too bad," said daddy. "I'm sorry my little girl has a toothache. I'll see if I can't tell a good story so you'll feel better and will be able to sleep and have pleasant dreams. I think I'll tell you about old Mr. Owl, for he had the most terrible toothache one time. He had been eating a great many sugar plums and lots of candy, and before he knew it one of his teeth was aching so hard he could hardly stand it. 'Oh, dear,' he moaned; 'my tooth, my poor tooth! Whatever will I do?'

"It ached so badly for several days that he decided at last he'd go to the dentist. Dr. Raven was considered the very best dentist. So off went Mr. Owl to his office in the pine tree. When he arrived there he saw Dr. Raven busily fixing Mrs. Crow's teeth. She was leaning back on a stump of wood which Dr. Raven used as his dental chair. She had a rubber band over her mouth and looked very miserable. It quite frightened Mr. Owl, but he tried to be brave and sat down, put on his spectacles and began to read one of Dr. Raven's magazines. In a few moments Mrs. Crow got out of the chair, and Dr. Raven said, 'I'm ready for you, now, Mr. Owl.' So Mr. Owl took off his spectacles, got into Dr. Raven's chair and leaned his head back. 'Open wide,' said Dr. Raven. Mr. Owl opened his mouth as wide as he could, and Dr. Raven looked inside. First he looked over his upper teeth, then over his lower teeth, and finally he began to poke at one back tooth with such energy that Mr. Owl screamed, 'That's my sore tooth, and you're hurting it terribly!'

"'Yes,' said Dr. Raven; 'the tooth is a wisdom tooth, and it is much inflamed, so I'll take it out right away.' He reached for his pinchers, but Mr. Owl said: 'If you take out my wisdom tooth I'll lose my wisdom, and I'm known all over the world for my wisdom. I simply won't have it.'

"And before Dr. Raven had a chance to speak Mr. Owl had jumped out of the chair and flown off. When he got home his tooth still hurt, but the next morning it felt much better, and the next day it was all well. 'I know what all the trouble was,' said Mr. Owl. 'I ate too much candy. I'll never eat too much again, for I cannot lose any of my wisdom teeth when I'm known as the wisest bird.'"

"Daddy," said Jack, "your story would be a very good one, only owls don't have teeth." Daddy smiled and sent the children to bed.

STENCIL DESIGNS FOR CURTAINS

Stenciling has become an accepted method of decorating materials for draperies. It has outlived the days when it was such a fad that people did it on everything paintable, and now, that stenciling is used with discretion on suitable fabrics and in suitable places it is much more artistic and satisfactory than it has ever been before. This is a very inexpensive method of making cheap materials attractive and for the country home, summer cottage or the bungalow or, in fact for the bedrooms in the city house you can make very pretty curtains of scrim, cross-barred muslin, lawn or cheese cloth stenciled in some attractive flower design in colors to match the wall paper. Such curtains cost very little and as explicit directions for stenciling are given on our transfer pattern envelopes you can easily learn this work. When a stencil has once been cut, it can be used any number of times, repeated to form either a border or all-over pattern. One stencil can be used for instance, for decorating the curtains, table-cover, bureau-cover and bedspread in your yellow bedroom with the narcissus design illustrated, while the conventional motif would be appropriate developed in blue and green, yellow and brown or dull red and green, for decorating the portiers, curtains, couch-cover, screen, pillow-covers, runners and rugs in the living-room of the bungalow or summer cottage.

Pattern 14118, includes 5 simple stencil designs all appropriate for these uses. It will be mailed to readers on receipt of price, 15 cents.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

CHAPTER II.

Alone on Baldpate Mountain.

"THIS ain't exactly—regular," Mr. Quimby protested. "No, it ain't what you might call a frequent occurrence. I'm glad to do anything I can for young Mr. Bentley, but I can't help wondering what his father will say. And there's a lot of things you haven't took into consideration."

"There certainly is, young man," remarked Mrs. Quimby, bustling forward. "How are you going to keep warm in that big barn of a place?"

"The suits on the second floor," said Mr. Magee, "are, I hear, equipped with fireplaces. Mr. Quimby will keep me supplied with fuel from the forest primeval, for which service he will receive $20 a week."

"And light?" asked Mrs. Quimby.

"For the present, candles. I have forty in that package. Later, perhaps, you can find me an oil lamp. Oh, everything will be provided for."

"Well," remarked Mr. Quimby, looking in a dazed fashion at his wife. "I'll reckon I'll have to talk it over with ma."

The two retired to the next room, and Mr. Magee fixed his eyes on a "God Bless Our Home" motto while he awaited their return. Presently they reappeared.

"Was you thinking of eating?" inquired Mrs. Quimby sarcastically, "while you stayed up there?"

"I certainly was," smiled Mr. Magee. "For the most part I will prepare my own meals from cans and—er—jars—and such pagan sources. But now and then you, Mrs. Quimby, are going to send me something cooked as no other woman in the county can cook it. I can see it in your eyes. In my poor way I shall try to repay you."

He continued to smile into Mrs. Quimby's broad, cheerful face. Mr. Magee had the type of smile that moves men to part with ten until Saturday and women to close their eyes and dream of Sir Launcelot.

"It's all fixed," he cried. "We'll get on splendidly. And now—for Baldpate inn."

"Not just yet," said Mrs. Quimby. "I ain't one to let anybody go up to Baldgate inn unfed. I 'spose we're sort o' responsible for you while you're up here. You just set right down and I'll have your supper hot and smoking on the table in no time."

Mr. Magee entered into no dispute on this point, and for half an hour he was the pleased recipient of advice, philosophy and food. When he had assured Mrs. Quimby that he had eaten enough to last him the entire two months he intended spending at the inn Mr. Quimby came in, attired in a huge "before the war" ulster and carrying a lighted lantern.

"So you're going to sit up there and write things," he commented. "Well, I reckon you'll be left to yourself, all right."

"I hope so," responded Mr. Magee. "I want to be so lonesome I'll sob myself to sleep every night. It's the only road to immortality. Goodby, Mrs. Quimby. In my fortress on the mountain I shall expect an occasional culinary message from you." He took her plump hand. This motherly little woman seemed the last link binding him to the world of reality.

"Goodby," smiled Mrs. Quimby. "Be careful of matches."

Mr. Quimby led the way with the lantern, and presently they stepped out upon the road.

"By the way, Quimby," remarked Mr. Magee, "is there a girl in your town who has blue eyes, light hair and the general air of a queen out shopping?"

"Light hair!" repeated Quimby. "There's Sally Perry. She teaches in the Methodist Sunday school."

"No," said Mr. Magee. "My description was poor, I'm afraid. This one I refer to, when she weeps, gives the general effect of mist on the sea at dawn. The Methodists do not monopolize her."

"I read books, and I read newspapers," said Mr. Quimby, "but a lot of your talk I don't understand."

"The critics," replied Billy Magee, "could explain. My stuff is only for low brows. Lead on, Mr. Quimby."

Baldpate inn did not stand tiptoe on the misty mountain top. Instead it clung with grim determination to the side of Baldpate, about halfway up, much as a city man clings to the running board of an open street car. This was the comparison Mr. Magee made, and even as he made it he knew that atmospheric conditions rendered it questionable. For an open street car suggests summer and the ball park; Baldpate inn, as it shouldered darkly into Mr. Magee's ken, suggested winter at its most wintry.

About the great black shape that was the inn, like arms, stretched broad verandas. Mr. Magee remarked upon them to his companion.

"Those porches and balconies and things," he said, "will come in handy in cooling the fevered brow of genius."

"There ain't much fever in this locality," the practical Quimby assured him, "especially not in winter."

Silenced, Mr. Magee followed the lantern of Quimby over the snow to the broad steps, and up to the great front door. There Magee produced from beneath his coat an impressive key. Mr. Quimby made as though to assist, but was waved aside.

"This is a ceremony," Mr. Magee told him, "some day Sunday newspaper stories will be written about it. Baldpate inn opening its doors to the great American novel!"

He placed the key in the lock, turned it, and the door swung open. The coldest blast of air Mr. Magee had ever encountered swept out from the dark interior.

"Whew," he cried, "we've discovered another pole!"

"It's stale air," remarked Quimby.

"You mean the polar atmosphere," replied Magee. "Yes, it is pretty stale. Jack London and Dr. Cook have worked it to death."

"I mean," said Quimby, "this air has been in here alone too long. It's as stale as last week's newspaper. We couldn't heat it with a million fires. We'll have to let in some warm air from outside first."

"Warm air—humph!" remarked Mr. Magee. "Well, live and learn."

The two stood together in a great bare room. When they stepped forward the sound of their shoes on the hard wood seemed the boom that should wake the dead.

"This is the hotel office," explained Mr. Quimby.

At the left of the door was the clerk's desk. Behind it loomed a great safe and a series of pigeonholes for the mail of the guests. Opposite the front door a wide stairway led to a landing halfway up, where the stairs were divorced and went to the right and left in search of the floor above. Mr. Magee surveyed the stairway critically.

"A great place," he remarked, "to show off the talents of your dressmaker, eh, Quimby? Can't you just see the stunning gowns coming down that stair in state and the young men below here agitated in their bosoms?"

"I wouldn't wander round none," he advised. "You might fall down something—or something."

"No, I can't," said Mr. Quimby frankly.

"I can't either, to tell the truth," laughed Billy Magee. He turned up his collar. "It's like picturing a summer girl sitting on an iceberg and swinging her openwork hosiery over the edge. I don't suppose it's necessary to register. I'll go right up and select my apartments."

It was upon a suit of rooms that bore the number seven on their door that Mr. Magee's choice fell. A large parlor with a fireplace that a few blazing logs would cheer, a bedroom, whose bed was destitute of all save mattress and springs, and a bathroom comprised his kingdom.

Mr. Magee inspected his apartment. The windows were all of the low French variety and opened out upon a broad snow covered balcony which was in reality the roof of the first floor veranda. On this balcony Magee stood a moment, watching the trees on Baldpate wave their black arms in the wind and the lights of Upper Asquewan Falls wink knowingly up at him. Then he came inside, and his investigations brought him presently to the tub in the bathroom.

"Fine," he cried—"a cold plunge in the morning before the daily struggle for immortality begins!"

He turned the spigot. Nothing happened.

"I reckon," drawled Mr. Quimby from the bedroom, "you'll carry your cold plunge up from the well back of the inn before you plunge into it. The water's turned off. We can't take chances with busted pipes."

"Of course," replied Magee less blithely. His ardor was somewhat dampened—a paradox—by the failure of the spigot to gush forth a response. "There's nothing I'd enjoy more than carrying eight pails of water upstairs every morning to get up an appetite for—what? Oh, well, the Lord will provide. If we propose to heat up the great American outdoors, Quimby, I think it's time we had a fire."

Soon Quimby came back with kindling and logs, and subsequently a noisy fire roared in the grate.

"I wouldn't wander round none," he advised. "You might fall down something—or something. I been living in these parts off and on for sixty years and more, and nothing like this ever came under my observation before. Howsomever, I guess it's all right if Mr. Bentley says so. I'll come up in the morning and see you down to the train."

"What train?" inquired Mr. Magee.

"Your train back to New York city," replied Mr. Quimby. "Don't try to start back in the night. There ain't no train till morning."

"Ah, Quimby," laughed Mr. Magee, "you taunt me. You think I won't stick it out. But I'll show you. I tell you I'm hungry for solitude."

"That's all right," Mr. Quimby responded. "You can't make three square meals a day off solitude."

"I'm desperate," said Magee. "Henry Cabot Lodge must come to me, I say, with tears in his eyes. Ever see the senator that way? No? It isn't going to be an easy job. I must put it over. I must go deep into the hearts of men up here and write what I find. No more shots in the night. Just the adventure of soul and soul. Do you see? By the way, here's $20, your first week's pay as caretaker of a New York Quixote."

"What's that?" asked Quimby.

"Quixote," explained Mr. Magee, "was a Spanish lad who was a little confused in his mind and went about the country putting up at summer resorts in midwinter."

"I'd expect it of a Spaniard," Quimby said. "Be careful of that fire. I'll be up in the morning." He stowed away the bill Mr. Magee had given him. "I guess nothing will interfere with your lonesomeness. Leastways I hope it won't. Good night."

Mr. Magee bade the man good night and listened to the thump of his boots and the closing of the great front door. From his windows he watched the caretaker move down the road without looking back, to disappear at last in the white night.

Throwing off his great coat, Mr. Magee noisily attacked the fire. The blaze flared red on his strong, humorous mouth, in his smiling eyes. Next, in the flickering half light of suit 7 he distributed the contents of his traveling bags about. On the table he placed a number of new magazines and a few books.

Then Mr. Magee sat down in the big leather chair before the fire and caught his breath.

Yes, here he was, and here was the solitude he had come to find. Mr. Magee looked nervously about, and the smile died out of his gray eyes. For the first time misgivings smote him. Might one not have too much of a good thing? A silence like that of the tomb had descended. He recalled stories of men who went mad from loneliness. What place lonelier than this? The wind howled along the balcony; it rattled the windows. Outside his door lay a great black cave, in summer gay with men and maids, now like Crusoe's island before the old man landed.

"Alone, alone; all, all alone," quoted Mr. Magee. "If I can't think here it will be because I'm not equipped with the apparatus. I will. I'll show the gloomy old critics! I wonder what's doing in New York?"

New York! Mr. Magee looked at his watch. Eight o'clock. The great street was ablaze. The crowds were parading from the restaurants to the theaters. The electric signs were pasting lurid legends on a long suffering sky; the taxis were spraying throats with gasoline; the traffic cop at Broadway and Forty-second street was madly earning his pay. Mr. Magee got up and walked the floor. New York!

Probably the telephone in his rooms was jangling, vainly calling forth to sport with Amaryllis in the shade of the rubber trees Billy Magee—Billy Magee who sat alone in the silence on Baldpate mountain. Few knew of his departure. This was the night of that stupid attempt at theatricals at the Plaza, stupid in itself, but gay, almost giddy, since Helen Faulkner was to be there. This was the night of the dinner to Carey at the club. This was the night—of many diverting things.

He strode to the window and looked down at the few dim lights that proclaimed the existence of Upper Asquewan Falls. Somewhere down there was the Commercial House; somewhere the girl who had wept so bitterly in that gloomy little waiting room. She was only three miles away, and the thought cheered Mr. Magee. After all, he was not on a desert island.

And yet he was alone, intensely, almost painfully, alone—alone in a vast moaning house that must be his only home until he could go back to the gay city with his masterpiece. What a masterpiece! As though with a surgeon's knife it would lay bare the hearts of men. No tricks of plot, no—

MORRISTOWN QUINTET DEFEATED BORO TEAM

N. P. H. S. Lost Out to Speedy Rivals In Hard Fight On Latter's Court.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team met its second reverse of the season yesterday afternoon at Morristown when the school team of that place won a close and exciting game by the score 36 to 28. Although fast, the game became rough at times and the local boys were called for unnecessary roughness. The home team was guilty of many fouls, but Love appeared to have an off-day and could only cage two while Burner tried his hand in this line and added a point to the score. The first half ended with the score standing 15 to 14 in favor of the private school boys.

Hyman Abrams was replaced by Newkirk at the beginning of the last period, the former being ill. The local boys started things again in this half, and before it had progressed very far, were leading their opponents by one point. Shortly after this Van Mater retired, Townley going in at forward, but he was too small to do much shooting or passing against the big opposing guards. Love started some fine work in this period but could not get in touch with his teammates so that he had to make points individually, caging four fine baskets. The home team passed and shot all around the visitors and their weight was partly responsible for the victory although the North Plainfield boys played way below their regular form. Devitilas was the high score man of the game getting seven field goals and eight fouls for a total of twenty-two points.

After the contest the local team was royally entertained and enoyed delightful refreshments.

The score:

BRUGGY AND CLINTON ARE MAKING GOOD IN BASKETBALL

Individual averages published by the secretary of the New York State basketball league show that Jimmy Clinton, the Somerville baseball pitcher, who recently joined the Kingston team, has scored ninety field goals and thirty-four fouls in thirty-nine games for a total of 234 points. Clinton is new at the game and his speedy work during his first games has made him a permanent member of the Kingston aggregation.

Frank Bruggy, the baseball player who performed around the left garden for Plainfield last year, is two places above Clinton in the averages having played forty games with the Gloversville team in which he has scored 116 field goals and twenty-four fouls for a total of 256 points.

"Sportdom Tips"

ROUGH HOUSE IN BASKETBALL.

Although it has not been so noticeable on local courts this season, in nearby cities school boys have become, apparently, indifferent to the rules when playing basketball and it now seems that the expressed determination of not a few principals to bar out the sport will be carried out ere long if there is not a marked change in the attitude of various factions now playing the game. It is really remarkable to what an extent foul playing and the roughest kind of work prevails even among teams of the leading institutions in nearby cities and Plainfield aggregations are not perfect by a long shot. Not only are technical violations of the rules in evidence but mean, underhand tricks are tried and the lack of sportsmanship is very plainly exhibited. Basketball games, with fouls being called continuously, are far from pleasing to the spectator and the parents of those engaged in a sport that engenders such animosity are almost certain to raise obections before long if the game continues as it is now being played. Basketball has been eliminated as a school boy sport in other cities for this same reason and it would not be a surprise to many if someone were to start a similar movement in this section before the close of the season. Every player, as well as the coaches and spectators, know that when a boy pushes, dribbles, and picks up with both hands, pulls, trips, holds, uses a straight arm and hacks, he is committing a foul and the referees should enforce the rules to the letter.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

Local School basketball players have set up remarkable records on out-of-town courts this season but where a game has been played against a local rival it has always resulted in an overwhelming defeat being handed to the private school boys. Leal players went to Morristown and lost to the Morristown school boys (who by the way have not been beaten this season), by a margin of one field goal and many still think that the game should have been a tie. North Plainfield High School played the same team on the same court yesterday afternoon and was trimmed by a count of 36 to 28. If we remember correctly the boroughites walloped the private school youths the latter part of last week. Solve the puzzle.

Bowling is the popular sport in the Columbus Club at the present time and fully fifty members are engaged in the pastime in one way or another. This is some record for a local organization and goes to show just how the game is becoming popularized locally.

Thos three Plainfield High School athletes who have entered the Central meet in Newark Saturday all claim that they are due to win one of the prizes. Optimism is a great thing and it really looks as though at least one of them would cop on this occasion.

Jack Martin's friends are greeting him each day with the following salutation: "Good morning, Jack, have you jumped?" Many there are who believe that Martin would make a popular "Fed."

Speaking of basketball roughness, there is many a follower who is willing to wager a yen or two that the game will be played on padded courts before mnay more moons roll by. Many basketball players are transferred to padded cells after weathering a few years of competition.

Query—What is soccer?

Answer—It's a game played with a ball that ends in a tie.

FOOTBALL STAR SAID TO BE WORKING IN LUMBER CAMP

Howard P. Talman, Rutgers' All-American guard, who disappeared some time ago without letting any of his friends in on it, is said to be working in a lumber camp in Texas. If this is so, Talman should be in great shape for the next football season, on whatever team he plays. Talman's whereabouts have been kept secret since he left Rutgers, but it has been known that he is working.

A few months in a lumber camp should make Talman still more valuable as a football player next fall. During vacations many prominent football men take this method of keeping themselves in condition and hardening up for football.

Capturing two games out of three on the alleys of the New York team the New Brunswick quintet came mighty close to tieing the Newark and Jersey City teams for first place in the Elks' League last night. The match was an interesting one. In the first game the New Yorkers did their best work and accounted for a total of 930, New Brunswick finishing forty-four pins behind. The next game was a real battle all the way, though not marked by as big scores as in the first game. New York, with 847, was only seventeen pins behind. The visitors rolled well in the final and deciding contest and accounted for 915. The New Yorkers were twenty-eight pins behind, with 887. Charley Starr tallied 234 for New York in the final encounter.

GRACE CHURCHBOYS HUNG UP ANOTHER WALLOPING

Playing on their home court last night the Grace church basketball players added another victory to their long string by taking the Mt. Pleasant team into camp by a score of 25 to 9. Although the scoring was small the school boys had decidedly the better of the argument and managed to chalk up sixteen more points than did their country rivals.

Fitch led the scoring for Grace church with a total of eight field goals while Gullberg and Mellick secured the only field goals of the rival forces.

WATCHUNG PINNERS DROPPED ALL THREE

Consistent Rolling Won a Series For the Star of Bethlehem Outfit.

Watchung Council pinners dropped all three of the games rolled in connection with the Knights of Columbus League race to the Star of Bethlehem pinners last night, the visitors running away with each decision in a one-sided fashion. Local bowlers had an off-night last night and the scores chalked up were exceedingly low in each case.

Marks of 176 credited to Connors and L. Cribben offset the low counts of the other three members of the visiting five in the first game and assisted by the low marks hung up by three members of the Plainfield clan the Stars had little trouble in gaining the decision by fifty-seven pins. The second game was even more one-sided and the Bethlehem crew won by 112 pins and followed this up by climbing to a 122 margin in the third.

Connors, of the visiting team, got the high score mark for the series in the third game when he knocked down 221 wooden images.

LATE RALLY WON.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 29.—Although Yale led, 3 to 1, till within three minutes of the close of last night's hockey game with Princeton a superb Tiger rally tied the score with only a minute to play. Two overtime periods of five minutes each were fought. Princeton scoring two goals and winning, 5 to 3.

A CHANGE AT PRINCETON.

Princeton, Jan. 29.—A change in the head of the department of chemistry at Princeton has been made which is regarded as indicating a radical change in the administration of the affairs of the department. Professor Leroy Wiley McCay takes the place of Professor Fred Neher, resigned. It was said the change had to do with this new freedom of study in the university." Professor McCay and Neher have been associated in the work of the department for a number of years.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD HONORS THREE EMPLOYES

Three railroad men, Conductor Frank Wyckoff, Conductor Frank P. Dougherty and Operator Edward P. Snell, have been singled out by the Lehigh Valley railroad for special honor. Of all the thousands of men in the employ of the company, many of them with excellent records, these three have been selected for public commendation by the officials of the railroad. All have shown unusual ability and alertness, and, in consequence, have the highest number of merit marks to their credit. Wyckoff is on the Wyoming Division, Dougherty is on the Mahanoy and Hazleton Division, and Snell is in the interlocking tower at East Waverly, New York, on the Buffalo Division.

THE THREE MEN SPECIALLY HONORED BY THE LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Few people realize what faithful and untiring service railroad men perform, unless it is called to their attention by some spectacular and heroic action, but the history of the performance of these three men in the past few years shows a faithfulness to duty that cannot fail to arouse admiration. Conductor Wyckoff, for instance, has not made a single mistake, even in judgment, for fifteen years. This means he has been wide-awake and alive to his responsibilities every minute of the time. It is also interesting to note of Conductor Wyckoff that it has been difficult for the Lehigh Valley officials to keep a record of his extraordinary services. Whenever he has performed some service worthy of being rewarded by credit marks it has only been discovered through the reports of other men. In the past 145 days he performed sixteen acts of extraordinary service, and in the past three years he has accumulated 155 credit marks.

Conductor Dougherty has run Conductor Wyckoff a close second on credit marks, with fourteen cases in 139 days. He has been in the service of the Lehigh Valley railroad a much shorter time than Conductor Wyckoff and can well hope to make another such record, as he has already proved himself second to no one in alertness and in being always on the job.

In commending Operator Snell, the Lehigh Valley railroad officials place a little extra filling, perhaps, as he entered the service of the railroad as a boy of fifteen and has always worked for it. He was born in Waverly, New York, and has lived there all his life. As operator in the interlocking tower at East Waverly watching the movement of trains, his eye has become trained to note defects and his quick mind to take action in time to avert trouble. It is for that, in particular, that he has been given high rank in the army of good railroad men.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

be wisely expended it must be spent by those most interested—women as well as men. "No State can afford to deny itself the help of its women." Government is no longer merely a question of protection and defense; it is becoming more and more public housekeeping, occupied in questions of social betterment.

Mrs. Breckenridge said: "From the day when the Kentucky women risked their lives carrying the water to the men in the fort at Lexington, that the valuable lives of the men might not be lost by exposure during the Indian fight, there has never been a day when the women of Kentucky have not responded to the call of the need of their men."

Men, by reason of economic weakness today, can no longer protect their women as they used, and as they would wish. Conditions have changed, and women who labor cannot now be protected until they get the basic right by which all other rights are secured.

Rabbi Wise urged New Jersey to "complete the work of Democracy," that would not be completed until women had the vote. He said he rested his case on expediency and that the proof lay in the already suffrage States. "Never," he said, "will the suffrage law be repealed in any State where it has been given. Democracy is not a failure, as some would have us believe, but we will have a finer and truer Democracy when the ballot is given to women. I do want the 8,000,000 working women to have the protection of the ballot." He said to the women: "You've got to be citizens whether you want to or not. It is a duty"—there is no reason why the comfortable woman should be excused from it.

Rabbi Wise quoted the three latest anti-suffrage logics: Godlessness, feminism and socialism, and disposed of them. In referring to socialism he spoke of the election at Los Angeles where it was the women who prevented the Socialist regime and voted down single tax.

He then took up a number of objection of "protected" women to voting and showed their groundlessness. When he quoted Israel Zangwill to the effect that "Domestic discord has existed in the home a long time without woman suffrage," loud hisses came from the anti gallery.

Mrs. Yarde Breeze, formerly of Plainfield, the State president of the League Opposed to Woman Suffrage presented the speakers for the opposition. She referred to the growth of her society and the new Men's League Opposed to Woman Suffrage and claimed, with other of her speakers that the majority of women do not want the vote which is being thrust upon them, and entered the protest of her society to submitting the question as to a State amendment to the voters of the State.

She first presented former Chancellor Magie, who said: "If the women want the vote, let us give it to them but how should we know?" and seemed to think a referendum should be submitted to the women before further action should be taken.

Mrs. John R. Emery, of Morristown, then spoke on "The True Type of Women." She said in part, "We know ourselves to be singularly well protected by the existing laws of our country and of our State in regard to marriage and divorce, rights of property, personal freedom and personal privilege, child labor, with all educational and industrial laws." To those who know much of Federal and State law this seemed curious.

Mrs. Oliphant, the chief speaker of the anti-suffragists, gave a most fearful arraignment of the sex to which she belongs. She claimed to have gotten it from suffrage literature but owing to an evident misunderstanding in interpretation of some of what she had read, she had seen dragons where only domestic animals exist.

In a long quotation from a very radical and extreme article on feminism by a certain Englishman name W. L. George, some very unpleasant views were expressed. That they are suffrage views Mrs. Oliphant was mistaken in supposing.

She closed her speech by saying that the antis stood for conservation of the home and the suffragists for sex-revolution and disruption of the home, and asked the legislators to choose between them.

In presenting the speakers for the rebuttal Mrs. Colby quietly remarked that most of the suffragists present had very happy homes and children and that in New Zealand, an old suffrage country, the birth rate was higher than in any other country.

Mrs. Joost made a very short speech urging the legislators against the amendment.

Former Assemblyman Matthews spoke last, after Miss Minnie Bronson. He made some criticisms upon Rabbi Wise because his views differed from those of Rabbi Foster, of New York, who had made a very good plea for the antis in an excellent manner. It was the old plea of the home, but was as well made as could be, and he praised woman's indirect influence as the strongest there is.

Rabbi Wise had gone when Mr. Matthews spoke, but he had made a very telling speech in rebuttal before, saying that it seemed strange for people who praised our Democratic government as it stands today to object to submitting to the vote of the people a question that could be settled only by the people.

After luncheon, at which various parties, both suffrage and anti and some a mixture of both, partook together, the State League for Woman Suffrage held a meeting at the W. C. T. U. rooms, 214 East State street. The State league has grown 200 per cent. in the past year.

It was much regretted by the Plainfield contigent that their president, Mrs. C. L. Riley, was unable to be with them because of the illness of one of her children.

OPEN-AIR SCHOOL BENEFIT TO HEALTH

Additional Statistics Show That Institution Is Here to Stay.

According to specialists studying in the open air not only puts children far ahead of pupils in indoor classes, as shown by the Courtis test in arithmetic, which was published in the Plainfield Daily Press on Tuesday, but is a distinct benefit to the health of children, it is said.

Besides reports of comparative mental tests with open air and indoor pupils, which showed the open air classes surpassing the other by as much as 33 per cent. in some tests, the Anti-Tuberculosis League has received reports of the physical well-being of children studying in the open air school maintained by the league.

Dr. Edward S. Krans submitted the report. Here are some of the results of open air studying, combined with the hygenic oversight given the children:

Average gain in weight of each of nine children in school 29 weeks, 10½ pounds; weekly gain for each child, 1-3 pounds; twenty-two pupils gained more than 5 pounds, six gained more than 10 pounds, one gained more than 20¾ pounds and one gained more than 17¾ pounds.

The average gain in weight per child during each term was as follows: First term (8 weeks), 3 1-3 pounds; second term (6 weeks), 2 1-3 pounds; third term (15 weeks), 2 1-3 pounds.

The children made an average weekly gain of somewhat less than one-half pounds each. Temporary illness cost two children the loss of one-half pounds weight, and in other terms individual children lost weight not exceeding one pound each.

In fact, the open air school each three terms aggregating twenty-nine weeks closed with 211¾ pounds more of pupils than it began. Such loss of weight as the children suffered is attributable to home conditions that the school could not correct, and to restricted diet in winter.

The officers of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, including William S. Tyler, president; Leigaton Calkins, second vice-president; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, secretary; Dr. F. E. Dabois, secretary, and James F. Murray, treasurer, have arranged that full reports of the operation and results of the open air school shall be sent to the Board of Education, as it is obvious that the pupils having the advantages of open air instruction are leading the pupils of Plainfield's public schools.

The Anti-Tuberculosis League has supported and directed the open air school, admitting no children with active tuberculosis, but all having instruction conducted in line with the grade work of the schools, so that children quitting the open air school might rejoin graded classes. There is a waiting list of children seeking admission to the open air classes.

MARION GAYNOR.

The wedding of Marion Gaynor, the sixteen-year-old daughter of the late Mayor Gaynor, to Ralph Heyward Isham of Elizabeth, N. J., was solemnized at Trinity church, New York. The wedding comes as a big surprise, inasmuch as it was understood that the rumor of such an engagement had no foundation when first it became current several weeks ago. The license, which was taken out Tuesday, required the signing of a consent to the marriage by Mrs. Augusta C. Gaynor, wife of the late mayor, since her daughter is two years under age. Mr. Isham is a graduate of Yale and gave his occupation in the license as a student. He is twenty-six years old, a son of Henry C. Isham, a wealthy resident of Santa Barbara, Cal.

KAISER SENDS FIRST WIRELESS TO WILSON

Message Is Transmitted Without Any Relaying.

Washington, Jan. 29. Direct communication by wireless between Germany and the United States without any relaying has been established, and the first message ever transmitted by this direct means was sent by Emperor William to President Wilson.

The emperor's message was received at the White House, having been sent over land telegraph lines from Tuckerton, N. J., where it was taken at the wireless station established there. E. E. Mayer, chief engineer of the Tuckerton station, who forwarded the emperor's message to Washington, requested that the answer be sent by cable, as the Tuckerton station was not completed for transmission purposes.

Following is the message as it was received at the White House:

Tuckerton, N. J., Jan. 29.

The President, Washington.

The following wireless message just received directly from the new transatlantic radio station in Eilvese, Germany, by means of the Goldschmidt system:

"President Wilson, Washington—I send you my best greetings, hoping that the wireless communication will become a new link between our countries.

"WILHELM."

Owing to the birthday of the German emperor, it was supposed at first that his wireless message was sent in response to the congratulations cabled to him by President Wilson. A reading of the message, however, convinced officials that the emperor's purpose in sending the wireless dispatch was to emphasize the establishment of direct radio communication between the German empire and the United States.

Messages have been transmitted by wireless for longer distances, but the message sent by Emperor William to President Wilson was the longest sent by an organization intending to do a commercial business.

The emperor's message was sent to the state department in order that a suitable response might be prepared there. This response will be sent by cable in accordance with the suggestion of Chief Engineer Mayer.

SEEKS OIL LANDS FOR NAVY.

Secretary Daniels Holds Conference to Locate Best Property.

Washington, Jan. 29. Secretary of the Navy Daniels had a conference with officials of the bureau of mines with a view to ascertaining the location of oil lands most available in the United States for exploitation for the benefit of the navy. This conference was preliminary to an extended investigation to be made by the interior department looking to the acquisition of oil lands for the benefit of the navy.

The navy already has lands in California, but no oil can be taken from them, as they are in litigation in which the department of justice is interested.

THREE ARRESTS IN ROSEVILLE CASE

Directors and Former Employee In Custody.

CHARGES ARE KEPT SILENT

Contained In Indictments Which Have Been Handed Into Court by Grand Jury—Public Will Not Know Accusations Until All Arrests Are Made, Which Will Probably Be Saturday.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 29.—Two directors and one former employee of the Roseville Trust company, which failed last August after being looted of more than $500,000, were arrested here following indictments. More arrests are expected. The defendants will be arraigned before Chief Justice Gummere on Saturday—there are said to be seventy of them—and at that time the indictments will be made public.

The men arrested are John B. Scarlett, a director of the institution and a contractor; Harry W. Foster, another director, and Charles N. Mindnich, formerly a bookkeeper for the trust company. They were taken before Thomas McClelland, clerk of the court, where their attorney demanded that the nature of the charge be made known to them.

County Prosecutor Louis Hood replied: "The charges are contained in indictments which have been handed into court by the grand jury, but which will be kept from the public until all arrests in the case are made. That probably will be on Saturday."

In the case of Scarlett bail was fixed at $10,000, and $5,000 was named for Foster and Mindnich.

Among the others indicted are two or three men who live outside the city. The prosecutor has communicated with their attorney and asked him to have his clients in court on Saturday.

Raymond E. Smith, formerly secretary and treasurer of the trust company, has been in jail for several months in connection with the wrecking of the institution. The prosecutor would not say whether or not he is indicted.

The trust company has been reorganized as the Mutual Bank of Roseville. The new officers and principal stockholders met and decided to open the bank for business on Feb. 10. More than 90 per cent of the depositors have assigned their claims to the new bank.

CUTS OFF MANY JERSEY JOBS.

Attorney General Says Board Members Can't Appoint Themselves.

Kearny, N. J., Jan. 29.—An opinion was received from Edmund Wilson, the retiring attorney general of New Jersey, that it was illegal for the Kearny board of health to appoint three of its members to salaried positions. This means a loss of jobs to certain influential members of boards of education, health, etc., in many municipalities throughout the state.

The opinion was requested by Health Commissioners Nevins, Kennedy and Frank Odendahl, who were frozen out by their five colleagues at the organization meeting of the Kearny board of health on Jan. 1. The majority defeated a pet project of Kennedy and Odendahl to combine the offices of secretary and registrar of vital statistics and named Commissioner Robert England as secretary, Commissioner Charles Schiller as registrar and Dr. A. A. Mutter, another member, as health physician.

MAYOR WARS ON HACKMEN.

Passaic Executive's Wife Victim of Exorbitant Rates—Now Campaign.

Passaic, N. J., Jan. 29.—Aided by her husband, Mayor George N. Seger of this city, Mrs. Josephine B. Seger has started a campaign against cab drivers at the railroad station who are in the habit of charging exorbitant rates to late arrivals. The attention of the mayor was called to this state of affairs by an incident which happened this week to his wife.

Mrs. Seger arrived here on the last train from New York and called James Cox, a hackman. He said his charge would be $1.50. The rate fixed by the law is 25 cents. Mrs. Seger called a policeman and when she explained her identity the hackman was quickly placed under arrest. He was fined $10. The mayor has announced his intention of prosecuting those hack drivers who swindle passengers by charging an illegal rate for transportation.

LEAVES $10,000 TO CONVENT.

Jersey City Woman Remembers Madison Institution In Will.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 29.—In accordance with the will of the late Mrs. Theresa A. S. Sheridan of this city Miss Mary J. Watt and Mrs. Ellen J. R. Shea, sisters, will receive legacies of $18,000 and $14,000, respectively, besides property in this city and Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y. The will also directs the sale of traction company stock, the proceeds to be divided as follows:

The College of St. Elizabeth at Convent Station, Madison, $10,000; St. Joseph's Infant asylum at Montclair, $3,000, St. Michael's Orphan asylum, this city, $1,000; Trappist Fathers of Kentucky, $2,000; St. Joseph's R. C. church, this city, $1,000; St. Joseph's hospital of Paterson, $500.

PLANNING FOR M. E. CONFERENCE

Question as to Who Will Succeed Rev. Dr. Randolph as District Superintendent.

HAS SERVED SIX YEARS

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, Who Has Been Summoned for Second Church Trial May Not Appear at the Coming Session.

Several ministers in the Newark Conference have been mentioned as a successor to Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, of this city, district superintendent of the Elizabeth district, whose six years term expires this year, and who by a law of the church cannot be reappointed. Among those who have been more or less prominently talked of for the place are Rev. Ralph B. Urmy, of Morristown; Rev. Warren B. Neff, of Hoboken; Rev. A. J. Turner, of Passaic; Rev. W. E. Palmer, of Perth Amboy, and Rev. G. G. Vogel, of Newark, either one of whom is well qualified for the duties.

Rev. Dr. Randolph was appointed to his present position at the time the Newark Conference met in Plainfield six years ago next March, and very largely through his efforts all of the churches in the district have made substantial progress, spiritually and financially, and if it were possible no doubt they would all like to have him continue as superintendent.

One of the important things scheduled for the annual session of the Newark Conference in March is the case of Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the deposed pastor of the Martinsville, Springdale and Mt. Horeb churches, who will be summoned to appear for a second trial for conduct unbecoming a minister. It is the general opinion, however, that the former pastor will not seek another trial and will fail to attend the conference. He was given one church trial, when he was suspended from pastoral duties, after a grand jury had failed to indict him. Later he was arrested a second time, indicted by the grand jury and convicted. He took an appeal and the case remains undecided at present. In the meantime the case was again brought up in the conference and it was decided that MacRorie should be requested to stand a second church trial at the coming session.

Many of the ministers of the conference have expressed an opinion that there was a miscarriage of justice at the first trial, and that the conference failed in its duty in not then dropping MacRorie as a member. He was represented at that time by "Count" John K. Van Nest and Horace Codington, neither one of whom it is said, can practice in the courts of the State.

MacRorie has been continuing to make his home at Mt. Horeb finding such employment as he could. Since his last trial, his chief supporter and bondsman, Manning F. Codington, has died and another bondsman was necessary.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION GIVEN BY MRS. W. B. NASH

Mrs. William B. Nash, of Grant avenue, will give a reception at her home today from 4 to 7 o'clock, to which she has issued about two hundred invitations. The decorations will be especially attractive, including spring flowers and jonquils, which will be used extensively throughout the parlors, reception room and dining-room.

Mrs. Nash will be assisted at the reception by a number of young women, including Mrs. Reynale Pickering, Mrs. W. S. Muller and Mrs. Richard Duyckinck, of New York; Mrs. Lewis A. Williams, Jr., Mrs. George L. Babcock, Miss Fleming, Miss Barbara Fleming, Mrs. Loomis Dana, Mrs. J. I. Taylor, Mrs. Edward Suffern, Mrs. Harry McGee, Mrs. Donald McGee, Mrs. Brown Rolston and Miss Elizabeth McGee.

HONORS FOR LOCAL MEN.

Samuel Silbert, of West Front street, is an honor member of the junior class in Rutgers College, and George Stanley Robins, of East Second street, has achieved the honor of best soldier, according to the Student Catalogue, which has just been issued for this school year. Harold W. Schenck, of West Front street, has been admitted to the Phi Beta Kappa and Robins was awarded the Vander Poel Fellowship in chemistry.

"NEW MEMBERS' DAY."

"New Members' Day," will be observed at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, on Sunday. Miss Corbin, of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Elizabeth district of the Newark Conference, will speak at the morning service.

PATRONAGE FROM A NEW ANGLE

Congressman Tuttle Tells What He Intends to Do so Long as Term Lasts.

DEFENDS CIVIL SERVICE

Fifth District Representative Wants It Understood That He Will Stand For What Is Right Regardless of Political Advantage.

The attitude of Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., of this district, concerning the distribution of patronage is emphasized in the controversy growing out of the appointment at Plainfield. He refuses to be put in a position of personal or political embarrassment. He has taken advantage of this purely local situation to reiterate his often expressed view in the matter of distributing patronage, views that are not entirely new but from a new political angle at which Mr. Tuttle arrived early. "I shall view all appointments upon which I am called to advise or recommend from the angle of my obligation to the government, the public to be served, and my own sense of personal and party responsibility." That is the new angle and it is repeated with unmistakable pride throughout the district that its representative arrived at that angle ahead of the crowd.

The public who follow the activities of Congress with intelligent interest have had something akin to personal pride in Congressman Tuttle's discharge of responsible duties in the great workshop of Congress—the committee room—and in the Committee of the Whole House on the floor.

The largest business organization in the world and one of the greatest concerns of legislation is the Post Office Department. His personal influence in shaping the great post office appropriation bill passed last Saturday was freely acknowledged in the debate on this measure and in the most complimentary way. To him was referred the matter of increased compensation to railways for transporting mail and he became the committee authority on that important matter. On final passage Mr. Tuttle defeated the amendment for government ownership of mail cars on a point of order, after fighting it in committee and on the floor of the House.

His sturdiest and best fight, however, was against the raid on the civil service by taking assistant postmasters out of the classified service.

Congressman Tuttle was alone among Democrats in fighting this raid in committee. He went on record against the proposition as soon as it was made and before the Postmaster-General, at the suggestion of the President, fulminated against it. His emphatic proposition was to extend the protection of the civil service to the postmaster rather than withdraw it from the assistant. It is from these facts of record come confirmation of the sincerity of Mr. Tuttle's expressed conviction in the Plainfield matter that his obligation is first to the Government and the people directly to be served.

Perhaps the most important commission now studying the great problems of the postal service is the commission composed of two Senators, two ex-Senators, and two Representatives, to investigate the subject of postage on second class mail matter and compensation for the transportation of the mails. Mr. Tuttle was made one of the commissioners on the part of the House by Speaker Clark on the personal recommendation of Chairman Moon and Leader Underwood. It was made in recognition of his service on the House Post Office Committee. The great problem that confronts that Commission is the adjustments of rates and methods of paying common carriers for transporting the mails. This question has been referred to four other commissions and debated since 1873. For thirty-five years commissions have failed to formulate an adjustment in a satisfactory bill. This commission has reached an adjustment that Mr. Tuttle believes will be satisfactory to the transportation companies and to the public.

"I am confident," said Representative Tuttle to a reporter "that an equitable and workable basis is found in the bill that is about ready to be reported. It will undoubtedly have the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Post Office Department and all transportation authorities. It will be understandable by the public, fair and just to the transportation companies and equitable to all interested."

Thus it may be seen that Representative Tuttle is a busy man; that he is bringing to public duties the acumen and experience of the man successful in business affairs; that he has drawn a fine distinction between public duty and accidental pap.

CONSOLIDATION COMMISSION

Board of Trade Urges Its Appointment By Mayors of City and Borough.

MOST IMPORTANT NOW

President William Jeffery Says That Nine Out of Ten Men in City and Borough Want to See Communities Made One, Taking in Suburbs.

Believing in a policy of expansion and keenly alive to the advantages that would accrue to this community through consolidation, efforts are to be made by the Board of Trade, it was learned today to have established a "Greater Plainfield Commission." Members of the Plainfield Board of Trade will be asked at their next meeting to pass such a resolution which will be in the form of a petition to Mayor Percy H. Stewart of this city and Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield. If a Commission is named the Board of Trade will lend its support in every possible way.

The promoters of the enterprise are said to believe that the large property owners and others in the respective municipalities, who are held to be the economic trustees of those citizens less favored, should be given the opportunity of considering the proposition in its every detail before it is finally offered to the voters for their approval and acceptance.

"Everything, so far as the Board of Trade is concerned," said President William Jeffrey, today, "is to be subordinated to the all important project of annexation of the borough of North Plainfield and Plainfield and the amalgamation and consolidation of these two municipalities.

"Very often a Board of Trade is apt to be led astray, so to speak, by persons who, while apparently sincere and well meaning, are in reality trying to 'put something over on someone,' to use a slang expression.

JERSEY CENTRAL OFFICIAL TO LEAVE

C. W. Huntington Will Probably Be Succeeded by E. E. Kerwin.

The resignation of C. W. Huntington, of Elizabeth, as general superintendent of the New Jersey Central, to take effect February 1, when he will become vice president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad, with offices in Minneapolis, has given rise to rumors of other changes among the officials of the New Jersey Central.

E. E. Kerwin, also of Elizabeth, as superintendent of the road, occupies a position next to Mr. Huntington, and there is belief among the railroad men that he will be promoted to the latter's place. In this case it is not known who would succeed Mr. Kerwin. The name of Councilman A. D. Edgar, of this city, who is trainmaster for the road, has been mentioned in connection with the promotion, but no official announcements have been made concerning proposed changes.

JOHN SMITH IS CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

John Smith, colored, of Plainfield avenue, will be arraigned in the city court Monday, charged with cruelty to animals. The police say he is the ashman that on Wednesday night abandoned a dying horse in the Watchung avenue dumps, leaving it there to die. The equine was noticed by a passerby and Patrolman Bader was sent to shoot the animal. Before ending the equine's misery a veterinary surgeon examined the horse and said its poor condition was due to starvation.

TWO BOLD BAD YOUTHS GIVE POLICE TROUBLE

Former Plainfield High School Student One of Two Locked up in Elizabeth.

Charged by the police of Elizabeth with being members of a gang of gunmen, Edward Quinn, 19 years old, of Dunellen, and James Belasco, 23 years old, of Bound Brook, were committed to the county jail for a period of ninety days by Judge James P. Mahon in the Elizabeth police court yesterday. Quinn and Belasco went to Elizabeth Wednesday night for the purpose of attending a dance and it was while they were seated around a table with a number of others that six policeman made a descent on the gang and corraled Quinn and Belasco who, it is alleged, were carrying concealed weapons and had threatened early in the evening to "shoot up the place." The arrests were made early yesterday morning and when the prisoners were searched at headquarters Quinn carried a Colt revolver of .32 calibre, inscribed with the name of Robert Fitzsimmons, and Belasco had a huge razor in an inner pocket of his coat which he attempted to throw away when arrested.

Officer Coughlan, who asisted in making the arrest, declared that the prsioners had announced their intention of starting something in the dance hall and added that if he, Coughlan, butted in they would compel him to run for his life.

When arraigned in court Quinn, a mere boy, was penitent while Belasco assumed a defiant air and refused to talk. Friends of the Dunellen youth appeared to intercede in his behalf asking for clemency because of his age, but Judge Mahon said he wanted time to inquire further into the details of the case and imposed the heavy sentence. Quinn has been associated with Robert Fitzsimmons, Jr., of Dunellen, for some time past and he claims that he borrowed the revolver to kill his dog and forgot to return it before going to Elizabeth. When taken from him the gun was unloaded. The weapon bore the inscription "to Robert Fitzsimmons from F. G. McNally." During the past few months the prizefighter has missed numerous valuable from his home in Dunellen and the investigation to be carried on by the police of Elizabeth may reveal the gang that has been operating successfully in that village.

Quinn, until last year, was a student at the Plainfield High School and is well known in Dunellen, where he takes an active part in athletic contests and trains with Robert Fitzsimmons on the Dunellen farm.

REV. DR. HERVEY WOOD GIVES SCIENTIFIC LECTURE

Before a large and interested audience, Rev. Dr. Hervey Wood, of New York, gave a scientific temperance lecture at Temple Baptist church last night. The lecture was attended by members of the Sunday-school and their friends. The lecturer illustrated his talk with fifty handsome slides which showed the effect of alcohol upon the human body.

Historic scenes of England and Scotland were also exhibited by Dr. Wood, who gave excellent descriptions of the various places shown. Dr. Wood has an excellent delivery and is an interesing and forceful speaker. He is temperance secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention, the headquarters of which is in New York city.

SEES PERIL FROM JAPANESE NATION

"CURRENT EVENTS"

Thinks Countries of the World Have Grievance Against United States, Especially Russia, Canada, Mexico and Japan.

Predicting that the United States would sooner or later become embroiled with Japan, Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, in addressing the women of Plainfield yesterday afternoon on "Current Events" in the Hartridge Auditorium, rebuked the Japanese as a class, declaring that their courtesy and apparent good manners were but an outward veneer and that they were, in reality, disagreeable and wholly unlovely.

"The countries of the world seem to feel that they have some sort of a grievance against the United States," said Miss Richards. "The relations of the United States and Great Britain in regard to the Panama Canal tolls, controversy between Washington and the Japenese government at Tokio over the California alien land ownership laws and President Wilson's attitude and policy towards Mexico, all tend to militate against this country in the eyes of many foreign governments.

"Russia has a prononunced grievance against the United States and has long been embittered because of this country's abrogation of the treaty of amity. At the present time President Wilson is seriously considering the making of a prospective new treaty with Russia with a view of ending the much discussed and vexatious Jewish passport question. Today, owing to our having no treaty with the Russian government American gentiles traveling in that country do so at their own risk and it is extremely hazardous, it is said, for a Jew to journey in that country as it is well known that the Russians do not like the Jews and have no

SCHOOL WORK FOR PARENTS' BENEFIT

Pupils Gave Demonstration of Stenography Before Parent Teacher Association.

One of the best attended meetings ever conducted under the auspices of the Plainfield High School Parent-Teacher Association was held in the library of the school last night, when a program of unusual interest was presented, three of those connected with the teaching staff of the school giving instructive talks on the work in which they hold a special interest.

J. C. Evans, the commercial department head, was present with six of his honor pupils who gave a practical demonstration of stenography for the benefit of the parents. A speed of 130 words a minute was developed in new matter and a net record of fifty-eight words a minute was set on the typewriter by the students.

Charles R. Bostwick, the manual training instructor, outlined the work of that branch and described the domestic science opportunities offered by the Plainfield schools at the present time. He told of the subjects being taught in the domestic science class and dwelt particularly on the subject of food values which the pupils are taking up this year.

Miss Addie Parker Jackson, physical instructor in the Plainfield public schools, told of the graded work that is being carried on by her and the value of physical training as a compulsory subject. Miss Jackson described the relation of physical work to the pupil's work in school and told of the corrective work that has been accomplished here.

Following each of the talks an informal discussion was held and the parents asked a number of questions Mrs. J. C. Evans, chairman of the committee on literature, was in charge of a table of books recommended by William D. Murray and the parents inspected these works.

The session closed with a conference between the parents and teachers when the former were received in the various class rooms and the progress being made by each pupil discussed. The pupils who gave the stenographic demonstration were Rae Cantor, Mary Kilbride, Rose Davidson, Hazel Cronce, Ellen Sandberg and Jane Brewer.

BUCHANAN BURIED ALONGSIDE WIFE

Died Last Night Following Shot Self Inflected Yesterday Afternoon.

UNCONSCIOUS TO END

Had Brooded Over Wife's Death One Year Ago Yesterday, and Ended Life On Her Grave—Left Note For Those Who Found Body.

Walter Buchanan, the Mount Vernon man who, suffering from melancholy, due to the death of his wife a year ago, shot and killed himself at her grave yesterday, will lie beside her in Hillside cemetery tonight. Death came to Mr. Buchanan at 7:20 o'clock last night at Muhlenberg Hospital. He survived the shot which he fired into his temple about seven hours. Owing to the location of the bullet, which was imbedded in his brain, it was impossible for the surgeons who examined and attended him to probe for it.

County Physician F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, was notified by the hospital authorities of Mr. Buchanan's death. He gave a permit for the removal of the body to a local undertaking establishment.

Buchanan lapsed into consciousness immediately after he had fired a bullet into his brain. He remained unconscious until his death, all efforts of the hospital doctors to revive him being futile. His brother-in-law, Clarence Thorn, of Park avenue, was with him when he died.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, of West Front street.

Evidencing the fact that Mr. Buchanan had determined to end his life, and that he had journeyed to Plainfield for that specific purpose, on the anniversary of his wife's death is the note which the authorities found in his pocket when he was taken to the hospital. It read:

"This act was committed by my own hand. Should any person be in the vicinity when my body is found don't blame them."

Mr. Buchanan's wife was a daughter of Guillermo Thorn, of Watchung avenue, this city. Before firing the fatal shot yesterday afternoon, Mr. Buchanan wired his two brothers in Canada to come here at once as something terrible had happened. The brothers will attend the funeral this afternoon.

RETURNS HOME AFTER ATTENDING FUNERAL

Mrs. M. H. Ewart, of Fairview avenue, returned yesterday from Ithaca, Mich., where she attended the funeral and burial of her brother, Frank H. Horr, a prominent business man of that place. Mr. Horr died at Pasadena, Cal., one week after the death of his mother, Mrs. Roswell G. Horr, formerly of this city, who passed away at Whitesboro, N. Y. He had been ill for four years, but his condition did not become serious until six months ago. Beside Mrs. Ewart, Mr. Horr leaves a wife and daughter, another sister, Mrs. F. W. Hebard, of Whitesboro, N. Y., formerly of Plainfield, and a brother, Rollin A. Horr, of Duluth, Minn.

Mrs. Ewart had only just returned from Ithaca following the burial of her mother there, when she was summoned back by her brother's demise. The ordeal has been a most trying one and has elicited heartfelt sympathy from her many friends.

JOSEPH T. KELLY PASSES AWAY AFTER DAY'S ILLNESS

Joseph T. Kelly died yesterday at his home, 711 South Second street, after a day's illness. He was 36 years old, a former resident of Dunellen, and had lived in Plainfield for the last five years. The funeral will be held at the home of his father, Bartholomew Kelly, on Madison avenue, Dunellen, at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and at St. Mary's R. C. church, in Plainfield, where a requiem mass will be celebrated for the repose of his soul at 9:45 o'clock. Mr. Kelly was a parishioner of that church. He was employed by the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company, of Dunellen, and was an iron worker by trade. He leaves four sisters.

MANY LOST WHEN MONROE SANK

SOME WERE SAVED

Boats Collided in Heavy Fog and Monroe, Cut in Two, Sunk in Twenty Minutes—Accident Near Norfolk, Va.—Officers Saved.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 30.—Forty-nine lives were lost early this morning, when the Old Dominion line steamer Monroe, bound from Norfolk to New York, was sunk in a collision during a dense fog with the Merchants and Minters Steamer Nantucket, off Hog Island, at 1:30 a. m. The loss was both in passengers and crew, 23 of the former having gone down, and 24 or more of the latter. The Monroe was struck amidships, and cut nearly in two.

The Nantucket saved 85 persons, according to wireless messages sent out by the Nantucket soon after the accident, Captain Johnson, of the Monroe being among them. There was a passenger list of 46 and a crew of 70 on the ill-fated vessel.

When the crash came the passengers and many of the crew were asleep in their bunks, and almost before all were awakened the Monroe sank, being completely submerged within twenty minutes. Passengers who were saved were compelled to leap into the sea and were then picked up by life boats from the Nantucket. The latter vessel was seriously damaged and was compelled to seek anchorage at Winter Quarter Lightship. The Steamship Hamilton stood by the Nantucket to be of service in emergency.

As soon as word was received here of the accident the revenue cutter Onondaga was dispatched to the scene and reached there about 9 o'clock. The wrecking tug I. J. Merritt also started at once to the assistance of the Nantucket.

The first word came by wireless from the Nantucket to the operator at Virginia Beach, but weather conditions made the apparatus work poorly, and for several hours only meagre details were obtained.

The Monroe sailed from Norfolk at 7 o'clock last night, with passengers and freight, while the Nantucket started from Boston.

Official advices sent to President Walker, of the Old Dominion line, were that 47 lives were lost, including 23 passengers and 24 of the crew. In addition to Captain Johnson all of the officers were saved except Second Engineer Dately. That the death list was not greater was due to the prompt work of the officers of the Nantucket, who had lifeboats lowered at once to pick up the survivors thrown in the water. The vessels were going in opposite directions when the crash occurred, and were traveling at reduced speed because of the fog.

James O'Connell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and a member of the new Federal Industrial Relations Commission, was a passenger on the Monroe and is reported saved. There was also a theatrical troupe on board, many of whom were lost.

New York, Jan. 30.—Estimates by officials of the Old Dominion Line vary as to the passenger list on the Monroe. General Passenger Agent J. J. Brown said that he had received work that the passenger list was composed of forty-six first class and eight second class travelers, with a crew of eighty-three. Captain James Leyland estimated forty first-class, six second class and seventy crew. He said that he had learned that forty-six persons were lost and that seventy were saved. The passenger list is substantially as follows: Mrs. W. L. Balton, Newark, N. J.; W. C. Clausen, Milwaukee, Wis.; E. G. Brown, New York; Mr. Budwig, New York; Lieut. P. B. Curtis, U. S. A.; F. E. C. Davis, Brooklyn; G. H. Davids, New York; E. Hamburger, New York; J. Edwards, U. S. N.; R. Flanagan, Brooklyn; Mrs. D. Gibson, New York; Edward Gorman, Philadelphia; J. Haskell, Cortland, N. Y.; Miss Haviland, Mr. Jelleff, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Warlow, Mr. Moore, Mr. Maun, Miss McCombs, Miss Seville, Mr. Tillett and Mr. Vernon, all of the Macaria Theatrical Company; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Harrington, Bridgeport, Conn.; W. H. Ingram, Sumpter, S. C.; E. P. Lyons, New York; A. F. McNair, Buffalo; C. Nylan, New York; E. J. Newby, U. S. N.; J. Okatamate, Japan; James O'Connell, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Polle, Gray, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ray, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rollins, Lawrenceville, Va.; W. Snyder, New York; R. Van Winkle, Nutley, N. J.; Mrs. T. J. Woods, Norfolk, Va.; D. Wagner, U. S. M. C.; G. Williamson, New York; J. Williamson, New York; J. Gilbert Zack, Smith, M. Bolen, C. Roper, Louise Scott and J. PERIL IN JAPANESE hesitation in saying so, or in persecuting and torturing them.

"President Wilson but recently told callers that while he was giving deep consideration to the Russian treaty matter, formal negotiations looking to a new commercial treaty would await the arrival in St. Petersburg of Ambassador Pindell.

"Mexico is our nearest neighbor on the south. Our troubles with Mexico are acute, our fear of embroilment great. There is not a little feeling on the part of the administration at Washington that because of so many foreign nations being embittered against us it might be possible for one or more to combine with our Mexican neighbors to the detriment of our country.

"Think of the countries that feel that they have just grievances against the United States. There is England and Russia in Europe, and Columbia in South America, situated on the northwest shoulder of the map. Ever since Panama, formerly one of the States of Columbia, was dissevered during the administration of former President Roosevelt, the Columbian government has been much incensed and refuses to become reconciled to the existing situation. Columbia has a claim for a large cash indemnity against our country for the taking of Panama as its representatives term the recognition of the new republic by us and has been knocking at the doors of our treasury ever since in an effort to collect from Uncle Sam.

"Practically all of the Latin American countries are suspicious of us and have a hostile attitude, particularly since our Mexican troubles. These countries deeply resent the attitude of the United States against Mexico and Columbia.

"To the north of us lie Canada and British Columbia. While Canada is ostensibly on friendly terms with us yet she has a grievance. Canada's grievance is over the Panama Canal tolls. The rate of toll will be $1.10 for every ton of freight that is shipped through the canal. United States vessels will not pay the toll and it is because of this fact that England has taken up Canada's grievance and made it her own, claiming that the United States has violated the provisions of the Hays-Pauncefote treaty which provided that there should never be any discrimination as between nations. This country denies any treaty violation on the ground that only United States vessels are to be allowed to pass through the Panama Canal free.

"Most serious of all grievances, however, is held to be that of Japan. This is largely due to the passage by California of the alien land law. Had Japan been in a position to float a great war loan it is very likely that war would have been declared against us long since. Ever since the Russian-Japanese war, the Japanese have been arrogant. Japan is believed to have cast covetous eyes at our possessions in the Philippines, in the Samoan group and in Hawaii. The Japanese are clean, thrifty and industrious, I grant all that, but the fact remains that they do not like us."

provements, and the gentlemen who represent our city government rarely introduce such matters unless they are deemed to be needed, it should be the duty of the Plainfield Board of Trade to openly support such public spirited men.

"At the present time Councilman Claybrook is advocating and advancing a proposition for a City Hall in Plainfield, and he is undoubtedly right, bue the thing that is of the utmost importance at the present time, to my mind, is to undertake the consolidation of North Plainfield and Plainfield and the extension of the city limits so as to include a portion of North Plainfield township, Piscataway township, and if possible, Scotch Plains and Fanwood borough. This would more than double the present size of Plainfield and we could then, through a commission, which the new Mayor and Council of such a city could appoint a City Planning Commission, for instance, undertake the new City Hall proposition and many other improvements which are needed now in our old Plainfield and which would be needed even more in the newer and Greater Plainfield.'

"In order to facilitate progress I am with Councilman Claybrook in his efforts to secure a city hall for Plainfield and trust that he will do all in his power to secure same and to consolidate the boroughs I have mentioned with Plainfield and at as early a date as may be possible.

"If a city hall is to be built now let us build it big enough to take care of a city three times the size of the present city of Plainfield.

"At the next meeting of the Plainfield Board of Trade that body will be asked to pass a resolution petitioning the Mayors of Plainfield and North Plainfield to appoint a Greater Plainfield Commission. Then the Board of Trade will hold itself in readiness to assist such a commission in every possible way. We are out for consolidation pure and simple and propose that the large property owners and others in the respective municipalities who are the economic trustees of those less favored shall be given an opportunity to pass upon the proposition and then the matter can be submitted to voters for their approval and acceptance. My personal belief is that nine out of every ten people living in these two municipalities are desirous of immediate consolidation.

"The county arrangement is a matter for secondary consideration and we can jump that fence when we get to it. The Plainfield Board of Trade stands ready to assist the members of the local government in every possible way and that we will, at all times, be pleased to submit to our organization any proposition which they may see fit to entrust to our care for a popular expression of opinion.

"We are determined that the Board of Trade shall grow. With this end in view we have made our yearly dues but $3.00, believing that the co-operation of those men who are willing to pay a small fee such as we have named is better by far than large contributions and heavy dues from inactive members. A Board of Trade can only succeed to the extent that its members support it. The Plainfield Board of Trade has a very fine board of trustees. They are very much interested in the welfare of the city and its people and keenly alive to the necessity of concerted action and the standing together in solid phalanx of the business men of the city if needed improvements are to be obtained.

"So closely am I in touch with our board of trustees that, when the occasion warrants it, I can get them together for a meeting within fifteen minutes."

FAITH CHAPEL SUNDAY SCHOOL TO BE ORGANIZED

Permanent organization of the new Faith Chapel Sunday-school Union, at Mountain avenue and Frances Place, in North Plainfield, and announcement of the opening date, is expected to be made within a short time. The first informal meeting, for the purpose of organization was held on Wednesday night at the home of Herbert Van Fleet, on Frances place. M. A. Korff, the organizer, Herbert Van Fleet, W. B. Garrabrant and William Hand were present at the meeting. The 12x22 building is to be placed on a concrete foundation.

Both the building and foundation have been given by Mr. Garrabrant. The building was moved by Mr. Van Fleet and Mr. Hand. They announced that they would join with F. B. Drake and Mr. Sprague in doing the necessary work, gratuitously. The glass for the doors and windows of the building have been donated by J. D. Loizeaux.

MISS HOWES RESIGNS.

Miss Helen Howes, who has been directress of nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past eighteen months, resigned her position yesterday. She will enter at once upon a new superintendency in a New York institution. Miss Howes' successor will be appointed by the Board of Governors at the next regular meeting.

"FAILURE OR SUCCESS."

"Failure or Success," will be the subject of the sermon of the Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, of All Souls' Unitarian church, on Sunday morning. It will be the Rev. Mr. Wilson's last preaching service as he has resigned his pastorate. As yet he has no definite plans in view he said today.

PLANNING CHARITY BALL.

Arrangements for the annual charity ball of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church will be made on Sunday afternoon, when a committee will meet for the purpose of formulating plans for the affair. It is said that this year's ball will be given in the Columbus Auditorium.

Get The Community Spirit

The Community Spirit is said to have originated in Rochester.

Rochester. Syracuse, Memphis and Saskatoon have all acquired the Community Spirit. They are all successful cities.

There is a bond of friendship between their merchants, the mechanics, the craftsmen and the rest of the population. One Rochester enthusiast who is a home town booster said, "NewYork is a cosmopolitan joke town, 250 miles from 'Rochester.'"

The business in these cities is carried on through local channels. Each city is a market where its citizens CAN and DO supply their wants.

Now Brother Plainfielder, it is up to YOU to help make Plainfield grow, to make it a BIGGER and BETTER Plainfield!

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF R. W. BARNES

Funeral services of the late Robert W. Barnes, of Mountain avenue, North Plainfield, were held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, preached the funeral sermon and paid a high tribute to the sterling honesty and many qualities of the departed. The church was well filled with friends of Mr. Barnes. He had been a deacon of the First Baptist church for many years. The casket was covered with flowers. Roses, pink and white, sweet peas, and other flowers were grouped about the pulpit and there were numerous large and handsome set pieces.

Neighbors of the deceased joined in sending a large wreath. Another floral offering was sent by the deacons of the church and still another piece was the offering of the church deaconesses. His brother and sister also sent a floral pillow. The pall-bearers, all of whom were fellow deacons of Mr. Barnes, were Frank W. Jones, Samuel P. Case, J. G. McLaughlin, E. L. Bonney, James L. Maning and George H. Batchelor.

The interment was in the Somerville cemetery. Mr. Barnes died suddenly a few days ago at his winter home in Florida where he and his wife had wintered for the past two years. She was with him when he died. He leaves a brother, Norman K. Barnes, and a sister, Mrs. John Butler.

INJURIES RECEIVED LONG AGO NECESSITATES OPERATION

Mrs. Arthur C. VanArsdale, of Summit avenue, the borough, has been quite ill following a serious operation performed at Muhlenberg Hospital on Tuesday. Her condition today was reported to be more favorable for an early recovery. Mrs. VanArsdale's troubles are said to be indirectly due to an accident she and her husband met with two years ago, when a carriage in which they were taking a drive was run into by an automobile driven by Oscar Harrison, of Lincoln, and they were thrown out. Harrison's companion, a woman, was also thrown out and killed at the time. Since the accident Mrs. VanArsdale has suffered severe pains in the head and the body, until upon the advice of a physician an operation was thought to be necessary.

PIERCE'S GOOD SUGGESTION.

Senator Carlton B. Pierce, who, although he bears the Republican label, is about as near a Progressive as any one in the State Senate, is making a valiant fight to have a bill calendar published each day by the secretary of the Senate. The calendar would make it possible for the public to know just what is scheduled to come up for final passage at the next day's session of the Senate. The general public could then keep advised as to legislation in which it might be interested, and would not waste a lot of time waiting around Trenton for the passage of bills.

As Senator Pierce says: "The newspapers will publish the calendar and everybody in the State interested in the particular bills can attend. The plan prevents manipulation of bills and goes far to put lobbyists out of business, for if people know when their bills are coming up they can attend to them in person and come once instead of many times. The plan is in the public interest and should prevail."

The Union county Senator is on the right track, and he intends to make another determined fight to secure the passage of this rule at the session next Monday night. The voters who send the legislators to Trenton are entitled to know in advance just what will come before the lawmakers, and without this official notice there is no way of securing the information.

William Jeffrey's suggestion that the Mayors of Plainfield and North Plainfield be asked by the Board of Trade to name a consolidation committee, to start active work to bring about the union of the city and borough, is a very good one. From the sentiment as expressed by the people of the two communities it is evident that a very representative group of citizens from all walks in life could be secured to further this commendable object. There is absolutely no reason, from a point of view of community welfare, why the two municipalities should remain under separate government, and only the selfish desires of politicians prevented their being united several years ago. North Plainfield's interests are identical with those of the city, and the rest of Somerset county cares little about the people on the other side of the brook. Union of the two would tend to reduce the tax rate in the borough, would decrease the school expense because of the pupils coming to the Plainfield High School, would eliminate unnecessary offices, and in every way be beneficial to the whole people.

The Court of Errors and Appeals has upheld the conviction of Daniel A. Dugan, Jr., whose automobile ran into and killed a young man in Orange many months ago. Dugan had been drinking and at the same time that he killed the young man he injured another person. He has fought the case through all of the courts, because of the sentence of from five to ten years that was imposed upon him after conviction by a jury in Essex county. Now it is said that Dugan, having lost in all the courts, will seek to secure a commutation of sentence from the Court of Pardons. If he does secure such commutation it will be a miscarriage of justice. He is no more entitled to leniency than is Louis Kuenhle, the convicted political boss of Atlantic county, and there are no extenuating circumstances that have been brought to light during the trial of Dugan. He comes from a respected family, and the sympathy of all is extended to the parents, but the crime is of the kind that must be punished, and no political pull should be permitted to prevent the carrying out of the sentence.

Express companies throughout the United States will begin an active competition against the parcels post on Monday, when the new rates which the Interstate Commerce Commission has fixed, go into effect. By the rates the express companies will carry parcels to the more distant zones cheaper than will Uncle Sam through the postoffice department. The parcel post will continue to be cheaper for carrying small packages shorter distances, in the first and second zones for instance. The express companies have the advantage of calling for packages, and insuring them without additional fee, but there are some things which they will not carry which can be sent by parcel post. For instance, the news dispatches told us the other day that a forty-two pound girl was shipped by parcel post from one town to another, and the express company would not tackle that job. There is plenty of work for both the express companies and the parcel-post in this country.

They think so much of Recorder Charles Sheelen in Fanwood borough that they will not let him resign the job, and have promised him better office room if he will stick as magistrate. It is an unusual proceeding which attests the merit of the man Mr. Sheelen has another record. He has been tax collector in the borough fifteen years and he resigned that job also, but as he has collected every cent of taxes every year for the full period the residents think he should continue in that place too. It is a record of which anyone might be proud and the people of the borough are to be congratulated upon insisting that he stay in the place. The record has probably never been equalled in the State of New Jersey.

Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, has prepared the contributed editorial to appear in the Daily Press tomorrow night. As on the occasions before when he has favored the Press, our readers may rest assured that he will have something interesting to say.

BE A BOOSTER

By Homer Clark Bennett, M. D.

Do you know there's lot o' people,
Settin' 'round in every town,
Growlin' like a broody chicken,
Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't you be that kind of cattle,
Cause they ain't no use on earth.
You just be a booster booster,
Crow an' boost for all you're worth.

If your town needs boostin', boost 'er,
Don't hold back and wait to see
If some other feller' willin',
Sail right in, this country's free;
No one's got a mortgage on it,
It's just yours as much as his,
If your town is shy on boosters,
You get in the boostin' biz.

If things don't just seem to suit you
An' the world seems kinder wrong
What's the matter with a boostin',
Just to help the thing along;
'Cause if things should stop a goin',
We'd be in a sorry plight,
You just keep that horn a-blowin',
Boost 'er up with all your might.

If you see some feller tryin'
For to make some project go,
You can boost it up a trifle,
That's your cue to let him know
That you're not a goin' to knock it,
Just because it ain't your "shout,"
But you're goin' to boost a little,
'Cause he's got "the best thing out."

If you know some feller's failin's,
Just forget 'em, 'cause you know
That same feller's got some good points,
Them's the ones you want to show.
"Cast your loaves out on the waters,
They'll come back," is a sayin' true,
Mebbee thy will come back "buttered,"
When some feller boosts for you

BOMB SETTER GUILTY; GETS THREE YEARS

Should Get Life Imprisonment, Says Court.

New York, Jan. 30.—Sylvestro, the Sicilian, was convicted in four minutes of attempting to dynamite a tenement house occupied by twenty-five families on Aug. 31, 1913.

He was sentenced to imprisonment for three and a half to seven years but a bill will be introduced in the legislature on Monday making such crimes punishable by forty years' imprisonment.

The jurymen in the court of general sessions left the courtroom more to stretch their legs than for argument. They had already made up their minds that Sylvestro was an ardent plotter among the Farraro crew of dynamiters.

The brevity of their deliberations broke all records for important criminal trials, it was said by lawyers of twenty-five years' experience. But members of the jury told Judge Rosalsky after Sylvestro had been taken to the Tombs that there was never a doubt in the minds of any one of them that the Sicilian was a partner with the most heartless desperadoes the police have tripped up for many years.

The judge's charge, which occupied fifty-five minutes, was inferentially severe. He devoted at least half an hour of the time to pointing out to the jury how Sylvestro might legally be found guilty.

When the jury marched in the foreman, J. S. Walness, returned the verdict according to the usual form "Guilty as charged in the indictment." Sylvestro, standing at the bar of the court, turned hardening eyes on the foreman and then directed his gaze toward the judge. As he recited his pedigree in a low voice his cheek muscles tightened, his thin lips straightened and the anger in his eyes was noted by the judge himself. His counsel, James S. Brande, asked the judge to defer sentence, saying that Sylvestro might have a statement to make.

"If the defendant has anything to say let him say it now," directed Judge Rosalsky curtly.

Sylvestro replied instantly in a steady, composed voice:

"Your honor, I ain't got nothin' to say."

Judge Rosalsky, dismissing the jury told them he regretted that he could not put Sylvestro in prison for forty years.

PASS BILL FOR MORGAN SUIT

Act For Recovery of Washington Will Goes to Virginia's Governor.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 30.—Without a dissenting vote the house of delegates passed the bill of Senator Thornton of Fairfax authorizing the institution of proceedings in the name of the commonwealth to enforce the return to Virginia of the will of Martha Washington, now a part of the J. P. Morgan collection.

The bill, which has passed the senate, will go to Governor Mann for his signature today and will be signed promptly. Its purport is that the attorney general shall correspond with Mr. Morgan relative to the return of the will, and if the request is not granted legal proceedings may be instituted.

REORGANIZE LODGE WITH NEW OFFICERS IN WARRENVILLE

A meeting was held in Mt. Bethel last night for the purpose of reorganizing Court Warren, No. 4797, Independent Order of Foresters, and the following officers elected to serve for one term: Chief ranger, Peter Reinman; vice chief ranger, Andrew Carman; recording secretary, Leslie Toms; financial secretary, Herbert Toms; treasurer, Benjamin Harrison.

This organization was started in Mt. Bethel last July but interest proved to be wanting and it gradually died out. The new movement is the result of efforts on the part of several of the charter members to revive the order and the interest displayed last night was keen and hopes are now entertained for the formation of a flourishing fraternity in that place.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Nils Anderson, of Prospect avenue, are the parents of a son born to them yesterday morning.

ATTENDED A BANQUET.

Jacob Abrams, Leo Berse, Herman Shrager and Samuel Rothberg were included in a party representing the local Y. M. H. A. which went to Perth Amboy last night to attend a banquet and dance of the Y. M. H. A. of that place. The trip was made in Mr. Abrams' automobile.

SAMUEL ALLEN'S FUNERAL.

Miss A. M. Speidel, teacher of the eighth grade, has returned to her duties after spending a few days at her home in Rome, N. Y.

At a meeting of the Boys' Athletic Association yesterday, it was decided to make new constitution and bylaws to replace those that were lost several years ago. The president appointed the following committee to draw up the papers: Principal Earley, chairman; Duclos Van Mater, Elmer French, Lester Chandler, Ashley Burner, Hyman Abrams.

Manager Charles Beckman, of the basketball team, has his schedule almost completed, having secured eighteen games to date.

A new drinking fountain has been placed in the basement on the way to the manual training building.

PROCTOR'S GOOD SHOW.

The big vaudeville show on at Proctor's this week is exceptionally pleasing and entertaining. The Wheelers in the comedy juggling skit, "On the Boulevard," is a clever sensational novelty. They enter in the auto, which becomes stalled. They amuse the audience with some excellent juggling feats and when they get ready to leave the auto "cuts up" in a lively and laughable fashion, and it all ends with a terrific explosion. They have a dandy act. Betts and Betts presenting "A Little Talk on Autos" is highly amusing. The Musical Huehns, three girls and a man in a classy novel musical act are a riot. The Valley Forge Comedy Four are there with the harmony and comedy. The boys are funny and have good voices. The Two Jig 'Em Ups is a corking good dancing act. Silent Mora, the clever man with clever hands who work wonders in slight of hand has many new stunts.

ENJOYED DIME SOCIAL.

The first of a series of dime socials, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel, was held last night, at the home of Mrs. Ferdinand Dencklau, of West Third street. Mrs. Dencklau and Mrs. Donald McInnes being in charge. There were about seventy people present and they enjoyed games and an informal program of vocal and instrumental music. The contributors to the latter included James Jamison, who sang several solors, accompanied by Mrs. Jamison. Miss Edith Robinson, soloist. Miss Josephine Snyder-pianologue, and Miss Eunice Eckert and Thomas Henry, vocal duet. Refreshments were served.

DUNBAR SOCIAL CLUB.

A movement will be started at the meeting of the Dunbar Society and Educational Club to be held in the Washington School Auditorium tonight to effect the organization of a Glee Club. The bi-monthly custom of telling humorous stories will be inaugurated tonight and a program of music and recitations will also be given.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASS'N SEEKING NEW MEMBERS

Members of the Business Men's Association are circulating among merchants of Plainfield today the purpose of arousing interest in the plan to eliminate certain forms of advertising that were condemned at a recent meeting of the organization.

The association has drawn up a proposition which confines the advertising to publications entered as second class mail and seeks to abolish the presentation of trophies and prizes, little or no return being reaped from the latter plan.

DR. ZEGLIO ACCIDENTLY SHOT WHILE HUNTING

Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of Somerset street, who recently went South with a party of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sandford and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Staats, intending to do some hunting, is now in Jacksonville, Fla., suffering from gun shot wounds in the knee and a slight injury to his eye. His condition is not serious, it is said, according to information received here by a friend.

The doctor was out a few days ago with other huntsmen, when he got in the way of a load of shot intended for some birds. A good portion of the shot entered Dr. Zeglio's knee, while one stray shot struck the eye. He has since been under treatment at Jacksonville, Fla., and hopes to be able to return home soon.

PILGRIMAGE FEBRUARY 8.

The pilgrimage of Friends from New York to the Plainfield meeting of the Religious Society of Friends will take place on Sunday, February 8, and not next Sunday morning as announced. There will be services at 11 o'clock in the morning and 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

THE FORUM.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In your eternal truth "Know Your City," you speak of a local merchant losing a sale when the offer of a New York firm twenty-five cents cheaper clinched "the bargain." If the merchants of Plainfield desire our citizens to trade at home they must watch prices of New York advertisements. In New York competition is so keen that every dry goods store watches its competitor's prices, besides employing clerks to visit the stores to keep thoroughly posted. In the instance mentioned in the Daily Press last night, the local merchant could have made a profit of fifteen cents by meeting the price of his New York competitor. By meeting New York prices Plainfield people would soon see it to their interest to buy goods at home. Plainfield merchants are making wonderful strides and if they "cut" on advertised articles will reap big benefits later on when the people get used to buying in our city.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL.

The members of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, and friends to the number of about forty, enjoyed a novel entertainment in Vincent Chapel, last evening, under the direction of Miss Helen Joy, chairman of the committee. Everyone present was requested to draw a picture and then by means of a stereopticon they were thrown on a sheet and the audience was expected to guess what they were. Games followed and refreshments were served.

Information of a confidential and startling nature was given the house committee on naval affairs by Rear Admiral C. E. Vreeland of the general board of the navy, who earnestly advocated that this nation keep pace with Japan in the construction of battleships. Rear Admiral Vreeland's views were given behind closed doors, and a part of his testimony was of such a confidential nature that it will not be published in the committee hearings. Members of the committee were reluctant to talk of the three hour session, but Admiral Vreeland impressed the committee with the necessity of a return to an adequate building program.

Friday We Featured the Finest Furniture in the Sale—Tomorrow (Saturday), Third "Day of Courtesy" We Feature

Moderate-Price Furniture

We could not build up the largest furniture business in the world by selling only one class of furniture.

We sell all classes—down to the most inexpensive furniture that will give satisfaction.

Below the point of satisfaction we will not go. We will not risk our reputation on even "doubtful" furniture.

Yet we sell bureaus for as little as $15. Three-piece bedroom sets for as little as $43. Complete dining-room sets (except chairs, which usually are selected separately) for as little as $54. Iron bedsteads for as little as $8.25. Brass beds for as little as $15.

To have this moderate price furniture in good taste we furnish the manufacturer with the designs, in many cases, often copying finer pieces.

P. C. C. FAILED TO GET BIG TOURNEY

Essex County Country Club Selected for Annual Championships.

Mrs. H. R. Stockton and Mrs. H. S. Avery represented the Plainfield Country Club in the annual meeting of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association held in Hotel Biltmore, New York, yesterday, when instead of the Plainfield Country Club being chosen as the scene of the women's metropolitan golf championship tournament, as had been expected, the links of the Essex County Country Club were selected.

Four clubs applied for the privilege of holding the event, Plainfield, North Jersey, Essex County and Montclair. Mrs. E. S. Sanford, former president of the association spoke in behalf of the Essex County Club and when the matter came to a vote the Hutton Park course won easily.

COLORED BALL STARS ON LOCAL DIAMONDS

Promoters Plan to Organize One of Fastest Nines in the State.

The organization of a new colored baseball team, to be known as the Royal A. C., has been started under the management of Paul Coleman. Bruce Williams and William Kline, a few of the local boys will be signed. Eddie Ford, who finished the season with the Havana Red Sox; Harry Kline, better known as (Tune) the hard hitting pitcher of the Royal Giants, and Paul Coleman, the fleet footed centrefielder, also of the Royal Giants. Bruce Williams, of Princeton, one of the leading colored shortstops, will wear a R. A. C. uniform. The rest of the team will come from all parts of the State and New York city.

Further announcement of the line up will be published as soon as "Ol Scout" Warrick can sign up players. Bruce Williams will captain the team, while William Kline will undertake the duties of manager. A reception will be given the latter part of February for the benefit of purchasing uniforms for the team. All managers wanting games can get them by communicating with William Kline, Babcock building.

ASSERTS MRS. CROSS DIED NATURAL DEATH

No Signs of Foul Play, Says the Coroner.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 30. "I have found nothing so far to indicate that Mrs. William T. Cross died by any other than natural causes," declared Coroner John J. Phelan after a private hearing in his offices of three important witnesses in the case. "There are many suspicious circumstances," continued the coroner, "but nothing indicating that Mrs. Cross was the victim of foul play has been disclosed so far."

Coroner Phelan will continue his investigation, and Mrs. Margaret C. Luquer and other physicians besides Dr. Fleck, who attended Mrs. Cross, will be called.

The witnesses examined were Mrs. Edith Luquer Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Luquer; Frank E. Ballard, the druggist who filled the prescription written by Dr. H. W. Fleck, the attending physician, and Dr. Fleck.

It is expected that the dead woman's two sons, Ferdinand and William, and Dr. John T. Lynch, who was called in consultation by Dr. Fleck before the death of Mrs. Cross, will be among the witnesses to be examined.

Mrs. Cross lived at the Luquer home at the time of her death, the circumstances of which have been such as to arouse the suspicions of the authorities.

"This cannot be called an inquest," the coroner said in reference to the hearing. "While it is of a semipublic nature, for the present we must make it private."

Mrs. Campbell was asked as she left her home this morning whether the report that she and her mother were about to leave town had any foundation in fact.

"Not the least," she replied. "Why should we?" She also denied that she or Mrs. Luquer contemplated sending two trunks away by express. It is known that there was a detective at the railroad station to report to the prosecuor's office if trunks from the Luquer home left town.

It was learned positively that Frank M. Garland sailed for Europe not earlier than within the last week. His point of departure and his destination are unknown.

TAKE CULLOM'S BODY HOME.

Dead Senator Will Lie In State In Illinois Capitol.

Washington, Jan. 30. Accompanied by Senator Sherman of Illinois, Miss Victoria Fisher, sister-in-law of the late Senator Cullom, and by Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett Ridgeley, the body of the dead senator left Washington for Springfield, Ill., following a simple prayer at his Washington home by the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant.

All day tomorrow the body will lie in state in the state capitol at Springfield. On Sunday the Rev. Donald C. McLeod of the First Presbyterian church of this city will officiate at the funeral. The pallbearers will be appointed by the governor of Illinois. Burial will be in the family lot at Oak Ridge.

Weather Forecast.

Rain or snow in northern portion; local rains in the interior of southern portion; fair in extreme south; tomorrow colder and generally fair.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer and stationer.

M'COOEY TESTIFIES AGAINST CASSIDY

Swears He Let Ex-Boss Select a Judge.

New York, Jan. 30.—John H. McCooey, Democratic boss of Kings county, testified at the trial in Brooklyn of Joseph Cassidy and Louis T. Walter, Jr., for conspiracy, that he gave the ex-boss of Queens county the right to name the supreme court judicial nomination which was sold to William Willett.

McCooey had twenty-three delegates out of thirty-one, and he thought he ought to nominate all three judges in the district for the 1911 campaign. But three days before the convention he conceded one nomination to Cassidy.

McCooey emphatically denied that Cassidy came to him, as the Queens boss contends, just a few minutes before the nominating convention, to announce that he had chosen Willett. Cassidy says that after he announced to the delegates in the saloon that Willett was to be nominated he went to the Jefferson building to tell McCooey and saw him there. But McCooey says he didn't see Cassidy, but heard of Willett from some one in the street.

A real political atmosphere hovered over Justice Jaycox's court, for testimony was interrupted by the blare of a brass band playing lively airs against which District Attorney Cropsey refused to compete.

Both Robert H. Elder and Robert M. Moore, the defense's lawyers, made an attempt at the opening of court to have Justice Jaycox inform the jury that the defendants were not locked up last night because of rumors of jury fixing. While the judge declined to take this action, he indicated that he might take cognizance at the close of the trial of the manner in which the rumors were published.

"I hold in my hand," Mr. Moore said holding up a copy of a Brooklyn newspaper, "headlines that say rumors of attempts to tamper with the jury were responsible for the court's action in ordering the defendants into the custody of the sheriff. It is quite possible that the newspapers can say rumors exist, but when it comes to making such a definite statement concerning the court's action, I submit that it is contempt of court, a libel on the defendants and a reflection on counsel."

LOCAL TRACK STARS WILL TAKE PART IN BIG MEET

Alfred Day, Ralph Runyon and Morris Mann, athletes of Plainfield High School, are entered to take part in the New Jersey State Interscholastic games which are scheduled for tomorrow night in the First Regiment Armory, under the auspices of the Central High School.

Alfred Day has entered in the mile run, Morris Mann in the 70 yard dash, and Ralph Runyon in the running high jump.

Jack Fritts, a local athlete, and a member of the Pastime A. C., will take part in the one mile handicap. Fritts' handicap will be 65 yards. Such stars as Mel Sheppard, Ted Meredith and Homer Baker will also take part. The Plainfield athletes will be accompanied by Coach Patch and will leave on the 6:25 train. A crowd of rooters will go with the boys.

BASEBALL NOTES

Del Gainor, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, has announced his retirement from baseball.

Pitcher Marty O'Toole says he is well satisfied with the Pittsburgh climate and has no intention of jumping.

President Charley Ebbets, of the Brooklyn club, still asserts that Joe Tinker will be seen in a Brooklyn uniform on opening day.

Frank Owens, the Minneapolis catcher drafted by Washington, has jumped to the Feds. There are no Walter Johnsons "to tear your hands off" in the Federal League.

Connie Mack has signed another youngster. Jimmy McAvoy, a Rochester semi-professional with but one year's experience, is to be given a trial with the Athletics.

The fans thought the Federal League was a regular league until it copped a player from the Boston Braves. Now it would not surprise them to hear the Feds were raiding the St. Louis Browns.

The Buffalo club in the International League has purchased Infielder Joe McCarty from Memphis. McCarthy was manager of the Wilkesbarre team in the New York State League last season.

Clarence H. Rowland, a pioneer in Three-I League territory, has disposed of his interests in the Dubuque club to Forrest T. Plass and Pitcher Guy Gregg. The new owners were with Dubuque last season.

Right in the midst of a fine baseball war, "Rabbit" Maranville strolls in the Boston Braves' headquarters, signs a blank contract and tells President Gaffney to fix the salary to suit himself.

Benny Kauff, who was tried out by the New York Yankees last spring, refuses to sign with the Indianapolis American Association club for the salary offered. Benny says the Indians' "cough" was too weak for a real Kauff.

WILLIAM KELLY INJURED IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

William Kelly, aged about 80 years, of Oak Tree, who, according to his custom is spending the winter with his son-in-law, Harry Campbell at Crescent City, Fla., where they have large orange groves, was seriously injured a few days ago in a runaway accident and is said to be in a critical condition, according to information received here today by a friend.

Mr. Kelly was engaged in taking a party of hunters into the country district, when a large flock of birds frightened the team of mules he was driving, causing them to run away. Mr. Kelly in trying to bring the mules to a halt was thrown out of the wagon, the wheels passing over his body, receiving internal injuries. The huntsmen hastened to Mr. Kelly's assistance and took him to his home, where he is under the care of a physician.

Although Mr. Kelly is well advanced in years, he has always enjoyed good health and has been unusually active for one of his age. He has large property interests both in Plainfield and vicinity as well as in the South, and for several years he has been in the habit of living at Crescent City during the cold weather.

BRUNSWICK GAME OFF.

MANY EAT TURKEY AT ANNUAL TRINITY FEAST

318 Diners Partake of Hospitality of Women's Society of Local Church.

Three hundred and eighteen people attended the turkey supper in the rooms of the Trinity Reformed church last night and the affair surpassed the greatest anticipations of the members of the Ladies' Christian Work Society. The dining hall was appropriately decorated with pink and white crepe paper and this color scheme was carried in the arrangement of the tables and booths.

The menu consisted of turkey with all the fixin's and the efforts of the culinary department in turning out a repast of this kind were the subject of much favorable comment on all sides. Eight tables were set and as soon as one set of people had eaten their fill, provision was made for another.

Mrs. Edward Van Winkle was in charge of the affair and she was assisted by the following committees: Supper room, Mrs. Anna Gillam, Mrs. Peter Dilts, Mrs. Edward Weaver, Mrs. Norman Sears, Mrs. Lewis Newman, Mrs. Allegar, Mrs. Wooley, Mrs. John Dolliver, Mrs. Garret Dolliver, Mrs. George Cole, Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. Lucine Shepherd, Mrs. John Walsh, Mrs. Abram Van Fleet, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Cornelius Higgins and Mrs. Frank Sodin.

Those in charge of the tables were: Table No. 1, Mrs. Kirch; table No. 2, Mrs. Leonard Van Camp; table No. 3, Mrs. Cable and Mrs. Virginia Chickering; table No. 4, Mrs. Arthur Cole, Mrs. Elmer Wheeler; table No. 5, Mrs. Julius Williams and Mrs. Edgar Sheppard; table No. 6, Mrs. Robert Clark and Miss Lillian Force; table No. 7, Mrs. Bergen Newell and Mrs. William Williams; table No. 8, Mrs. Theodore Van Zandt.

Mrs. Elizabeth Parse and Mrs. William Woodruff were in charge of the reception committee and the other committees were distributed as follows: Cake table, Mrs. William Addis, Mrs. Peter Van Fleet and Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck; ice cream, William Kirch and Leonard Van Camp; apron table, Mrs. Winfield Scott and Mrs. Henry Van Name; candy table, Mrs. William Pope, Mrs. James T. MacMurray and Edna Dampman; coat rooms, Lewis Newman and Peter Dilts; door, Edward T. Van Winkle, Clarence Rittenhouse and James Conklin.

The waitresses were the Misses Edna Dilts, Edna Sears, Adelaide Cole, Edna Cole, Gertrude Enander, Addie Van Cleef, Adele Freeman, Helen Leightherser, Marjorie Storr, Nellie McAfee, Maud McAfee, Lelia Wheery, Marion Wooley, Mary Layton, Ethel Van Zandt, Elizabeth Chickering, Helen Smith, Edna Leek, Margaret V. Leggett, Von Tabel and Mrs. Charles Biter.

A similar supper will be served in the church tonight under the auspices of the same committees.

MISS VANBOSKERCK'S PUPILS GIVE PLEASING RECITAL

The pupils of Miss Maude VanBoskerck gave a pleasing recital at her studio at Truell Inn, this afternoon, before an audience of many parents and friends, who expressed their gratification over the progress made by the young people, and commenting favorably on the style and finish of the performers in the rendition of difficult selections. The program follows:

Pieces in duet, Miss Margaret Stevens; Water Sprites-Barcarole, Neidlinger, Miss Margaret Tyler. Skating Lesson, Sleepy Time, Orth, Miss Caroline Stevenson; piano duo, first piano, Miss Margaret Patterson and Miss Zoe Terry; second piano, Miss Elizabeth Johnson and Miss Violet Johnson; Barcarole, Offenbach, Miss Priscilla Fraker; Hunting Song, Schuman; Waltz, Chopin, Miss Zoe Terry; Consolation, Spring Song, Mendellsohn, Miss Margaret Patterson; Prelude, The Mill, Helier, Miss Elizabeth Johnson; Scarf Dance, Chaminade, Miss Dorthy White.

ERECTING NEW SCREENING MACHINE AT SEWAGE BEDS

Captain Charles A. Peterson has been awarded a contract for the erection of a screening and washing machine at the city's sewer disposal beds. The machine will wash and separate the fine cinders from the coarse ones which are used on the top of each bed to catch and hold superflous matter which floats on the top of the water used in the working of the plant.

After the cinders are washed, which will be only two or three times a month the finer grades will be thrown out and when any road repairing is to be done by the city officials they will be used as a base. This is the second washing machine that Captain Peterson has erected at the disposal station. The first was for the washing of the cracked stone used in the system of filtering. The work of washing and replacing the stones in the bottom of each bed last year was done by Captain Peterson.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT-AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 55.

MR. or Mrs. House Owner—listen to me!

There's a "FOR RENT" sign in the window of that vacant house of yours.

It has been there quite a while, probably.

People pass that house every hour of the day. Some of them see that sign. But very few of the people who are looking for a house like yours see that sign.

No. Folks have learned a better way that trotting about town looking for a house that is for rent. They turn to the CLASSIFIED Columns.

Remember this: The renter wants to know something about that house you have to let. And the best place to tell that something is where people will look for it—in the "FOR RENT" columns on the CLASSIFIED pages.

Tell, in your WANT AD., about the size of the house; the location of the rooms; about the heat, light and water; about the basement and the attic, and the car lines, and the proximity to a schoolhouse—and—well, tell people what you would want to know if you were in search of a house.

And by jimminy crickets, you'll rent that house quicker'n you have any idea it could be done!

MURPHY TARGET IN GRAFT HUNT

District Attorney Aims at Tammany Leader.

STEWART FINALLY REVEALS

Canal Board Waives Immunity and Goes Before Grand Jury—Secretary of State and Five Others Are Heard. Governor Glynn May Be Called.

New York, Jan. 30.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, is the target at which District Attorney Whitman is aiming an indictment in his investigation of state graft. That fact no longer is a secret. Murphy received the hardest blow of his career at the hands of James C. Stewart, a state contractor. The blow was delivered in Whitman's apartment. Stewart, following it up, will tell his story of the $135,000 "hold up" by James E. Gaffney, Murphy's closest friend, to the grand jury.

Stewart, invigorated by a hunting trip in the south, sought Whitman before the district attorney was ready to go to his office. With Stewart was his brother, Alexander Stewart, and Almuth C. Vandiver, attorney of the firm of O'Gorman, Battle & Vandiver. The conference at Whitman's apartment continued two hours.

These were developments in the graft investigation following the conference in Whitman's apartment and the session of the grand jury:

James C. Stewart acknowledged that it was James E. Gaffney, politician, contractor, silent partner, baseball club owner and chief of the squad of Tammany bagmen, who came to his office shortly after the election of 1912 and demanded a "subscription" equivalent to 5 per cent on contracts for nearly $3,000,000 which the canal board was considering at the time.

Stewart acknowledged there was no doubt in his mind as to the identity of James E. Gaffney.

Led by Mitchell May, secretary of state, six present or former members of the state canal board went before the special graft grand jury to testify regarding the awarding of state contracts. Despite the fact that they were invited to testify and were not subpoenaed, every man had to sign a waiver of immunity. After a fifteen minute conference with District Attorney Whitman, Mr. May was taken into the grand jury room. The other men followed in their turn.

Glynn May Volunteer.

Reports from Albany today were to the effect that Governor Glynn would also be a witness before the grand jury in connection with the contract investigation. Mr. Whitman, it was said, expected that the governor would come forward and offer to testify. Governor Glynn, as lieutenant governor, sat as a member of the canal board at the time the contracts "71 A" and "72 A," for which James E. Stewart bid $3,000,000 and was afterward, he says, approached by a man named Gaffney, who demanded a contribution of 5 per cent before he could get a contract.

The members of the canal board who testified were questioned about the awarding of these contracts.

In view of the fact that the men who testified today, among them the secretary of state and the state treasurer, were obliged to sign waivers of immunity, it is expected that Governor Glynn will also have to sign a waiver if he comes here to testify. This is in line with the policy that Mr. Whitman has adopted since the investigation of the contract graft began, and no man has been allowed to appear as a witness without signing the waiver.

Those who testified before the grand jury besides Mitchell May, secretary of state, were Edward R. Lazansky, former secretary of state and member of the canal board at the time former Governor Sulzer sent his telegram to the board asking them to defer action on the Stewart bid; John J. Kennedy, state treasurer; Thomas F. Conroy, former lieutenant governor and also member of the canal board at the time of the Sulzer telegram; Duncan Peck, superintendent of public works, and John A. Bensel, state engineer.

The witnesses came to the criminal courts building together and were closeted with District Attorney Whitman for about fifteen minutes. During that time they signed their waivers of immunity, and then Mr. Whitman led Secretary May to the grand jury room as the first witness.

STATE MAY BUY THE B. AND M.

Bill With That In View Introduced In Massachusetts.

Boston, Jan. 30.—A bill has been introduced in the house providing for acquisition on behalf of the state of the stock, bonds, notes and other evidence of indebtedness of the Boston Railway Holding company, which holds a majority of the stock of the Boston and Maine railroad.

After claims against the company are satisfied the bill provides for the dissolution of the company, and the governor is given authority to vote any stock of the Boston and Maine which may become the property of the state under the act or otherwise.

Section eight provides that the secretary of state shall place upon the official ballot to be used at the next state election the question, "Shall the Boston and Maine railroad be operated under public ownership?"

—There's not a dull, nor an unimportant ad in today's paper. There's not one that may safely be overlooked by any great number of the paper's readers.

ANOTHER BASKETBALL VERDICT FOR N. P. H. S.

Borough Scrubs Put the Finishing Touches on the Work of the First Team.

North Plainfield High School scored another triumph over the Plainfield High School athletes yesterday afternoon, when the second team put the finishing touches on the work already accomplished by the first team in the Interscholastic League by whipping the second string men of the local High School by the score of 44 to 35. The contest was played on the Saengerbud Hall court and the foreign playing floor and the familiarity of the home tossers with the goals on the Somerset street court made the victory an easy and decisive one for the Canucks.

The boroughites put up a whirlwind article of basketball from start to finish and kept the Plainfielders constantly tagging at their heels in an effort to catch up or keep in the running. Throughout the initial period the home team led by a comfortable margin but the locals crept up considerably in the final session and scored nearly twice as many points as they did in the first and two more than the N. P. H. S. clan could bag.

Two forwards, Ronald Conroy, sporting the red and black, and Dan McNamee, sporting the red and blue, kept their respective teams in the running from start to finish, the former netting sixteen points and the latter nineteen during the fracas. Conroy had an able running mate in the person of Day, who tallied ten points to assist his running mate. Cottrell found the basket for six points, while Townley bagged a field goal and five fouls.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO GET WESTFIELDERS

Plainfield High School's Action of Yesterday Renews Fight.

As stated exclusively in this paper yesterday the Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association has practically decided to enter the Union County Athletic League, and as a result those interested in the organization have planned renewed efforts to induce the Westfield High School Association to enter. Plainfield and Westfield have been the only two outstanding institutions since the league was formed and now that the Queen City school has been interested in the proposition those at the helm expect to have little or no difficulty in bringing the other faction into the fold.

Since the proposition was originally launched the Plainfielders have held back because of the stringent financial regulations with which an entrant had to conform and a compromise has not been reached which is entirely satisfactory to all parties. Plainfield High School will be represented in the league in baseball, hockey, football, basketball and possibly tennis, and the local teams wil without doubt be lively contenders in each line.

"Sportdom Tips"

ANNUAL EXHIBIT.

Although the physical department of the Y. W. C. A. is considerably handicapped in its work throughout the year by the limited space it has to work in it is the one institution in this vicinity that has an annual exhibit of gymnastic work and the feminine demonstration is a thing that has been looked forward to for twelve months at a time. Yearly the association physical director prepares a complete program of the gymnastic work carried on in the various classes throughout the year and the exhibit is a source of considerable interest to both parents and friends of the participants. The event arranged for tonight gives every promise of being another banner event and the program prepared, is replete with pleasing features.

PLAINFIELD'S CONTRIBUTIONS.

When the 1914 baseball season opens for business a number of Plainfielders will be sporting suits of various major and minor league teams in different parts of the country and the fans of this city will have something to watch in the metropolitan sporting chronicles once again. From Plainfield Jack Martin will be sent to the Boston Nationals; Tommy Mullin will go to the Brunswick team of the Empire League; Jim Emery will go to Richmond; Lou Dixon goes to the Utica team of the Tri-State League, and several other local men will be shipped via the southern training camp route to various other points of interest in baseballdom. From Fanwood Eugene Lidgate will go to Baltimore, and "Nibs" Hand, of Scotch Plains will go to the International League, Newark being his stopping point.

LOCAL TRACK DELEGATES.

For the first time in many years the Plainfield High School will be represented in a big New Jersey schoolboy meet when Alfred Day, Morris Mann and Ralph Runyon go to Newark tomorrow afternoon to compete in the South Side High School's annual field and track competitions. The local athletes are confident of their chances to win prizes and we expect to see them come back with the goods on their persons tomorrow night.

Things will be mighty quiet in the Y. M. C. A. gym tomorrow night if those Deaf Mutes from Trenton live up to their reputations. The records held by the Capitol city crew are unusually creditable and the locals will have to go the limit to come out in the lead.

A number of Plainfielders are planning to take in that interscholastic meet in Newark tomorrow afternoon and those who love field and track sports will get plenty of excitement at that time. Many metropolitan stars have been invited to take part and the competition will no doubt be of the keenest variety.

Have you stopped to count the number of basketball teams of every size and calibre in this city since the season opened up? Take a day off and do it sometime and you will then be able to see what the youth of the city is doing during the winter months.

Plainfield High School athletes step before the footlights tonight, the occasion being the first rehearsal for the annual minstrel show which is to be given to boost the receipts in the athletic treasury of the school.

Two games have been arranged for the Y. M. C. A team next week and both mean auto bus trips to out of town playing courts. Tuesay night the association five goes to Bernardsville and Saturday night it plays on the Belleville Y. M. C. A. court.

FITZ CAME BACK IN GREAT STYLE

Veteran Champion Toyed With Burly Ohio Product for Six Rounds.

ELEVEN KNOCKDOWNS

Ruby Robert Forces His Opponent to Take the Count Many Times During Short Bout—Old Time Punch and Cunning Was In Evidence.

Robert Fitzsimmons, of Dunellen, veteran of the prize ring and one time holder of three titles, demonstrated before an audience of 2,000 fight bugs in Williamsport, Pa., last night, that he is far from all in as he has been pictured by reports published by the New York State Boxing Commission recently. Battling against "Knockout" Dan Sweeney, the Cleveland Whitehope, he came within an ace of putting the Ohio entry out of business via the K. O. route and knocked him to the mat eleven different times.

Had he tried hard Bob could have easily knocked his opponent cold but he was content to play with the big whit hope from bell to bell making the product of the West hit the mat whenever he chose. Fitz displayed much of his old-time cunning but failed to show the punch that made him famous years ago.

Bob was as shifty as of old and landed his blows with a great deal of steam behind them and when Sweeney clipped the Ruby scrapper a hard one on the ear in the second round Bob opened up with lefts and rights that put the Cleveland boy to sleep for a full minute, the bell saving him from being counted out.

It was Bob's first bout since he was knocked out by Bill Lang on December 27, 1909, in Australia. The old champion looked like a youngster in action. His skin was clear and his muscles as limber as those of a youth. He was seconded by Bob, Jr., whom Fitz hopes to develop into the next heavyweight champion.

Fitz was elated over his showing and his first remark as he clambered over the ropes after the battle was, "Well, I guess I've shown those New York boxing commissioners a thing or two. If I had desired to extend myself, I might have stowed Sweeney away, but in the first time out I did not want to go the limit and held back a good deal. I was especially careful of my hands, as I did not know how they would stand the strain."

Boxing experts who saw the bout were of the opinion that Fitz was in excellent shape and that he could go through the crop of white hopes hands down. He made Sweeney look like the worst sort of a novice, and had his man on the defensive all the way. Fitz weighed 169 pounds, while Sweeney scaled at 182.

In the first three rounds Fitz just toyed with Sweeney, but in the fourth he began to hit harder and soon had Dan on the canvas.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES.

The next game of the Interscholastic Basketball League will be played between Leals and North Plainfield on the Y. M. C. A. court next Wednesday afternoon. The following Monday, Leals and the city school team will hook up for their first battle.

BOTH TEAMS WILL PLAY.

The North Plainfield High School basketeers will go to Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon and meet the team of that place for the second time this year. The girls' team will accompany the boys and play the girls' team of that place.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer.

DEAF BASKETBALL TEAM WILL APPEAR

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Will Be the Scene of Unique Court Battle.

One of the most unique basketball programs of the year will be presented in the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night when the Deaf Mute basketball representatives of the State College in Trenton come to Plainfield for a game with the local Y. M. C. A. combination on the association court. An exponent of fast and aggressive basketball the Capitol City aggregation is heralded as a wonder and has been triumphing over many of the fastest quintets in that section of the State.

Tomorrow night will mark the Silent Workers first appearance in this section of the State and Captain Glover has been working his men overtime in an effort to put the best combination possible on the floor to bring home a victory. The same battle front that was sent against the Woodbridge five last Saturday night will do duty once again and as this team was enough to trim a combination of burlies last week much is expected of them when the Mutes hold forth here.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	DEAF MUTES.
McNamee, forward	MacNee
Moulton, forward	Pease
Gavett, centre	Hansen
Glover, guard	Brede
Farmer, guard	Shaw

INVINCIBLES WON CLOSE GAME FROM GRACE BOYS

The Invincible basketball team defeated the Grace church boys club on the latter's court by the score of 22 to 18, yesterday afternoon. For the winners Snyder lead in the point-getting, making 4 baskets, while Van Winkle starred for the losers, making 10 out of the 18 points for his team.

Dropping two games out of three on the alleys of the Plainfield Elks, last night, the members of the Newark Elks' team fell from a tie with the Jersey City quintet for first place in the Elks' League race to a tie with New Brunswick for second place. Two of the games last night in Plainfield were decidedly exciting. Newark started with 873 and won by twenty-five pins. In the next game the Newarks were on the job with 923, but the home quintet came through in good form for 953, showing the way by thirty pins. The Plainfields were again on the job in the final encounter, totaling 975, while Newark fell to 844. Johnny Campbell starred in the last game with 235. Stout was there for 215 and 211.

SOPHOMORES ARE CHAMPIONS OF N. P. H. S. CLASS LEAGUE

Presenting a superior brand of basketball and having the needed confidence that their opponents lacked, the Sophomore team of the North Plainfield High School Class League defeated the Junior five in the championship game in Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon, the count being 38 to 24.

The teamwork of the "Sophs" was the main factor of their success and they found little trouble in getting the ball under their basket but were rather erratic in shooting. The first half ended 18 to 14 in favor of the "Sophs."

At one time the Juniors were within two points of a tie but Townley saved the day for his team by caging three field goals in less than two minutes. Kirch held his own in the second half getting a quartet of the two-point variety. This victory gives the Sophomores the championship for the second time in succession, the same team coping the honors last year as Freshmen. Townley tallied the most points of the game with an even dozen to his credit.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Walker Whiteside has sailed for Europe.

Margaret Anglin has been meeting with great success in Canada.

Laurence Irving will open his Canadian tour in Montreal early in February.

The new Viennese musical comedy, "The Laughing Husband," will have its New York opening on February 2.

"The Crinoline Girl," featuring Julian Eltinge, will be presented for the first time in Atlantic City, February 9.

Edgar Selwyn, one of the most successful of present-day American playwrights, is at work on a play called "Rolling Stones."

James Forbes has written a comedy called "Stung," in which the leading part will be taken by Zelda Sears.

"The House of Bondage" is soon to be produced with Elita Proctor Otis, Tully Marshall and Cecil Spooner in the cast.

Prof. Brander Matthews has written a play called "The Welcome Guest," in which Amelia Gardner and Mrs. Louis James will have parts.

Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin, wrote the incidental music for "Omar, the Tentmaker," now appearing in New York.

Elsie Ferguson in "The Strange Woman" will begin a tour of the large cities of the East and middle West following the close of her New York engagement.

Beginning next week New York will have an opportunity to see Blanche Ring in "When Claudia Smiles," in which she has already toured New England and Canada.

George Arliss, now engaged in a successful tour in "Disraeli," plans to appear in the character of Nero in a new play built around that Emperor.

Among the well-known players who have recently gone into vaudeville are Rose Melville, Trixie Friganza, Louis Mann, George Nash, Ernest Truex and John and Emma Ray.

Bandon Tynan, who plays the part of Joseph in "Joseph and His Brethern," has received an offer from Hugh Ward, the Australian manager, to tour Australia next season in repertoire.

Eugene Walter, from whom little has been heard recently, has completed a new play which is said to deal with the attitude of the men of "big business" toward an associate who incurs popular displeasure in his domestic affairs.

A rather notable cast is appearing in "The Rule of Three," the new farce written by Guy Bolton and based on the humor of easy divorce laws. Among the members of the company are Katherine Grey, Orrin Johnson, An Meredith and Maude Granger.

Though Raymond Hitchcock is usually regarded as one of the younger players on the American stage he is not many months from his forty-fifth birthday. Mr. Hitchcock began his theatrical career with several false starts before he became the successful comedian that he is today. It was not until [illegible] "Dodo" in 1902 that he attracted attention. Since that time his successes have been almost continuous.

Flemington.

Jonathan Hartpence, of Flemington, Wednesday night installed the following officers of Washington Camp, No. 54, P. O. S. of A., of Baptisttown: Past president, Harry Fisher; vice president, William S. Warne; president, Joseph O. Wagoner; master of forms, Willis Sutton; recording secretary, Harry Woodruff; financial secretary, William D. Moore; treasurer, John M. Pittenger; conductor, Joseph Mathews; inspector, A. W. Roberson; guard, Merrit Walker.

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist church, Wednesday night, held its annual chicken supper.

Mrs. Charles S. Woodruff, of Allendale, formerly of this place, yesterday afternoon addressed the Flemington W. C. T. U. in Library Hall on "Co-operation With Missions." Last evening Mrs. Woodruff made an address before the Woman's Missionary Society in the Methodist church. Her topic was "The New American."

Whitehouse.

Members of the Crescent Gun Club of Whitehouse Station, accompanied by a number of shooters from High Bridge, will go to Fountain House Park, Easton, Pa., tomorrow, to engage in a five bird shooting tournament. The teams will be captained by John J. Park and Samuel D. Skillman, and the losing side will be the hosts of the entire gathering at a supper, to be held there in the evening.

Abram Honeyman, sixty-five years old, who was injured Saturday by being hit on the forehead by a stick of wood, which flew from a circular saw, is still at the home of his son, where the accident happened, and is reported to be gradually improving.

Misses Grace Fenner and Mabel Apgar, of Peapack, are visiting Mrs. Elias Sutton, at Annandale.

Martin S. Anderson, of Philadelphia, is spending a few days at Whitehouse Station. For many years he was operator for the Postal Telegraph Company there.

New Germantown Camp, No. 7905, Modern Woodmen of America, will hold a public meeting Monday evening in Barnet Hall, New Germantown. An address will be made by the State lecturer, and at the close of the program refreshments will be served.

The Methodist church at New Germantown, the pulpit of which has been filled by supply ministers heretofore, will ask the Newark Conference at its spring session to appoint a regular pastor. Rev. Clarence E. Carman, who has another year before he finishes his duties in Drew Theological Seminary, at Madison, will be transferred.

Miss Emily V. Hodge, of Newark, is spending a week with relatives at her former home at Gladstone.

Mrs. John L. Haver returned to New Brunswick yesterday, after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Liscombe T. Schenck, of Centreville.

Mrs. Daniel H. Beekman has returned to her home in Somerville, after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hoffman, at New Germantown.

Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Ryman, of the Ryman farm, East Whitehouse, are on a trip to Panama.

The postoffice department has asked for bids on a mail route between Gladstone and Whitehouse Station. All bids are to be in by Tuesday, February 3. This route is to accommodate the towns affected by the suspension of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad. The proposed route will leave Pottersville at 6:15 o'clock in the morning and go to Whitehouse Station, by the way of New Germantown, arriving at Whitehouse Station at 8:45 o'clock, and will leave Whitehouse Station at 9:30 o'clock, via New Germantown, arriving at Pottersville at 12 o'clock. In the afternoon the proposed route is scheduled to leave Pottersville at 1:30 o'clock for Gladstone and returning leave Gladstone at 5:45 o'clock for Pottersville.

WILL INSTALL NEW PASTOR.

German Valley, Jan. 30.—Rev. Julius Prochnan will be installed tonight as pastor of the German Valley and Schooley's Mountain churches. Rev. Prochnan comes from the Presbytery of Utica, N. Y., being pastor of the Presbyterian church of Norwich Corners, N. Y. Rev. J. G. Symmes, of Mendham, will preside, Rev. Dr. J. F. Patterson, of East Orange, will deliver the sermon, Rev. A. B. Robinson, of New York, will deliver the charge to the pastor and Rev. Dr. Baker Smith, of Fairmount, to the people. Rev. L. F. Sauerbrunn, of Chester, will offer the installation prayer. The church has been without a pastor for more than two years, since the resignation of Rev. Roland E. Crist. Mrs. Julius Prochnan has organized a junior Christian Endeavor Society of fifteen members, of which she is leader.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Going! These Women's and Misses' $25.00 Coats for $10.00

An Exceptional Bargain--This Group of Coats for Misses and Women Who Can Wear the Smaller Sizes

Fortunately the maker of these coats has more which he can let us have at the same exceptional price at which we purchased the first lot. And if yesterday's lively selling is a warning of what is to follow tomorrow, we'll surely need them!

A most unusual collection of coats—intended by the maker to be sold earlier in the season for $25—made of imported woolens, chinchillas and two-tone effects, in three-quarter length models, showing many of the new fashion ideas, and with the new sleeves and the kimono sleeve effects

Some of the coats have yoke effects, others have straight lines—many are lined throughout with soft-finished silks, others yoke lined, and others unlined, but with the seams bound.

Strictly men tailored coats in every detail and in a splendid assortment of desirable colorings. Tomorrow these very exceptional coats in one big group, your choice, while they last, at $10. Come early, for the early shoppers will find unusual opportunities!

More of Those Misses' and Women's $10 Coats for $5.50

Another new lot of coats in time for tomorrow's selling, direct from the maker, join this great group of $10 coats selling for $5.50. Sizes for both women and misses; made of cheviots, boucles, mixtures and two-tone effects. Three-quarter length models—some with rolling collars, some self colors and others with fur collars, trimmed with large buttons. Nearly every desirable color in this great collection. Coats intended to be sold for $10, tomorrow at.....$5.50

Another Extra! Women's $7 to $10 Dresses for $4.98

Not an old stock—every dress just finished and fresh from the maker. Made in one-piece models, so practical and so necessary to every woman's wardrobe. Made of serges, poplins, bedford cords and granite cloths. Dresses in a wide range of desirable colorings, in the popular styles of the day—not the ultra—and in all sizes. Some have Bulgarian effect collars, and all are finished with silk or satin girdles. Early in the season these same dresses would have sold readily at $7 to $10 each. Tomorrow at the Hahne store.....$4.98

JAPAN IS RIGHT, SAYS PRESIDENT

Contends Her Attitude In Mexico Is Correct.

FAVOR TWO DREADNOUGHTS

Secretary Daniels Quotes Wilson as Backing His Program For Strengthening the Navy—Newspapers Should Not Discuss Foreign Relations.

Washington, Jan. 30.—In a private talk President Wilson took special pains to emphasize the friendly disposition of the Washington administration toward Japan and that Japan's attitude in regard to the Mexican situation has been scrupulously correct.

Almost at the same time Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, speaking before the house committee on naval affairs, was making it known that President Wilson personally approved the program for the increase of the navy by the authorization of two new dreadnoughts, eight torpedo boat destroyers and three submarines.

As indicating the concern on the administration's part over what had been published in regard to Monday night's White House conference, a direct intimation was also given that it was incumbent upon newspapers to refrain from discussing the foreign relations of the United States. This, it was understood, was put forward as a general proposition and not as applying merely to present conditions involving the intercourse of this country with Japan, Mexico, Great Britain, Colombia and other nations having specific causes of controversy with the Washington government.

Domestic affairs, it was pointed out, were, of course, matters upon which the light of [illegible] should be thrown, but the government might be embarrassed or retarded in the adjustment of international difficulties if these differences were discussed in the press.

Another suggestion advanced was that a foreign government might gain from newspaper accounts an entirely erroneous idea of the attitude of the United States in a diplomatic incident involving that country and thus subject the president or some other official to suspicion of dissembling when a different proposition was advanced by him to an ambassador or minister.

Friendly Feeling.

President Wilson wishes to have it distinctly understood that the administration has the friendliest feeling for Japan. This feeling was manifested in a practical way when the president sent Secretary Bryan to Sacramento to use his influence against the alien land bill and in the direct appeals of the president to Governor Johnson of California. That there had been no change in this friendly sentiment was the sum and substance of what was said at the White House today.

The president let it be known that Mr. Guthrie, the American ambassador at Tokyo, had informed the state department that the Japanese government was not engaged in selling arms to the Huerta government.

Nothing was said to show just when this intelligence was received from Mr. Guthrie except that its transmission preceded by a considerable period Monday night's conference at the White House between President Wilson and the members of the state committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Guthrie, so the White House account went, had not based his vindication of the Japanese government upon any denial from that government itself, but had made inquiry in his own way to get at the bottom of reports that Japan was disposing of rifles used in the war with Russia to the Huerta administration. He learned, it was explained, that private companies contracted to ship arms to Mexico for the use of the federal troops. Apparently this is merely a repetition of what had already become known namely, that the Japanese government sold a large quantity of rifles to a German firm and a Japanese firm, and that those concerns made contracts to sell the arms to the Huerta government.

The statement finds its importance in its publication from the White House as a sign of the disposition there to acquit the Japanese government of unfriendliness in permitting these arms to be shipped.

LINER BREAKS DOWN AT SEA

United States Will Put Back to Glasgow With 234 Passengers.

Copenhagen, Jan. 30.—The Scandinavian American liner United States, which left here on Jan. 24 for New York, has been partly disabled by the bursting of a low pressure cylinder and will put back to Glasgow for repairs and transfer her 234 passengers to another ship.

The accident happened when the liner was 200 miles west of Scotland.

ASKS $25,000 FOR MULE'S KICK

Injured Man Will Always Carry Print of Animal's Shoe.

Middletown, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Umberto Russo brought suit against the Upper Hudson Stone company for $25,000 damages resulting from being kicked in the head by a mule. The suit is to be tried at Goshen next week.

It is asserted that the print of the mule's shoe will always remain in the man's forehead.

Brushes and Brooms.

A well-cared-for brush or broom lasts twice as long as one that is not well cared for.

In the first place, every brush and broom, excepting the flat-backed sort, for clothes and hats, should be hung in such a way that the bristles or broom straws do not rest on the wall or floor.

Hangers come for brooms—metal clamps that are nailed or screwed to the wall—that allow the broom to hang free of the wall. An easy way to hang a broom properly without such a hanger is to run a string through a hole bored with a gimlet an inch or so from the top end of the handle and knot it securely, and to hang this over a peg or nail driven in the wall. Brushes of all sorts and sizes, if they have handles at one end, can be hung in the same way. Brushes with flat backs can be laid on their backs, as in this position the bristles cannot be injured.

To Clean.

To clean brushes, use warm water, to which a little ammonia or borax has been added. Immerse the brush, and move it about until the bristles look clean. Then rinse it thoroughly, first in the warm water, then in cold water.

The way to wash a broom it is dip it in a pailful of hot soapsuds and water. Splash it up and down a few times, until it looks clean. Then dry it, rather quickly.

If the edges of a brush or broom are irregularly worn, trim the bristles or corns even while they are wet.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CREAMED CODFISH.

CREAMED fish is a palatable dish when the usual meats have grown tiresome, says an authority on cooking. With it corn muffins are particularly good, while a potato and endive salad is appetizing.

Cod and Creamed Sauce.—Take two tablespoonfuls of breadcrumbs, one-fourth teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper, one half a lemon rind grated fine, one egg and one ounce of butter. Mix breadcrumbs, parsley and seasoning on the plate. Remove skin from the fish and wash in salt and water. Dry well on a clean cloth, brush it with beaten egg and roll in the mixture. Place in baking pan and bake for about half an hour.

Creamed Codfish and Potato Sandwich.—Take cold mashed potatoes and whip them until light. Put half of the potato into a shallow baking dish, brush with melted butter, spread over it cold creamed codfish, add the remainder of the potatoes, brush with melted butter and place in a brisk oven for ten minutes. Both mashed potatoes and creamed codfish are leftovers.

Creamed Codfish on Toast.—Take a cupful each of salt codfish and milk, a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, a dash of paprika and a half teaspoonful of grated onion. Soak the codfish overnight. In the morning pour off the water and cover with cold water. Put it on the stove and bring to the boiling point; then pick into small pieces, mix with the sauce and serve on toast. To make the sauce put the butter and onion into a saucepan, add flour, mix well, add the cold milk slowly, stirring until smooth and creamy, boil three minutes. Dust the creamed codfish with paprika.

Served In Delicious Sauce.

Creamed Codfish With Eggs.—Take two cupfuls each of flaked codfish and milk, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste, three hard boiled eggs, a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Boil the codfish till tender; then reheat in a white sauce made of the other ingredients. Chop the eggs coarsely, add to mixture, sprinkle in the parsley and serve either in a border of mashed potatoes or on toast.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7907

Russian blouse designs are deservedly popular this season for both old and young. They may be made in almost any of the favored wool materials and are highly attractive in velveteen or corduroy.

7907 is a design that would be excellent made up in serge or ratine for school wear and very dressy in black velveteen.

If made in serge the collar, cuffs and girdle would be effective in a bright silk; if dark blue or black velveteen is the material selected, bandings of an inexpensive fur would make it dressy. White fox or coney is especially becoming to the girl of 16 or 18.

In making up velvet or velveteen it is well to remember that the material will shade better and the suit have a much richer appearance if the nap runs up instead of down.

This suit may be made in size 16 with 4 yards of 42 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14 to 18.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

NEW KITCHEN DEVICES.

It Is Well to Be Wary In Trying Many Innovations.

One of the tests of efficiency in a factory is to have no unnecessary equipment, no article which has not been tested and proved useful. The efficient housewife realizes the force of this wisdom in her plant as well.

There are numberless patent devices on the market and new ones being invented every day. On a trip through the kitchen department of many large stores the unwary housewife is beset on every side by alluring demonstrators, who proudly proclaim the marvels of the labor saving articles they exhibit. But if she buys things that have not been tested she will soon have on her hands dishwashers which only succeed in breaking the dishes and potato parers which crumble up into bits of useless tin after short use, can openers which refuse to open anything, and her only recourse will be to throw these failures into the scrap heap.

The wise housewife will have learned her lesson by this experience and will begin again along different lines. She will buy her kitchen utensils and home equipment generally at a reliable store whose very name precludes the idea of cheap and uncertain articles being carried.

The housewife may go watch the process of any article she desires to purchase and be instructed in its use, and before purchasing any article, whether expensive or cheap and especially those which are essentially labor saving, it is certainly reassuring to know that it has been proved to be of value by experienced people.

Cleaning Polished Floors.

When cleaning polished or parquet floorings or linoleum which has been beeswaxed a good idea is to tie a large soft duster around a broom, going over the floor carefully with it, taking up the dust without causing any to fly about as one does when using a hair broom and sweeping in the usual way.

This done, remove the duster and in its place cover the broom with a bag made of flannelette or any material you may have, sewing several thicknesses over the part to come in contact with the floor. The legs of old stockings will do for the padding or, better still, an old piece of velvet or plush.

Then hold the broom slantwise, rubbing backward and forward all over the floor, thus polishing the surface without the trouble of stooping.

Occasionally the floor will need a coat of floor polish, but the method described is easy, and one is able to get over the work in a few minutes in a perfectly satisfactory manner.

New Linen Shoe Bag.

An Austrian linen shoe bag trimmed with a band of Porto Rican embroidery which is worked into a design spelling "Shoes" costs $1. It is well and durably made in spite of its small price and is useful for any one who spends week ends or other time visiting.

A Bracelet Novelty.

Among the trinket novelties is a new bracelet watch, which looks much better on the arm than the old style one of this type, for instead of being a round lump, more or less clumsy in its proportion to the bracelet on which it is mounted, the new watch is an oblong affair about three-fourths of an inch wide by two inches long, which harmonizes well with the pattern and width of an ordinary, rather heavy bracelet.

Ten, 11, 12, 1, 2 are numbered along one side of the oblong; 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 along the other, 3 and 9 occupying their respective ends. It is really very easy to tell time by this oblong watch. One wonders why the idea has not been tried before.

The Bird Tipped Away Over.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Gnomes And the Tipster Bird.

"THE gnomes," said daddy, "are almost the best natured little creatures there are. They are very happy always, and they always have good luck. In fact, they have a good luck bird—a special bird that just belongs to them. He flies over them and sings very much like a canary, which the gnomes enjoy. They feed him all the crumbs and worms he wants to eat, and they call him the tipster bird."

"What a funny name," said Jack. "How did he ever happen to be called the tipster bird? Has he always been called that?"

"No, not always," said daddy, "but now he is never known as anything else but the tipster bird. I'll tell you how it happened.

"One time there was one little gnome who caused all the other gnomes a great deal of trouble. He was often very sulky and very cross. In fact, his bad disposition was a great worry to the gnomes.

"One day the gnomes were all frolicking about having a splendid time when one of them suggested they should play tag.

"At last the little gnome with the cross disposition was tagged.

"'You're it!' they called.

"But the cross little gnome was so mad that he'd been caught that he hit the little gnome who had tagged him and said, 'I won't be it, and I won't play any more!'

"At that the lucky bird, as the gnomes then called him, was so surprised to see a gnome angry and do such a dreadful thing as to hit a little playmate that he tipped way over on one side.

"'Look at the queer way our lucky bird is tipping!' shouted a gnome. And before they knew it he'd fallen to the ground, for he'd completely lost his balance. His right wing was quite hurt, and for a few days he was a very miserable little bird, but with the good care of the gnomes he soon got well and could fly around and sing. But after that he was always known as the tipster bird, for when he had seen a little gnome cross and behave badly he had fallen to the ground in astonishment. And the cross little gnome was so ashamed of what he had done that he turned out to have the same lovely disposition that all the other gnomes have, and, of course, no gnome could be cross again when he realized that he'd caused a little bird to fall to the ground in surprise and horror.

"The name of the tipster bird has always clung to the gnomes' pet bird ever since, and it's a good thing, too, for now if any little gnome should feel angry he stops and thinks, 'If I'm cross the tipster bird will lose control of his wings and will tip to one side until he falls to the ground.' And as the tipster bird is such a pet every gnome sees to it that such a thing will never happen again."

BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD---END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head Are Clogged from a Cold—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges—Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils, penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

AN ATTRACTIVE AND SIMPLE EMBROIDERED BLOUSE

The one-piece models are characteristic of the season's styles and this pretty blouse is indeed a boon to the home dressmaker, for it is cut entirely in one-piece. The pattern 8121, comes in sizes 34 to 42. Such a model is appropriate for making a blouse of crêpe de Chine, Canton crêpe, crêpe voile or any of the new heavy cotton crêpes and if embroidered in a simple design such as 14012, the blouse will be appropriate for afternoon or matinee wear. The neck and sleeves may be finished with a net plaiting and the front and cuffs should be closed with crochet buttons and loops.

The embroidery design may be stamped with transfer pattern 14012, and developed in the color of the material in outline stitch and seeding or in solid work. It is best to embroider the design before making up the waist as it is much easier to handle, and the only seams in this waist are under the arms. The transfer pattern includes four sprays which may be arranged on the front and sleeves, as illustrated or front and back, and the design is so simple to work, that no amateur need be afraid to undertake it.

Waist pattern 8121, can be supplied to readers in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure for 15 cents. The guaranteed, hot iron transfer pattern, 14012, can be supplied for 15 cents.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

CHAPTER III.

The Crack of a Pistol.

MR. MAGEE paused. For sharply in the silence the bell of his room telephone rang out.

He stood for a moment gazing in wonder, his heart beating swiftly, his eyes upon the instrument on the wall. It was a house phone. He knew it could only be rung from the switchboard in the hall below. "I'm going mad already," he remarked and took down the receiver.

A blur of talk, an electric muttering, a click, and all was still.

Mr. Magee opened the door and stepped out into the shadows. He heard a voice below. Noiselessly he crept to the landing and gazed down into the office. A young man sat at the telephone switchboard. Mr. Magee could see in the dim light of a solitary candle that he was a person of rather hilarious raiment. The candle stood on the top of the safe, and the door of the latter swung open. Sinking down on the steps in the dark, Mr. Magee waited.

"Hello," the young man was saying; "how do you work this thing, anyhow? I've tried every peg but the right one. Hello, hello! I want long distance—Reuton, 2876 West—Mr. Andy Rutter. Will you get him for me, sister?"

Another wait—a long one—ensued. The candle sputtered. The young man fidgeted in his chair. At last he spoke again:

"Hello! Andy? Is that you, Andy? What's the good word? As quiet as the tomb of Napoleon? Shall I close up shop? Sure? What next? Oh, see here, Andy, I'd die up here! Did you ever hit a place like this in winter? I can't—I—oh, well, if he says so! Yes; I could do that. But no longer. I couldn't stand it long. Tell him that. Tell him everything's O. K. Yes. All right. Well, good night, Andy."

He turned away from the switchboard, and as he did so Mr. Magee walked calmly down the stairs toward him. With a cry the young man ran to the safe, threw a package inside and swung shut the door. He turned the knob of the safe several times; then he faced Mr. Magee. The latter saw something glitter in his hand.

"Good evening," remarked Mr. Magee pleasantly.

"What are you doing here?" cried the youth wildly.

"I live here," Mr. Magee assured him. "Won't you come up to my room—it's right at the head of the stairs. I have a fire, you know."

Back into the young man's lean, hawklike face crept the assurance that belonged with the gay attire he wore. He dropped the revolver into his pocket and smiled a sneering smile.

"You gave me a turn," he said. "Of course you live here. Are any of the other guests about? And who won the tennis match today?"

"You are facetious," Mr. Magee smiled too. "So much the better. A lively companion is the very sort I should have ordered tonight. Come upstairs."

"All right," he said. "But I'll have to ask you to go first. You know the way." His right hand sought the pocket into which the revolver had fallen.

"You honor my poor and drafty house," said Mr. Magee. "This way."

He mounted the stairs. After him followed the youth of flashy habiliments, looking fearfully about him as he went. He seemed surprised that they came to Magee's room without incident. Inside, Mr. Magee drew up an easy chair before the fire and offered his guest a cigar.

"You must be cold," he said. "Sit here. 'A bad night, stranger,' as they remark in stories."

"You've said it," replied the young man, accepting the cigar. "Thanks." He walked to the door leading into the hall and opened it about a foot. "I'm afraid," he explained jocosely, "we'll get to talking and miss the breakfast bell." He dropped into the chair and lighted his cigar at a candle end. "Say, you never can tell, can you? Climbing up old Baldpate I thought to myself that hotel certainly makes the Sahara desert look like a cozy corner. And here you are, as snug and comfortable and at home as if you were in a Harlem flat. You never can tell. And what now? The story of my life?"

"You might relate," Mr. Magee told him, "that portion of it that has led you trespassing on a gentleman seeking seclusion at Baldpate inn."

"Trespassing, eh?" said the young man. "Far be it from me to quarrel with a man who smokes as good cigars as you do, but there's something I haven't quite doped out. That is—who's trespassing on me or you?"

"My right here," said Mr. Magee, "is indisputable."

"It's a big word," replied the other, "but you can tack it to my right here and tell no lie. We can't dispute, so let's drop the matter. With that settled I'm encouraged to pour out the story of why you see me here tonight, far from the madding crowd. Have you a stray tear? You'll need it. It's a sad, touching story, concerned with haberdashery and a trusting heart, and a fair woman—fair, but, oh, how false!"

"Proceed," laughed Mr. Magee. "I'm an admirer of the vivid imagination. Don't curb yours, I beg of you."

"It's all straight," said the other in a hurt tone. "Every word true. My name is Joseph Bland. My profession, until love entered my life, was that of haberdasher and outfitter. In the city of Reuton, fifty miles from here, I taught the Beau Brummels of the thoroughfares what was doing in London in the necktie line. I sold them coats with padded shoulders and collars high and awe inspiring. I was happy, twisting a piece of silk over my hand to show them how it would look on their heaving bosoms. And then—she came."

Mr. Bland puffed on his cigar.

"Yes," he said, "Arabella sparkled on the horizon of my life. When I have been here in the quiet for about two centuries, maybe I can do justice to her beauty. I won't attempt to describe her now. I loved her—madly. She said I made a hit with her. I spent on her the profits of my haberdashery. I whispered—marriage. She didn't scream. I had my wedding necktie picked out from the samples of a drummer from Troy.

"From here on—the tear I spoke of, please. There flashed on the scene a man she had known and loved in Jersey City. I said flashed. He did—just that. A swell dresser—say, he had John Drew beat by two mauve neckties and a purple frock coat. I had a haberdashery back of me. No use. He outdressed me. I saw that Arabella's love for me was waning. With his chamois gloved hands that new guy fanned the ancient flame."

He paused. Emotion—or the smoke of the cigar—choked him.

"Let's make the short story shorter," he said. "She threw me down. In my haberdashery I thought it over. I was blue, bitter. I resolved on a dreadful step. In the night I wrote her a letter and carried it down to the box and posted it. Life without Arabella, said the letter, was Shakespeare with Hamlet left out. It hinted at the river, carbolic acid, revolvers. Yes; I posted it. And then"—

"And then," urged Mr. Magee.

Mr. Bland felt tenderly of the horseshoe pin in his purple tie.

"This is just between us," he said. "At that point the trouble began. It came from my being naturally a very brave man. I could have died—easy. The brave thing was to live. To go on day after day devoid of Arabella—say, that took courage. I wanted to try it. I'm a courageous man, as I say."

"You seem so," Mr. Magee agreed.

"Lion hearted," assented Mr. Bland. "I determined to show my nerve and live. But there was my letter to Arabella. I feared she wouldn't appreciate my bravery. Women are dull sometimes. It came to me maybe she would be hurt if I didn't keep my word and die. So I had to—disappear. I had a friend mixed up in affairs at Baldpate. No; I can't give his name. I told him my story. He was impressed by my spirit, as you have been. He gave me a key he had—the key of the door opening from the east veranda into the dining room. So I came up here. I came here to be alone, to forgive and forget, to be forgot. And maybe to plan a new haberdashery in distant parts."

"Was it your wedding necktie," asked Mr. Magee, "that you threw into the safe when you saw me coming?"

"No," replied Mr. Bland, sighing deeply. "A package of letters, written to me by Arabella at various times. I want to forget 'em. If I kept them on hand I might look at them from time to time. My great courage might give way. You might find my body on the stairs. That's why I hid them."

Mr. Magee laughed and stretched forth his hand.

"Believe me," he said, "your touching confidence in me will not be betrayed. I congratulate you on your narrative power. You want my story. Why am I here? I am not sure that it is worthy to follow yours. But it has its good points—as I have thought it out."

He went over to the table and picked up a popular novel upon which his gaze had rested while the haberdasher spun his fabric of love and gloom. On the cover was a picture of a very dashing maiden.

"Do you see that girl?" he asked. "She is beautiful, is she not? Even Arabella in her most splendid moments could get a few points from her, I fancy. Perhaps you are not familiar with the important part such a picture plays in the success of a novel today. The truth is, however, that the noble art of fiction writing has come to lean more and more heavily on its illustrators. The mere words that go with the pictures grow less important every day. There are dozens of distinguished novelists in the country at this moment who might be haberdashers if it weren't for the long, lean, haughty ladies who are scattered tastefully through their works."

Mr. Bland stirred uneasily.

"I can see you are at loss to know what my search for seclusion and privacy has to do with all this," continued Mr. Magee. "I am an artist. For years I have drawn these lovely ladies who make fiction salable to the masses. Many a novelist owes his motorcar and his country house to my brush. Two months ago I determined to give up illustration forever and devote my time to painting. I turned my back on the novelists. Can you imagine what happened?"

"My imagination's a little tired," apologized Mr. Bland.

"Never mind. I'll tell you. The leading authors whose work I had so long illustrated saw ruin staring them in the face. They came to me on their knees, figuratively. They begged. They pleaded. In order to escape them and their really pitiful pleadings I had to flee. I happened to have a friend involved in the management of Baldpate inn. I am not at liberty to give his name. He gave me a key. So here I am. I rely on you to keep my secret. If you perceive a novelist in the distance lose no time in warning me."

Mr. Magee paused, chuckling inwardly. He stood looking down at the lovelorn haberdasher. The latter got to his feet and solemnly took Magee's hand.

"I—I—oh, well, you've got me beat a mile, old man," he said.

"You don't mean to say"— began the hurt Magee.

"Oh, that's all right," Mr. Bland assured him. "I believe every word of it. It's all as real as the haberdashery to me. I'll keep my eye peeled for novelists. What gets me is, when you boil our two fly by night stories down, I've come here to be alone. You want to be alone. We can't be alone here together. One of us must clear out."

"Nonsense," answered Billy Magee. "I'll be glad to have you here. Stay as long as you like."

The haberdasher looked Mr. Magee fully in the eye, and the latter was startled by the hostility he saw in the other's face.

"The point is," said Mr. Bland, "I don't want you here. Why? Maybe because you recall beautiful dames—on book covers—and in that way, Arabella. Maybe—but what's the use? I put it simply. I got to be alone—alone on Baldpate mountain. I won't put you out tonight"—

"See here, my friend," cried Mr. Magee, "your grief has turned your head. You won't put me out tonight or tomorrow. I'm here to stay. You're welcome to do the same, if you like. But you stay—with me. I know you are a man of courage, but it would take at least ten men of courage to put me out of Baldpate inn."

They stood eying each other for a moment. Bland's thin lips twisted into a sneer. "We'll see," he said. "We'll settle all that in the morning." His tone took on a more friendly aspect. "I'm going to pick out a downy couch in one of these rooms," he said, "and lay me down to sleep. Say, I could greet a blanket like a long lost friend."

Mr. Magee proffered some of the covers that Quimby had given him and accompanied Mr. Bland to suit 10, across the hall. With a brisk good night Mr. Magee returned to No. 7.

But he made no move toward the chilly brass bed in the inner room.

Instead he sat a long time by the fire. He reflected on the events of his first few hours in that supposedly uninhabited solitude where he was to be alone with his thoughts. He pondered the way and manner of the flippant young man who posed as a lovelorn haberdasher and under whose flippancy there was certainly an air of hostility. Who was Andy Rutter, down in Reuton? What did the young man mean when he asked if he should "close up shop?" Who was "he" from whom came the orders, and, most important of all, what was in the package now resting in the great safe?

Mr. Magee smiled. Was this the stuff of which solitude was made?

He threw off his dressing gown and began to unlace his shoes.

"There has been too much crude melodrama in my novels," he reflected. "It's so easy to write. But I'm going to get away from all that up here. I'm going"—

Mr. Magee paused, with one shoe poised in his hand. For from below came the sharp crack of a pistol, followed by the crash of breaking glass.

CUCARACHA SLIDE, WHICH HAS BOTHERED ENGINEERS AT THE PANAMA CANAL

CUCARACHA SLIDE AT CULEBRA CUT—OPPOSITE CULEBRA VILLAGE

The above photograph is probably one of the best photographs yet obtained of the Cucaracha slide in the Culebra cut of the Panama Canal. The slide has bothered the engineers since the work was started, and, despite their utmost efforts, continues to fill in as fast as dredges can dig out the tons and tons of earth. The Cucaracha slide is almost opposite the American camp in the village of Culebra and is about thirty-three miles in from the Atlantic Ocean. The accompanying photograph shows a view looking from Culebra toward the Atlantic. Suction dredges were found inadequate to the task of removing the earth in the slide, as it is of heavy clay, which clogs the pipes, and bucket dredges which replaced them are to be seen in operation at either side of the slide.

MAY CALL OFF TRUST HEARINGS

Have Not Received Requests For Discussion.

BUSINESS MEN SATISFIED

Stanley Tells of Monopolies, and His Narration of Its History Makes Business World Yawn—Goes Back to the Days of Queen Elizabeth.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Unless there is a change of front on the part of the business men the administration anti-trust bills may be reported to the house practically without hearings. Chairman Adamson of the interstate commerce committee said that he had no requests for a hearing on either the bill proposing the creation of an interstate trade commission or the bill providing for governmental supervision over the issuance of railway securities. The same state of affairs obtains in the judiciary committee, which has before it the trades relations bill and the bill aimed at interlocking directorates.

Hearings, however, started and Representative A. O. Stanley, Democrat, of Kentucky presented opening argument.

Mr. Stanley began his statement to the committee with a review of the question of monopoly in England, starting back in the days of the Tudors and working forward.

The antiquity of much of the matter presented by Mr. Stanley failed to appeal to the members of the committee. They were courteously restive, and finally when Mr. Stanley began an exhaustive review of the playing card monopoly in the days of Elizabeth and then launched upon a history of the cochineal monopoly in the reign of Charles II., Representative McCoy of New Jersey interrupted to ask:

"Mr. Stanley, can you not enlighten the committee as to the first suggestion of monopolistic tendencies in this country—say in the period of the writing of the constitution?"

"I expect to come down to that shortly," replied Mr. Stanley.

To Appear Again.

The Kentucky congressman will appear before the committee again and continue his historical review. He will be followed by Representative Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin.

The judiciary committee has not as yet prepared a list of the witnesses who will appear in the course of the hearings on the anti-trust measures. The blanket invitation is meeting with a disappointing list of responses. Heads of big and bigger business are hesitant about taking the initiative in coming before the committee.

They feel that if the committee wants enlightenment it should invite the attendance of the men whom it is desirous of hearing. They feel also that voluntary appearances put them in the light of litigants seeking redress from the possible rigors of the projected legislation rather than of experts competent to explain and analyze the conditions of business in the United States today.

It is known that the Standard Oil company, for example—has witnesses—one or more—whom they would like to have heard by the committee. They will not, however, make the first move.

Former Mayor Seth Low of New York city has been invited to appear before the committee next Wednesday and has notified the chairman that he will be present.

STATE RELIGION FOR CHINA.

Worship of Heaven and Confucius Order by President of Republic.

Peking, Jan. 30.—A bill prescribing the worship of heaven and of Confucius by the president of the Chinese republic was passed by the administrative council, which took the place of the Chinese parliament, recently dissolved by President Yuan Shi Kai. The measure was submitted to the council by Yuan Shi Kai himself.

It is understood that the president's idea is to set an example to the Chinese nation, which he thinks needs the moral building influence of religion. The question of the introduction of a state religion has created considerable controversy in China, the Christian missionaries of all sects opposing such a step.

PAST CHIEFS' ASS'N BANQUET

Representatives of the Knights of the Golden Eagle Gather in This City.

AT THE HOTEL WALDORF

Interesting Speakers and a Fine Dinner Combine to Make the Affair Enjoyable — List of the Guests.

Members of the Past Chiefs' Association, District No. 10, of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, last night, enjoyed their seventh annual banquet at the Waldorf Hotel. Representatives were present from Freedom Castle, No. 42, of Plainfield, Golden Crown Castle, No. 52, of Somerville, and New Brunswick Castle, No. 21, of New Brunswick.

Past Chief Thomas DePew, of New Brunswick Castle, No. 21, who is president of the association, presided at the dinner last night and acted as toastmaster. The members drank a standing toast to Grand Chief William Chew, of the State of New Jersey, when he was introduced to the assemblage.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, of Plainfield, is twelve years old and has a membership of 250. The order is fraternal and beneficial and has a military branch attached.

Grand Chief Chew spoke briefly. In part he said:

"Sociability is a very good thing. It is good for us to get together; to eat, drink and make merry at a time like this. You are a fine body of men and I am proud to number you among the members of our great order.

"I have been journeying all over this State and the order of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, I am happy to say, seems to be growing and increasing steadily at all points. I hope that you gentlemen will keep up these annual dinners always and that the membership of our order will steadily increase in this district."

Brief remarks, of a congratulatory nature, were made by District Grand Chief R. S. Turton, of New Brunswick Castle, No. 21.

Past Grand Chief Horace J. Martin, of Freedom Castle, No. 42, of Plainfield, when called on for a speech by the toastmaster, declared that he had almost talked himself out, having spoken at every banquet thus far given by the Past Chiefs' Association.

"This speechmaking, so far as I am concerned," said he, "is one of the features of our annual gathering that makes me feel as if I did not want to come. I have been talking to you for the past seven years and feel that I have really talked myself out and have exhausted my ideas and that it were better you had some other one speak to you. I am always afraid that my theme will be an old one and that in the thoughts which I express to you I may possibly repeat myself. I have many times addressed you regarding the principles of our order and of its charitable and benevolent features. It should be the aim of all of us to strive to attain and achieve the highest honors in our order.

"Right here I want to voice a thought and speak to you on the subject of forgetfulness. Memory has been spoken of as a most desirable achievement and accomplishment but, tonight, I want rather to touch upon forgetfulness. Let us, as brothers, forget that which our brother has done that has annoyed or displeased us. Be charitable and benevolent at all times and blot from your minds unpleasing things. Let us forget and forgive as all good and loyal brothers should."

Past Chief C. C. Graves responded briefly to a toast as did Past Grand Chief Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, both of Freedom Castle, No. 42, of Plainfield. Dr. Buchanan said in part:

"I was tongue-tied when I was born and shrieked for help. It is an affliction that bothers me a great deal and as you all know I am not a fluent speaker. I do know, however, that one and all of you will surely benefit by your association with the order of the Knights of the Golden Eagle. You have got to go a long ways before you find any order that has as high and lofty principles and ideals as has this order of ours.

"I remember when we started Freedom Castle, No. 42, here in Plainfield, with but forty-five members. It meant work, and hard work, too, to keep the castle here going and to make it grow, but the work was done and that it was done well and loyally is shown by the fact that Freedom Castle, No. 42, did grow and it is still growing. Growth means life and life means growth. Stagnation means death always. Membership in our order is a tower of moral strength and growth."

ABIEL D. EDGAR ASSISTANT SUPT.

Official Announcement of Several Changes Made by the New Jersey Central.

Councilman Abiel D. Edgar, of East Front street, who has been associated with the New Jersey Central as trainmaster for a number of years, has been made assistant superintendent of the road, effective February 1. This position, just created by the company, will bring added duties, also a material increase in salary. In the position Mr. Edgar has held for so many years he has become thoroughly conversant with the details of not only his work, but those of the new position he is about to assume, and is especially well fitted for the place.

Coincident with the above announcement is one that E. E. Kerwin, who has been superintendent of the road, will accompany C. W. Huntington, the general superintendent, both taking positions with the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad, with headquarters at Minneapolis. Mr. Huntington is to become vice president of the latter road. Both he and Mr. Kerwin came to the New Jersey Central at the same time.

John W. Meredith, who has been superintendent of the New Jersey Southern Division, will succeed Mr. Huntington as general superintendent, and Charles H. Stein, who has been engineer of maintenance department of the road, will succeed Mr. Kerwin as superintendent. He will have charge of the construction and maintenance of roadbed, while Mr. Edgar will be in charge of the operating department. Samuel B. Zartman, who has been general agent for the company at Newark, will succeed Mr. Meredith on the New Jersey Southern Division.

MOUNTAINEERS LIFE IN VIRGINIA DESCRIBED

Rev. Geo. C. Wilding Gave Interesting Talk at First M. E. Church Last Night.

"One Year's Experience as a Circuit Rider in Virginia," was the subject of the lecture delivered last night in Vincent Chapel of the First M. E. church, on West Front street, by the Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding, of Newark. The Rev. Dr. Wilding is field secretary of the Centenary Fund of the Methodist Conference. He is an interesting and highly entertaining speaker and has an excellent delivery.

The clergyman, in riding circuit, which experience happened a good many years ago, toured on horseback the White Sulphur Springs country in the mountainous region about the borderland of Virginia and West Virginia. His labors were among a highly moral and intensely religious people, not the ordinary poor and ignorant white mountaineers that are so often to be found in some of the southern States. Instead the West Virginia mountaineers and their families he found to be sturdy, God-fearing people, mostly sprung from Scotch-Irish ancestry. For the most part the clergyman said he found them to be devout, but liberal-minded and not in the least sense bigoted. The region about the borderland between the two Virginias is a wonderfully beautiful country, the Rev. Dr. Wilding said., The country is fertile, there is excellent pasturage, much wheat is raised, and Nature gives bountifully of her stores of coal and oil. There are many fine farms and orchards. The highest morality rules throughout this region. Instancing this, the speaker said that at the last election the State of West Virginia voted against the sale of liquor in the State and after July next the saloons and breweries will have to cease business. The people of the State voted 2½ to 1 against the liquor interests and in the particular county in which the Rev. Dr. Wilding labored as a circuit rider in the long ago, the vote was 14 to 1 against the sale and traffic in liquor. During the year that the clergyman labored and preached among the Virginia mountaineers he declared he did not see a single case of drunkenness.

West Virginia, the Rev. Dr. Wilding declared, was now building the finest Methodist churches as well as the most costly in the United States. Fifteen magnificent churches, far superior in architecture and cost to most churches here in the North, he said, have, within a comparatively few years, been built in that State.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUET.

Former Governor J. Franklin Fort will be the speaker at the annual banquet of the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday night, February 12, Lincoln's Birthday. He will speak on Lincoln. Reservation for seats can be made by communicating with William Abbe, of 832 Webster place.

MIANTONOMO TRIBE'S BALL A BIG SUCCESS

Red Men Made Merry Last Night at Sebring's Auditorium for 20th Time.

The twentieth annual ball of the Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Order of Red Men, was held last night, in Sebring's Auditorium and fully 300 guests were entertained by the lodgemen. Visiting tribes from nearby towns brought large delegations to the affair, several auto trucks conveying Red Men from New Brunswick and other points.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated with the National colors and music for the dancing was furnished by Suhr's orchestra. The platform on which the musicians sat was decorated with a profus array of cut flowers, palms and pennants and presented a beautiful spectacle.

The committee on arrangements was composed of Charles H. Halliwell, representative of the Great Council, chairman; Charles Holstein, secretary; Percy H. Culver, treasurer; Peter Sheridan, Daniel, Mundy, John Flynn, F. Bailey, Charles Halliwell, Jr., Thomas Parsons. John Madden acted as floor manager and he was assisted by John Timble.

The affair was a great success socially and as a result the treasury of the lodge will be swelled considerably.

GUESTS OF THE MARTINES WANT SENATOR RE-ELECTED

The New Jersey colony at the National Capitol, and it is considerable of a settlement now, rallied Thursday night at the home of Senator and Mrs. Martine. The assembly included a representative section of official Washington, including Chief Justice White, Associate Justices McKenna and Hughes, members of the New Jersey delegation in Congress, Secretary Tumulty and several of Mr. Martine's colleagues in the Senate. The senior Senator was in fine form. In the course of the evening a group, consisting of Senator Kern, leader of the Senate; Senator O'Gorman Congressman Hamill and Mr. Tumulty, got to discussing the prospect of Mr. Martine being returned in 1916 for a second term. Senator O'Gorman gave voice to the desire of the Democratic side to retain Senator Martine as one of their number.

The Senator from New York was quoted as saying that New Jersey owed it to herself to return such a consistent and genuine Democrat as Martine.

Senator Kern then opined that it was up to New Jersey Democrats and good citizens generally to stand for Martine and if the people of New Jersey wanted his opinion as floor leader, and associate of Mr. Martine, he would willingly go into the State when the Senatorial campaign started and speak from the hustings.

Mr. O'Gorman told the little knot that he, too, would be willing to go into the State and inform the public of the faithfulness and the regularity of Mr. Martine in attending to his duties. Of course the senior Senator was not a party to the foregoing, but when informed of it subsequently, he declared it was "a grand manifestation of genuine friendship."

PREFERS JAIL TO PAYING WIFE $2 EVERY WEEK

Ordered by City Judge DeMeza this morning to pay $2 each week to the Overseer of the Poor for the support of his wife and two children, John Snedeker, of West Third street, declared at the top of his voice, "I'll go to jail first." "Sixty day in the county jail is the sentence imposed," replied Judge DeMeza, and the prisoner was led away to a cell and later taken to the county jail.

Mrs. Mary Snedeker, colored, his wife, appeared as complainant against the man, whom she charged with having struck her in the face several days ago. She bore a badly swollen left eye to substantiate her claim. J. Henry Crane who represented the defendant, was making arrangements for the couple to separate. As the magistrate was ordering Snedeker to provide for his wife by paying her a weekly allowance, he voiced his preference to a stay behind the bars.

COUNTERFEIT $5 BILLS.

"Beware of $5 silver certificates bearing E-6712 as part of the serial number because they are counterfeits," was the warning sent out by Police Chief Kiely today to stores, business houses and banks. Clever reproductions of five-dollar bills have been printed by counterfeiters and circulated in Paterson, Hackensack, Bound Brook and other towns, according to information received from the authorities of those places.

MANY WITNESSED ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Y. W. C. A. Members Presented Complete Program in Y. M. C. A. Gym.

FOLK DANCES FEATURE

Given Under the Direction of Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, the Association Director—Basketball Game Concludes Program.

The seventh annual gymnastic exhibition held under the auspices of the local Y. W. C. A. was held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night and was witnessed by an audience that packed the gallery and a portion of the playing floor. In completeness and originality it eclipsed all others and the work of the fifty or more participants was the subject for favorable comment.

Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, physical director of the local Association, planned and supervised the affair, and to her efforts is largely due the marked success of the undertaking. Many of the drills were presented by exceptionally young children who went through their stunts without signal of command. The nine different gymnasium classes meeting in the Association during the week took part in the event and the program consisted of numbers which are a part of the regular routine of class work in the Y. W. C. A.

During the seven years the Association has conducted regularly supervised gymnastic work, an exhibition has been an annual feature and the demonstration given last night was based on the work accomplished during the term just closed. The 1914 term will open Monday afternoon when a class for boys under eleven years of age will be held at 3:15 o'clock and a North Plainfield High School class of girls will have the "gym" at 4:30 o'clock.

The Association schedule has been divided up by Miss Wetherell to include classified exercises for the girl of every age and the various classes are selected with a view to placing the girls of the same age and physical ability in the same class. This was demonstrated in last night's exhibition, the events on the program being given in each instance by girls belonging to the same class in the Association work.

The program included the following numbers: Grand march, free standing exercises and running, games (a) hickory dickory dock, (b) beans porridge hot, Indian dance, Indian club and dumb bell drill, sailor's hornpipe, old rustic dance (English folk dance), Hop Mor Annika (Swedish folk dance), game—snatch the handkerchief, Bleking (Swedish folk dance), dancing topsy, forest spirits, (Greek group dance), game—all-up relay race.

All of the eleven numbers were presented without a single hitch and prominent among the exhibit was the work of the forest spirits, twelve girls garbed in pale blue costumes which they made for the occasion. The spirits danced a Greek group dance and placed a pleasing finale on the program of gymnastic work which was wound up with an exciting relay race.

Miss Margaret C. Harkins presided at the piano during the exhibition. The affair was concluded with a basketball game between the Y. W. C. A. and North Plainfield High School girls' teams which was won by the former by a score of 21 to 14. A detailed account of the game will be found on the sporting page.

CRIES WHEN ASSAILANT GETS A JAIL SENTENCE

Harry Kohn, of West Third street, was found guilty of the charge of having thrown a dipperful of warm tar on Mrs. Louis Levine, of Elm place, and was sentenced by City Judge W. G. DeMeza this morning, to spend twenty days in the county jail. The woman cried when he was led to a cell and said that she would raise the money necessary to pay the fine if he was freed. Kohn was charged with disorderly conduct. His attorney was Louis A. Clement. The complainant was represented by William Newcorn.

Kohn is said to be a troublemaker by the police. They say he has been found guilty of disorderly conduct heretofore. The assault is said to have been made on Mrs. Levine yesterday when she demanded $10 which she alleged Kohn owed her. The woman admitted having tried to strike Kohn with a stick before he threw the tar on her.

TROUBLESOME TRAMP AN AMUSING FELLOW

Comedy Presented by Young Men' Club of Grace Church Was Pleasing.

An audience that filled the auditorium of the Park Club witnessed the performance of the four-act comedy "The Troublesome Tramp," which was presented by the members of the Young Men's Club of the Grace Episcopal church last night, and the affair proved to be a marked success in every way. Many amusing incidents were presented which kept those present in a constant round of laughter from start to finish and the amateur thespians gave the show in a finished style.

The comedy is staged on the Narragansett Pier and the setting was effective and unique. The seven parts in the cast were all acted well and the characters fitted into their respective places remarkably well. Frederick Krom took the role of Mrs. Gordon, a feminine part, for whi which the play called and many of his most intimate friends were kept in ignorance of his identity until he unmasked.

Edward Jenkins took the part of Patrick Rafferty and proved to be an able exponent of true Irish wit and his jokes and humorous remarks caused numerous laughs. Stanley Bellows also appeared in a feminine role playing the part of Nan Stevens, a pretty seaside damsel, while Robert Gavett took the part of Jack French, of the leading characters in the cast.

Waldorf Ulrich took the part of Dorothy Gordon, the daughter of Mrs. Gordon (Frederick Krom), and Edwin Williams and Eynon White played the roles of Tommy Gordon and Willie Stanley, respectively.

Following the play a program of dancing was enjoyed by over 200 for which terpsichore music was furnished by Muller's orchestra of Brooklyn. As the result of the play the treasury of the Young Men's Club was swelled considerably, the receipts being most gratifying to those in charge.

SPEAKERS FOR BOARD OF TRADE DINNER ARE CHOSEN

Members of the Board of Trade dinner committee met yesterday afternoon and to a large extent completed the plans for the banquet to be held at the Columbus Club on Thursday, February 19. While the list of speakers is not complete it is expected that Charles Hitchcock Sherrill, who was the American minister to Argentine for several years; Rev. Christian F. Reisner, a well-known New York clergyman, who talks on Church Publicity; Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., William L. Saunders and Dr. Charles A. Eaton will be among the speakers. It is expected that several short addresses will also be made. The toastmaster has been decided upon, but awaiting his final decision he will not be announced for a few days.

After careful consideration of the matter the committee has decided that it will be necessary to charge $3.00 a plate for the dinner, instead of $2.50, as was originally announced. Tickets will be placed on sale on Monday, and can be procured from any one of the twenty or more members of the dinner committee.

PLAINFIELD YOUTHS ARRESTED CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

James Stites, aged 23 years, was arrested in this city, in July, 1907, on a charge of larceny, but through the efforts of his friends he was saved from a prison sentence and he went west to "make good." Police Chief Kiely received word this morning that he and his brother, Israel Stites, aged 18 years, had been arrested in Akron, Ohio, charged with being burglars and highway robbers. The information came from A. L. Bricker, of the secret service bureau of Akron, and he asked for the records of the young men.

FUNERAL OF DENNIS SHEEHAN.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Dennis Sheehan were held this morning at the family residence on Park avenue and later from St. Mary's R. C. church. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, assisted by the Rev. Father Daniel F. Hogan and the Rev. Father Vincent Sciolla. Two solos were sung by David Sheehan, of Jersey City. The bearers were Daniel Sheehan, Michael O'Keefe, Dennis O'Keefe, Lawrence Burke, Thomas Dorgan and David Barry.

HORSE SUFFOCATED IN MORNING BLAZE

Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy Loses Valuable Steed in Barn Fire.

While going to his home on West Second street at 1 o'clock this morning, Joseph Pawson noticed flames shooting from the roof of a barn owned by Daniel McCarthy in the rear of the latter's residence, 515 West Sixth street, and pulled box 81. When Chief Doane and his men arrived at the scene they found McCarthy and two neighbors,, John and Peter Galbraith, trying to force the lock on the door of the smoke filled structure.

McCarthy, in his excitement, could not recollect where he had put the keys to several locks that held the door and the efforts to force them were futile. The owner finally found the key but the steel padlocks had become so hot that to open them was out of the question. Chief Doane and his men battered the door with axes and when they had gained an entrance found the place filled with stifling smoke from burning rags and litter. The firemen made their way to the stall of a valuable horse but found it had already succumbed to suffocation.

Chief Doane says the blaze was probably started by phosphorous in some rat food distributed about the interior. The fire burned in some rubbish in one corner and was easily extinguished. The horse was the property of Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy and was highly prized by its owner, who only a few days ago refused an offer of $500 for it. The death of the animal was the only loss aside from slight damage to the barn.

W. H. WRIGHT WOULD BE COUNTY CLERK

Present Sheriff Announces Candidacy to Succeed James C. Calvert.

William H. Wright, who is now completing his first term of three years as sheriff of Union county, will be a candidate next fall for the position of county clerk, to succeed James C. Calvert, it is announced by his friends. During the time that Mr. Wright has been associated with county positions he has become thoroughly familiar with details, and his friends believe that he would make an excellent county clerk.

Prior to his election as sheriff, Mr. Wright was a deputy, under former Sheriff Robert Kirkland, and in both that position and his present one he has had an opportunity to familiarize himself with the duties of a county clerk.

Mr. Calvert is now completing his second term of five years each, and it is not known at present whether he will seek a re-election or not. During his present term he was seriously ill and it was thought at the time he might be compelled to resign his office, but since then he has been in much better health. So far as known Mr. Wright is the first to announce his candidacy for this office.

QUARTET CHOIR WILL GIVE MUSICAL SERVICE

Under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist and choirmaster, the quartet of the First M. E. church, will give its monthly musical service tomorrow night, when the following selections from "The Holy City," by Gaul, will be included in the program:

"My Soul Is Athirst for God," "They That Sow In Tears," "Eye Hath Not Seen," "Thine Is the Kingdom," "A New Heaven and a New Earth," "Come Ye, Blessed," "The Fining Pot Is For Silver," "These Are They Which Came," "Great and Marvelous." The quartet is composed of Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano; Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto; Alec MacGowan, tenor; Edgar A. Cole, baritone. Cameron Smith, violinist, will assist.

DANCE ON FEBRUARY 17 FOR HOSPITAL BENEFIT

At the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital held yesterday morning it was decided to hold a dance on February 17, to raise money to carry on the work of the Board. The dance is to be held in Columbus Hall, on West Front street. The music is to be a special feature and there will probably be other attractions. Tickets are to be $1.25 each.

WOULD LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE

Councilman Cose Believes It to Be Only Way to Settle Liquor Question.

PLANS REFERENDUM

No Conclusion Reached at Conference of City Fathers Regarding Additional Wholesale Licenses—Final Action Monday Night.

During a conference of the members of the Common Council, last night, which was requested by the license committee for the purpose of discussing a plan of action for Monday night, when the liquor licenses will be finally passed upon, Councilman John H. Cose gave notice to his colleagues that he intended to have Corporation Counsel Reed prepare a referendum to be submitted to the voters at the November election as a means of determining whether additional licenses are wanted.

Mr. Cose said that he thought every member of the Council desired to follow the wishes of the people, whether it be regarding liquor licenses or any other public question, and in his opinion there is only one way to get a true expression of opinion and that is through a vote at the polls and if such a thing is possible he intended to give the people a chance to vote on this question thereby settling it for some time to come.

There was a rumor about the city today that the sentiment expressed last night indicated a six to five vote against granting any additional wholesale licenses. Two petitions prepared in the interest of applicants were presented by Chairman Charles C. Graves of the license committee, advocating the granting of two additional wholesale licenses, one petition contained more than two hundred names and the other one bore the names of about fifty people.

It is said that during the conference there were several pretty warm arguments among the members in an effort to reach a decision as to what should be done at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night, and when the meeting ended, there was no conclusion, the matter being practically where it was before the meeting was held.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE HELD—PUBLIC EUCHRE AND SOCIAL

A public euchre was held under the auspices of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, in the lodge rooms in the Babcock building, last night, and the affair was well attended by members and friends of the organization.

Honors were awarded to Mrs. Donald McGinnis, Mrs. Peter VanFleet, Caspar Stadle and J. V. Higgins. Following the euchre a collation was served and plans discussed informally for the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the order here.

FUNERAL OF SAMUEL ALLEN.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Park Avenue Baptist church, the Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor, over the remains of the late Samuel H. Allen, for many years the janitor and caretaker of the Plainfield Public Library. Mr. Allen, who was 64 years old, was well known to many Plainfield citizens and was particularly known by his associates in the library for his fidelity and zealousness in the duties which devolved upon him because of his position. He leaves surviving him a brother, George Allen, of North Plainfield. The deceased was a native of Bucks county, Pa. Interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

TURKEY SUPPER A SUCCESS.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church is much pleased with the success of the turkey supper which was given on Thursday and Friday evenings. It is said that at least $200 will be added to the treasury, which will be used towards the support of the church choir.

DEMOCRATIC DINNER.

The Union County Democratic Committee's dinner will be held Wednesday evening, April 22, according to an announcement made public today. The date was set by Governor Fielder after a conference with General Dennis F. Collins.

WILL GIVE MINSTREL.

The Nonpareil Social Club is planning to give a minstrel entertainment in its clubhouse on St. Mary's avenue Lincoln's Birthday. A number of well known colored singers have been engaged for the occasion and the chorus will be made up of local colored talent.

PROCTOR'S NEW SHOW.

Everyone likes colored entertainers. There is something that appeals to the audience in their care free way of entertainment. They are natural born singers and comedians. The headline act for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is Pauline and her Six Mad-cap dancers. Pauline is a white woman, and the six mad-caps are colored girls. Pauline is a clever singer and dancer, and the madcaps tickle their feet to perfection. Logan and Ferris "The Two War Dogs," have some comedy skit. And there is special scenery that helps some. They give a burlesque on the army which is a scream. A Jewish soldier is always funny, and Ferris makes it doubly so. Hoier and Boggs have a novelty comedy sketch that is the kind that pleases. Rose Marston and Co. in a comedy playlet "Out All Night" tells a domestic incident that is exceptionally good and funny. Jeanne Fletcher who is known as the Scottish Nightingale, possesses an extraordinary sweet clear high soprano voice. Her repertoire consists of popular and the classical, a selection that is sure to appeal to all tastes. Kippe and Kippee have a comedy burlesque juggling act that is absolutely new to Plainfield. The photo plays are changed every day, and are an excellent entertainment in themselves, and are personally selected, insuring quality.

RETURNED TO SCOTCH PLAINS AFTER ABSENCE OF 7 YEARS

[illegible] to Scotch Plains, the village which he deserted seven years ago without a penny in his pocket. Vanderbilt Raymond is renewing acquaintances in the old haunts today. Since leaving the Plain Raymond has travelled through South Africa and several European countries and he has been kept busy on his return relating many strange tales of the Captain Kidd variety to his former associates.

He intends to spend a few days with friends and relatives in this place and will then go to Westfield. When he left Scotch Plains Raymond was a pale youth yet in his teens and few of his former friends recognized the robust man who greeted them today.

SCOTCH PLAINS LAD HID IN FEAR OF PARENTAL WRATH

Parental fear caused Kenneth Frentz, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. George Frentz, of Westfield avenue, Scotch Plains, to remain away from the family fireside longer than usual Thursday night and when his mother became alarmed over his absence a searching party was organized to locate him.

Frentz became involved in some mischief in school during the day and his parents were notified. In order to escape a whipping he decided to remain away. He told several of his playmates that he intended to sleep all night under the back porch of his home and when questioned the searchers they revealed the mystery surrounding the youth's disappearance. About 9:30 o'clock one of the searchers poked a heap of potato sacks near the porch from which a loud howl issued and Frentz made his appearance. He escaped with a reprimand.

The February Sale of Furniture, Original with Wanamaker's, Starts Monday

"Proved Out" By the Introductory Days

The Sale is "proved out" by the great quantities of furniture (over a million dollars' worth), which people see with their own eyes when they come.

It is "proved out" by the economies plainly marked on each price tag.

It is "proved out" by the character and variety of the furniture—ranging from museum pieces down to the cheapest furniture that will give satisfaction.

It is "proved out" by the unusually large number of advance selections made by our customers—on one day alone twenty-four huge automobile vans of furniture were taken from our floors to go into people's homes—and this furniture was of the higher middle grade up to the finest we sell.

The Sale Has Proved Itself

It proved itself the very first year we started it, nearly a quarter century ago.

Its mission was then—and is now—to sell in February our regular grade furniture at lower than regular prices. Accomplish this, we said to ourselves, and we can put more value into our furniture at all times—do more for our customers; a great business in February (ordinarily a dull furniture month) will give us greater buying power all the year; and a greater buying power raises quality or lowers prices.

We went to the manufacturers with our idea. They agreed to cooperate because a greater business in February would mean to them larger orders and the keeping of their organization together over a dull season—both of which brings economies.

We got the furniture. And we got the low prices.

Then we went to the public and explained the sale. It was an instant success.

It is a success today—a greater success than ever. It is a success because it is based on true principles.

Of course the February Furniture Sale idea is copied far and wide. Like copies some are cleverly done, some are bungling.

But people soon learn to distinguish between an original and a copy.

We are always satisfied to trust our case with the people.

Nothing in our stock is reserved. Every piece of furniture on the Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Galleries is included in the Sale, the reductions ranging from 10 to 50 per cent.

Mattresses, Springs and Pillows, Made in Our Own Workrooms, in the February Sale at Less Prices

The goodness or badness of bedding is hidden; which is the reason why we make our own—to order—so that we may warrant it, with full knowledge and without reserve, and the purchaser may see it and know it, to be all good.

A purchase of 90,000 pounds of hair permits us to make a reduction in the regular prices of our mattresses and springs.

18,000 pounds of hair are for our $30 mattresses; these we will make for $28.

Landed Estates of British Aristocracy Under the Hammer

ARE the great financiers of the United States and the great landowners of England beginning to feel the influences of the same popular movement? Has the J. P. Morgan retirement from various directorates any bearing upon the retirement of the Duke of Bedford as one of the great landowners of England? Just recently the latter disposed of 250 acres in the heart of London for a fabulous sum, the amount of which was not given, but it is estimated at $100,000,000 or more.

A wonderful assortment of noted buildings is included in the piece of land, among them the Royal Opera, the Drury Lane, Aldwych, Strand and Lyceum theaters, Covent Garden market, Bow street police court, the National Sporting club, many great newspapers and printing plants and miscellaneous buildings galore.

The Duke of Bedford has long been noted as the greatest landlord in London, and this title to grandeur passes with the land to a commoner of parliament, Harry Mallaby-Deeley.

The present trend in the government's policy toward landowners is sufficient to lead a very wealthy man, like the Duke of Bedford, to think it his duty toward himself and his family to sell his estates when he can.

The same argument applies to the recent sale of the Earl of Kintore's estates in Scotland. These estates are large, but are heavily mortgaged. The Earl of Kintore gets something out of the estate, but everything that can possibly be spared is put back into the land or applied to the paying off of the mortgages, so that in course of time the estate would come back into the family without encumbrances.

In a case like this the trustees of the estate feel themselves in the same position as the wealthy Duke of Bedford and decide to sell the estate before legislation will make it less valuable.

Many of those families who depended on their lands for their entire income have grown poorer and poorer as the agriculture of England has declined under many modern developments. Such families have abandoned their estates in shoals, but the greater and richer families, who own city properties and valuable mineral holdings acquired by marriage into great mercantile families, have resolutely until recently held on to their broad acres. In these days such families are selling huge estates. They are eager to sell now, although they are wealthy and not pressed for ready money.

There is a very natural question to meet here. Why, if such people sell, are there any buyers? An answer to this is an answer to the question as to whether or not the present government's policy as regards land is going to benefit the poorer class occupied on land, whether rural or urban.

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, who has just bought the Covent Garden estate of the Duke of Bedford, declared that he has no fear of any legislation affecting fair dealing landowners. The Duke of Bedford, the administrator of the Kintore estates and scores of others who have sold their estates in recent years evidently think otherwise.

While the Duke of Bedford is not the largest landowner in England, his holdings are the most valuable. The Duke of Sutherland is the greatest landowner with 1,358,000 acres, and the Duke of Westminster has approximately 1,000,000 acres, of which 600 acres are in London. The Duke of Richmond has 286,000 acres, and the late Duke of Fife had 249,000 acres. The Duke of Devonshire has 186,000 acres, the Duke of Portland 183,200 acres, the Duke of Montrose 115,000 acres, the Duke of Northumberland 186,397 acres, the Duke of Hamilton 157,400 acres, the Duke of Manchester 70,000 acres, the Duke of Norfolk 49,400 acres, the Duke of Marlborough 19,085 acres, and there are other titled men who own land in thousand acre tracts. It is intimated that many of the other aristocratic landholders will follow in the wake of the Duke of Bedford and the Earl of Kintore.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Little Cafe" is playing to the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season at the New Amsterdam Theatre, in New York. Theatre parties are very much in evidence especially at the matinees. "The Little Cafe" is based on Tristan Bernard's farce, "Le Petit Cafe," by C. M. S. McLellen with music composed by Ivan Caryll, the author and composer of "Oh! Oh! Delphine" and "The Pink Lady." "The Little Cafe" has been received with marked enthusiasm and it is the general opinion that McLellan and Caryll have even excelled their previous efforts.

The first act of "The Little Cafe" shows the interior of the cafe in Paris; the second, the restaurant Grand Gala and the third the gardens of the Chateau Sans Souci in Marly. The story concerns the adventures of happy-go-lucky Albert Lorrilan, son of an aristocrat, but for the time being a waiter in the cafe, which is frequented by the light-hearted habitues of the Latin Quarter. He unexpectedly inherits a large fortune and then his troubles really begin. At the end all ends happily. There have been many sumptuous musical productions at the New Amsterdam Theatre, but none that equalled in beauty and magnificence "The Little Cafe." There are thirty-one speaking parts and a large and beautiful chorus. Received with especial favor are John E. Young, as Lorrilan; Hazel Dawn, as Gaby; Alma Francis, as Yvonne; Tom Graves, as Bigredon; Harry Melville, as Philibert; Grace Leigh, as Katziolinka, and Marie Empress, as Loulou. Among the favorite musical numbers were "Just Because It's You," "I Wonder Whom I'll Marry," "Thy Mouth is a Rose," "Serve the Caviar" and "Do You Call That Dancing?"

Get The Community Spirit

The man who has no time to help the community in its struggle for advancement is a man of extremely ordinary ability.

It takes all his time and effort to make a living.

The line between this man and that of the community at large, is but faintly defined.

To make this definition clear, let us say that the man who is helping Plainfield grow is a community asset, and the man who lends no such help--IS NOT.

The citizen to whom community affairs are not of grave concern is himself, of grave concern to the community!

Let us help awaken this "COMMUNITY SPIRIT" in Plainfield--what helps our city help each one of us.

PATRONIZE PLAINFIELD MERCHANTS--also the craftsmen and mechanics.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JANUARY 31, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, Rector of St. Mary's Church

OUR SHARE IN THE DISHONOR.

It was the writer's pleasure a few evenings ago to join with his fellow citizens of the United Bible Classes of Plainfield in a public discussion of a matter of civic interest. The reception accorded him (out of proportion to the part he took in the deliberations) and the generous attention given the few irrelevant, though earnest words of appeal to the spirit of American fairness on another matter, prompt him to accept the courtesy of the editor's column and present a few thoughts as pardonable excuse for his earnestness on that occasion. The object of the meeting, namely, the securing of the expression for or against the granting of new licenses for the wholesale of intoxicants, was attained in the approval of protest against, and so the meeting goes into record, though some there be who prefer a break in the monopoly of sale now existing.

Great, however, as is the moral and social danger to our community in unrestricted sale of liquor, there is a more insidious evil stalking unchallenged through our city threatening to disrupt the confidence so essential to our social and business interests, the intrusive presence of printed matter bearing its weekly message of insult to intelligent Protestants as it does to calumniated Catholics. In presenting concrete evidence that the publication known as "The Menace" is an "undesirable," I feel I shall be doing a duty of citizenship.

While I hold no brief from my fellow-citizens of the Protestant faith to repudiate the vile publication, I can say, as a Catholic priest, that no intelligent Catholic can, without grave injusice to his sense of fairness to his Protestant fellow-citizens, take it as their representative. In the 'Bellman" of Minneapolis, Mr. Edgar, editor, who is a Protestant, says: "It is indeed a menace, a menace to Christianity, to Protestantism and to common decency. The decent Protestant who has proper respect for his own creed ought to blush with shame to have his fellows consent to admit such a publication to their homes." Dr. Nightingale (Methodist) speaking of the historic anti-Catholic lies in his "Religion of All Nations," page 65: "In scarcely a single instance has a case concerning the Catholics been fairly stated." The Rev. J. B. Hammeon (Methodist): "Not one Protestant in ten thousand knows the truth about the Catholic church. Not one Protestant in thousands ever seeks information concerning the Catholic church from Catholic sources, from reading Catholic books, or anything that smells of 'Rome.' I never did, and yet I am not bigoted. They generally believe a distorted caricature, and label it 'Romanism.'" And Dr. S. Blagden: "I am sorry to say for the shame of us Protestants, I cannot remember a single exception in my investigations (concerning such charges as 'The Menace' makes) that I have not found them wholly and absolutely false."

In September, 1912, the business men of Springfield, Mo., turned away a whole wagon-load of "Menaces." The Niagara Falls "Journal" protested against the "dirty thing sliming the city." The Alton "Journal" says: "Any fair man, Protestant or infidel, will avoid it as he would a thing unclean." And who are they that deal in this thing in Plainfield? Men of little or no intelligence? Men who try to believe that every Catholic has a dungeon in his well-appointed home for captive Protestants? Men who try to believe that it is Catholic doctrine that the Pope cannot err, that he cannot commit sin, that priests forgive sins by their own presumptive power and for money? Men who believe as this filthy paper tells us that Sisters of Charity and other Nuns are imprisoned in their happy convent homes? Such men could be held as "irresponsible." But when ministers of Christian truth, men who accept their salaries on the presumption that they are men of culture, men of well-ordered intellect and men of moral cleanliness, will prepare such pabulum for the brain-food of their insulted congregations, is it any wonder that the brothers of the cloth repudiate them? When such papers are distributed with generous profusion before the doors of churches, resonant in semi-vacancy with songs of praise to the God of Truth, is there not an answer given to the "why" real men have had enough of it?

In the language of the ill-fated but gifted Brann, a Protestant with red blood in his veins: "I am not much in favor of a press censorship nor the abridgements of the rights of free speech; but I do think that men who persist in a deliberate attempt to precipitate a civil war should be hanged for treason. My bump of veneration is not so abnormal that it wears holes in the steeple-crown of my Mexican hat; still I hold that the orator or the editor or the preacher who flagrantly defames and systematically vilifies any religious cult considered sacred by millions of law-abiding men, is a blasphemous brute, and that it would be entirely consistent with the American idea of liberty to clap a cast iron muzzle on him and lose the key." "Truth is truth eternal. It was not born and it cannot die. It may be obscured by the clouds of falsehood or buried in the debris of brutish ignorance, but it can never be destroyed. It exists in every atom, lives in every flower and flames in every star. When the heavens and the earth shall pass away and the universe returns to cosmic dust, divine truth will stand unscathed amid the crash of matter and the wreck of worlds. Falsehood may leave death in its wake and disaster dire; it may place on the brow of purity the brand of the courtesan and cover the hero with the stigma of the coward; it may wreck hopes, and ruin homes, cause blood to flow and hearts to break; it may pollute the altar and disgrace the throne, corrupt the courts and curse the land; but the lie cannot live forever, and when it is dead and damned, there's none so poor as to do it reverence."

B. M. BOGAN.

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET.

The Business Men's Association will hold a meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Frost building on Park avenue. Several matters of importance will be considered.

"THE MONROE DISASTER."

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will preach at the morning service tomorrow on "The Monroe Disaster," in which nearly fifty people lost their lives.

NEW JURY LAW STUMBLING BLOCK

All Circuit Court Cases Are Postponed Until Monday.

Reversal of the decision of the Supreme Court which held that the new jury was unconstitutional by the Court of Errors and Appeals has put Union county to considerable expense and has tangled trials by jury. The decision of the highest court in the State that the new jury law is constitutional will make it necessary for a new panel of jurors to be drawn. This procedure will be followed in Elizabeth on Monday morning.

Supreme Court Justice Speer, sitting in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth yesterday finally decided to adjourn all proceedings until Monday as it was found impossible to get the attorneys in a single case on the calendar to agree to proceed with the trial of their respective causes without a jury.

Jurors who were summoned to serve at this term of court were notified of the existing state of affairs and of the annoyance caused by the difference of opinion of the higher courts of the State, and were finally discharged from further service with the thanks of the court. Judge Speer expressed his regret that the jurors had been summoned, unnecessarily as it turned out and also stated that it was regrettable that Union county had been put to the needless expense of summoning them. To open and adjourn the Supreme Court at Elizabeth yesterday, absolutely no business being transacted, involved the taxpayers to the amount of $120.

Court will be continued all of next week provided there are a sufficient number of cases in readiness for trial. After next week Judge Speer will be obliged, under existing court engagements to share his time between this circuit and Hudson county. He has already set numerous cases down for trial in the latter county, on specific dates, and said yesterday that, if he could get counsel to agree, he would be glad to make a similar arrangement for the prospective trial of cases in Union county. Such an arrangement the court believes saves much time and is of advantage to the court, as well as to attorneys and litigants.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY TO HOLD SOCIAL MONDAY

The Y. P. S. C. E., of Trinity Reformed church, will have a special social the evening of Monday, February 2, in pursuance of the schedule to be maintained by the United Society of Christian Endeavor in celebration of Christian Endeavor Week. This social is not only for the members of the Trinity Y. P. S. C. E., but everyone is cordially invited and strangers will be given a hearty welcome. The Dutch Arms Band will furnish the music for the evening.

"SEX HYGIENE."

William D. Murray, who is an authority on the subject, having written several books, will address the Plainfield Mothers' Association Friday afternoon, February 13, in the lecture room of the Plainfield Public Library on the subject of "Sex Hygiene." All mothers are invited to be present.

LUNCHEON AND SHOWER.

Mrs. Wellington B. Schermerhorn, of Truell Court, gave a luncheon and shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Ethel Andrew Gunton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gunton, of East Front street. Miss Gunton's marriage to Oscar Fitzlan Douglas, Jr., of New York, takes place Monday night, February 9.

PRINTERS POSTPONE MEETING.

Several of the officers of Local No. 399, International Typographical Union will attend the Pennsylvania State Leagu meeting next Monday night, necessitating the postponement of the local meeting one week.

RESIGNS POSITION.

George H. Cole resigned his position with the Plainfield Savings Bank today and in the future will be associated with his father, George W. Cole, undertaker, of West Second street.

THE FORUM.

In last night's Daily Press, under the Forum column, through a proof-reading error, Henry E. Bowen was made to say "In your eternal truth 'Know Your City,'" when the letter should have read, "In your editorial tonight 'Know Your City.'" Hence this correction.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Kindly permit me to correct two errors in printing that occurred in the article on the hearing at Trenton in your issue of Thursday. At the same time let me compliment your paper on the infrequency of such mistakes. "Three latest anti-suffrage logics" should read, "three latest anti-suffrage bogies," and in "a number of abjection of protected women," the fourth word should be "objections."

Thanking you,
Very truly yours,
A. J. VERMILYE.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett C. Kenyon, of West Eighth street, are stopping at the Poinciana Hotel, Palm Beach.

Mrs. Thomas E. Currin, Jr., of Mountain avenue, is confined to her home by an attack of pneumonia.

Jack Townley, of fire headquarters, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, has recovered rapidly and will be able to leave Muhlenberg Hospital tomorrow.

JOSEPH KELLY'S FUNERAL.

A solemn requiem mass was celebrated this morning at St. Mary's R. C. church over the remains of the late Joseph Kelly. Services were held in the early morning at the home of his father, on Madison avenue, Dunellen. The bearers were John McGarrigle, Frank McSorley, Edward Gray, Patrick Parcey, Samuel Mayhood, and John Fuches. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

WANT STREET MACADAMIZED.

Residents of Sherman avenue in Piscataway township will petition the township committee to macadamize that thoroughfare. Messrs. Garretson and Waltz are circulating the petition.

Monday Begins the Actual Distribution of the More Than Half-Million-Dollar Stock Comprised in

The GIMBEL February Sale of FURNITURE

DURING all the past week our Furniture floors have been animated by the people who came in answer to our invitation to see the Furniture before the actual selling should begin.

Now, for the benefit of those who were not able to come before, and find out for themselves what a remarkable collection of Furniture is here assembled, we print, in advance of the Formal Opening Monday, some interesting detailed information, illustrated by pictures and prices, of the Sale and its offerings.

First, it is well to repeat, for the sake of emphasis, some of

The Peculiar Advantages of the Sale

(1) The best assorted collection of Furniture we have ever had on our floors, in its DESIRABILITY, its richness in PRACTICAL DESIGNS at moderate prices.

(2) Its Admirably convenient ARRANGEMENT—chiefly on one great, brilliantly lighted floor of 80,000 square feet, criss-crossed by frequent wide aisles, upon which two or three people can walk abreast to see the Furniture. This is classified according to its purpose, into Furniture for the dining-room, bedroom, library, and so on. These main groups again are subdivided according to the various woods, such as mahogany, walnut and enamel—even going so far as to group together, for example, the bureaus and chiffoniers with square, oval or [illegible] mirrors. Thus the resources of the stock, to meet your particular needs, may be discovered without endless walking around.

(3) Its most satisfactory ECONOMIES, ranging for the most part from 25 to 33⅓%, with some pieces that are reduced as little as 10% and some as much as 50%.

(4) The Assured INTEGRITY of the Furniture, which means its soundness and its honest construction and assures its long and satisfactory service. In short, it is Furniture which will [illegible] pleases at first sight, but gives the purchaser no cause ever to regret having bought it.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

Man or woman who eats meat [illegible] can make a mistake by [illegible] the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat [illegible] uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from [illegible] strain, get sluggish and fail to [illegible] the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, [illegible] and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

CANTATA CHORUS ANNIVERSARY

That the members of the Cantata Chorus of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church succeeded in raising $200 through their efforts last year was shown by the report of the work made last night at a meeting held in celebration of the first anniversary of the organization. Two cantatas were given during the year. The members enjoyed a social time and refreshments were served. Arrangements are being made to hold a concert at the church either during the latter part of February or early in March.

DELIGHTFUL CONCERT GIVEN AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The musical entertainment given last night at the First Baptist church, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, was a success and was enjoyed by more than two hundred people. An unusually fine program was given. Miss Elizabeth St. Ives, the soprano soloist of the church was in fine voice and sang several selections splendidly, charming the audience by her clearness of enunciation and the purity of her high notes. Her rendition of Handel's "Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre," from Joshua, was particularly fine as was her singing of Costa's "I Will Extol Thee," from Eli, and del Riego's "Oh Dry Those Tears," the latter selection being sung by special request.

Ford Hummel, of Kingston, N. Y., the well-known violin virtuoso, played well, as did his seven years old son, Earle, who without the aid of notes executed solo parts and duets with his father in a manner that would have been creditable to a professional. The audience was captivated by the playing of the youthful prodigy and applauded his efforts heartily.

Especial praise is due Ford Hummel for his rendition of Wieniawski's "Obertass," "The Nightingale," of Vieuxtemps, and Bohm's "The Bee." Mrs. Ford Hummel and Howard Case were the accompanists. Last night's concert was the last of a series of entertainments given by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at the First Baptist church.

RECREATION COMMITTEE PLAN NUMEROUS ACTIVITIES

Members of the Washington Social Club will meet tonight at Washington School for the purpose of holding an election for officers. The Dunbar Social Club, a colored organization which like the Washington Social Club is under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee met last night at the school. The members enjoyed a program of folk dances and a general entertainment. It was announced that the organization had abanadoned the idea of holding a minstrel show.

Instead the musical and dramatic society of the club will produce a play entitled "Paddle Your Own Canoe." The play will be given on Tuesday night, February 24, and next Tuesday evening the club will choose a cast of players for the production. Those members who have been rehearsing songs for the proposed minstrel show will give their selections at the coming performance so that the play will be a musical entertainment also. The Dunbar Social Club decided last night to organize a glee club. Sixteen members signified their willingness to join. Old plantation melodies will be specialized by the glee club.

JOHN PRUGH DEAD IN 90TH YEAR AT SO. BOUND BROOK

John Prugh died this morning at the the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Uhlmer, in South Bound Brook, as the result of old age and a stroke of paralysis which he suffered in the early part of December. He was in his ninetieth year. His funeral will be held at the residence of his daughter in South Bound Brook on Monday evening, February 2, at 7:30 o'clock. The interment will be at Easton, Pa., where the deceased formerly made his home. Mr. Prugh was in full possession of his faculties up to his death.

Mr. Prugh's wife died about ten years ago. He was a charter member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and belonged to an Easton, Pa., lodge of that order. Mr. Prugh was probably one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the State of New Jersey. He had been a member for 69 years.

Surviving are two daughters. They are Mrs. Richard V. Kinney, of 71 Pearl street, North Plainfield, and Mrs. Charles Uhlmer, of South Bound Brook, with whom he lived at the time of his death. Byron M. Prugh, who is conected with the Westfield Standard, is a grandson of the deceased.

REV. DR. RYAN TO ADDRESS THE CONSUMERS' LEAGUE

Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, professor of moral theology and economics in the St. Paul Roman Catholic Seminary, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the New Jersey Consumers' League, to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Newark, Wednesday afternoon, February 4, at 3:30 o'clock. Dr. Ryan is an interesting and conspicuous figure among those who are constructing the though and legislation of the country today. He is an authority on the mooted question, "The Relation of Labor to Wages," as shown in his book on "A Living Wage." His subject at the coming meeting will be "The Minimum Wage, and Industrial Welfare of Women." There will be a business meeting of the league at 2:15 o'clock. All persons interested are invited.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 55.

MR. or Mrs. House Owner—listen to me!

There's a "FOR RENT" sign in the window of that vacant house of yours.

It has been there quite a while, probably.

People pass that house every hour of the day. Some of them see that sign. But very few of the people who are looking for a house like yours see that sign.

No. Folks have learned a better way than trotting about town looking for a house that is for rent. They turn to the CLASSIFIED Columns.

Remember this: The renter wants to know something about that house you have to let. And the best place to tell that something is where people will look for it—in the "FOR RENT" columns, on the CLASSIFIED pages.

Tell, in your WANT AD., about the size of the house; the location of the rooms; about the heat, light and water; about the basement and the attic, and the car lines, and the proximity to a schoolhouse—and well, tell people what you would want to know if you were in search of a house.

And by jimminy crickets, you'll rent that house quicker'n you have any idea it could be done!

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

PRINCES HUBBARD

Children's Shoes and Stockings.

Shoes and stockings are more troublesome than any other article of the child's wardrobe. Almost every one who has had much to do with children will agree to that. Why mankind ever got in the habit of wearing thin stockings the woman who dislikes darning can never understand. Why aren't our stockings—at least our children's stockings—made of the heaviest sort of fabric, soft and comfortable, of course, but thick and durable? Even the heaviest of yarn stockings manufactured for children is comparatively thin. Wouldn't stockings of material as thick and durable as carpet be comfortable? To be sure, such stockings would increase the apparent size of the feet, but that would matter little—to children.

So much for the wild ravings that occasionally occur to the woman whose darning basket is full to overflowing. Now for a few practical suggestions.

Buy stockings always alike, for each member of the household. Time in matching pairs will be saved and stockings themselves will be actually saved. It often happens that one stocking of a ribbed pair is torn and another of an unribbed pair is beyond repair. But the good ones cannot be matched because they do not match. If all the stockings for each person were alike there would be no difficulty of this sort.

Reinforce the knees of children's stockings with old stocking fabric or with a round of kid cut from a soft old kid glove.

Sew a band of silk along the hem of women's silk stockings. Stockings reinforced in this way seldom wear or tear from the effect of hose supporters.

About Shoes.

House shoes are a great saving—of many things. To begin with a satisfactory house shoe can be bought for less than a durable street shoe, and much wear can be spared the street shoe if house shoes are donned the moment their wearer comes in the house.

Moreover, children can be taught to change their outdoor shoes for house shoes as soon as they enter the house and thus much tracking of dust and dirt over the floors and carpets can be avoided.

Shoe forms or trees are essential to the appearance of shoes. These are sometimes sold, in wood, with metal bars, for ten cents a pair, and these are quite good enough for any shoes.

It is said that oatmeal or oats, if packed in a wet shoe, will absorb the moisture and keep the shoe in shape. It is not all of us, of course, who have oats or oatmeal at hand when our shoes happen to be wet; in fact, a pair of shoe trees would be usually found more economical than the requisite amount of oats. But the idea is worth remembering.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Since last writing to the Press, I have met three or four advocates of suffrage, but have not been able to gather from them any facts showing that suffrage had done any good in the States where it is granted to women. The old cry that women need the vote to be on an equality with men—that women need economic independence, and, that, being a world movement it is necessarily a right movement, are the arguments advanced. When, in the course of the conversation, I said that if women in the East really wanted a sensible law passed they generally found no difficulty in getting it, there was a murmur on the part of one of the suffragists, "I wish it were so here"—and at a lunch the other day, I was again congratulated by one of the women on the fact that we in the East had so much more real power in our hands than the women in the suffrage States had because we were not hampered by politics. And then she said, "It may be all right out here in the West for women to vote; it doesn't seem to make any difference, but I should think the influx of foreign women would be a menace. So many of the men are rabid Socialists and the women would double their vote." Not one fact has been given me showing any good done by female suffrage. There is the same cry, "Working women want the vote to protect them," but when I ask, "What are they to be protected from, and how will the vote do it?" I get no definite answer.

"We have a nine-hour law for women," and I answer, "Your nine-hour law allows sixty-three hours a week, making no allowance for Sunday. Ours in New Jersey limits a woman's working hours to fifty-four a week." Of course, in both cases, there are exceptions made for certain occupations. This nine-hour law, by the way, is exciting some discussion here, as, where rigidly enforced it often entails real hardship. However, it seems to be conceded that in order to conserve our women's strength we must limit their hours of regular labor.

The question of equality does seem so worn out and threadbare that it is hardly worth alluding to, and yet it is brought up again and again as though it were a new and unanswerable argument. No sensible person doubts that women and men are the halves of a whole—that is the main arguments of the anti-suffragist that we are equal but not identical,—that each half has its own work to do—a work which it can do all the better by using its own legitimate modes of action. It is the same as the cry, "No taxation without representation." That sounds well, but when examined is merely sound. When our forefathers fought for that principle they had good and sufficient reason. Taxes were assessed in England on people living here who received no iota of benefit from the money drained from them. Nowadays, taxes are levied for benefits which are shared by all the taxpayers. Security to person and property are obtained by means of the money so raised and the taxes are generally levied in accordance with the needs of the community. And a man, living in New Jersey, must pay taxes on property owned in New York or any other State without having a word to say about it.

An urgent demand has been sent to Boise for data to refute my statements in regard to the results of woman suffrage here, and a good deal of amusement has been expressed at this fact, but I have been assured by a good many that no such refutation could be given as I had been very careful in my statements. When I spoke of the possibility of a bill for the abolition of woman suffrage being introduced into the Legislature, I gave it on the authority of only one person, but he seemed quite assured. But there is no organized movement in that direction, and I can quite fancy that even the women who either will not vote or do so unwillingly might opose the motion from much the same motive that makes up keep so many apparently useless things. "It may come in handy some day."

As to the purifying influence on politics of the woman's vote, let me supplement what I said before of the employment of women workers at from three to five dollars a day. I said that I had been told that these women could and were used to circulate scandalous and "filthy" stories which would subject men telling the same to summary physical punishments or suits for libel. Let me quote what Earl Barnes, an earnest supporter of equal suffrage, has to say on this subject in his book, "Woman in Modern Society:"

"In Idaho, as in Colorado, the payment of women political workers seems to have become a rather widespread abuse. Under the conditions of the State, with many new settlers constantly arriving, it has long been thought necessary to employ paid workers to register voters, get them out on election day and influence those who are uncertain. After 1896 women were often hired to do this work, and were paid from three to five dollars a day. With their weak sense of party affiliation, it is claimed that they will work for the party that pays best. A candidate with plenty of money may hire so many workers that it becomes a system of wholesale bribery. It is universally conceded that this is an abuse, and that many women look upon election service as a source of pin-money to a degree that is undesirable. Meantime practical politicians assured me that it was a system the women found in operation when they came in; that far more women than men were paid and that the abuse could be corrected by proper legislation." This gives a minimized view of the evil, but mark the women have been voting for years and as yet, the proper legislation has not been enacted.

Mr. Barnes has been, perhaps is now, professor of education in Leland Stanford, Jr. University.

Gay Bed Covers.

Pretty and useful covers for beds can be made of cretonne or heavy chintz to be used instead of the time honored counterpane.

The covers are to be cut at the corners so they will fit and lie flat and may be finished off with lace or wash edging.

Use the same material elsewhere in the room—on dresser, table, cushions, even to the curtains. Be sure to choose a well covered though dainty design.

Every one knows how ungainly a mattress is to handle. This difficulty can be overcome by sewing two loops on each side of the mattress to use as handles when turning or lifting it from one place to another.

—It is wiser to know what a thing OUGHT TO COST before buying it and ad-readers usually do know this.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SERVING CELERY ROOT.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Minced Meat on Toast.
Stuffed Potatoes.
Stewed Celery Root.
Compote of Pears.
Iced Tea.

CELERIAC or turnip rooted celery may be cooked to better advantage than the stalk celery, while it has the same flavor. It also makes nice salads.

Celery root is said to be an admirable tonic for the nerves. It is recommended as an addition to the bill of fare for nervous invalids or brain workers.

A German Dish.

German Salad With Celeriac.—Wash and pare the celery roots, cover with boiling water and boil until tender when cold slice fine. To each cupful of celery add one cupful sliced cold boiled potatoes, six chopped olives and one tablespoonful onion juice. Serve with German salad dressing.

To make this dressing take two tablespoonfuls of minced bacon, a tablespoonful each of finely cut onion and chopped parsley, four tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Put the bacon into a frying pan with the onion and stir constantly until the bacon is brown. Then add vinegar, salt and pepper. Pour over the potato and celery and sprinkle the chopped parsley on top.

Served With Sauce.

Stewed Celery Root.—Peel and soak a dozen celery roots, leaving them in the water for half an hour. Then place them in a saucepan with boiling water, adding a teaspoonful of salt for seasoning. Stew until tender, drain, slice, cover with cream sauce and serve.

Creamed Celery Root.—Wash and pare the roots, cover with boiling water and boil without a cover until tender. To each quart of water add one teaspoonful salt, drain and let cool. Cut the root into thin slices and cover with cream sauce.

To prepare the sauce take a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, a cupful of celery stock and a teaspoonful of onion juice. Put the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, then the stock and onion juice. Stir until smooth and then boil for about three minutes before pouring over the celery root.

A Piquant Salad.

Celery Root Salad.—Peel the roots, put them in cold water for twenty minutes. Then place in a saucepan with cold salted water enough to cover. Cook until the roots are tender. Drain and cut the roots in slices; then chill. When quite cold cover with a French dressing.

Chill and serve with brown bread or thin crackers.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Inkfishes Protect Themselves.

The Jellyfish and Inkfish Friends.

"I THINK I'll tell you this evening," said daddy, "about the visit little Nelly Jellyfish paid to the inkfishes."

"What are inkfishes?" asked Evelyn. "I've never heard of them before. Are they black, and is that why they are called inkfishes?"

"No," said daddy; "they aren't black at all. In fact, they look very much like the ordinary jellyfish. But they are called inkfishes because when an enemy comes near them they drop ink out of an ink pocket they have near their mouths. You see, they can see perfectly through the ink, but the other fishes can't, and so when they dive down again and again to try to catch the inkfishes they can't do it, as the water is so black they can't see anything and flounder off into the clear water, while the inkfishes keep out of their way.

"The jellyfishes and inkfishes are great friends and often visit each other. Little Kitty Inkfish and Nelly Jellyfish were especially good friends, and one day Kitty Inkfish asked her mother if she could invite Nelly Jellyfish to visit her for a whole week. Old Mrs. Inkfish consented, so Nelly Jellyfish was invited. Such excitement as there was, and all sorts of entertainments and parties were planned. Nelly Jellyfish arrived at exactly the hour she was invited to commence her visit. That afternoon the first party in her honor was to be given, and, of course, a number of other jellyfishes were invited for the party. After they had danced about (not pretty dancing, for neither the jellyfish nor inkfish is graceful) and played games they sat down to a delicious supper which all the mother inkfishes had prepared of nice seaweed.

"But a great big, dangerous fish was hovering near. He saw all the nice fat looking jellyfishes, and he said to himself, 'Here's where I have a supper party too.' So he dove through the water toward little Nelly Jellyfish. Oh, how frightened all the jellyfishes were, but as quickly as possible the inkfishes had dropped ink into the water and made it so black that the big fish couldn't see. They all got out of the way, pulling the jellyfish with them, and watched, with great amusement, the great big fish trying to find his way out.

"He coughed and sneezed with the ink in his face and made very wry faces at the taste of the ink, which made the inkfishes chuckle.

"At last the big fish had left, and all the jellyfishes congratulated the inkfishes on their wonderful means of protection, and they said they felt pretty sure that Nelly Jellyfish would be well looked after on her visit as well as to have a wonderful time."

"That certainly is a splendid means of protecting themselves, isn't it, daddy?" said Evelyn.

"Yes," answered daddy; "it certainly is, and, you see, they can always look after themselves in just that way without ever hurting any one or anything."

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A WHEAT CENTERPIECE

This wheat design for stamping a 36-inch centerpiece should be developed entirely in white on heavy, white round-thread linen or on plain damask. The leaves should be worked in well padded, solid embroidery and the wheat-heads may be developed either in wheat-stitch or in solid work. They are also attractive when worked in eyelets. The edge should be done in well padded buttonhole-stitch in number 20 mercerized cotton.

The wreaths and sprays may be adapted in many ways to various dining-room linens. For instance they might be used to inclose initials on table-cloths or serving-table-covers.

Hot iron, guaranteed, transfer patterns for stamping this design 14659, can be supplied to readers on receipt of price, 15 cents.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

BY EARL DERR BIGGERS

CHAPTER IV.

Blonds and Suffragettes.

MR. MAGEE slipped into his dressing gown, seized a candle and, like the boy in the nursery rime with one shoe off and one shoe on, ran into the hall. All was silent and dark below. He descended to the landing and stood there, holding the candle high above his head. It threw a dim light as far as the bottom of the stairs, but quickly lost the battle with the shadows that lay beyond.

"Hello!" the voice of Bland, the haberdasher, came out of the blackness. "The Goddess of Liberty, as I live! What's your next imitation?"

"There seems to be something doing," said Mr. Magee.

Mr. Bland came into the light, partially disrobed, his revolver in his hand.

"Somebody trying to get in by the front door," he explained. "I shot at him to scare him away. Probably one of your novelists."

"Or Arabella," remarked Mr. Magee coming down.

"No," answered Bland. "I distinctly saw a derby hat."

With Mr. Magee descended the yellow candlelight, and, brushing aside the shadows of the hotel office, it revealed a mattress lying on the floor close to the clerk's desk, behind which stood the safe. On the mattress was the bedding Magee had presented to the haberdasher, hastily thrown back by the lovelorn one on rising.

He Ruefully Recorded a Hole Through the Crown.

"You prefer to sleep down here," Mr. Magee commented.

"Near the letters of Arabella—yes," replied Bland. His keen eyes met Magee's. There was a challenge in them.

Mr. Magee turned, and the yellow light of the candle flickered wanly over the great front door. Even as he looked at it, the door was pushed open, and a queer figure of a man stood framed against a background of glittering snow. Mr. Bland's arm flew up.

"Don't shoot!" cried Magee.

"No, please don't," urged the man in the doorway. A beard, a pair of round, owlish spectacles, and two ridiculous earmuffs, left only a suggestion of face here and there. "I have every right here, I assure you, even though my arrival is somewhat unconventional. See—I have the key." He held up a large brass key that was the counterpart of the one Hal Bentley had bestowed upon Mr. Magee in that club on far-off Forty-fourth street.

"Keys to burn," muttered Mr. Bland sourly.

"I bear no ill will with regard to the shooting," went on the newcomer. He took off his derby hat and ruefully regarded a hole through the crown. His bald head seemed singularly frank and naked above a face of so many disguises. "It is only natural that men alone on a mountain should defend themselves from invaders at 2 in the morning. My escape was narrow, but there is no ill will."

He blinked about him, his breath a white cloud in the cold room.

"Life, young gentlemen," he remarked, setting down his bag and leaning a green umbrella against it, "has its surprises even at sixty-two. Last night I was ensconced by my own library fire, preparing a paper on the Pagan renaissance. Tonight I am on Baldpate mountain, with a perforation in my hat."

Mr Bland shivered. "I'm going back to bed," he said in disgust.

"First," went on the gentleman with the perforated derby, "permit me to introduce myself. I am Professor Thaddeus Bolton, and I hold the chair of comparative literature in a big eastern university."

Mr. Magee took the mittened hand of the professor.

"Glad to see you, I'm sure," he said. "My name is Magee. This is Mr. Bland—he is impetuous, but estimable. I trust you will forgive his first salute. What's a bullet among gentlemen? It seems to me that as explanations may be lengthy and this room is very cold, we would do well to go up to my room, where there is a fire."

"Delighted," cried the old man. "A fire. I long to see one. Let us go to your room by all means."

Mr. Bland sulkily stalked to his mattress and secured a gayly colored bedquilt, which he wound about his thin form.

"This is positively the last experience meeting I attend tonight," he growled.

They ascended to No. 7. The professor removed, along with other impedimenta, his ear tabs, which were connected by a rubber cord. He waved them like frisky detached ears before him.

"An old man's weakness," he remarked. "Foolish they may seem to you. But I assure you I found them useful companions in climbing Baldpate mountain at this hour.

"But I am not here to apologize for my apparel, am I? Hardly. You are saying to yourselves 'Why is he here?' Yes, that is the question that disturbs you. What has brought this domesticated college professor scampering from the Pagan renaissance to Baldpate inn? For answer, I must ask you to go back with me a week's time and gaze at a picture from the rather dreary academic kaleidoscope that is my life.

"I am seated back of a desk on a platform in a bare yellow room. In front of me, tier on tier, sit a hundred young men in various attitudes of inattention. I am trying to tell them something of the ideal poetry that marked the rebirth of the Saxon genius. They are bored. I—well, gentlemen, in confidence, even the mind of a college professor has been known to wander at times from the subject in hand. And then—I begin to read a poem—a poem descriptive of a woman dead 600 years and more. Ah, gentlemen"—

He sat erect on the edge of his great chair. Back of the thick lenses of his spectacles he had eyes that still could flash.

"This is not an era of romance," he said. "Our people grub in the dirt for the dollar. Their visions perish. Their souls grow stale. Yet now and then, at most inopportune times, comes the flash that reveals to us the glories that might be."

Mr. Bland wrapped his gay quilt more securely about him. Mr. Magee smiled encouragement on the newest raconteur.

"I shall be brief," continued Professor Bolton. "Heaven knows that pedagogic room was no place for visions, nor were those athletic young men fit companions for a soul gone giddy. Yet—I lost my head. As I read on there returned to my heart a glow I had not known in forty years. The bard spoke of her hair:

Her yellow locks, crisped like golden wyre,
About her shoulders were loosely shed.

And I saw, as in a dream—ahem, I can trust you, gentlemen—a girl I supposed I had forever forgotten in the mold and dust of my later years. I will not go further into the matter. My wife's hair is black.

"And reading on, but losing the thread of the poet's eulogy in the golden fabric of my resurrected dream, it came to me to compare that maid I knew in the long ago with the women I know today. Ah, gentlemen! Lips made but for smiling fling weighty arguments on the unoffending atmosphere. Eyes made to light with that light that never was by land or sea, blaze instead with what they call the injustice of woman's servitude. White hands made to find their way to the hands of some young man in the moonlight carry banners in the dusty streets. It seemed I saw the blue eyes of that girl of long ago turned, sad, rebuking, on her sisters of today. As I finished reading my heart was awhirl. I said to the young men before me:

"'There was a woman, gentlemen—a woman worth a million suffragettes.'

"They applauded. The fire in me died down. Soon I was my old meek, academic self. The vision had left no trace. I dismissed my class and went home. I found that my wife—she of the black hair—had left my slippers by the library fire. I put them on and plunged into a pamphlet lately published by a distinguished member of a German university faculty. I thought the incident closed forever."

He gazed sorrowfully at the two young men.

"But, gentlemen, I had not counted on that viper that we nourish in our bosom—the American newspaper. At present I will not take time to denounce the press. I am preparing an article on the subject for a respectable weekly of select circulation. Suffice it to record what happened. The next day an evening paper appeared with a huge picture of me on its front page and the hideous statement that this was the Professor Bolton who had said that 'One peroxide blond is worth a million suffragettes.'

"Yes, that was the dreadful version of my remark that was spread broadcast. Up to the time that story appeared I had no idea as to what sort of creature the peroxide blond might be. I protested, of course. I might as well have tried to dam a tidal wave with a table fork. The wrath of the world swept down upon me. I was deluged with telegrams, editorials, letters, denouncing me. Firm faced females lay in wait for me and waved umbrellas in my eyes. Even my wife turned from me, saying that while she did not ask me to hold her views on the question of suffrage, she thought I might at least refrain from publicly commending a type of woman found chiefly in musical comedy choruses. I received a note from the president of the university asking me to be more circumspect in my remarks. Me—Thaddeus Bolton—the most conservative man on earth by instinct!

"And still the denunciations of me poured in; still women's clubs held meetings resolving against me; still a steady stream of reporters flowed through my life, urging me to state my views further, to name the ten greatest blonds in history, to—heaven knows what. Yesterday I resolved I could stand it no longer. I determined to go away until the whole thing was forgotten. 'But,' they said to me, 'there is no place on land or sea where the reporters will not find you.' I talked the matter over with my old friend, John Bentley, owner of Baldpate inn, and he in his kindness gave me the key to this hostelry."

Wisely Professor Bolton blinked about him. Mr. Bland was half asleep in his chair, but Mr. Magee was quick with sympathy.

"Professor," he said, "you are a much suffering man. I feel for you. Here, I am sure, you are safe from reporters, and the yellow journals will soon forget you in their discovery of the next distorted wonder. Briefly, Mr. Bland and myself will outline the tangle of events that brought us to the inn"—

"Briefly is right," broke in Bland. "And then it's me for that mountainous mattress of mine. I can rattle my story off in short order and give you the fine points tomorrow. Up to a short time ago"—

But Billy Magee interrupted. An idea, magnificent, delicious, mirthful, had come to him. Why not? He chuckled inwardly, but his face was most serious.

"I should like to tell my story first, if you please," he said.

The haberdasher grunted. The professor nodded. Mr. Magee looked Bland squarely in the eye, strangled the laugh inside and began:

"Up to a short time ago I was a haberdasher in the city of Reuton. My name, let me state, is Magee—William Magee. I fitted the gay shoulder blades of Reuton with clothing from the back of pages of the magazines, and as for neckties"—

Mr. Bland's sly eyes had opened wide. He rose to a majestic height—majestic considering the bedquilt.

"See here"—he began.

"Please don't interrupt," requested Mr. Magee sweetly. "I was, as I have said, a happy, carefree haberdasher. And then—she entered my life. Arabella was her name. Ah, professor, your lady of the yellow locks, crisped like golden wire—even she must never in my presence be compared with Arabella. She—she had—a—face—Noah Webster couldn't have found words to describe it. And her heart was true to yours truly—at least I thought that it was."

Mr. Magee rattled on. The haberdasher, his calling and his tragedy snatched from him by the humorous Magee, retired with sullen face into his bedquilt. Carefully Mr. Magee led up to the coming of the man from Jersey City; in detail he laid bare the duel of haberdashery fought in the name of the fair Arabella. As he proceeded his enthusiasm grew. He added fine bits that had escaped Mr. Bland. He painted with free hand the picture of tragedy's dark hour; the note hinting at suicide he gave in full. Then he told of how his courage grew again, of how he put the cowardice of death behind him, resolved to dare all—and live. He finished at last, his voice husky with emotion. Out of the corner of his eye he glanced triumphantly at Bland. That gentleman was gazing thoughtfully at the blazing logs.

"You did quite right," commented Professor Bolton, "in making up your mind to live. And now, the gentleman in the—er—the bedquilt. Has he, too, a story?"

"Yes," laughed Mr. Magee, "let's hear now from the gentleman in the bedquilt. Has he, too, a story? And if so, what is it?"

He smiled delightedly into the eyes of Bland. What would the ex-haberdasher do, shorn of his fictional explanation? Would he rise in his wrath and denounce the man who had stolen his Arabella? Mr. Bland smiled back. He stood up, and a contingency that had not entered Mr. Magee's mind came to be.

RUTGERS PREP HAD EASY TIME WINNING

Hoagland's Work Enough to Worry the Private School Visitors.

Leal School basketball players dropped another game on a rival's court last night when the Rutgers Preparatory School triumphed in a one-sided game by a score of 48 to 22. Playing against a foe that outweighed them by several pounds to the man the private school players put up a good article of basketball and although fighting double odds they forced the home team to put forth its best efforts.

Hoagland was the whole show for the victors scoring the same number of points as did the combined Leal squad. Dickerson did the best scoring work for the visiting quintet.

UNITED STATES WILL SUPPORT CATCH-AS-CATCH-CAN STYLE

James E. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., yesterday received a letter from Percy Longhurst, honorary secretary of the National Amateur Wrestling Association, of Surrey, England, asking the support of the United States to the recommendation that the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling be included in the Olympic games of 1916 at Berlin and in all future Olympic games.

Mr. Sullivan, in reply, assured Mr. Longhurst that the National Amateur Wrestling Association could certainly count on the support of the United States in favor of catch-as-catch-can wrestling.

DE PALMA IN VANDERBILT RACE

Among the contenders for the Vanderbilt Cup over the Santa Monica course in California on February 21 will be Ralph DePalma, who is to pilot Edward J. Schroeder's Mercedes. This is the same combination of car and driver which won the last Vanderbilt Cup race in 1912 and the Elgin race of the same year.

NEWARK WITHDRAWS.

Newark has withdrawn as a member of the New York State basketball league, according to an announcement made last night by the management. Lack of patronage is ascribed as the reason for withdrawal. The Triangles, who played in Scotch Plains several weeks ago, represented Newark in the league.

CIRCLE FIVE AGAIN.

The Hope Chapel basketball team will play the Circle Five, of Newark, tonight, on the Fourth street court. The Circle Five was previously beaten by the Y. M. C. A. and Hope Chapel teams.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please inform me if a person can put the name of a company on a wagon when the name is adopted by another company, whether the name is registered or not?—B. S. E.

Answer—To do so would probably leave the offender open to an action for damages but to be correctly informed thereon you are advised to consult a lawyer.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I take paper off the wall?—K. S.

Answer—It can be removed by repeated saturation with hot water applied with a brush or towels.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly suggest some Indian names for canoes?—H. G.

Answer—You can get a book of Indian names in the public library and also their meanings.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly explain if there is any rule in pronouncing the English "i"—M. B.

Answer—The lack of rules on pronunciation is what makes students of the English language complain of its difficulty, as students of German and French complain of their bestowal without rule of genders on all inanimate objects. There must have been some cause in the beginning why words derived from Latin, Anglo-Saxon, Celtic and Norman-French brought their own pronunciations with them, and each kept its own. However, the "i" preceding any double letter of the alphabet, has the short sound. In the greater number of words of one syllabled, or of the final syllabel of other words, in which it occurs while the word ends in de or ed, the "i" is long. This may give you some help, if you have a quick ear for tones you will soon find the difficulty lessening rapidly.

SHARPSHOOTERS WILL HOLD BIG TOURNEY

Sportsmen's Show the Coming Event in February—The Program.

The list of entries received to date by the officials of the championship trap shooting tournament to be held in connection with the Sportsmen's Show in Madison Square Garden, New York, February 21 to 27, includes the names of the greatest professional and amateur championships and the ladies' indoor championships, will bring out the finest fields of experts ever seen in competition at the traps.

Among the best known professionals who will face the traps will be: W. B. Darton, last year's indoor champion, who will shoot for the Marlin Fire Arms Company; Noah Apgar, of this city, and of the Peters' Cartridge Co.; Hank Stevens, of the Remington U. M. C. Company; H. S. Wells, of the Deadshot Powder Company, and T. A. Davis, of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company. Many other prominent professionals are certain to compete, but their entries have not yet been officially received.

The men's amateur 100 will include scores of the best wins and field shots in the East. Among those certain to be seen on the firing line are D. F. McMahon, of the N. Y. A. C.; J. H. Hendrickson, of Jamaica, L. I.; Charles Van Home, of Bridgeport, Conn.; C. H. Newcomb, of Philadelphia; Dr. C. H. Martin, of White Plains, N. Y.; M. R. Guggenheim, the millionaire champion of Westchester county, N. Y., and Dr. O. L. Culver, of the N. Y. A. C. This is but a handful of the best known amateurs who will compete, the list including about 100 men and crack shots.

Among the most prominent women gunners, whose contest will be a new and attractive feature of the tournament, are Jane Houghton, of New York; Mrs. L. G. Vogt, of Detroit, Michigan, the world's champion woman trap shot; Jessie Thorpe, the sixteen years old marvel of Mt. Vernon, New York; Mrs. F. F. Rogers, Stamford, Conn., winner of the Long Beach Tournament last year; Miss Rita Brown, of New York, and Miss Mabel F. Rose, of New York.

The water sports carnival will include swimming races, diving contests and water polo games, with the best known professional and amateur watermen in the East as competitors. The events will be conducted under official sanction in a tank 60 feet long, 30 feet wide and of a depth ranging from four to eight feet and are expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the program.

Other interesting events will be the fly-casting contest, in which some of the most noted anglers in the country will compete; the school boys' rifle shoot and a life-saving exhibition by the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps.

The greater part of the huge enclosure will be filled with the booths of exhibitors, who will include the representative fire-arms and sporting goods houses of the country. The out-door lover will find displayed under the most attractive surroundings, every form of equipment and paraphernalia known to the sporting world, from a baseball to the full kit of an African hunting expedition.

AUSPICIOUS COME-BACK.

Bob Fitzsimmons's demonstration Thursday night was a remarkable one to those who sat around the roped and rosined platform and witnessed the veteran of the roped arena slam his burly opponent at will during the six rounds of battling. He was master of the fight at all times and toyed with the younger slugger during the eighteen minutes of actual fighting. Fitz was greeted with a thunderous round of applause when he entered the ring and the applause was still greater when he peeled for his dressing room after the fight. He the worse for the tryout he had just finished. Little doubt remains in the minds of those who saw the scrap as to his passing shape and the action of the boxing commission in barring him from the Empire State arena was the subject of much discussion immediately following the encounter.

SILENT GAME TONIGHT.

The basketball contest looked to be played in the Y. M. C. A. gym tonight has evoked considerable enthusiasm in local circles and the contest will without doubt be the most interesting of the season on local courts. The Silent Workers are a speedy clan of basketball tossers according to records presented by their manager and the local players will have to extend themselves to the limit in order to have a look-in. The second teams of North Plainfield and Plainfield High School's will appear in the preliminary.

A movement was started last night to reorganize the Sunday school Baseball League for the 1914 season. The moves evidently believe in forming the players before the Feb-rals get in the choice material.

Acting on our suggestion recently handed out in these columns we note that the Plainfield and Westfield High School athletes have taken up the idea of a joint track meet. It's a good thing, push it along.

Temple University plays the Pratt Institute team of Brooklyn tonight. That's the reason for Jim Nash's appearance in this city. He took a few hours off to give the Queen City the once over.

S. S. LEAGUE HELD ITS FIRST MEETING

Plan for Session to Receive Applicants February 26—Interest Keen.

The first meeting of the Sunday-school Baseball League for the 1914 season was held in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. last night and definite plans were laid at that time for the re-organization of the league for another season. Enthusiasm is keen for league competition this season and it now seems probable that several new teams will be added to the circuit.

A number of Sunday-schools that have previously been unrepresented on the ball diamond have applied indirectly for membership in the league and all applications must be in the hands of the directors before February 26 when the first meeting of the board of governors will be held to act on the new applicants.

Delegates were present from all of last year's contestants in the league race—First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Hope Chapel and Monroe Avenue being represented at the meeting. It now seems certain that all of the 1913 teams will be in line this season and it is possible that three new aggregations will be added making an eight team circuit.

BASKETBALL PROGRAM BEST OF THE SEASON

Deaf Mute Team of Trenton Will Play in the Y. M. C. A. Gym Tonight.

Two basketball games have been arranged for the Y. M. C. A. tonight, the first team lining up against the Deaf Mute College five, of Trenton, and the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School second teams appearing in a preliminary engagement. The teams will take the floor as follows:

CLOSE GAME WON BY SCHOOLGIRLS

North Plainfield Team Barely Managed to Nose out Y. W. C. A. Quintet.

Ability to work the ball down the floor to the forwards won another game for the North Plainfield High School feminine quintet on the Y. M. C. A. floor last night, when the Y. W. C. A. team was defeated in a game played in connection with the annual exhibition of the association by a score of 21 to 14. Superior work during the first half, which was played with time restrictions, gave the schoolgirls a big lead which the Y. W. C. A. five found impossible to overcome, although it put up an aggressive fight in the final period and outscored its rivals to the tune of 10 to 6.

Numerous fouls were called on both sides but few counted for points as the penalty shots of both teams appeared to have an off night. In the second half the lines were reversed and the open game resorted to. This had a tendency to make the playing faster and the keenness with which each point was contested caused many more fouls to be called, only two of which were turned into scores.

Miss George and Miss Stelle led the scoring for the association girls, while Miss Spencer and Miss [illegible] shared in the honors for the boroughites.

"We have every reason to think that he defeated both Vardon and Ray in hand to hand contests. But in weighing up this wonderful performance we must not forget that Ray and Vardon were playing under strange conditions and that their young opponent had the advantage of playing over the course on which he originally formed the game."

American Association Ball Team Sold For Big Price.

J. C. McGill of Denver and W. C. Smith of New York closed a deal for the purchase of the Indianapolis American association club. The negotiations were concluded by Smith and Jack Hendricks, who will be manager of the club, on word from McGill, who is in Chicago.

The price paid Sol Meyer, the principal owner of the club, was $145,000. Meyer to retain the Springfield (Ohio) club of the Central league. The negotiations were completed in Meyer's office in Indianapolis and $135,000 paid by the new owners of the club, who had paid $100,000 a few weeks ago, when the sale was first negotiated.

The price originally agreed upon was $[illegible] and included the Springfield club, but McGill and Smith decided they did not want the Central league team, and Meyer finally agreed to keep it and cut down the price to $145,000.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

Little Farms Co. Building Five Roomy Bungalows

Improvements at Sherman Park Will Beautify That Section of City and Open Big New Territory for Development.

A great movement in real estate in the West End is that being carried on by The Little Farms Realty Company, of which William Jeffery is the head, on its tract of land on Palmer and Sherman avenues. The work consists of the erection of five cottages, each a single family structure, on a half acre plot of ground. Three are English type cottages and two Colonial, one and a half stories high.

All buildings will be built with concrete foundation walls, twelve inches thick. The walls of the first story are of hollow tile, faced with stucco. Each building has a different color, white, dark brown, buff, gray and green. The upper stories are of frame work. The roofs will be finished with shingles, stained dark tile red and green. Along the sides of the gables artistic designs in cypress have been and are being inlaid in the stucco finish.

At present but one cottage is completed and is being occupied by Mr. Jeffery and his family. This cottage is of the English architecture and another of this type is about completed. The third has the roof and the remaining two are ready for roofs. All the cottages will have the same floor layout. Each building has a frontage of 36 feet and a depth of 46 feet, the one occupied by Mr. Jeffery being a half English cottage, which cost $7,500 to build.

In the cellar is a boiler room, preserve closet, two coal bins and laundry, equipped with up-to-date double trays. An open stairway leads from the cellar to the first floor.

The front porch is 34 feet wide and 10 feet 6 inches deep, extending across the entire building. The floor is of hardwood enclosed with guard-rails of solid concrete. The roof of the porch is supported by four concrete columns, faced with stucco.

A large swinging door, both sides of which are leaded glass panels, opens into the reception hall, to the left of which is the dining room, and to the right the sitting room, separated from the hall by columned openings. All three rooms have ceiling beams faced and stained the same as all the trimmings, which are of chestnut mission type, finished like fumed oak. The walls are covered with genuine Japanese grass cloth. There are parquet floors. The living room is finished with an open fireplace in the southeast wall, of orange colored pressed brick and fireproof tile hearth and ash trap.

At the rear of the reception hall a small door leads to the private hallway from which access is gained to three bedrooms, the kitchen, the bathroom, and stairways to the second floor and cellar. Each first floor bedroom is equipped with triple sashed windows and large clothes closets with small windows. The bathroom is finished with hardwood floors and plastered walls, the lower sections of which have been marked off to represent tile, and painted a cream color. The kitchen has range, sink, a large dresser and a china closet. The dining-room is at the eastern corner of the house. All the rooms at the rear of the house, including the stairway, are trimmed with chestnut of the mission type stained fumed oak and have hardwood floors. The treads and risers of the stairway are also of solid chestnut, stained similar to the trimmings.

On the second floor there are three rooms and a bath. Two are bedrooms, while the third will be a billiard room. Opening from each of the bedrooms is a small storage closet and a large clothes closet with triple windows. All these rooms on this floor, including the bathroom, have been finished with beautifully papered walls and ceilings, which have been painted a cream color. The trimming and floors is similar to that of the first floor.

The house has been equipped with electric fixtures of the latest style and heated by hot water. C. E. Gulick has the general contract for the erection of the five houses, and is supervising the carpenter and interior decorative work; Joseph Brandt is doing the masonry, plastering and stucco work; Voehl & Waldron are installing the plumbing and heating systems, and doing the gutter, leader and tinning work; George W. Ord is wiring the houses; Percy C. Allen painting and decorating the interior and R. G. Bush the concrete sidewalks around the property; the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company is furnishing the lumber and some of the mason materials; the Gayle Hardware Company is furnishing the hardware, and Van Nest's Mills all the millwork and trimming materials.

In the spring it is expected that the city will macadamize Monroe avenue, between West Eighth street and Sherman avenue, and two electric lights are now being placed on Sherman avenue. The property occupied by Mr. Jeffery is the only portion of Sherman Park located in the city of Plainfield. The Little Farms Realty Company will have all of Palmer avenue macadamized from Sherman to Tompkins avenues. The Plainfield-Union Water Company has laid water mains through Sherman Park and fire hydrants have been ordered.

These houses will all be completed by April 1 and will then be placed on the market for sale. The officers of the realty company, realizing that buildings depreciate and that land appreciates in value, are building of concrete, producing a durable product, thereby reducing the cost of upkeep to the lowest minimum, and by giving a half acre plot to each building, the maximum appreciation in land is supplied.

NEW HOME FOR MRS. WILSON ON GROVE STREET, DUNELLEN

Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Dunellen, is having a two story and attic, frame dwelling erected on her property on Grove street, Dunellen. The frontage is 28 feet and depth about 34 feet. It will cost about $2,900. The exterior walls will be faced with weatherboards painted a cream color, set off with trimmings of white and dark green shutters. The gables will be faced with shingles left natural. A slate roof will top the building.

All the rooms on the first floor, with the exception of the kitchen, will be trimmed with a craftsman type, chestnut trim, stained weathered oak. The kitchen will be finished with a varnished cypress trim. The equipment of the kitchen will consist of a white enameled sink and a coal and gas range. The rooms on the second floor will all be trimmed with cypress which will be finished natural. Hardwood floors will be laid in each of the first floor rooms, while the upper stories will be finished with North Carolina yellow pine floors. The bathroom will be equipped with up-to-date enameled fixtures and medicine cabinet.

J. Newton Apgar has the general contract for the erection of the building and is doing the carpenter and decorative work. Sub-contracts have been given to the following Dunellen contractors: Firman Gise, masonry and plastering; C. F. Giles, the plumbing, piping for gas, tinning, gutter and leader work; Fred Kirchner, the painting and decorative work. Charles C. Graves of Plainfield, has the slating contract. The J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company and the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company furnished the lumber. The Loizeaux Company also supplied all the mason materials. R. H. McCullough's Mills, of Plainfield, furnished the millwork.

The building will be completed about March 15 and be occupied by its owner.

DUNELLEN HAS BEEN EXPERIENCING A BOOM

Dunellen, like North Plainfield, have a system of granting building permits which is limited by a law of the State. The only right any member of the building committee of that borough has is to say what kind of and how a building can be erected within the fire-limits. This fire-limit includes all the territory between the railroad tracks at the southeast side of the town, and the center of Dunellen avenue, at the northeast side of the town. The area within these north and south limits extend the entire length of the town. Outside of these limits a building of any class or description can be erected without restraint.

The members of the Council are not satisfied with the limited authority with which they are vested, as in case a building is to be erected in some residential section of the town outside the fire-limits, of an inferior quality, which will when completed be a detriment to the community, nothing can be said by any member of that comitteme. The only way that buildings of this sort can be stopped is by obtaining a stay against those having the structure erected and then fighting them in the courts. If enough evidence is obtainable, the chances are that the judge hearing the case will order the builders to make right any desirable structure.

Even with a handicap of this kind the building trade in Dunellen has boomed as it has in Plainfield during the past year. At present there are about a dozen houses in and on the outskirts of the borough that have just been completed or are about finished. An exceptionally active season has been promised the local contractors as several of the realty companies who own land in the southwestern section are contemplating the erection of a number of structures of the bungalow single and double family type.

During the past two years more real estate developments have been conducted in and around this town, then any ten years previously. The greatest number of these improvements are or have been made in the northwestern section of the borough, although considerable building development is at the present time being carried on and the property improved generally in the eastern end of the town, especially throughout the districts bounded by Columbia street, Washington avenue, the area between the railroad tracks on the north, New Market road on the west, Fourth street on the south and Washington avenue on the east. Although the erection of buildings covers the borough in general, the greatest amount of it is being carried on in the section mentioned above.

In the spring extensive building and improvement projects will be taken up by several real estate promoters who own and control land at the southwest end of the town. At the present time several buildings are being erected for speculative purposes, which will be completed by April 1, so that they can be placed on the market for the summer trade.

BUILDING OPERATIONS ARE PROMISED IN SUBURBS

Among the buildings to be erected this year several will be built on Sherman avenue near Monroe avenue and at least three on Leland avenue between East Second street and the railroad. Buildings of more or less importance will be erected in all sections of the city.

The boom in the building trade will also reach Dunellen, Scotch Plains and Fanwood. In Dunellen work on a number of new buildings is progressing rapidly while at Scotch Plains and Fanwood work will start when some of the frost leaves the ground. During the warm spell of the past week, excavating has been carried on rapidly so that foundation work of a number of houses can start the first of next week, provided the warm weather continues.

In Scotch Plains excavations have been made for two new structures and in Dunellen six have been commenced during the past week, while Plainfield and Fanwood are not progressing so fast. The amount of building being done is equal to that of last year at this time.

From the returns of the builders and contractors it seems certain that the prediction of a busy year will be carried out. The work of architects in Plainfield has increased greatly within the past week or two.

$4,000 HOUSES IN DUNELLEN.

J. Newton Apgar, of Dunellen, started work on two two and a half story frame dwellings on Washington avenue, Dunellen, this week. They will be built for speculative purposes and will be completed by May 1. One building is for Mr. Apgar and the other is for John Fenner, also of Dunellen. It is estimated that these buildings will each cost about $4,000.

CHURCH ADDITION FINELY EQUIPPED

New One-story Structure Built by Congregationalists Modern Throughout.

GYMNASIUM PROPOSED

Social Rooms, Library, Class Rooms and Kitchen All Included in Building Which Has Just Been Completed at Cost of $20,000.

The improvements to the property of the Congregational church, which cost that institution about $20,000, have been completed. An addition with 64 feet frontage and a fifty-eight feet depth has been built. The addition is a one-story and cellar building with concrete foundation and hollow tile walls, faced with dark brown stucco. The roof of the structure, which is flat, has a tar and gravel finish, on eight large steel girders, supported by cast iron columns on square concrete piers. In the center of the roof is a large skylight fitted with two layers of amber-colored glass. The main entrance at the side opens into the vestibule, and there is a separate entrance to the kitchen. Both are covered with hoods supported by heavy square oak timbers. Solid quarter d oak doors have been placed at both entrances.

The basement, if desired, can be converted into a large gymnasium, and at one side preliminary steps have been made for the installation of bowling alleys. There are also a boiler room, coal bins, toilet and a few others, small rooms for miscellaneous purposes. In one of these is a large Ruud gas heater.

The main floor contains ten rooms and three closets. The rooms are the kitchen, library, girls' robing room, six separate class rooms and main assembly room. All the rooms, with the exception of the kitchen have been separated from the assembly room by folding doors which can be opened and form one large assembly room. The kitchen has up-to-date fixtures, which will in case of necessity supply meals for four hundred people. The equipment of the kitchen includes two dressers, each twelve feet long, sink, range and closets.

The library has white oak bookcases with paneled glass doors and the girls' robe room shelves and clothes bars. Entrance to the main assembly room is through a vestibule. The new addition as well as the old building has been equipped with a new steam heating system. Electric wiring has been placed in the addition. Piping for gas, for the heater and range has also been installed. The infants' class room has been finished with a large open fireplace, which has been faced with oatmeal pressed bricks lined with a dark red mortar.

George Nolte, the local contractor, had the general contract and sublet all except the carpentering. E. K. Rossiter, a New York architect, drew the plans for the extension. Howard Huff did the masonry and plastering work; Van Zandt & Doeringer the installing of the plumbing and heating systems, skylight work, copper flashing, gutter and leader work; Charles Graves the slating; E. N. Yannotta the painting and finishing of the interior decorations; George W. Ord the wiring and C. C. Randolph the tar and gravel roofing; McCullough's Mills supplied the millwork; the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company the lumber; Watchung Stone Company the mason materials and hollow tile; a Newark firm the hardware; the Wilson Manufacturing Company, of New York, the movable partitions and folding doors, and Arthur E. Smith the iron and steel girders.

The interior walls, with the exception of the ceiling, of the extension has been given four coats of a buff-colored paint and was then stippled. All the trimmings in the building are of fumed white quartered oak. The flooring consists of a base of concrete with sleepers imbedded in cinder concrete upon which a rough floor of yellow pine has been laid. The finished floor is of white oak which has been filled, waxed and polished.

In the near future another change will be made in the equipment of the church. The hand bellows attached to the pipe organ will be replaced by a water motor.

BUILDING NEW HOUSE.

Walter Scriven, of Willever avenue, will erect a dwelling on the property at the corner of Palmer and Sherman avenues, which he recently purchased from the Little Farms Realty Company. Ground was broken for the foundation excavation the early part of the past week.

THIRD STORE FOR RED CROSS PHARMACY

Will Be Built at Corner of Grant Avenue and West Third Street.

The Red Cross Drug Stores have through their owners, Samuel and Jack Ruben, secured a permit for the erection of a model drug store building at the corner of Grant avenue and West Third street. The owners are at present conducting two drug stores in the West End.

The new building was designed by Architect George A. Fisher, Jr. It will be one story high at present, although provision has been made for the future addition of one or more stories. The building will be of frame construction with the exterior clapboarded with red cedar siding and above the cornice will be a curved shingle roof resembling tile in appearance. The store will face Grant avenue and be in the corner of the building. There will be a large projecting show window, of plate and prism glass on the Grant avenue front and a smaller similar one on the Third street side.

Sixty-three feet in width and forty-nine feet in depth are the dimensions of the building. The store will be 34 feet wide and 45 feet long. The ceiling will be fifteen feet high and will be plastered on plasterboard. Under the plaster will be an artistic arrangement of beam work in cypress with large heavy beams extending cross-wise and smaller beams of the same design between the larger ones extending in the opposite direction. The floors will be of a standard sanitary composition or of comb grain yellow pine. The corner of the building will be rounded and contain the entrance.

Opposite to the entrance will be arranged an elaborate soda fountain of the latest make and a pleasing design. At the left of the fountain will be a slightly elevated room separated from the drug store by a columned archway of selected cypress, to be used as an ice cream parlor.

There will be a laboratory which will be ten feet wide and thirty-five feet long to be used for rough work. Above the laboratory and of the same size will be a balcony for the compounding of prescriptions. The prescription balcony will be provided with the latest instruments of their kind. Entrance to the balcony is obtained by an open stair-case which ascends from the main floor of the store. The building will be heated with hot air and ventilated by high windows on three sides of the store.

A foundation of concrete will support the outside walls. The piers supporting the floors will be of brick as will be those supporting the iron columns that will hold heavy I beams that will safely sustain the roof construction together with the possible snow loads. All the timber will be spruce and the roof covering will be five-ply tar and gravel. Electric wiring and gas piping will be installed.

On Grant avenue, next to the drug store in the same building, will be a store 18 feet wide and 36 feet long with front of plate and prism glass. The floorings will be of comb grain yellow pine. The store will be illuminated by gas and electric lights.

The erection of the building will mark the passing of one of the old landmarks to many of our younger citizens, namely, the old stone wall which has stood on the corner for many years and is remembered by many of the one time small boys of that neighborhood.

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED

The building permits that have been issued during the past week were:

Oscar T. Smith, of Brooklyn, N. Y., two and a half story frame dwelling at 1116 Helena avenue. Cost about $3,500; frontage 24 feet, depth 28 feet. Fred L. Lancaster, architect; Walter Clawson, of Dunellen, mason and plaster work, and John S. Dahl, general contractor, carpenter and interior decorative work.

Permit to Rubin Brothers to erect a one story frame structure on Grant avenue, corner of West Third street, two stores, to be added to the front of building now on the property. Frontage 63 feet and a depth of 25 feet, 6 inches. Cost about $2,000.

Joseph Creager, 416 East Fourth street, permit for a 14 by 16 feet frame structure at front of property on which residence now stands. Cost about $300. To be used as a butcher shop. John Creager, mason and plastering; Anthony Albert, of Scotch Plains, carpenter.

IMPROVING CO. K ARMORY.

Philip Jahn, of Scotch Plains, will place a metal ceiling in the hall occupied by Company K, at 326 West Front street. The work must be completed before February 21 when the annual fair of the militiamen will be held. In addition to the placing of the metal ceiling other improvements to the interior of the hall are being made. These improvements include painting the walls, rewiring for electric lights and equipping the new quartermaster's room with fixtures so that the handling of uniforms and camp equipment can be done more systematically.

R. B. Van Arsdale is doing the work of decorating. Members of the company are doing the rewiring.

DUNELLEN MAN HAS BOUGHT NEW HOME

Residence Erected by J. Newton Apgar Sold to William Brokaw During Week.

J. Newton Apgar, of Dunellen, is building a two-story and attic frame dwelling on Dunellen avenue, between Washington and Lincoln avenues, Dunellen. This building, which has a frontage of 34 feet and a depth of 28 feet, will cost not less than $3,800.

There are three rooms and reception hall on the first floor and four bedrooms and a bathroom on the second. The first floor rooms are parlor, dining room, kitchen and pantry.

All the rooms on the first floor will have a detailed trim of chestnut, which will be stained a dark oak, while the second floor rooms will be finished with white enameled trimmings set off by mahogany finished doors. Hardwood floors will be laid in all the rooms on the first story while those on the upper floors will be of North Carolina yellow pine.

Every room will have combination lighting fixtures and be heated by hot air. In the cellar of the building the laundry will be equipped with trays. The equipment of the kitchen will include a combination gas and coal range, pantry, and white enameled sink. In the bathroom up-to-date white enameled fixtures will be used, including oval shaped pedestal lavatory and a medicine cabinet with a plate glass mirror door.

The exterior walls below the belting will be faced with weather boards, painted white, while above shingles will be used, including the roof. The shingles and gables will be stained a dark green except on the roof which will be left natural. Dark green shutters will be placed at each window.

Mr. Apgar is doing the carpenter and the interior decorative work. Walter Clawson, the masonry and plastering, G. F. Giles the plumbing, piping for gas, installing of the hot-air system of heating and all the tinning and leader work; Fred Kirchner, the painting and finishing of the interior decorative work, and Edward Herlick the wiring for electric lights, and the fixtures. The Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company furnished the lumber and mason material; Smalley Brothers the hardware, and R. H. McCullough, of Plainfield, all the millwork. Mr. Apgar supplied his decorative materials and lumber.

This house was built for speculative purposes and before completed a purchaser was found. During the early part of the week all the details for the surrender of the property by the builder were signed and the deeds for the structure were turned over to its new owner, William Brokaw, of Dunellen avenue, who will occupy the dwelling about April 1.

PLUMBERS GETTING CREAM OF TRADE WORK JUST NOW

Another dull week has been experienced in the building trades. During the first three days of the week only one permit was issued, and that was to John S. Dahl, for the erection of a frame dwelling whoch was described last Saturday.

All the builders and contractors who have work of any nature have taken the contracts for completion at such time that hurry is not necessary, therefore buildings that were started over a month ago are advancing slowly. These contracts are being drawn out so that they can retain their highest skilled labor for the busy season, by keeping them employed.

The difficulties of landing contracts are not only felt by those in the building business alone, but also by all that belong to any trade that depends upon brisk building conditions. The only exception is the plumber. No matter how disagreeable the weather may be or how cold, they are always able to keep busy because of the action of the weather upon plumbing systems in buildings that are inadequately heated. During the recent cold snaps that have struck town, those belonging to this trade were kept busy and on the jump all the time. One of the worst of the many complaints that was received by the local plumbing and heating men was the freezing of the entire water system on the three upper floors of 326 West Front street. The two upper floors of this building are utilized by skirt factories, while the second floor is used as a drill hall for Company K. During one of the cold nights last week the water pipes froze and burst causing water to spread over the rear portion of each floor. This water leaked through the ceiling of each room. The Grand Union Tea Company's store on the ground floor were heavy losers, as several large bags of high grade coffee as well as a large quantity of tea, was spoiled.

Now is the Time to paint your house—in the cool of the year, when the paint dries slowly, and consequently lasts longest. No hot sun to cause blisters. And the house painted now is preserved against the ravages of winter storms. Distributor of John W. Masury & Son's pure colors, ready mixed paint, finishes, glass, etc.
